Another of Bishop De Roo's moves gave birth to sponsorship by the Victoria Council of Churches of an "hour of prayer" in Metropolitan United Church. Participation of the Catholic clergy in such an affair seeking unity probably would have been unthinkable in the past.

Remi Joseph De Roo was born in Swan Lake, Man., of Flemish descendants who took over abandoned farmland and revived it. The second oldest of eight children, he worked on the 480-acre farm as a youth.

He was ordained a priest at "with one hand on a tractor and the other on a halter"—at St. Boniface College. Later he went to Rome and received his doctorate at Angelicum University.

As pastor of St. Boniface he was assisted by three other priests in serving Norwood's English - speaking Catholics.

Here his authority in church matters extends over Vancouver Island and some of the offshore Gulf Islands, but he is working toward the goal of decentralization in the diocese of a church that long has been noted for its centralization. Increasingly, control and decision - making are being left in the hands of local priests whenever practicable.

YOUNGEST BISHOP—Bishop Remi De Roo, at 39 the youngest Roman Catholic bishop in Canada, says his appointment came as a "bolt from the blue." One day he was a parish priest at St. Boniface, Man., and the next he was bishop of the diocese of Victoria.

Canadian Politics 1864-1964

Only the Names Have Been Changed

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Governments facing repeated defeats in Parliament . . . general elections producing no clear - cut mandates . . . MPs breaking allegiance with one party to join another . . . parties torn by internal divisions.

These might appear descriptive of Canadian politics in recent years, but actually describe the political situation in the united provinces of Upper and Lower Canada 100 years ago.

It was a stalemate which was rapidly coming to a head in February, 1864, and which finally prompted the old Province of Canada to seek federal union with the Atlantic provinces and form the Confederation of Canada in 1867.

Through the - summers and winters of 1862, 1863 and 1864 there were two general elections and four separate governments formed and defeated.

Before that, the country had witnessed "The Short Administration," of just 48 hours, and "The Double Shuffle," that was one of the most curious bits of parliamentary legerdemain ever experienced in this country.

LOST ONTARIO

A starting point for the story is in November, 1857, when Etienne P. Tache, an original member of the Parliament set up under the 1841 Act of Union of Upper and Lower Canada, retired because of ill health. His English - Canadian lieutenant, John A. Macdonald, formed an administration with Georges Etienne Cartier.

In the subsequent election the Macdonald - Cartier Conservatives won easily in Quebec, but lost Ontario to the Reform party, then headed by George Brown, editor and publisher of the Toronto Globe. Macdonald sought a moderate reformer, Sandfield Macdonald, as a lieutenant but received the terse reply: "No go."

Then, to settle the question of the perambulating capital, Queen Victoria chose Ottawa, then known as Bytown, over the contending cities of Toronto, Kingston, Montreal and Quebec City. The Macdonald-Cartier administration survived a non-confidence vote in the Legislature but resigned on the issue of the Reform opposition's criticism of the Queen's choice.

SHORT RULE

The administration of George Brown and Aime Dorion took office and lasted only 48 hours.

Cartier was called on to form a new government, and he did so with John A. Macdonald as his lieutenant.

Under the practice in those days newly appointed cabinet ministers had their seats declared vacant and had to be confirmed in new elections. But the Cartier - Macdonald team found this could be avoided if they were individually sworn into new portfolios after having held one.

So on Aug. 6, 1858, Cartier was sworn in as inspector-general and Macdonald as postmaster-general. Next morning they resigned their portfolios and were sworn in as attorneys-general east and west — the posts they held before the double shuffle started.

For four years the Cartier-Macdonald government — Macdonald - Cartier administration, as you wish—carried on, wrestling with such political potatoes as the establishment of separate Roman Catholic schools in Upper Canada and the principle of representation by population—"rep by pop"—which would put Upper Canada in power over Lower Canada.

MILITIA ISSUE

But it was a militia bill introduced by Macdonald that upset the government in 1862 when Cartier was unable to carry his Lower Canada supporters in its favor.

Sandfield Macdonald then formed a government with L. V. Sicotte on a policy of retrenchment and strict adherence to the principle that any major question affecting Upper and Lower Canada had to be carried in the union legislature by majorities of members representing both Upper and Lower Canada — the double majority theory that proved unworkable.

It was just 100 years ago, Feb. 21, 1864, that Sandfield Macdonald suffered one of his administration defeats. But his government struggled on with the uncertain support of George Brown's more radical Upper Canada Reform members and the Quebec "Rouges," until March, when its downfall was imminent and it resigned.

Sir Etienne Tache—he had been knighted in 1858—now nearing 70, was prevailed upon to come out of political retirement and join with John A. Macdonald in one more attempt to govern. The second Tache-Macdonald government was overthrown in June.

In three years, four ministries had been formed and defeated and two general elections held, failing to clarify the tangled web of politics in administering Upper and Lower Canada as equal partners in the Act of Union.

The last thing that had to be done was to bury political hatchets, form a coalition and seek union on some kind of terms with the other British North American provinces on the Atlantic coast.

New Diet for Overweight Calls for Six Meals a Day

By DENNIS BLAKESLEE

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — For folks chronically overweight, there are diets and then there are diets—endlessly.

Only one, however, calls for six meals a day. And only this one is designed to cope with increasing scientific evidence that too many pounds simply aren't always just a matter of too many calories, that it's a matter of body biochemistry as well.

Though still experimental, this remarkably promising reducing scheme, which allows one to eat a good bit more than is permitted in the usual low-calorie diets, attacks overweight by correcting or compensating for abnormalities in the amazingly delicate, complex chemical pathways that convert food into the host of protein, carbohydrates and fats necessary for life.

Developed by Dr. Edgar S. Gordon and Dr. Marshall Goldberg and Mrs. Grace J. Chosky, research dietitian, of the University of Wisconsin Medical School, the regimen also includes periodic doses of drugs to stimulate kidney function and to lower the level of fats circulating in the blood.

The program, Dr. Gordon said, is based on no less than 27 biochemical mechanisms in the body that can go haywire, a few or one at a time, to produce chronic overweight.

AVERAGE THREE POUNDS

During the last three years, the team has treated 150 patients with the experimental program, starting with admission to University Hospital in Madison. In every case, weight was lost, including as much as 250 pounds, Dr. Gordon explained. That's high, however, for average loss ran about three pounds a week, he added.

Once released from hospital, the patients continued the diet, six meals daily, and the supplemental drugs. Most went on losing, almost none regained, he said.

The first step in the regimen is a 48-hour fast during which no food, excepting no-calorie items, is eaten. The thinking behind this is not to start off with a big loss, the researcher said, but rather to interrupt the patient's normal metabolic pattern, preparing it for the special diet.

The diet itself totals 1,320 calories a day, high in protein, low in carbohydrate, a moderate fat content. By spreading these calories over six meals—breakfast, midmorning, lunch, midafternoon, supper and bedtime—the now shrunken system is never presented with enough carbohydrate at any one time to encourage it to get out of hand again.

Like any low-calorie diet, butter, desserts, candy, most all nuts, gravy, soft drinks and, of course, potatoes are not allowed. Alcoholic beverages are also taboo.

But most everything else goes. The protein can be eaten as any meat, an egg a day, perhaps a bit of cheese, and skim milk. All vegetables and fruits are fine, and even half a slice of bread.

Thant Reaches Crucial State In Peace Talks

Only Canada Seems Willing to Send Troops

Thant brought British delegate Sir Patrick Dean and Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou together for the first time at a 90-minute Sunday conference in his office. He expressed belief "the picture will be clearer" today.

One UN diplomat said Thant has reached a "difficult stage" in his effort to get agreement on an international peace force for Cyprus buttoned up before the Security Council resumes debate on the crisis Tuesday.

Thant's efforts were reported snagged by a dispute over whether any Cyprus resolution submitted to the 11-nation council should mention the 1960 treaty of guarantee that accompanied the island's grant of independence from Britain.

INTERVENTION ALLOWED

The treaty says that Britain, Turkey and Greece can intervene independently in Cyprus to preserve constitutional arrangements between the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots.

Britain, Turkey and the United States interpret this as an authorization for military intervention and want the treaty mentioned.

Greece and the Cypriot government, which is in the hands of the Greek-Cypriot majority, oppose mention of the treaty. They fear it will be used to justify a Turkish invasion to protect the Turkish-Cypriot minority. The Greek-Cypriot majority wants to end the minority's constitutional rights of veto over various types of legislation.

Thant also was said to be having trouble persuading countries to make up a peace-keeping force. Of all those mentioned that might be available, only Canada seemed willing to supply troops.

CANADA ACCEPTABLE

Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus, has said he would accept troops from some Commonwealth and non-aligned countries, with Canada on his list.

Diplomats from Cyprus say the Mediterranean island is turning into a vast armed camp as the Turkish and Greek Cypriots arm and some women on both sides receive weapons training.

The Greek-Cypriots say they are preparing to repel threatened invasions from Turkey, 40 miles off the island's north coast.

23 India Police Missing After Kashmir Clash

Claim Pakistani Troops Crossed Cease-Fire Line

By ALAN M. KENNEDY

NEW DELHI (AP)—Twenty-three Indian policemen are missing after a new outbreak of violence between the Pakistan and India in the troubled state of Kashmir.

The Indian defence ministry lodged a protest with UN observers, charging that troops from the Pakistani sector of Kashmir crossed the cease-fire line dividing the Himalayan state and attacked the Indian patrol Friday. Indian officials were able to account for only one member of the patrol.

The ambush occurred near Keran, about 70 miles west of Srinagar, Kashmir's summer capital, the ministry said. Pakistani troops crossed the cease-fire line along the Krishen Ganga River and fired on the patrol while other Pakistanis placed a barrage from the opposite bank, the ministry said.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party said Pakistan may have deliberately staged the ambush to impress Co mun ist Premier Chou En-lai, currently visiting Pakistan.

Indian authorities expressed no surprise over a joint communique by Chou and Pakistan's President Mohammed Ayub Khan Sunday pledging Red China's support of Pakistan in the Kashmir dispute.

BOTH DISLIKE INDIA

A government spokesman said nothing startling could have emerged from a meeting of "the government leaders whose common denominator is dislike of India."

Ayub, who has always pictured himself as a strong friend of the West, held three days of talks with Chou in the old Punjab city of Rawalpindi, 60 miles west of the Kashmir frontier.

In the communique, Ayub promised "friendly co - operation" with his Communist neighbor. In turn, Chou said he would return Chou's visit with a trip to Peking.

Although Pakistan has received more than $3,000,000,000 in economic and military assistance from the United States, the communique contained a statement Washington for the $60,000,000 in U.S. military aid to India following the 1962 Chinese border attacks.

"Massive military" preparations have been the answer of international differences," the communique said.

"They only create new tensions and bring added burdens

Unions Boycott Loadings

By NEIL GILBRIDE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)— A union boycott blocking multi-million dollar shipments of U.S. wheat to Russia continued today after the collapse of negotiations between labor leaders and Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

Not one bushel of wheat will be loaded in U.S. ports until federal officials guarantee at least half of all grain shipments to Soviet bloc countries will go in American vessels, said President Thomas W. Gleason of the International Longshoremen's Union.

Eight ships are tied up by the boycott in Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

Wirtz left for Washington after four futile days of talks, saying the unions demand raised urgent problems affecting U.S. foreign policy, balance of payments and trade policy that could only be solved in highest level conferences in Washington.

Wirtz failed in a last-minute plea to union officials to lift the boycott until such conferences could be arranged.

UNIONS ADAMANT

President Johnson's personal appeals to labor leaders also failed to budge the adamant stand of the unions.

The Longshoremen and other maritime unions had the full backing of the AFL-CIO in resisting the Johnson administration's request to load the wheat for Russia.

"They are just fighting for bread and butter for their people," said AFL-CIO President George Meany in backing the boycott.

The unions argue that the wheat going to the Soviet Union is partially subsidized by taxpayers funds and that the government should provide more jobs for American workers by guaranteeing at least 50-percent shipment in U.S. vessels.

The negotiations with Wirtz originally centered only on grain shipments to Russia and appeared to be making progress until the unions broadened their demands to include all Iron Curtain and satellite shipments.

Countries Recognize Zanzibar

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada, Britain, five other Commonwealth countries and the United States gave diplomatic recognition Sunday to the new leftist government of Zanzibar.

The external affairs department in Ottawa said a cable had been sent to Zanzibar's foreign minister by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, telling him of Canada's decision.

Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia, Pakistan and India also extended recognition Sunday, soon after it was announced that Britain and the U.S. had sent telegrams to President Abeid Karume, who took office after the Jan. 12 overthrow of the island's former sultanate.

The British announcement came four hours after the arrival in London of Timothy Crosthwait, British high commissioner who was ordered to leave Zanzibar Thursday as a protest against British delay in recognizing the new government.

U.S. RESTORES LINKS

In Washington, the state department said two U.S. diplomats flew back to Zanzibar City Sunday, completing restoration of interrupted U.S.-Zanzibar relations. The diplomats are Frank Carlucci, designated charge d'affaires, and Donald K. Petterson, who had stayed behind in Zanzibar after the ouster of all other U.S. officials one week ago with a gun in his back. Petterson and 14 others expelled last Thursday.

Canada is unlikely to send diplomatic representatives to Zanzibar. An external affairs spokesman said the high commissioner to nearby Tanganyika, N. F. H. Berlis, probably will be accredited also to Zanzibar.

In London a Commonwealth relations office spokesman said Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had sent a message to President Karume saying:

"I am glad to be able to inform you that, following the completion of consultations with our Common wealth governments, the British government has decided to accord recognition to your government."

RED FOOTHOLD?

Thus some of the major powers of the Western alliance have moved toward closer contact with a government thought by some authorities to be a possible Communist foothold in East Africa.

A U.S. state department official said the United States now feels the main cause of the revolt was not ideology but dissatisfaction by the African majority with the Arab-Asian minority that ran the government and controlled most of the island's commerce.

China Supporting Pakistan On Plebiscite for Kashmir

LAHORE (Reuters) — Pakistan today were jubilant at winning long sought-after Chinese Communist support for a self-determination plebiscite in Kashmir.

The joint Sino-Pakistan announcement came Sunday night following three days of talks between President Mohammed Ayub Khan and visiting Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in Rawalpindi, capital of Pakistan.

Ayub also announced acceptance of an invitation to visit Communist China.

Until the announcement, Peking had admitted only that Kashmir was a disputed territory between India and Pakistan. The area has been in dispute since 1947.

Responsible circles here noted Chou conceded support to Pakistan while the joint communique disclosed no Pakistan backing for Communist Chinese policies not already announced.

Pakistan, a U.S. military ally, is a member of the CENTO and SEATO military alliances, both heavily backed in Washington.

Foreign Minister Zulfikar Bhutto said the Chinese support for Pakistan on the Kashmir issue was "an advance" on the previous Chinese position.

Bhutto said the talks was set for the visit of Khan to Communist China.

Chou, who has been touring Asian and African countries the last two months was due to leave Pakistan for Ceylon Wednesday.

Trap Laid by Canadian Police Led to Capture

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. authorities say a trap laid by Canadian police led to the arrest here Friday night of the Mexican ambassador to Bolivia and two other men and seizure in Montreal of millions of dollars worth of smuggled heroin.

Estimates of the retail value of the contraband ranged from $12,500,000 to $25,000,000 at United States prices and to $52,000,000 in Canada, where narcotics are scarcer.

A federal narcotics official said during the weekend the smuggling ring had a definite link with the Cosa Nostra," the name applied to the organized underworld. But he declined to elaborate.

Meanwhile, the Mexican government ordered the ambassador, Salvador Pardo Bolland. The ministry in Mexico City said Saturday he was dismissed for leaving his post without authorization.

The Mexicans called his involvement "a very dishonorable and painful thing," especially in view of his high position and Mexican efforts to combat drug traffic.

A federal narcotics bureau official in Washington said Pardo Bolland had destroyed any claim he might have had to diplomatic immunity upon his entry into the U.S. by describing himself as a "tourist."

The spokesman said the latest series of arrests grew out of the arrest Oct. 3, 1960, of Mario Cle Rosal, Guatamalan ambassador to Belgium and The Netherlands, who was caught with 224 pounds of heroin.

The spokesman said it was anticipated that the heroin that was seized Friday night would have been distributed in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit and Chicago, as well as New York, "because that is the normal pattern of distribution. New York is the supplier for the whole East Coast area."

Cyprus Is Now Vast Army Camp

By ALEX EFTY

NICOSIA (AP) — Cyprus is like a vast armed camp. In every town, village and hamlet on the island republic, thousands of young men, in some cases even women, are receiving weapons training.

This feverish activity can be observed on both Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot sides.

The Greek-Cypriots, who outnumber the Turkish - Cypriots four to one, say they are preparing to repel a threatened invasion from the Turkish mainland, 40 miles from the island's north coast.

Turkish-Cypriots, isolated in scores of villages scattered all over the island and in the Turkish sectors of the island's six main towns, claim they are preparing to repel a threatened Greek attack.

Fear motivates both sides and out of fear has come organization and planning.

Since fighting broke out at Christmas, two distinct defence forces have sprung up on the island—one Greek, one Turkish.

Each is composed of hundreds of irregulars, built around a nucleus of the formerly united Cyprus police force of 2,000 men and the 400-man army.

POLICE, ARMY SPLIT

After the outbreak, both police and army split up into 60-per-cent Greek and 40-per-cent Turkish component parts.

The Greek - Cypriot fighting force is almost completely controlled by a man using the nom de guerre "Akritas" (the frontiersman). He is generally believed to be Greek-Cypriot interior Minister Polyarpos Georgadjis.

The 34 - year - old Georgadjis was one of the ablest lieutenants of Gen. George Grivas, the legendary "Dighenis" who commanded the EOKA Greek-Cypriot underground in its fight for independence against the British.

House Facing Votes

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — A week of general debate during which the government can expect to face repeated non-confidence votes lays before the House of Commons.

No important legislative action is expected to be taken in the next session until the first week of March, after the general debate on the legislative program ends.

The main opposition challenge, a Conservative motion decrying the government's sales tax on building materials and manufacturing machinery, will be called for a vote Tuesday night.

The government won its first confidence test of the session Friday when the Commons defeated 134 to 87 a non-confidence motion of the New Democratic Party criticizing it for not including medical insurance in its legislative program.

But the opposition parties can introduce other non - confidence proposals in the first four days of the week. The only limitation is that not more than two be before the House at any time.

CAN CONTINUE FRIDAY

Under the rules, the debate can continue on Friday, but no further non-confidence motions could be made. The debate must end on or before Monday, March 2. Efforts may be made to conclude it on Friday.

For the rambling discussion, which any subject matter is in order, the House will sit longer hours, holding morning, afternoon and night sittings on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

Wednesday is always a short Parliamentary date. The forenoon is kept free for party caucus meetings, and the evening for social engagements. The Commons normally sits Friday morning and afternoon but starts its weekend with Friday evening off.

In the non-confidence challenges, any motion that wins the support of all opposition parties would bring the government and precipitate a general election.

Efforts by Philippines to Save Malaysian Truce Appear Doomed

JAKARTA (AP) — A Philippine effort to solve the Malaysia crisis virtually collapsed Sunday night on the heels of shooting along the cease-fire line separating Indonesian-backed guerrillas and a Malaysian-British force.

This was reported by an informed source in this Indonesian capital after a meeting between Foreign Secretary Salvador Lopez of the Philippines and Deputy Foreign Minister of Indonesia, Subandrio also is foreign minister.

"We reached a situation where there is no more leeway," the source said.

President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines is here in an effort to mediate the dispute between Malaysia and Indonesia that erupted in head off a shooting war.

The source said Macapagal and President Sukarno of Indonesia would discuss the cease-fire situation in a meeting at sea-level in Tokyo Wednesday scheduled for Tuesday on the island of Bali.

Both sides in the dispute blamed the other for a break in the cease-fire arranged Jan. 5 by U.S. Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy.

Malaysia, placed its air defences on emergency alert, and declared the air space over the Malaysian federated states of Sarawak and Sabah (North Borneo) off limits to foreign aircraft.

It was authoritatively learned here that the Indonesians would go ahead with plans to airdrop supplies to 200 guerrillas in the two Malaysian states. Malaysia has warned that such an airdrop would constitute a violation of its ir space.

Developments in Southeast Asia Dampen West's Spirits

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—A rash of developments in Southeast Asia has deepened Western pessimism about this area's chances of uniting against threats of Chinese expansion.

American influence, which once helped stitch together key sections of the region, has worn thin.

An open attempt by France to move in where the United States is edging—or being edged —out has complicated the picture.

Amid the confusion, Communists have registered fresh military gains in the Southeast Asian heartland.

Along the outer arc, where Communist aggression is not an immediate factor, the Malaysia crisis has ripped neighbors apart.

These developments point up the trend:

1. In neutralist Cambodia, Prince Norodom Sihanouk has threatened to cut Western ties and form military alliances with Communist China and North Viet Nam unless the West agrees to guarantee his country's neutrality.

2. In Laos, pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces, bolstered by North Vietnamese, have

China's First Envoy to France Has Only Hotel Room as Embassy

PARIS (AP) — Communist China's first diplomatic envoy to France arrived Sunday with only his hotel room for an embassy.

Charge d'Affaires Sung Chih-kuang was snubbed by the Soviet bloc. There were no Soviet bloc dignitaries at press conferences among the welcoming crowd at the Gare de Lyon, as he stepped off a train from Switzerland.

Sung was warmly greeted, however, by a group of French and foreign diplomats. The well-wishers included the Russian diplomatic representative in France and a member of the Cuban embassy.

Sung has, for three years, been assistant director of the Red Chinese foreign ministry's department on Western Europe.

Sung's arrival here came at almost the same time that his French opposite number, Charge d'Affaires Claude Chayet, departed for Peking.

The two men's task is to pave the way for the exchange of ambassadors between Paris and Peking. This is supposed to take place within the next three months.

They apparently got tit-for-tat welcomes—the assistant chief of protocol here met Sung and the assistant chief of protocol in Peking met Chayet.

Both men must now look for suitable embassy quarters.

Many diplomatic observers believe Sung will not be able to claim the Nationalist Chinese Embassy, a $1,000,000 property on the fashionable Avenue Georges V.

Before diplomatic ties were broken between Paris and Nationalist China, the Nationalist regime transferred the embassy building to Belgium for the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization. Now that UNESCO is concerned, Taipei — not Peking — represents China. UNESCO dailplions enjoy diplomatic status.

So far, the French position is that any dispute over the embassy that has been owned by the Chinese republic for 37 years is for French courts to decide.

The custody question is complicated by the status of the building in which the building in China. For many years this building has been unoccupied by French diplomats, who followed Chiang Kai - shek to Formosa when he retreated from the mainland. Some think the Chinese could claim the French embassy until France gives them possession of the Chinese embassy in Paris.

Music Column

By LOIS KELLEHER

What is music? Music is something we sing in church and at school. Music is something played when men march off to war, and when they return again. Music is present at weddings and at funerals. Music as a song may show pride in our country and our heritage. Music is the universal and original mode of communicating emotion. It is common to all people.

Until recently, music may not have been regarded seriously as it is in the schools of this era. Now that a better understanding of the science and mathematics of music has evolved, music is regarded as an equal to any other academic subject. But how can music better our viewpoint and raise intellectual standards? Everyday the outside world is begging for more doctors, lawyers, mathematicians and scientists. Can the study of music justify itself against such opposition as this?

People cannot explain themselves clearly in mathematics or science. Some people are happy or sad they do not burst into mathematical equations or into pictures of foreign verbs. They express their happiness or sadness through music. Is it important to be able to express your emotions in an acceptable manner? I believe our hospitals, jails and mental institutions would not be so overcrowded if the inmates had been able to control or channel their emotions along the right lines. There are many people who are happiest when with equations, scientific formulas and figures, but in a world like ours these people are needed and welcomed very much, but, unfortunately these people are not universal, music is it.

MUSIC IS PEOPLE

In secondary schools and universities students are further informed of the complications and expectations of the outside world. It is in this phase that students develop their individual characteristics. Some may co-operate and mingle with others, while some may find they prefer to be more pensive and solitary in their habits. Each individual is reached by some, but no matter what way a student tends to develop music has a place for him in music. It can bring forth the sense of achievement and adventure. Orchestras and bands help to develop responsible citizens for future societies, yet the individual may still discover and explore a different facet of his music and become equally responsible and invaluable to society.

In our world new generations must be urged to seek out the good in people and be more optimistic. Music can and does do this. Music can be tragic and destructive or humorous and wonderful—just like people. After all, music is people.

CORBYS

All settled and running smoothly is Corby's new bottling line. The new automatic equipment includes a bottle-feeding machine, which takes empty bottle from the cases and sets them up on the line; a bottle cleaner; a bottle filler with an auxiliary unit that vacuum-tests the bottle before they are filled; a bottle capper; a labeller capable of putting on front and back labels at the same time and strip stamper which puts on the excise stamps. In normal production the line is fully automatic, filling, capping and labelling up the 110 bottles per minute with only five girls to watch the operations.

With three automatic lines now, and one semi-automatic, capacity of Corby's bottling room is about 7,000 cases per day. This figure, according to vice-president Friedl Belstedt and supervisor Robert Farquharson, allows for slower production of bottles with special packing—which may include manual operations.

Automation has been creeping slowly into the Corby bottling room since about 1947, when the first automatic labelling machine was installed. The new line is the final step planned until new machinery is developed. The one semi-automatic line still in operation is required for short runs, which do not warrant the use of automatic equipment. The three automatic lines make use of the most modern equipment available.

CENTRAL BRIDGE

Two steel silos being built now in Trenton for Falconbridge Nickel Mines will keep one of the shops at Central Bridge tied up for another week. Sixteen feet in diameter and 32 feet high when they're upright, the silos will make an impressive sight when they are shipped. Resting on its side now, one of the silos looks almost like a moon rocket as it is being assembled.

Steel horse barns being built by Central Bridge for the Jockey Club in St. Catharines, will take a month or more to complete. The barns will house about 100 horses each, and are similar to several made by Central Bridge for the Old Woodbine track in Toronto.

CANADA CEMENT TRANSPORT

The crew of the Cement Karrier will start next week to prepare the ship for the season's work. The ship sails for Toronto as soon as the ice is out — that is during the first week of April, most years. There is no official word yet on appointment of a captain to replace Capt. H. H. Thorn, who retired last week.

BISHOPS SEEDS

Shipping starts this week on seed orders from Bishop Seeds, Belleville, to farmers in the Maritimes and in Northern Ontario, according to Bruce Bishop. Most of the seeds going out are for pasture and hay mixtures. Local farmers don't start buying until mid-March most years, but farmers in distant areas cannot take chances on delivery. So they buy earlier.

FOLEY FOUNDRY

Working for the Department of Transport, Foley Foundry and Machine is making replacement parts for locks on the Trent Canal System. Included in the order are suspension rods, lifting bolts and tie rods. Delivery on the parts is in about two weeks, to allow time for installation before the locks are opened for the summer.

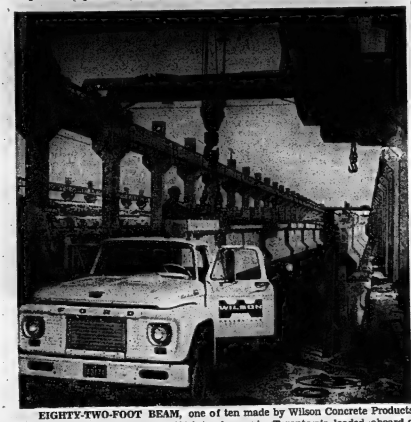
McFARLANE GENDRON

Venezuela may provide a market for McFarlane Gendron baby carriages, soon. Jack McFarlane vacationing with his wife, passed through there a couple of weeks ago and discovered the only baby carriages in the country are imported from the U.S.A. He made some contacts there and on the Dutch island of Aruba, in the Caribbean, which should lead to orders in a month or two. The firm is already in the export market, selling pool tables in the U.S.

TRENTON DYEING AND FINISHING

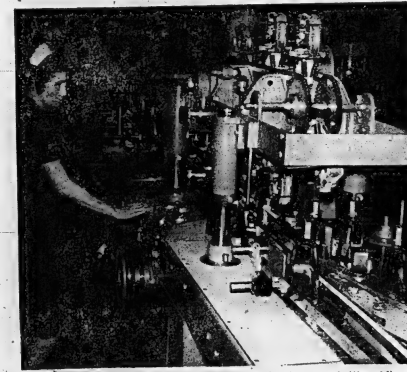
Maintenance staff at Trenton Dyeing and Finishing Co. Ltd., is preparing now to replace two wooden dye kettles in the plant with stainless steel. Final phase of a replacement program began about a year ago, when four big kettles were changed over, the installation should begin April 1st. The two kettles and the machinery that goes with them will be tied up for about a week, but it won't delay production at the plant, which can process 11 lots of fabric at a time.

Trouble with the wooden kettles, according to plant manager F. J. Parker, is that they absorb some of the dye from each lot, and must be boiled and bleached when a different color is to be used. The stainless steel kettles need only be rinsed out. The kettles still to be replaced are four by eight feet, one five feet deep and the other four feet deep. Of the four stainless steel kettles installed between Feb. 15, 1963, and early May, three are six by eight feet and one is eight by eight feet. All are five feet deep.



The conversion program won't increase production at Trenton Dyeing and Finishing, but it will lower costs and make life easier for employees. Maintenance foreman Jack Colasante will supervise installation of the new kettles.

DEACON BROTHERS



An early Easter means an early rush this year for Deacon Brothers, according to Fred Deacon. Most of the firm's products are for spring and fall wear, and there's a rush starting about the beginning of March, most years. With Easter coming early this year, though, and spring weather introduced into Februrary, the rush is starting early. The rush will last until July, then business will slow slightly until the fall rush.

EIGHTY-TWO-FOOT BEAM, one of ten made by Wilson Concrete Products for the Highway 400 - Highway 401 interchange in Toronto, is loaded aboard a special truck. All ten of the 25-ton beams were shipped last week.

CANADIAN-MADE STRIP STAMPER puts excise stamps on bottles of liquor running through Corby's new automatic bottling line. One of three automatic lines in the bottling room, this one has a capacity of about 110 bottles per minute.

Farm Net Income up 2.2 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's total farm net income, including changes in farm inventories of grains and livestock, rose 2.2 per cent in 1963 to an estimated $1,716,300,000 from $1,678,800,000 in 1962, the bureau of statistics said today.

The increase resulted entirely from advances in Saskatchewan and Alberta. All other provinces reported decreases.

Farm operating expenses and depreciation charges continued to rise in 1963 but they were more than offset by higher cash income from farming operations and increased inventories of farm-held grain and livestock.

Reading Group Hears Address

"Talk written down" was the definition of reading given by one school child, said Miss Phyllis A. Moore, M.A., Peterborough Teachers' College, at a recent meeting of the Quinte Council, International Reading Association. She went on to say that reading is much more than that, since it involves thinking and the interpretation of information from the printed page.

Miss Moore spoke of a variety of criticisms of the teaching of reading in our schools and stated that research had shown that pupils read at a level that is one half grade higher than was the case some years ago.

Some children are slow to learn reading and it is vital that their attitude be right. Boys are often afraid of reading and some progress slowly or stay on plateaus for some time. One experiment indicates that men teachers are better for boys in the primary grades.

Miss Moore commented on several books useful to teachers of reading and answered questions after the conclusion of her excellent talk.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Wanda Sine and thanked by Mr. E. S. Fairman. The chairman was Mr. Arthur Bradford and Mr. L. A. Kells conducted the question and answer period.

Refreshments were under the supervision of Miss Ann Smith. Her assistants were Mrs. E. Hornsby, Mrs. K. Grant and Miss E. Burkitt.

County Home Resident Walks Into Car's Path

An 80-year-old man, who Saturday stepped into the side of a moving car, remains in critical condition today at Belleville General Hospital. Henry James Reid, a resident of the Hastings County Home, sustained fractures to an arm and a leg, lacerations to his head and shock in the accident, which occurred about 5:50 p.m.

Constable Donald Thomas of the OPP detachment in Belleville, who investigated the accident, said Mr. Reid had been crossing Highway Two from the County Home, when he darted into the side of a westbound car driven by John Down, 44, of R.R. 3, Belleville. Mr. Reid hit the car, apparently, near the car's front door and was thrown to the ground. Most of the injuries, it is believed, occurred after Mr. Reid was thrown to the ground.

County Home Supervisor, Kenneth Yorke, said today that it was Mr. Reid's habit to go for a walk every evening, after dinner. He was in excellent physical condition for a man of his age, Mr. Yorke said. Mr. Reid was taken to hospital by LaSalle Ambulance.

Clean up Your Plates

Other opinions to the contrary, the Speech from the Thorne at the beginning of the new session of Parliament was truly remarkable. It united the four-way-split ranks of the Opposition.

Progressive Conservative Leader John G. Diefenbaker called it "pallid."

But Democratic Leader Tommy Douglas said it lacked "the imagination and boldness these times require."

Even Creditiste Leader Real Caouette found himself in step with the majority, for once. "The same old platitudes" was his description of the speech.

One point, though, needs to be noted. Mr. Diefenbaker called attention to it. "Largely containing leftovers from last session," was his analysis of the program placed before the House.

When the Opposition parties face a new session with no leftovers, they will have earned the right to complain about the menu. So long, however, as even the pallid, unimaginative, unambitious, platitudinous program presented by the government remains more than the House can consume at a session, just so long will the Opposition's call for more substantial fare be suspect.

Clean up your plates, boys; only then will you have a right to ask for more.

None of Canada's Business

The United States has anti-trust laws which so far beyond Canada's legislation against combines.

Under these laws, Attorney-General Robert Kennedy is endeavoring to prevent the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. of Milwaukee from going through with its deal to acquire John Labatt Ltd. of London, Ont.

Kennedy is perfectly within his rights. He is not endeavoring to decide who shall own a Canadian business. His interest in the deal arises from the fact that John Labatt Ltd. owns the controlling share of General Brewing Co. of San Francisco. Thus Kennedy is concerned because the Schlitz firm is acquiring additional brewing interest in the U.S.

But it is reported that, in spite of the fact he had no duty to consult Canadian authorities, Kennedy did so. That was just a gesture of courtesy, there can be no objections. In the absence of any statement to the contrary, however, the fact that there was consultation with Canadian authorities suggests that Kennedy's move received their blessing. If it did, this is to be deplored. If Canadian authorities lacked the power or the courage to take action themselves to prevent the acquisition of the Labatt firm by Schlitz, they ought not to be caught lurking behind Kennedy's skirts when the acts for reasons which are certainly no concern of Canadians.

Informative Aside

The Associated Press reports that "some of the same Vietnamese police strongarm men who were assigned last summer to roughing up Buddhists and Western reporters were on duty today at the American schools."

There is a distinct slap here at the Vietnamese police. If it is warranted, and not just some reporter's attempt to get even for some imagined injury last summer, the slap would have served a more useful purpose had it been delivered months earlier.

Perhaps, though, that would have been foolardy in the days when Diem still ruled. If this the explanation, then no matter how much the military may be disturbed by the course of the struggle against the communist Viet Cong, least there has been some improvement in the situation. It is now possible for reporters to tell the truth, a prime prerequisite if an anti-communist government is to be worthy of support.

Cool Bunnies Not Wanted

Dartmouth Dan Greene Hints

Are the "Bunnies" from the American Playboy clubs already hopping towards Europe? Are they giving to new their bunny ears and coquettish bunny tails in London and Rome tomorrow and in Paris the day after? Is every illuminated night clube for our rich playboys the day after?

There is such a rumour. And if that should prove correct, we only can say this is the last thing we need.

Who are those "bunnies"?

They are very young, very beautiful and rather cool being selected to be gay company for tired playboys with bulky purses. They dress and mate, they dance and talk, whatever they are requested to do.

But if somebody should have further desires, encouraged by their partly professional dress, they have to retreat immediately. Intimacies are "verboten" and even a very short obvious date is reason enough to fire a "Bunny."

Poor men! First they are bailed by mesh stockings, the tiniest corsages, cute bunny ears and fluffy cotton balls on their tails, and then they have to spend bundles of money only to see their favourite girl-friend for who has to remain as cool as a refrigerator even when both partners have a liking for each other.

The operators tickle your erotic fantasy first of all they are after is your money.

If this idea is to be imported and the "Bunnies" come too close to us, we cannot take it any more.

Not that we are much concerned about the funny girls who, as proof of their undamaged morals, wear collar collars on their naked skin.

But why do we have to swallow gimmicks like that, only because they originated in America?

We know that America has much to be commended for. But if we accept the "Bunny", we are nothing but a bunch of stupid apes.

Billionaire Lucky Man

Hamilton Spectator

Paul Getty is a nice man who is worth about one billion dollars, which is a lot of money. He inherited $500,000 from his millionaire father and augmented it into one of the largest fortunes in the world.

There are several other reasons why Mr. Getty is tremendously wealthy. Not so long ago, for instance, he presented to some friends to a horticultural show in London. Price after $ o'clock he was quoted at about five. The Getty party arrived at about ten minutes before five and were allowed to enter the block by their host until such time as the cheaper tickets were available. That's a true story and demonstrates the value of thrift.

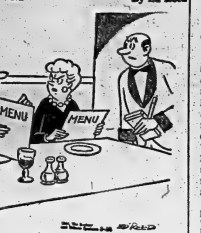
Recently, Mr. Getty is lucky not lucky in that he was born into a wealthy family, but just plain lucky. When Mr. G. had $200 in 1938 for what he thought was just another version of the Loretto Madonna, a much-copied work which the Italian master, Raphael, painted in the 16th century. Now it turns out that it may be the original, and it is now reputed worth in the vicinity of $1,000,000.

The Midas touch, it would seem, is not entirely reserved for a man of fantastic wealth than the homely virtue of thrift. Though both have their place in his financial philosophy.

Sound Waves Soften Nylon

B.B.C. London Letter

Sound waves, too high-pitched for the human ear to hear, are being used by a British firm of nylon-stocking manufacturers to make their products softer and more absorbent.



The stockings, after they are knitted, are drawn through a tank filled with a chemical liquid, and at the same time are bombarded with ultrasonic waves.

This process causes a change in the pattern of the molecules or tiny particles in the nylon thread.

Frederick Kellard, a spokesman of the firm, Ballito, Ltd., of St. Albans, Hertfordshire, explained: "The great advantage of this technique is that it makes the stockings softer and also better able to absorb moisture. Women say that they are more comfortable to wear and that at the end of the day their feet are not so tired."

Russians Visit Ohio

Brantford Expositor

For a week, an insurance agent and his family in the small Ohio town of Portsmouth entertained a Russian auto engineer and his family from Moscow. The Russians, named Poniheyev, were selected by the Soviet authorities in answer to an invitation from the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce which financed the visit.

Back in Moscow, Mr. Poniheyev has given his impressions to foreign correspondents. He said that what he saw was much the picture of America he had gained from Soviet books, newspapers and magazines. One thing only surprised him. It was how little Americans know about the Soviet Union, far less than Russians know about the United States.

Canadians will not share the Russians surprise. They have long been aware of the average American's chronic indifference to what goes on outside his borders, and to what sort of life there is besides the American way of life.

A telling footnote to the Portsmouth story is published by the Poniheyev son, aged 16. He is now in Grade 9 and has been studying English since the fifth grade. He said, "I couldn't find an American boy in Portsmouth who was studying Russian."

Lets Public Test New Car

Brantford Expositor

The automobile industry has grown increasingly receptive to public opinion since the days when Henry Ford used to proclaim that the customer could choose any car he wanted provided it was black. Nevertheless, the latest models are still kept under wraps until their official launching in a blare of publicity. Although carefully designed and tried out the bugs during the construction stage, the cars still depend for their success in a highly competitive market on a tickle that sometimes finicky public taste.

A British car manufacturer recently decided to test out potential sales resistance head on by inviting 70 typical buyers to pretest the new Triumph 200 saloon before it went into full production. Sales were delayed until the consumer survey, first of its kind in Britain, had been completed. The company found the experiment well worthwhile, both as a means of correcting minor faults and irritations and also as a guide to future design.

Autographs Like Stamps

Hamilton Spectator

How much is Sir John A. Macdonald's autograph worth today? Not very much. Probably $25 in Canada, if it is on one of his letters. The only other Canadian autographs that might be more valuable would be those of Louis Riel, Laura Secord, William Lyon Mackenzie, Madeleine de Verchores. Letters signed by early explorers and military men would probably range as high or higher.

The autograph of a famous person usually becomes more valuable after his death; although in the case of movie stars and sports heroes that is the exception rather than the rule. Shakespeare's autograph on a hand-written note might be worth $10,000 while that of John Barrymore, who was a great "Hamlet," might not bring in more than $10.

The rarity of a signature also increases its value. While he was alive, John Kennedy's autograph was rare than George Washington's. Type letters bearing his signature were worth about $5 each; handwritten ones much more. Today one of his letters written on White House notepaper could be worth a great amount.

Incidentally, a Kennedy letter, signed as a young naval officer of PT-109, a ship he commanded in World War II, was worth as much as $3,500 before his assassination. Its value today would be much higher.

Autographs are like stamps, in that they are apt to give their collectors misery as well as pleasure. An avid collector can spend thousands of dollars each on purported his hobby. A Keats signature is to an autograph collector what a rare British Guiana stamp is to a philatelist.

Whose signature is most valuable? Probably only in the realm of the possible—the names of Shakespeare, Michelangelo, and Leonardo da Vinci come immediately to mind.

Rembrandt? Why, of course. One of his autographs was sold for more than $2,000,000 recently. It was attached to a large oil painting.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have always worn earrings with no trouble but in the last year or so if I wear them even for a day my ears itch and turn red.

I recently bought both gold and silver ones but it's the same happens. What do you think? — Mrs. B. W.

It may be "contact dermatitis" — a skin trouble from contact with something or other. In this case, various metals. It's a form of allergy.

We never — I think I can be that positive — have an allergic reaction from our first contact with anything. We have to be "sensitized" first. Once that occurs, any subsequent contact promptly causes trouble.

Thus some of us have an allergy in infancy, or sometimes we don't become "sensitized" until much later. Earrings (and other kinds of jewelry) are a gold-uncommon cause of allergies developing in adulthood.

Changing to a different metal sometimes helps. Sometimes jewelry can be lacquered so the metal does not come in direct contact with the skin, which is especially applicable to earrings. Beds of foam rubber are also available to protect you from the metal.

To Your Good Health
Exercise Not Right Way To Cure Painful Bursitis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about bursitis. I have it in my shoulder. My friends have different opinions about how it should be treated. Some say it can be cured by exercise, some say an operation is necessary, and still others recommend shots. — Mrs. G. B. H.

Bursitis is inflammation of a fluid-filled sac over which the tendons of a joint ride. (Such a sac is called a bursa). Injury and continued pressure are the usual causes. "Tennis elbow" is an example, also "housemaid's knee."

Exercise is not the answer, at all merely keeps the tender place irritated. Rest, however, often permits healing. Various injections are used when needed. Sometimes excess fluid is withdrawn. Why not let your doctor treat the bursitis, instead of relying on friends, some of whom have given you incorrect advice!

Dear Dr. Molner: I had an overactive thyroid gland. I think the doctors destroyed it completely when they gave me radioactive iodine in a glass of orange juice.

Now I take three tablets of thyroid extract a day. In my own estimation, I was feeling better when taking only one and a half tablets. I felt more relaxed and my facial appearance was better.

Is it possible that my gland was not completely destroyed after all? Is the blood test I had for thyroid index absolutely infallible? — W. C.

Let's get over the idea that any laboratory finding is absolutely infallible. To be sure, plenty of tests are not to be doubted. A blood count is low, or high. Or an unwelcome organism is found. Or your temperature is 98.6 or it is 102. You don't doubt these findings.

Plenty of other tests show that you are "a little high" or "a little low" but they don't mean that half way in between is "right."

Your thyroid gland may not have been destroyed. The radioactive iodine reduced its size and overactivity, which in your case was necessary. After that the extract was used to adjust your thyroid activity to whatever level is right for you. Tell your doctor that you feel that you are being too low. That's what he wants to know from you. He'll say, "Well, then, let's try a little less for a few weeks and see how it works."

That's the same way of practicing medicine. By two people are exactly alike. The laboratory gives us a sensible working point. From that, we adjust to suit the patient's needs.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have always worn earrings with no trouble but in the last year or so if I wear them even for a day my ears itch and turn red.

I recently bought both gold and silver ones but it's the same happens. What do you think? — Mrs. B. W.

It may be "contact dermatitis" — a skin trouble from contact with something or other. In this case, various metals. It's a form of allergy.

We never — I think I can be that positive — have an allergic reaction from our first contact with anything. We have to be "sensitized" first. Once that occurs, any subsequent contact promptly causes trouble.

Thus some of us have an allergy in infancy, or sometimes we don't become "sensitized" until much later. Earrings (and other kinds of jewelry) are a gold-uncommon cause of allergies developing in adulthood.

Truth Is Strong But Error Has Weakness

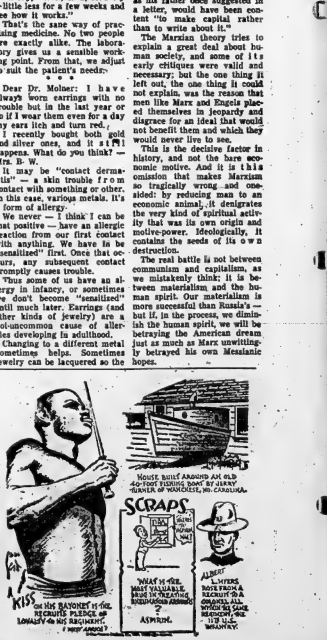
By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Every wrong theory is its own refutation; this is the strength of truth, and the weakness of error. When we say that "truth will prevail," it is more than a sentimental statement or a pious hope it is a fact.

Consider the basic assumption of Marxism. It is that man is materially an economic creature, dominated by economic impulses — and these impulses are ultimately the decisive ones in shaping human history.

But Karl Marx himself is a refutation of this theory. When he composed the "Communist Manifesto," he was not acting on materialistic or economic motives, but on moral and philosophical ones.

He was not a proletarian, nor underprivileged. He came from a comfortable bourgeois family, had a good education, and was not driven to his revolutionary doctrine by need or desperation.



And the minority of men who made the Russian Revolution possible were not dispossessed workers, but intellectuals, students, defectors from middle-class professions. They were not acting from economic motives, but from the same moral and philosophical drives that animated Marx. This is why Marxism has become, in a way, a modern "religion."

If it were true that men acted only, or mainly, for material gratification, there would be no self-sacrifice, no heroism, no placing of principles above comfort and safety. Marx himself, as his father once suggested in a letter, would have been content with some good rabbi rather than to write about it."

The Marxian theory tries to explain a great deal about human society, and some of its early critiques were valid and necessary; but the whole thing it left out, the one thing it could not explain, was the reason that events like Marx and Engels plied themselves in jeopardy and disgrace for an ideal that would not benefit them or their society one bit.

This is the decisive factor in history, and it is not an economic motive. And it is this omission that makes Marxism so tragically wrong and one-sided: by reducing man to an economic animal, it denigrates the very kind of spiritual activity that was its own origin and motive-power. Ideologically, it contains the seeds of its own destruction.

The real battle is not between communism and capitalism, as we mistakenly think; it is between materialism and the human spirit. Our materialism is more successful than Russia's — but it is the process, we diminish the human spirit, we will be betraying the American dream just as much as Marx unwittingly betrayed his own Messianic hopes.

High Employment Reduces Children's Aid Work Load

High employment has been a contributing factor which has caused a decrease in the intake of children by the Children's Aid Society to date compared to the same period of other years. This statement was made by local director, Bruce Kerr, to the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society held recently.

Dr. S. C. Rose, vice-president of the society, presided, and welcomed Alderman Geo. Wishart of Belleville, president of the Society in 1963, on his return after a lengthy absence due to illness. He also extended congratulations to Reeve Thomas Burnside of Madoc on his election to the office of warden of the County of Hastings in 1964.

"From our 1963 audit we have determined that we have an accumulated deficit on our protection - prevention services in the amount of $4,312.45," Mr. Bruce Kerr reported. "Of this amount $1,244 can be charged against services given in the town of Trenton prior to the 1st of July 1961, and $1,959 to services given in the city of Belleville. The balance is an accumulation of deficits incurred over many years. Undoubtedly some of it is chargeable to the service given in the county of Hastings in the years prior to the present satisfactory method of financing. As you know, for a number of years the county has paid in full the cost of all services rendered."

In the business arising out of the report of the local director, a committee consisting of Alderman Enos David, Alderman George Wishart, Messrs. B. W. Hurley and Stanley Wiggins and Dr. S. C. Rose was appointed to meet with the finance committee of the Belleville city council at the earliest moment to discuss the financial position of the Society in relation to service rendered in the city. In the past the Corporation has acceded to all the Society's requests for financial aid. Unfortunately, with the United Appeal failing to meet its objective year after year, the Society has had been deprived of a recent meeting of town council. Dr. Rose stated that towards the end of January the Society had advised the elected head of the municipality that "since your lay citizens have failed to exhibit any interest whatsoever in strengthening the position of the Society in the community and council has already indicated it does not choose to meet the cost of a program of service such as is rendered in adjoining communities, the Board has concluded that no constructive purpose will be served by pursuing the matter further. Accordingly all service, regardless of nature or origin will be terminated on the first day of March, 1964".

It was announced that the annual general meeting of the Society was to be held on March 12 and that Miss Doris Clark, B.A., M.S.W., was to be the speaker. Miss Clark writes a column dealing with human problems in more than 20 daily and 25 weekly Canadian newspapers, including The Ontario Intelligencer.

Arctic Clothing Given Airing By Hasty Pees

PICTON (Staff) — Thirty officers and senior NCO's of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment camped out over the weekend at Camp Petrie.

Under the direction of Lieut.-Col. Joseph Black of Belleville the men underwent training in winter warfare and at the same time were indoctrinated in the use of Arctic clothing and equipment.

The temperature dropped to just above zero during the night, and on Sunday morning, when the Ontario Intelligencer reporter visited the camp a brisk wind from Lake Ontario did nothing for the comfort of the reporter. The men, however, were dressed in the Arctic clothing and were quite warm and comfortable.

The men, from all over the area, Port Hope to Picton, and north to Madoc, held an exercise known as stalking Jim Saturday night, but the five inches of snow made it a problem to stalk quietly.

Arriving on Saturday noon, the men were given instruction on the use of the equipment by Staff Lieut. McGill and. Staff Sgt. Hermandez of Kingston. The majority of the men at the camp have no actual combat experience. Camp broke up Sunday afternoon, with the men going back to the comforts of home.

Juniors Dump Gananoque 9-1 In Playoff

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton Juniors went one up in the best of five semi-finals of the Junior League, as they dropped the Gananoque Islanders by a lopsided 9-1 score on Saturday night. The second game is in Gananoque on Monday, with the third game back here next Thursday.

Picton made a shambles of the game, outshooting the Islanders by a 46-34 margin. A bit of luck on a clearing shot, and Larry Holmes would have had a well deserved shut-out.

Big George Sainsbury fired the first two goals for Picton at the 7.35 and the 12.40 mark of the first period, with Rory McDonald, Bob Brown and Tim O'Grady assisting in that order.

Wayne McConnell, who played a great game made it 3-0 when he converted passes from Brown and McDonald at the 16.02 mark and Bill Hopkins took Gary Hesnells' pass and fired one past Jamieson at the 17.28 mark. Bob Brown set up the play, to give Picton a 4-0 edge going into the second period.

Back to back penalties to Brown and McConnell to start the second gave Holmes a real work out in the Picton nets, but he came up with some fantastic saves to keep the visitors from scoring.

Bob Brown put on a demonstration of his "slap shot" when he picked up the puck at the Gananoque blue line and rifled one that Jamieson did not see before it caught the upper left hand corner.

At the 15.06 mark, Bob Dickson fired a puck from a scramble in front of the nets and Holmes lost his shutout. Len Colligan and Murray Rowntree were credited assists on the lone Gananoque marker.

Picton scored three last period goals. Harold Haddock, who played a strong game both ways, fired an unassisted marker at the 14.22 mark. McDonald added one at the 18.08 mark after taking a pass from Sainsbury. Bob Brown, who was a standout on defence, capped a terrific evening by tipping in passes from Tim O'Grady and Bill Hopkins at the 19.19 mark to round out the scoring. "Brownie" figured on five of the nine goals scored by Picton.

The officials kept the game well in hand, as there were 19 penalties, all of the minor variety. Picton took the odd one in the 18.

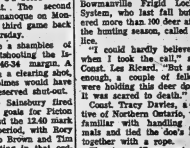
Startled Doe Almost Lands In a Freezer

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) Workers at a cold storage plant on the main street here could hardly believe their eyes when a deer crashed through a plate-glass window, almost landing in a freezer, Saturday.



Wilfred Kitson, owner of the Bowmanville Frigid Locker System, who last fall butchered more than 100 deer after the hunting season, called police.

"I could hardly believe it when I took the call," said Const. Les Rieard. "But sure enough, a couple of fellows were holding this deer down. It was scared to death."

Const. Tracy Davies, a native of Northern Ontario, was familiar with handling animals and tied the doe's legs together with a rope.

The two officers put the deer into the cruiser, drove a half mile out of town and gave the animal its freedom. Uninjured after its daring escapade, the deer bounded over fences into a nearby bush.

Heads Students' Festival Year

GUNTHER ACTROS

Local students are planning a mass-visit to the drama festivals currently taking place across the country. Supervising the trip is Mr. Gunther Actros, a well-known actor and teacher. Some 60 strong, the group have chosen a Canadian National coach for their exclusive use. Apart from being more fun, the excited students say, it's the only way they could afford the trip. One charming young thespian summed it up: "If you arrive by charter — and cheaper by far!" The group chartered an entire CN coach and saved as much as 33⅓%. And they charter sleepers for overnight trips. When asked about their travel arrangements for smaller groups, they were just as happy with another CN answer: CN's Party Rates. They can save 10% to 20% over and above the big group discount. "Bargain and White 'Economy' Days. In fact — the stage is set wherever you go. Let Canadian National handle all your group trips!"

CORDOVA GOLD CLAIMS TO BE OPENED UP

For years many people in the area have wondered why the Cordova Gold Mines property in the Mazenod Lake area has been idle. There was a flourishing gold mine yielding close to a million dollars worth of gold and silver at today's prices.

Many attempts were made by mining groups to acquire the Cordova property from the late Mr. H. Bowen, but confident he had a rich mine he set a high figure on the claims. His last asking price was $300,000.00.

Recently, Mr. Ivan Sopha of Cordova Mines made a deal with Mr. Harry Bowen and a new company, Orvana Mines Limited, was incorporated and will open up and develop the claims.

Opening up the claims by Orvana Mines could be a very important mining venture. The claims are in a proven gold-bearing area. The Company is amply financed for its program. Work is about to start.

Hiccups Could Be Means Of Attracting Attention

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Is it possible for a person to bring the hiccups on himself? The fellow to whom I'm engaged manages to get the hiccups at the most inopportune times. I believe Rod does it to attract attention, although he denies it.

Last week in the theatre Rod started hiccing — and I mean loud. He hicced for five minutes straight. Everyone in the place was roaring with laughter. I told him to cut it out because he was embarrassing me. But said he couldn't help it. Finally I warned him that if he hiccuped one more time I was walking out. The hiccups disappeared immediately.

What does this sound like to you? Do you know of a quick hiccup cure? Thanks for your help. — CHAGRINED.

DEAR CHAGRINED — Some people can bring on their own hiccups. Bad may or may not have this dubious talent.

One thing seems clear, however — once he gets the hiccups he plays 'em for all they're worth.

There are many home cures for simple hiccups. The one that works best for me is this: Hold your breath as long as possible then take a sip of water and hold the breath again — until the hiccups disappear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Your advice to "Screaming Mother" was excellent. But I hoped you'd say something about the victims of "screaming mothers" — their helpless children.

My little brother and I were screamed at, slapped and knocked around almost every day of our lives. Dad would say, "Mother doesn't mean it. She's nervous."

My brother had an ulcer operation when he was 15 and died three months later. I had a nervous breakdown during my junior year in high school, and spent ten months in a private hospital.

I'm a senior in college now, working part-time to pay for psychiatric therapy. Mother still screams at me every day, and reminds me of how much she went through to raise me. Thank God I've learned to tune her out but it has taken years.

If my "Screaming Mother" had had some therapy perhaps she would not have made emotional cripples out of her children. — DELORES (which in Spanish means DAUGHTER OF SORROW.)

DEAR DELORES — If your therapy is a total success you will not only be able to "tune your mother out" but to forgive her. This poor woman, like thousands of other screaming mothers, is wretched and miserable. Temper your judgment with mercy.

DEAR ANN — Is it possible for a married man to keep in close touch with a former girl friend and still be faithful to his wife.

The woman is 31 and has had three unsuccessful marriages. After her last divorce she called Rod and said she had to talk to him. He hopped into the car and drove right over to her place. It was 2:30 a.m. before he got home.

This woman has a 10-year-old daughter who calls my husband "Uncle Rod." I was furious when I learned he took this child to the circus but was too busy to take his own three youngsters. (I found the ticket stubs in his pocket.)

I've put up with pal stuff for 13 years. Rod claims he is serving humanity. Advise, please. — I. M. FED.

DEAR FED — It's time the girl found another unmarried humanitarian to cry on. And it's time your husband grew up.

Would Like To Win Hubby's Cup

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) Mrs. Lindsay Eby looked down the ice and said "it's a grand game and I could go on for another 20 years."

She's 72.

"I'd be a fool to lie about my age because after all I do look it."

Mrs. Eby came to this northern British Columbia shipping town in 1917 from Stratford, Ont., and raised a family of eight.

She says she's really not a good curler and that the few trophies she possesses came because she linked up with a good rink.

Four of her seven children live here and curl. So do several grandchildren.

"My husband Lindsay was a real curling bug and kept right at it until he passed away." He was 78.

One competition Mrs. Eby would like to win is the one leading to the Lindsay Eby trophy.

"I've had many good years curling and it would be nice to win this one," she says. "You know, I can't go on forever."

Club Activities

CONTACT CLUB

Last Sunday the Contact Club of Christ Church attended Corporate Communion with approximately 20 in attendance. The Monday following was mainly a study group, a short business meeting preceded it. June Woodley, secretary, read the minutes and correspondence. Dorothy Sinclair gave out the head bands which are to be sewn into the confirmation veils.

The speakers for the evening were introduced by Edith Pringle the study book convener. Most interesting and informative talks were given by Audrey Crosby, Mary Fletcher and Florence Lennox who gave a talk on Junior Auxiliary, Girls' Auxiliary and Little Helpers. Each speaker explained the projects of the different groups, the age levels, and the part each plays in the church program. In conclusion president Shirley Harris thanked the speakers on behalf of the members. The girls were reminded that next week is a business meeting.

✦ DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES ✦

ROSLIN W.I.

ROSLIN — February W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Fargey with a good attendance of members and visitors. Mrs. J. Fargey, president, opened the meeting in the usual manner. Several items of business were discussed. A potluck supper was planned for the members and their families to be held in the parish hall February 22.

The topic, "Canadian Industries," was capably given by the convener Mrs. George Goodfellow. Each province was dealt with. Products were shown as well as a scrap book on the provinces.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Clayton Sullivan, who gave a most interesting and humorous talk on bees and their work. Many pictures added greatly to the talk as well as a delicacy made with honey. At the close Mrs. Sullivan held a draw, which was won by Mrs. Ken Sharpe.

Thanks of all present were expressed by Mrs. William Bates and a gift was presented. The motto, "Keep the Wheels of Industry Turning" was given by Mrs. William Bates, leader of the program. Several poems on Valtine Day were read.

Lunch was served by the hostess and assistants.

MARMORA W.I.

MARMORA — The Marmora Women's Institute entertained the Senior Citizens' group on Friday evening when 35 were present for the meeting held in Memorial Hall, which was suitably decorated for the occasion.

A fine program was enjoyed when readings were given by Mrs. Percy Carman, Miss Grace Warren, Mrs. Marie O'Neill and Mrs. George Empey. A skit "Wanted a Wife" with Mrs. Don Bailey playing the male part and 13 W.I. members taking part which proved hilarious. Mrs. O'Neill displayed a mystery guessing bag and a contest, "A Barrel of Fun" created much merriment.

Delicious refreshments were served and Mr. James Auckland expressed thanks to the W.I. and in concluding regretted that more of the men did not take advantage of the pleasant evening.

Continuing with the jellied dishes idea, which I started last week by giving two jellied fruit desserts, I have turned now to jellied salads.

I wanted to give you something that differs from the jellied moulds so commonly seen on potluck luncheon and supper tables. The one I am giving has a clear jelly and calls for canned grapefruit sections and thin unpared apple slices. It is very pretty and has a lively fresh flavor.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Broiled Beef Cakes; Horseradish; Oven Hash Brown Potatoes; Celery in Cheese Sauce; Carrot Curls and Radishes; Baked Strawberry Rhubarb; Warm Gingerbread; Coffee.

CLEAR GRAPEFRUIT AND APPLE MOULD (a jellied fruit salad.)

One 15-oz. can grapefruit sections (29c), 1 package (1 tablespoon plain gelatine, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 medium-large red dessert apple (Spy, McIntosh or Delicious).

Drain grapefruit sections thoroughly through sieve. Measure juice. I had 7/8 cup. (Note: If yours does not measure 7/8 cup make it up by adding water. OR if you have one cup of juice you can omit the water called for in the listed ingredients.) Add the lemon juice, sugar and gelatine. Stir over low heat just until gelatine and sugar are dissolved. Remove from heat. Add water. Pour ¼ cup of the gelatine mixture into a 3-cup mould to chill, until partially congealed — about consistency of liquid honey. (I wanted a tall mould. I spotted my 3-cup measuring cup which holds more than 3 cups above the 3-cup measure line, so I used it for my experiment and it was fine.) Hold remaining gelatine mixture at room temperature. Wash and quarter the apple. Do not pare it. Remove core and slice 3 of the quarters into ⅛" slices length wise. Put these in a small bowl and gently turn the grapefruit sections over them to prevent browning. When gelatine mixture is slightly congealed chop remaining 2 apple quarters (you do this at the last minute to prevent browning). As soon as the gelatine mixture is set just enough to support the fruit, arrange alternate pieces of grapefruit and apples in bottom. Then line sides with alternate pieces. Hold these down by piling on half of the chopped apple. Add some of remaining room temperature gelatine liquid until it comes ½" above surface of chopped apple. Arrange remaining grapefruit and apple sections facing in opposite directions to line upper sides of mould. Add remaining chopped apple to centre and top with any remaining grapefruit or apple sections and remaining gelatine liquid. This fills glass to measure to the brim. Chill until set. When turned out this mould is very pretty for the red edge on the unpared apple slices traces an attractive pattern on the surface. So be patient and artful when you arrange the grapefruit section and apple slices in the partially congealed jelly.

This was our salad course for a meal at which we had ham slice baked in milk, mashed turnip and green limas.

Student Taking Stiff Course

The 23 - year - old scholarship student from Calgary is working toward her master's degree at the University of Toronto Institute for Aerospace Studies.

Her research project involves energy transfer in low-density gases. The work applies in some degree to twenty and launching problems that face space scientists.

Miss Carr invaded the usually male field of aeronautical science and physics because she decided if it is the currently busy, expanding area of study. She had considered chemistry first.

She is the first Canadian to be awarded the $2,500 Amelia Earhart Scholarship, given by Zonta International. She was sponsored by the Zonta Club of Hamilton, in co-operation with the Toronto group, because she was an undergraduate at McMaster University in Hamilton. She was the only girl in her engineering physics course there.

She says she hopes to cap her masters with a Phd., then teach in university. With her research and courses, she is also a demonstrator in third-year engineering physics at the University of Toronto.

Plan Oratorical Contest for Juniors

CAMPBELLFORD — The Percy township ratepayers' association will stage its second annual junior public speaking contest in the Warkworth town-hall Friday night, when students from Grades 3, 4 and 5 in classes in township schools will compete for three trophies.

The junior contest is unique in Ontario, and Percy township is believed to be the only one present staging the contest for students below the grade 6 level.

Branch 380 of the Royal Canadian Legion in Warkworth has provided a trophy for the first place winner. The Warkworth service club donated a second place and the third place trophy has been provided by the Percy township Women's Institute.

In addition, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 380 of the Legion provides a small trophy which is retained by the first place winner. The other trophies are competed for annually.

The contest was held on an experimental basis for the first time last spring, and proved so successful and attracted so much interest that the ratepayers' association now plans to hold it annually.

Paris Model Likes Rockies

CALGARY (CP) — A Canadian-born Paris model home for a holiday says she would rather live near the Canadian Rockies than in the Swiss Alps.

Connie Fenton of Nanton, Alta., 50 miles southwest of here, is a freelance model. She left her Canadian home six years ago to live in Sweden, later moved to London, then settled in Paris.

She flies from Paris to most of the larger European cities on modelling assignments.

"One thing I like about freelancing is that you can work when you want to," she says.

"A model works harder in Paris than in London, and the pay is better, but the pay is not as good as in New York."

The model says "preparations begin in January for the spring (fashion) collections and you sometimes work from eight in the morning until 11 at night."

Hard work and long hours persuaded her to work primarily as a photographic model.

"There is no end of work in that field, but there is also no one season that is busier than the next."

Hemlines Remain Same But Necklines Swoop Low

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP)—Oh-la-la, those Paris necklines!

That was the comment buzzing through haute couture circles today as famous fashion houses released photographs of the spring and summer modes they displayed for buyers and fashion writers in showings that ended three weeks ago.

The hemlines remained about the same — generally covering the knees. But the necklines . . . well—

Necklines varied from a sexy low cut, a dizzy, dangerous dazing depth to scooped out fronts.

Suit necklines and blouses are built up, with suits featuring white linen collars and cuffs and blouses with large pussy cat or butterfly bows to short narrow ascots, worn off centre.

EVERYTHING FLUTTERS

If hemlines are at a status quo, generally covering the knees, interest is lent by pleating. Everything flutters, sways, swirls. Pleats are box, inverted, multiple, sunray, fan, accordion, or shutter. Kerchief points appear on dressy sheer fabrics. Scallops and flying pleated panels on daytime skirts and dresses.

Focus is on the waistline, which tends to drop to the hips either by a low belt, martingale or bows, or a fool-the-eye pointed yoke. Cardin fooled everyone by filling in a king-sized V-neck with flesh-colored chiffon. Esterel uses a white braid in a long V dropped to hipline level.

The spring mood is relaxed for daytime, with glamor saved for after dark.

FOCUS ON SHOULDERS

Focus too is on shoulders. They are accented, sometimes built out or slightly puffed.

Texture interest this season shares honors with Roman and Gypsy bayadere stripes used vertically or horizontally. Vying with these new stripes are sensational plaids, hound's tooth and crow foot tweeds, all in king-size patterns.

Models were romantic or sophisticated hairdos, colorful makeup, new tyrolean cut stone jewelry, flower boutonnieres and feather fans.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

TIPS FOR JOB HUNTERS

Whether you're looking for a summer job or starting out on a full-fledged career, the first interview usually is a pretty frightening proposition.

Sometimes an applicant tries so hard to create an impression that she ends up overstating her case, and seems to be brash and unbearably self-confident. Another might be so overwhelmed that she can barely express herself and the interviewer gets a picture of someone who is capable only of wringing her handkerchief.

Neither impression, of course, is accurate or anywhere near it. Actually the proper "image" lies somewhere in the middle of the two extremes and here are a few tips on how to achieve it:

First, there's the matter of appearance. An interviewer can tell a great deal about a person, just by the way she's dressed and groomed. A suit or a simple tailored dress in a recommended attire. Anything that smacks of the cocktail hour hardly inspires confidence. A neat hat and gloves are a must. The chosen outfit may be accented by a tasteful pin, a string of pearls or earrings. Sparklers are out, and so are dangling earrings and any sort of bracelet festooned with pendants or charms that make a racket whenever you move your arms.

Make-up should also be on the quiet side. Eye make-up may be worn if you're used to it, but it shouldn't be overemphasized or so dramatic it's distracting. Lipstick should be in a color that harmonizes with your costume. Generally, make - up should be subtle — so the interviewer won't get the idea you might spend hours in the ladies' lounge retouching and repairing it.

CREDENTIALS

Then there's the matter of credentials. Any application should be filled out neatly and completely when you enter the interviewer's office. It's also helpful — and looks professional — if you have a resume ready, giving a brief sketch of your educational background, any experience you might have had relating to the job you're applying for, and a list of personal and business references.

As far as the interview itself, is concerned, point one is to be on time. When you're shown into the interviewer's inner sanctum, shake hands if he offers to do so and then take the seat indicated. Present your credentials and give him a few minutes to scan them. Keep your handbag on your lap. Remove your gloves and put them on top of it. Never put your bag, your portfolio or anything else on the interviewer's desk.

Answer questions directly and keep to the point. Avoid being long-winded when reciting your capabilities and don't get involved in time-consuming stories that have little bearing on the job in question. Speak distinctly but easily, and choose your words carefully.

Don't use slang, and try to avoid trite expressions. Remember that the interviewer is considering not only his own job relating to the job you're giving thought to the type of employee you would make for the firm if you were hired.

When the interview is over, be sure to thank the interviewer for seeing you. If he says he'll get in touch, avoid phoning every hour to see if you got the job. It's also a gracious gesture to send him a thank-you note immediately after the interview, expressing your appreciation for the time, interest and courtesy he has extended to you. It adds the final well-bred touch to your "image."

Mr. Blashy's room won the room count for the third time and received a film strip.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. John King, a field officer with the Moira Conservation Authority was guest speaker and was introduced by Principal K. Bird. In his introductory remarks Mr. King explained how the water level affected the community, and with films and slides he showed how a drop in the water table caused wells to go dry, and disease to be transmitted by its effect on swimming areas.

A question and answer period followed and it was decided as a result of the discussion that industry and political power must bear some of the responsibility for water conservation.

Borneo Setting for Jungle Ambushes, Sudden Death And Fanatic Communism

By CONRAD FINK

JESSELTON, Malaysia (AP) nother "nasty little guerrilla ar" is brewing in Southeast sia. If it boils over, it could come a second Viet Nam.

This time the island of Borneo is the setting for jungle mbushes, sudden death, and natic communism. More than wo-thirds of the huge island belongs to Indonesia.

The fighting and diplomatic maneuvering pit the fourmonth-old Malaysian federation of its British protectors gainst three foes: Indonesia, a ard-bitten internal Communist nderground, and an ostensibly nationalistic "people's rebellion" ont."

President Johnson sent Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy Southeast Asia in January counsel mediation, and units the U.S. 7th Fleet have aved the flag in the Indian ocean, which Indonesia considers home waters.

Further U.S. concern is probble because Malaysia's foes re attacking the federation at its weakest point the former ritish Borneo territories now alled Sabah and Sarawak. ore than 100 guerrillas have been killed or captured in these two states, which make up the northern one-third of the island. Malaya and Singapore, ruling states in the federation, have not been touched militarily but are suffering from economic offensive launched by Indonesia.

BRITAIN HARD-PRESSED

Britain, already heavily committed around the world, is hard-pressed to honor its agreement to defend its former colonies.

Caught in the middle but apparently oblivious to the trouble is the sultanate of Brunei. This oil British protectorate, lashing amid rich oilfields on Borneo's northwest coast, survived one revolution in 1962 but appears headed for deeper involvement.

Some of Britain's best anti-guerrilla strategists, men who fought in the nine-year war against Malaya's Chinese Communists, are here.

Helicopters rush troops through the seacoast mist and wer green - blanketed mountains, chasing the elusive enemy. Other Britons wait out ne weeks and months in dusty, in-baked outposts, standing to dusk every day to ward off sible attack.

ECONOMIC DISRUPTION

Indonesia's President Sukarno, eeing Malaysia as a threat to a hegemony in Southeast Asia, as sworn to crush the Infant deration.

Disruption of Borneo's economy has been a prime mission of many guerrilla bands, pecially in the north. Captured documents show their mission was shooting up lumber arts and power stations, and ining rubber and copra plantations, operated mostly by Britsts.

The guerrillas are amazingly ell equipped. Captured equipment includes British and Belgian weapons and, unfortunately e the U.S. image among British troops, a large amount of merican field gear. Also found the American-made Armalite rifle, a weapon with fabled illing power.

The Armalite, a .223-calibre eapon with high muzzle velocity, is governmental issue for U.S. troops in South Viet Nam.

owever, some of Sukarno's ble jungle-cap envy it. The merican explanation is that karno got the Armalite rough private channels.

MERICAN PLANES

American-made B-25 two-engine Mitchell bombers and P-51 ustang fighters, both Second orld War types, are used by e Indonesian air force to roar ver Kuching and British outposts in what appears to be a ar of nerves.

British officials, to prevent "escalation" of the conflict, order their troops not to fire.

With this air force, a population of 100,000,000, and an estimated armed strength of 240,000 men, Sukarno heavily outguns the Britions.

Britain's strength in Borneo is classified but probably isn't more than 6,000 troops. Its air force consists of helicopters, transports and observation planes. Malaysia, a country of 10,000,000 has only green troops. They have done poorly against the guerrillas and are not highly regarded by the British.

Some British interpreted Sukarno's willingness to meet Attorney - General Kennedy as proof Indonesian guerrilla are flagging. Some officials said Sukarno hopes the British can be bluffed out, as the Dutch were from West New Guinea in May, 1963.

Development

stepped up attacks in the north and north-central sectors in a fresh, bold attempt to widen Communist control in that little kingdom.

3. In South Viet Nam, the Communist Viet Cong has intensified terrorist activity while the country is still rebounding from its second coup d'etat in three months. American troops have become the target of bombs.

4. On the Southeast Asian rim, the fledgling Malaysia federation faces the opposition of two of its biggest neighbors, Indonesia and The Philippines.

5. In Indonesia itself, internal troubles—fanned by a big, Chinese-leaning Communist party and aggravated by widespread starvation—have given rise to speculation about a Communist takeover.

6. Thailand is trying to act as a mediator in the Malaysia crisis but has the Laos problem to worry about, too. It shares a long border with the troubled country. And Cambodia's latest threats are not helping set Thai minds at rest.

FRANCE RETURNS

France disengaged itself from Southeast Asia after the 1954 Geneva conference cut French Indochina loose. Now it is bidding for a return in a big brother role.

President de Gaulle has suggested a French-backed policy of neutralization, based on recognition of Communist China.

The immediate effect has been to sharpen the dividing line in part of the world where no more divisions are needed.

Predictably, the de Gaulle plan has been challenged by staunchly pro - Western Thailand, South Viet Nam and The Philippines.

Malaysia, with a sizable Chinese population that likes to straddle the fence on the Peking vs. Nationalist China issue, has officially reacted with studied silence.

The non-aligned bloc of Indonesia, Laos, Cambodia and Burma has welcomed de Gaulle's recognition of Peking.

WOMAN REPORTER DIES

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Marion Heath Freeman, 83, reputed to be Chicago's first newspaper woman, died Saturday. Mrs. Freeman started her career with the City Press Association in 1895. Her start came one day when she saw two men fall from a scaffold. She marched into the office of the City Press Association, wrote the story and handed it to an editor. She was hired on the spot.

are commanded by a man using the name "Akritas" (frontiersman). He is believed to be Interior Minister Polyeargos Georgadjis, a 34-year-old former underground fighter.

About 4,000 members of EOKA, the Greek-Cypriot underground in pre - independence days, were reported organized in EOKA "fighters clubs" throughout the island.

TURKEY ARMING

Turkish - Cypriot preparations are being run by the TMT, a Turkish underground body, directed by an anonymous Turkish professional man said to rank high in the island's Turkish-Cypriot leadership.

The crisis on the island may force a shutdown of the American-owned Cyprus Mines Corporation, the largest single business on Cyprus and a major contributor to the little republic's foreign exchange reserve.

The firm's copper mines have been operating far below capacity since fighting between Turkish and Greek Cypriots erupted Dec. 23. Only about 400 of the company's 2,400 employees have been reporting for work, which mostly consists of shipping from the mines' stockpiles and making repairs.

Only Greek-Cypriots are working the mines at present.

"Unless we can get our employees back to work we probably will have to suspend all operations," said John D. Burgess, 50, of San Francisco, resident director.

Trap

The heroin was smuggled into Canada from the Middle East via France. The haul was one of the largest ever of its type—more than 124 pounds.

WORKED OUT PLAN

The RCMP found the heroin in four suitcases in lockers in a Montreal railway station but, instead of arresting the man who checked them, worked out this strategem:

They replaced all but two pounds of the narcotics with flour, leaving the two pounds as additional evidence if the trail led to associates of the man.

They said the man took the suitcases to New York, where they were found in Pennsylvania Station lockers, still with the two pounds of heroin. Tracing of his contacts here led to his arrest and that of the two other men.

The arrested men, charged with conspiring to violate United States narcotics laws, appeared in federal court early Saturday and were ordered held in $100,000 bail each pending a hearing.

The Justice department identified them as Pardo-Bolland, 55, Juan Aritzi, about 60, employed by the Uruguyan foreign ministry in Montevideo, Uruguay (a Uruguayan government representative said Aritzi had resigned); Rene Bruchon, 50, a Frenchman from Marseilles, who was deported from the United States in 1949.

A representative of the Uruguayan government said Aritzi had resigned as a ministry employee and had been in Toronto as a private citizen.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Harlo

35 Years of Daily Gambling Lost Man $500,000, Wife

By DAVID MAZZARELLA

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mr. I. sat in a movie theatre, engrossed in the film. The excitement grew as the scene shifted to a gambling casino. And Mr. I squirmed, tortured.

A compulsive gambler, he couldn't bear to see gambling without getting into the action. He quickly left the movie.

Nervously puffing a cigar, sad-eyed and quiet, he talks about the movie as another milestone in his fight with an incurable disease.

"As I watched that movie," he says, "I said to myself, 'why can't I be there now?'

"A couple of years ago, I would have hopped a plane to Las Vegas. But now I weed it out. All I need is one slip, just one bet, and I could be worse off than before."

In 35 years of daily gambling, Mr. I.—who is 55—lost $500,000, a business and his wife. The only thing he saved was sleeping pills for the day he'd hit rock-bottom and give up completely.

But now he is in Gamblers Anonymous, a group similar to Alcoholics Anonymous, which seeks to keep men from gambling a day at a time. Mr. I. hasn't gambled for more than 500 days, his wife is back with him and he has a steady job. He's slowly paying off $75,000 he still owes from his gambling days, giving one-third of his $15,000-a-year income as an investment adviser to his creditors. About $55,000 is owed family members who aren't being paid yet.

INCURABLE DISEASE

"You see, I know gamblig is an incurable disease, he says. All I can do is arrest the sickness. I fight it day by day. When I get up in the morning, I tell myself I'm not going to make a bet that day."

Gamblers Anonymous, which began in Los Angeles seven years ago, telps its members they have this incurable disease.

Chapters around the country hold weekly meetings at which members stand up and talk about the gambling experiences.

Each man identifies himself by first name only and says "I am a compulsive gambler."

There was Seymour, who remembered one dismal day in a Miami hotel room, broke and "on the lam." He had stolen furs and jewels, sold them and blew the money on dog races. He took an "inventory" of himself and came to the conclusion, "I'm a bum."

There was Harold, who, after cashing bad cheques over one weekend, found himself driving on a bridge "looking for an exit in the middle of it."

There was the cop who obtained loans from persons to whom he had issued traffic summonses.

Why does a man gamble compulsively?

Some point to deep psychological reasons—neglect in childhood, a subconscious desire to lose.

There have been numerous studies of the problem. One was conducted by Dr. Donald T. Lewis, chairman of the Rutgers University psychology department. He took three groups—college students, children and rats—and broke each into three small divisions.

GAMES CONTROLLED

He set up controlled games of chance for each group, and provided rewards.

The college students played slow machines, the children guessed which buttons to press for a toy, and the rats had to run down a certain path to get food.

One division in each group was made to win all the time, another to win part of the time and the third to lose all the time.

At a given point, all rewards were stopped. The idea was to see which division—the constant losers, the constant winners or those who won and lost—would quit playing first.

Dr. Lewis says he found that among all the students, children and rats, the results were constant: Those who won less played the longest after the rewards stopped coming.

He says other psychologists have tried other experiments.

The results are always the same, Dr. Lewis says. The more they lose, the more they play.

Girl With Telephone Mania Inconsiderate, Thoughtless

DEAR DORIS — The minute my niece gets inside the door she's on her way to my telephone. I can't help being annoyed at the habit, which seems to me to be so rude, when she is really supposed to be visiting me.

You see, she doesn't have to pay a toll charge to call her friends from my house, which she does at home. I wouldn't mind her using my phone, but somehow the way she does it, and stays on the line so long, makes me feel like a mere convenience. What do you think? AUNTIE

DORIS CLARK

DEAR AUNTIE — She'd be shocked to know how you feel. I agree it is rude for a visitor to dash to the phone, as if present company wasn't present.

Tell her what you've told me. It may save similar thoughtlessness on her part to someone less forgiving!

DEAR DORIS — I am very small in size and have a hard time getting clothes to fit me. And it's hard to get the colors to suit me. Doris, I am 41, very thin face, weigh 95 pounds. So if you could help me with these problems I would be very thankful. —TINY.

DEAR TINY — You add height with high heels; weight and curves with falsies, full skirts, neat waistlines. Give up on finding ready-mades and look for the colors and materials you'd like to wear. Then hunt until you find the dressmaker who will take your figure problems seriously.

Central Ontario Secondary School Association championships take front and centre on the campus athletic stage here in the next few weeks.

Athletic squads wearing the togas of the Quinte District's wrestling and basketball championships will go to court and mat against the best other districts of COSSA can produce.

The cream of the non-cluttier's cagers will be here on March 7th in quest of senior and junior titles. The "Beauties of The Bassics" also will be in the city vieing for the Class "A" senior and junior championships. The young ladies will do battle at Moira Secondary School gymnasium.

While no definite representatives have been named from city schools, it looks like unbeaten Belleville Collegiate Institute and Moira S.S. in the senior boys' tourney. The BCI squad has piled and imposing seasonal record and can be counted upon as an entry.

And no squads have yet been named in the girls' ranks. I am told there will be a tournament played to decide the two teams from the city.

As the host district the Quinte branch of the association will enter two teams in both senior and junior boys' and girls' competitions.

Upswing interest in wrestling over the past year or so has resulted in keen rivalry among secondary schools of the city, district and area. Next Saturday Moira Secondary School will host the first COSSA championship tournament held in the city.

One of the prime movers in the student popularity wrestling contests here is Mr. David Bell, physical education director at Moira. Mr. Bell's interest and activities have raised the status of the sport to a high level here and in the district.

He has trained and developed a fine "stable" of young matmen and is given a better than even chance to win the laurels. Campbellford High School also has an outstanding squad of wrestlers and along with Moira should give Anderson Street Collegiate a battle, last year's COSSA champions a run for the mat roses.

Popularity of the sport has reached the point where some thirteen schools of COSSA have placed it on the athletic agenda. Representatives of these schools will be here quoting championship honors in both individual and team classifications.

Student interest, I am told, is quite keen and the young mat warriors have their quota of personal fans while the student body naturally pulls for the school teams as a whole.

The COSSA basketball and wrestling championship tournaments are not "closed school circuits." The general public is cordially invited to attend and I'm sure the young athletes, both boys and girls, would greatly appreciate the patronage of sportsmen outside school circles.

Drop around to Moira Secondary School gymnasium on Saturday and see these clean-cut young athletes in competitive action. There are a dozen or so classes I'm told, ranging from the "flyweights" to the "heavies" and all will be seeking individual glory as well as the alma mater prestige that goes with a championship.

Leafs Give Duff, Nevin In Package Deal ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Seiling Bait For Bathgate, McKenney

By DAVE BETTS

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs bought a big hunk of the present during the weekend by selling bits of the future.

Stafford Smythe, president of the National Hockey League club, said it was junior hockey league bait that snared superstar Andy Bathgate from New York Rangers.

After three years of trying to entice the talented right winger away from New York with big league offers, the Leafs finally clinched one of the biggest trades in years by agreeing to part with a young junior star.

Smythe said in an interview the Rangers at least agreed to relinquish their most prolific point-getter when Toronto gave up Rod Seiling, a young, strong two - way man with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

The package deal sent Don McKenney, a 29-year-old centre and left winger, to Toronto with his 31-year-old Bathgate in exchange for wingers Dick Duff and Bob Nevin of the parent Leafs, defenceman Arnie Brown of Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, centre Bill Collins of Hamilton Tigers of the Western Hockey League and—perhaps most important—Seiling.

"It was Seiling that did it for us," Smythe said. "They (the Rangers) wouldn't even talk about Bathgate if we weren't willing to give up Seiling."

PLAYED IN OLYMPICS

The 19-year-old Seiling, a defenceman who takes turns up front, played with Rev. David Bauer's Olympic team that finished fourth this winter at Innsbruck, Austria.

On the basis of play Saturday night when the Leafs overpowered the Rangers here 5-2, it would appear New York wound up on the short end of the stick.

Bathgate, who had scored 272 goals in 12 seasons with the Rangers, fitted in on Toronto's first line as a knife fits in butter. He teamed up with centre Red Kelly and left winger Frank Mahovlich to dazzle his old team mates, and he set up Kelly perfectly for Toronto's fifth goal.

McKenney, a 10-year NHL man traded by Boston Bruins last season for Dean Prentice, was even more devastating to his former New York compatriots. He scored his 10th goal of the season and assisted on another.

Duff and Nevin, on the other hand, looked even more inept than they had during their recent slump with the Leafs.

DUFF LOOKS BAD

The 28-year-old Duff, one of the favorites with Leaf fans since he graduated from St. Michael's College in the 1954-55 season, looked uncomfortable and out of place wearing Bathgate's old sweater with the No. 9 and the big C signifying captaincy. He looked anything but a captain, and during parts of the third period he was replaced on the newly - formed line with Nevin and centre Earl Ingarfield.

Smythe was pleased after the game.

"We traded for the present," he said, "because the present is what's always with us."

The Leaf brass knows the deal could come back to haunt the cavernous confines of Maple Leaf Gardens in years to come. Neither McKenney nor Bathgate is young by professional hockey standards, and Bathgate has been bothered for years by knee trouble which threatens to sweep him off the ice at any time.

If Brown, Seiling and Collins all become major league regulars, and if the play of Nevin and Duff improves even by a small percentage, the Leaf hierarchy will have to bear the brarings of irate fans and suffer the vitriol hurled by an unsympathetic press.

But now the third-place Leafs need scoring power to propel them to their third straight Stanley Cup, and the faltering fifth-place Rangers have nothing more to lose this season.

Bathgate, who won the Hart Trophy in 1958-59 as the most valuable player to play team and who scored more than 20 goals in the last seven seasons, is counted on to give Toronto the punch it will need against Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks in the finals.

The six-foot 180-pound native of Winnipeg now is in fourth place in the league scoring race. Counting his Saturday night assist, he has 16 goals and 44 helpers for 60 points.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rod Gilbert was the big producer in the weekend doings of the National Hockey League.

He figured somewhere in the play leading up to four of the five goals counted by his New York Rangers.

The four assists gave him 36 for the season and left him in a 6-point tie for first place with his linemate Phil Goyette who scored once and collected a pair of assists.

The top goal-getter, Mikita's teammate Bobby Hull, counted goal No. 36 and picked up an assist for 72 points.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau, in third spot, also was good for a goal and assist. He has 69 points.

Andy Bathgate, with Toronto now, counted a pair of assists in fourth and Chicago's Kenny Wharram clicked for his 33rd goal in fifth.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Mikita, Chicago	33	42	75
Hull, Chicago	36	36	72
Beliveau, Montreal	23	46	69
Bathgate, Toronto	16	45	61
Wharram, Chicago	33	28	60
Gilbert, New York	21	36	57
Goyette, New York	21	36	57

Knudson Wins At Caracas

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A steady pulling effort when the rest of his game gave way has pulled George Knudson of Toronto within 2½ points of veteran Art Wall for the over-all lead on the Caribbean golf tour.

Knudson, 26, the defending Caribbean champion went to a 74 on the final round of the Caracas Open Sunday, but still won it with a 277, three strokes up on Ramon Sota of Spain.

That helped him close up on Wall, at 281. The tour now moves to Bogota, Colombia, for its third stop.

Only Knudson's brilliant putting nailed him out on the final round. He had 18 two-putt greens "easily the best I've ever done," he said. The victory was worth $1,400.

Following Wall were Jim Ferree with a 72 for 282, Al Besselink with a 283 and Retief Waltman of South Africa and Wes Ellis Jr., each with a 284.

Well down the list, in a three-way tie at 292, were Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg and Murray Tucker of Toronto. Homenuik had a 73 for his final round to Tucker's 71 after both had soared to 77s Saturday.

STAYS IN SWEDEN

GOTEBORG (AP) — Raymond Patterson, younger brother of former heavyweight champion Floyd, has decided to settle in Sweden, press reports said Saturday. Raymond turned pro after 25 amateur matches with 24 wins and has so far fought five pro matches with one defeat.

Bruins Dump Knights 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It will take a lot of hard luck to keep Omaha Knights from clinching the Central Professional Hockey League pennant but the fourth-place Minneapolis Bruins contributed their share by dumping the league leading Knights 3-1 at Minneapolis Sunday night.

Knights defeated St. Paul Rangers 3-1 at Omaha Saturday to increase their lead to 9 points over the second - place St. Louis Braves and come within six points of ensuring a first-place finish in the 72-game schedule.

In Saturday's game, Paul Andrew got St. Paul's lone tally. Gary Peters, Noel Picard and Claude Larose counted for Omaha.

Minneapolis goalkeeper Andre Gill collected an assist as Bruins upset the Knights Sunday. Both teams were playing two men short when Gill passed the puck to the blueline and Jean-not Gilbert carried it the rest of the way to score.

Wayne Maxner and Pete Panagakos got the others for the Bruins. Bill McCreary was the lone Omaha marksman.

General Public Agrees

'Between One And Three'-Liston

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—"Between one and three, you'll be on the way home," a confident but edgy Sonny Liston predicted today after finishing training for his Tuesday night's heavyweight title defence against the brash and boastful Cassius Clay.

"I'll just hit him hard enough to put him away," the muscled, awesome - looking champion added after a fast-paced, 45-minute final workout, "and that should be soon. I have never been sharper for a fight in my life."

If Liston's nerve-jarring words had any effect on the rival camp, Clay and his handlers were doing a superb job of looking unimpressed.

"I'll outbox him in seven rounds and knock him out in the eight," said Clay, the poem-spouting Louisville Lip whose fast fists and glib tongue have brought him to the threshold of boxing's richest pelts.

The 22-year-old, handome descendant of a Kentucky slave, completed his training routine Saturday, a day earlier than the champion, and confined himself Sunday to a leisurely stroll over the Miami Beach front.

"This kid is completely unafraid," Angelo Dundee, Clay's trainer, said of Clay. "He is so anxious to get at Liston, he is about to jump out of his skin. And he is supremely sure of himself. In this one thing, I assure you, he's not pulling a bluff.

Unfortunately, Dundee's opinion is not shared by the boxing public and, as a result, the fight scheduled for 10 p.m. EST, at the modernistic pink Convention Hall looms as a certain financial flop at the gate.

Bill MacDonald, the million-aire promoter who had to guarantee $625,000 for the event, acknowledged that so far sales had amounted to only $300,000 and that a late rush would be necessary to meet the $800,000 "nut."

Fans apparently see little sense in paying high prices for seats behind the ringside at a fight that the experts figure may last no more than a round —three to five at the most. Liston needed only a total of six minutes and 14 seconds to kayo Floyd Patterson twice and Albert Westphal.

Liston has been established a 7-to-1 favorite in the betting with even money that Clay doesn't answer the bell for the sixth.

"Actually there is little betting on the fight," a Las Vegas betting representative said. "What there is deals with the round that the fight will end, and not on the outcome of the fight itself."

The fight probably will be saved financially—for all except MacDonald and his associates—by the closed network television which is expected to lure 1,103,451 persons to 271 centres for a take of $4,000,000 plus.

Liston's pay probably will amount to $1,500,000 and Clay's to $600,000—the latter not bad for a young fighter who was an amateur and United States Olympic champion at Rome in 1960.

"This man has never been in finer physical shape—he is ready," said Liston's 245-pound trainer, Willie Redlich. "He's also getting mean and edgy, and that means he's ready for the fight.

Liston was sour and cryptic at his final press conference but he injected moments of high humor. He is as quick with the quip as with the jab.

A reporter asked him if he thought he had improved in the last three years.

"What do you think?" Liston shot back.

"Well, we haven't seen much of you," the reporter replied, referring to the quick knockouts.

"That's why I think I've improved," the champion retorted.

Hawks, Habs Keep Pace; Leafs Win 2

Montreal Two-In-Hand

It was billed as the push-off point for the stretch drive.

In a whirl of devilish third-period skating, Montreal Canadiens upended Chicago Black Hawks 3 - 1 Saturday night, spurring ahead in their hustling bid for the National Hockey League lead.

So what happens?

The Hawks bounce back with a 3-0 win over Boston Sunday night while the Habs bow 3-2 to Detroit Red Wings and things are all knotted up once again at the head of the standings.

But the Canadiens still have two big games in hand over Chicago and the two teams clash twice more before the windup of the schedule.

LEAFS WIN TWO

In other weekend play, Toronto Maple Leafs swept a home-and-home set with New York Rangers in the only all-seven-player swap between the Clubs with Andy Bathgate as a focal figure.

The Leafs shaded the Rangers 4-3 in New York Sunday night on Dave Keon's second goal of the game—with 28 seconds to play—after trimming the New Yorkers 5-3 in Toronto Saturday night.

A 7-3 win by the Leafs over the Bruins in a Saturday afternoon game at Detroit rounded out the weekend schedule.

Glenn Hall turned in a 22-stop performance before a crowd of 15,271 at Chicago, pulling the Hawks back even with Montreal at 73 points apiece. It was the sixth shutout of the campaign, tying him for the league lead in that department with Boston's Eddie Johnston.

Bobby Hull and Chico Maki were the Chicago scorers. It was goal No. 36 of the season for Hull and came while he was killing off a penalty to his defence mate Wayne Hillman. Hall drew an assist on the 30-footer that whizzed by Johnston.

Before 14,328 at Detroit meanwhile, the Red Wings built up a 2-0 lead on goals by Irv Spencer, Pit Martin and Larry Jeffrey, all scoreless for two weeks or more.

The Canadiens came back with goals by Bernie Geoffrion and Ralph Backstrom late in the game.

BOOKER NOW THIRD

It was Geoffrion's 16th of the season and the 366th of his NHL career, pushing him ahead of Lindsay's lifetime total and leaving him shy of only Gordie Howe and Maurice Richard in scheduled-play scoring.

Saturday night before 15,326 fans the Canadiens rode a 22-shot attack in the third period to three goals and the win after giving a lethargic performance in the opening 40 minutes.

Dave Balon, Claude Provost and Jean Beliveau were the producers. Kenny Wharram got his 32nd of the season for the Hawks, counting in the opening period on a power-play.

Referee Frank Udvari seemed to find some kind of transgression every time two players brushed each other at the outset and the first period was studded with 15 minor penalties.

Keon's pair of goals before 15,838 fans in New York wrapped up a big weekend for Toronto and the third - place Leafs were able to remain four points ahead of the Red Wings.

Bathgate, traded to Toronto with Don McKenney in exchange for Dick Duff, Bob Nevin and three minor leaguers, picked up an assist in each game.

IMPRESSIVE DEBUT

But his work was overshadowed by McKenney who scored in each. Nevin meanwhile found the mark once.

Ron Stewart was Toronto's other goal-getter Sunday night while Phil Goyette and defenceman Ron Ingram clicked for New York along with Nevin.

In Toronto Saturday night, before a crowd of 14,220, Stewart scored twice for the Leafs and they got other goals from George Armstrong and Red Kelly along with McKenney.

Gordie Howe scored two before a hometown crowd of 12,935 Saturday afternoon in Detroit, sandwiching a goal by teammate Norm Ullman. Dean Prentice and Teddy Green were the Boston scorers.

Peewees Lose Heartbreaker; Scores Close

Three Minor Teams Ousted By Kingston

Belleville Peewees, Bantams and Midgets bowed out of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns in Kingston on Saturday when all three clubs dropped hard-fought decisions to the Limestoners.

MacCormack's Peewees, the only Quinte club with a lead going into the second game of their goals-to-count series lost a heart-breaking 6-5 decision. Kingston won the series by a 10-8 total.

Belleville Oddfellows Bantams, trailing 7-3 before Saturday's game started, held Kingston to a pair of third-period markers but could not score themselves while losing the nod 2-0 and 9-2 on the series.

Belleville Midgets absorbed a 6-3 defeat Saturday, a much improved performance over the first game here, but lost the series 12-2.

PEEWEE

Kingston, down 5-4 from the first game, outscored Belleville 2-1 each period to end the MacCormack's hopes for a long trip down the playdown trail.

MacCormack's led the round by two goals at one point, opening the scoring in Saturday's tilt on Dick Fobert's goal, aided by Dennis MacCormack and Darryl Demers at 3:45. C. Loudoul came back with two Kingston goals at 7.10 and 18.12 to put his club ahead in the game and even on the series.

A. Hartley fired two more Kingston markers early in the middle session for an 8-6 lead in the series. Terry Meagher got one back for Belleville in the period's final minute, assisted by Steve Moore.

The two evenly-matched clubs continued the tight battle in the third. Hartley fired his third goal at 3.00 and the score stayed that way until 18.00 when Bill Storms scored for Belleville, Meagher helping, to pull his club to within one goal of tying the series. J. Lollar sewed up the Kingston win by ending the scoring at 19.24.

There were two minor penalties in the game, one per side.

BANTAM

The Oddfellows gave it a real game try in an attempt to overcome their 5-goal deficit, but to no avail. They held Kingston off the score sheet for two full periods but could not find the net at the other end of the rink.

Kingston finally broke through to sink the clinchers in the final period.

L. Brook made it 1-0 and 8-3 in the series at 7.37 of the third. He was assisted by L. Brennan.

D. Gilmour fired Kingston's other marker at 14-10, aided by Brook, as the Belleville boys threw caution to the wind in an attempt to score.

There were four minor penalties called in the contest with Kingston getting three of them, Belleville was unable to take advantage.

MIDGET

The Midget All-Stars, despite a 12-0 deficit, battled the Kingston boys to score a scoreless first period and held them 2-2-in the second. Four Kingston goals in the third produced Kingston's victory.

John Smith and Steve Milne triggered the Belleville goals with Steve White earning an assist.

J. McKay and M. Flannigan led Kingston's attack with two goals apiece. S. Nicholson and A. Brock tallied the other markers.

Belleville's final three goals were scored in the game's final seven minutes as the batting Midgets were far from disgraced. The games were the closest played between Kingston and Belleville minor teams on Kingston ice in some years.

Kingston drew five penalties and Belleville three in the Midget game, as all teams involved stuck to hockey.

Hotspurs Defeat Arsenal 3-1

LONDON (Reuters) Tottenham Hotspur strengthened its grip on the first division leadership by beating Arsenal 3-1 before a capacity crowd of 60,000 in Saturday's English League program.

Leading the Spurs attack against his former team-mates was big Laurie Brown, signed only Friday from Arsenal for £40,000 ($120,000).

Brown failed to score but made a satisfactory debut for his new club after hitting the post with a good shot early in the game.

Brown has been out of first division soccer since the beginning of December when he was dropped by Arsenal. He was put on the transfer list after disappearing for a week following the decision to drop him.

Arsenal scored first through inside-right Geoff Strong. Spurs equalized before the half on a penalty by Jimmy Greaves. Cliff Jones scored twice for Spurs in the second half.

Spurs' win followed two defeats and a draw in their last three games. They now lead the division with 42 points. There is a hectic scramble behind them. Liverpool has 39 points and Everton, Blackburn and Manchester United 38.

West Ham's Johnny Byrne scored three goals in a 4-3 victory over Sheffield Wednesday.

Manchester United came right into the championship pictures with their 3-1 away victory over Blackburn, which was on its own in second place behind Spurs before the game. Denis Law hit two second-half goals for Manchester.

Liverpool Saturday scored a 3-1 home win over lowly Birmingham City. Birmingham seemed likely to steal a tie until Ian St. John cracked in Liverpool's winner.

Ipswich, champions in their first Law hit two second-half goals for Manchester. season two years ago, now are almost doomed to relegation to the second division.

Ipswich, which has won only four of its 30 matches, lost 4-0 to Chelsea.

In the second division, Sunderland increased its lead to two points by beating Derby County 3-0. Sunderland is chasing a double of the second division championship and the Football Association cup. They are already through to the cup quarter-finals.

Leeds United, Sunderland's nearest rivals, dropped a point in a 1-1 home tie with Huddersfield, while third placed Preston triumphed 4-0 over Swindon.

Crystal Palace, with a 1-0 win over London rivals Millwall, moved to within one point of third placed Leeds. Coventry held to a 1-1 tie away to Wrexham.

In Scotland, Rangers moved a step nearer a repeat of last season's championship win by beating Dundee 3-1 at Dens Park. Rangers, with 41 points, are two points clear of Kilmarnock, Hearts' chief rivals, dropped a point in a 1-1 away tie with Hearts. A goal by Hearts' centre - forward Tommy White three minutes before time-up prevented Kilmarnock from winning a home game.

East Stirling, the club which has all its players open to transfer because of financial difficulties, almost brought off an upset win over Partick Thistle. East Stirling led 2-1 at the half, but were pegged in three minutes gave Partick victory.

Finley Does About-Face

A's Stay In Kansas City

LA PORTE, Ind. (AP) — Charles O. Finley did an about-face Sunday night and decided to accept a four-year lease to have his Athletics play in Kansas City. But his battle with the American League appeared a long way from being settled.

Finley's decision from his La Porte home came 48 hours after the league had voted 9 to 1 to take steps to expel the stormy owner of the Kansas City baseball club.

American League President Joe Cronin was in the process of calling a meeting to Finley's ouster and distranchisement when Finley came up with his surprise acceptance.

Following Friday's vote against him, Finley, through his counsel, Louis Nizer, said he would make no further move until after the next league meeting which now becomes unnecessary.

MAY SUE LEAGUE

However, the Associated Press previously quoted a reliable source that Nizer had advised Finley to let himself be forced into accepting a contract, then sue the league called it "arbitrary and reasonable," and then sue the league because he was forced to sign it under duress.

Finley made the following statement in accepting the four-year contract instead of the two-year lease he had demanded.

"I have continuously stated the Athletics will open the 1964 season under the ownership of Charles O. Finley. The American League voted 9 to 1 last Friday in Boston that the Kansas City franchise proposal of four years was fair. As a result of the meeting, I had no alternative but to accept immediately or be thrown out of baseball. Since I have such great love for the game, my decision was easily made."

Finley then said: "I personally feel secure the Kansas City fans that we will do everything within our power to earn their support. Their support is needed and will be appreciated." The Athletics finished in eighth place last season.

Cournoyer Gets No 59

Hull Gets Five In Two

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Talk around the hockey shops has it that Yvan Cournoyer and Dennis Hull will make the big jump next season from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series to the National Hockey League. It should prove interesting to compare the progress of the goal-scoring aces.

Cournoyer, who toils at right wing for Montreal Junior Canadiens, is sure to wind up with the parent Montreal club. Sunday he counted his 59th goal of the year as the Canadiens dumped Niagara Falls Flyers 6-4.

Hull, a speed merchant at left wing for St. Catharines Black Hawks, will probably join his older brother Bobby with Chicago Black Hawks. Sunday Dennis pumped home a pair of goals his 45th and 46th—as Hawks shaded Oshawa Generals 6-5. The previous night Hull picked up three goals.

In other league action, the league - leading Toronto Marlboros stayed four points ahead of Montreal with an 8-5 win over Peterborough Petes. The last - place Kitchener Rangers came up with their third straight win by edging Hamilton Red Wings 5-4.

'The Gambling Heart' Was Tedious, Unfunny Bore

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Gambling Heart on NBC Sunday night was an original comedy by the eminent film and television writer, Horton Foote. It was acted by a skilful company of players. It was given a lavish production.

Despite all this, it was a tedious, unfunny bore.

The plot concerned an aggressive mother with two married daughters. One was married to a pompous, money-mad promoter. The other was married to the owner of a dry cleaning store. The action revolved around some oil stock on which the dry cleaner had timidly gambled all his savings, goaded on by his mother-in-law and the big-talking promoter.

There was a tremendous amount of storming around and yelling—but no laughter in my living room — before the dry cleaner took his profits and ran.

HUSBAND CHARGED

The Defenders on CBS Saturday night was an impressive dramatized argument for the British system of handling narcotic addicts with doctors permitted to give them drugs. The trial of the program was that of a druggist whose wife had become addicted to morphine during an illness but could no longer obtain drugs from her physician. Her husband was charged with dispensing drugs without prescription although he made no profit on them.

The story centered sympathetically on the desperate plight of the woman, who felt she could not survive without drugs but had no way to obtain them except illegally. It made its points strongly.

Recommended Tonight: East Side, West Side, CBS, 10-11—The Street, marking the first step in a change in the show's format.

AT THE PARK — James Stewart stars with Kim Novak in Alfred Hitchcock's suspenseful drama in color "Vertigo," opening tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program another Hitchcock shocking, sizzling romantic drama in Technicolor starring Princess Grace Kelly and Cary Grant in "To Catch A Thief". One showing only starting at 7.20 p.m. "Vertigo" at 7.30 and "To Catch A Thief" at 9.45.

Three Miles, 60 Yards

Break Two World Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Clarke of Australia tore the world indoor three-mile record apart with a 13:18.4 clocking and bulky Bob Hayes of Florida A and M broke through the six-second barrier with a 5.9-second clocking in the 60-yard dash Saturday night at U.S. National Amateur Athletic Union indoor track championships.

Clarke's time chopped six full seconds off the mark of 13:24.4 set by Al Lawrence, another Australian, while he was attending the University of Houston in 1960. The mark was equalled earlier this winter by another Australian, Albie Thomas, in Toronto.

Hayes, who plays fullback on the Florida A and M football team, got off to an excellent start on his record 60.

Two officials exaulted in in 5.9, the third in 6.0 flat.

Hayes, who has a time of 9.1 in pending recognition for the 100-yard dash outdoors, had equalled the indoor 60 mark of six seconds flat four times this season. He won his semi-final in 6.1 Saturday.

Ergas Lepp of Toronto won the one mile run over a trimmed-down field. His time was a modest 4:09.6 compared with the 4:07.5 clocking which earned him a third-place finish in the Wannamker mile at the Millrose Games here in January.

Highly-regard Jim Beatty and John Camien did not compete in the two-mile because of injuries.

Also missing from the night's events were Toronto aces Bill Crothers and Bruce Kidd. Their coach, Fred Foot, said the AAU meet was not important to their training agenda.

Denies Eagles Coach Story

Not Offered Job - Trimble

PHILADELPHIA (CP) It was news to Jim Trimble, but a Philadelphia newspaper listed him as co-favorite for the coaching job with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, the team he ran for four years before coming to Canada.

The Inquirer reported Sunday that owner Jerry Wolman is after either Trimble, now coach of Montreal Alouettes of Canada's Eastern Football Conference, or Joe Kuharich, former coach of Washington Redskins and now supervisor of officials for the NFL.

Trimble said in Montreal Sunday night the job has never been offered to him. He has the second year of a five-year contract with the Alouettes after seven years with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"I've never spoken to Jerry Wolman or any Eagle officials," he said.

Kuharich said he had spoken to Wolman about a month ago but had heard nothing since.

Wolman said he would make no announcement this week.

Norman Vincent Peale Has Doubt About Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How's this for negative thinking? Norman Vincent Peale has doubts that his film biography will be a box office success.

Peale, the Ohio clergyman whose Power of Positive Thinking sold 2,500,000 hardcover books and 1,000,000 paperbacks, is the subject of a new movie, One Man's Way.

"I hope it's a success because I think it's a fine picture with a powerful message," he remarked. "But I would be inclined to doubt its chances. It doesn't seem to be the kind of film that the public is going for these days."

"Oh, I think you're wrong, dear," added Mrs. Peale more positively. "I think it will be very popular."

If One Man's Way doesn't succeed, it won't be because Peale didn't try to help it. He has here gear the end of a 12-city tour with his attractive wife, during which he spoke on be-half of the film.

At an $850,000 cost, the Frank Ross production stands a good chance of paying off. However, it does go against the current trend of film fare, in which sex comedies predominate.

Peale got a look at the opposition on his flight west. He was subjected to an in-flight showing of Sodom in New York.

"I tried to watch it for a while, but I found it disgusting," he commented.

Today's movies, said Peale, reflect the bad moral shape America is in.

"Morally, this country is in a tailspin — or perhaps I should say a downward spiral," he commented. "It reminds me of France, where men would come up to you in a cafe and try to sell you postcards. Now you can buy such material from any newsstand in the U.S.

"I used to be appalled at the kind of movies that were made in France. Now we're making the same kind here.

"I see no hope for coming out of this downward spiral until we hit bottom. When that happens, there is only one way we can go—up."

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For February 25

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Stimulating contacts bring future gains. Spread influence. Experiment. Don't be afraid of change — or travel. Plan for dealing with members of opposite sex. Sell yourself.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Break out of rut. Some obstacles appear. Regard them as challenges. Adhere to convictions. Good to start plans for self - improvement. Inspiration can be found at home.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Favorable lunar aspect encourages journeys, dealings with relatives. Also excellent for writing, expressing ideas. Telephone call this evening could "pay off."

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Money due to come your way! Could be in connection with luxury item. Day to collect facts, figures. Key is diplomacy — be a good listener. Evening favors relaxation.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Cycle high. Personality spotlight shines. Accept invitations. Appearing in public can now push you forward your goal. Say yes to challenge. Trust intuitive intellect.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Don't shirk responsibilities. Includes personal activities. Fulfill obligation to friend. Keep confidences of others through sincerity. Don't forget to smile!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Unusual pattern of events indicated. Friends may make surprising statements. Maintain sense of balance, humor. Don't be "talked into" additional investments.

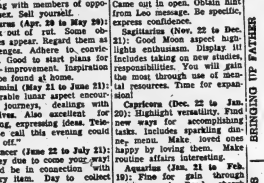
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Check new opportunities. Be seen where it "counts." Means don't hide talents, aspirations. Came out in open. Obtain hint from Leo message. Be specific, express confidence.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Good Moon aspect highlights enthusiasm. Display it! Includes taking on new studies, responsibilities. You will gain the most through use of mental resources. Time for expansion!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Highlight versatility. Find new ways for accomplishing tasks. Includes sparkling dinner, menu. Make loved ones happy by loving them. Make routine affairs interesting.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Fine for gain through written word. Read, absorb knowledge. Lunar position spotlights public relations, advertising, settlement of legal problems. Check with experts.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Display abilities. Make superior. Take note. Offer suggestions, short-cut methods. In personal life, be of "service" to loved ones. Make this an early evening.



If today is your birthday ... you are introspective; often your "inner world" appears more real than the material world.

General Tendencies: Cycle continues high for Leo. Special word to Aries. Believe in yourself and so will others.

Teacher Killed Helping Woman Flee in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — A Belgian UNESCO teacher was killed in a weekend attack on a mission station by rebel guerrillas, police was shot in the back of the head as he covered the flight of a pregnant colleague, it was learned today.

The teacher, Jacques Bollaerts, 28, of Saint Trond, Belgium, was one of two teachers killed Saturday night when young left-wing guerrillas attacked the Makuzuku mission station south of Kikwit.

The attack brought the death toll among missionaries in western Kwilu to six since guerrilla bands stepped up attacks in the area a month ago. They are led by Pierre Mulele, one-time aide to the former premier Lumumba and a politician Antoine Gizenga.

The central government now has 6,000 troops in the area to combat the six-month-old revolt.

Rebel informed sources said 17 persons at the mission station were warned of impending trouble after the Congolese police guarding the post fled. They refused evacuation during earlier disturbances by white troops of the troubled region.

BURN VILLAGE

About 500 guerrillas, armed with some modern rifles, bows, arrows and machetes, burned a nearby village and massacred its inhabitants. Then they shot one teacher, Robert Marchal, 24, of Liege, Belgium, as he knelt at their command and hacked him to death with machetes.

Two Canadian priests and another Belgian teacher were surrounded by rebels and a third Canadian priest was beaten up.

A United Nations spotter plane and the Congolese National Army plane flew overhead and dropped messages telling the survivors to go and meet the advancing army patrol. They were later flown to Leopoldville by the United Nations.

The Canadian embassy here said the two other Canadian priests and the Belgian priest at the mission were uninjured.

Chief Patrick, Kitchener, Dies Of Cancer

KITCHENER (CP) — Police Chief John Patrick, 49, died here today of cancer. He had headed the force here since Jan. 1, 1950.

Before he first came to Kitchener, May 18, 1940, he was arrested on a vagrancy charge after a billiard establishment operator complained to police that a "suspicious character was hanging around."

No one on the force knew that Mr. Patrick was working undercover for the provincial police Criminal Investigation Branch, conducting an attorney-general's department inquiry into the force.

Accidents Take Lives of 41, 22 on Highways

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pakistan regards India as its first threat, with the Kashmir dispute as the principal issue between them, and fears India may intervene in U.S. military aid against Pakistan. Since the flow began to India, Pakistan has indicated growing reservations about its membership in the anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) and the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO).

In a joint communique, Pakistan served notice on Washington it will follow a more independent foreign policy and move closer to Red China.

Chou repeated his offer with support for a plebiscite in Kashmir, the chief Pakistani demand since the dispute began in 1947 with massive bloodshed. Moslem Pakistan assumes that Kashmir, predominantly Moslem population would vote to break away from Hindu India.

India has refused to hold a plebiscite, claiming Kashmir as its legal territory.

Pakistani newspapers said Ayub agreed to support Red China's bid for a seat in the United Nations in return for Chou's backing on Kashmir.

In New Delhi, Indian Education Minister Mohammed Chagla told Congress party leaders Pakistan may be deliberately creating "situations" along the Kashmir frontier to keep the issue before the UN Security Council again.

Chagla led the Indian delegation at the Kashmir peace meeting of the council Feb. 10, which was requested by Pakistan after the theft of a sacred Moslem relic touched off new Hindu-Moslem rioting. The disorders subsided after the recovery of the relic—a hair believed to be from the prophet Mohammed.

Council members urged both sides to agree to a negotiated settlement of the dispute. Chagla said India willing to begin direct talks with Pakistan without

Judge Signs Writ for Arrest Of Mme. Nhu

SAIGON (Reuters)—A Saigon judge has signed a writ for the arrest of Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, sister-in-law of former president Ngo Dinh Diem. It was learned today.

Press reports said the government would seek her extradition from France.

A French embassy spokesman said no request had so far been received, although the embassy had heard unofficial reports that her extradition would be sought.

The press reports said Mme. Nhu would be charged with misuse of public funds and damaging the national economy. She had extensive interests in profitable business monopolies until the coup which toppled the Diem government last November.

The French embassy spokesman said as far as he knew there was no extradition treaty between South Viet Nam and France.

Ten Radical NDP Members Are Expelled

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario council of the New Democratic Party Sunday confirmed the expulsion of 10 radical members committed to total public ownership of major industry.

The 10 were expelled last April by the NDP provincial executive but appealed to the council.

Allan Engler, one of the 10, said in a statement following the rejection of the appeal:

"The expelled youth were active in the struggle within the NDP to adopt a socialist approach in opposition to the present Canadian military alliance commitments, of public ownership of major industry and support of the colonial revolution throughout the world."

Bitterly Cold In Northland

TORONTO (CP) — Temperatures plunged sharply early today as a cold front moved across southern Ontario. Temperatures tonight in most southern areas will be near or below zero.

In Northern Ontario bitter cold continued. The weather bureau said the coldest spot was at White River, where the mercury dropped to 44 below zero.

"Fortunately," the bureau said, "bitter northwest winds following the weather front are expected to diminish fairly rapidly over southern Ontario today with the approach of a high-pressure area."

Cyprus

ish between 1955 and 1959.

It was natural for Georgadis to fall back on old wartime comrades for expansion of the Greek - Cypriot fighting force. About 4,000 former EOKA men were already organized in "EOKA fighters" clubs in the main towns and villages.

These men provided the first bands of irregulars who rushed to aid the police when the first shots rang out in Nicosia.

STRENGTH BOOSTED

With various kinds of weapons, the Cyprus police force was transformed into a paramilitary organization and its strength increased through the addition of several hundred men from the irregular forces. An increase in the number of regular policemen appears to be governed by availability of weapons.

At the same time, to streamline the organization of Greek-Cypriot fighting forces, hundreds more irregulars were drafted as special constables.

Informed sources say the total strength of the uniformed Greek-Cypriot fighting force is less than 3,000. These are supplemented by 10,000 irregulars, engaged on guard duties in their villages. This force could be expanded considerably but any such expansion is limited by availability of arms.

These incidents led to reports that Makarios, who works through Georgadjis, has lost control of individual force commanders. Reliable sources, however, say the reports are unfounded.

Three Die In Sask. During Storm

EDMONTON (CP) — Three persons died in Saskatchewan during the weekend as high winds swept across the Prairies.

Two brothers were killed near Outlook, Sask., when their car said blowing snow reduced visibility to near zero. At Punnichy, Sask., another man died of exposure.

The weather office said high winds and blowing snow in most Alberta districts Sunday, creating snow storms in the north and limiting the sky with dust in the south.

At Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, visibility was 50 miles an hour. Dust storms were reported at both Lethbridge and Medicine Hat.

The temperature reading in the pre-dawn of Sunday was 24 below. The highest winds were 30 miles an hour, gusting to 44.

Ruby Trial Enters Into Second Week

By REUMAN MORIN
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's murder trial goes into the second week today, opening a new round of bitter in-fighting between prosecution and defence over assembling a jury to judge his fate.

Of 48 persons examined to date, only two men have been accepted as jurors. None of the courtroom principals expressed optimism about completing the 12-man panel this week.

"It looks like the middle of the following week, now," said District Attorney Henry M. Wade.

"I said we couldn't get a jury and my prediction has been proved right," said Ruby's chief counsel, Melvin Belli of San Francisco.

"I'm not happy or unhappy about the first week," said District Judge Joe B. Brown.

HAVE VARIOUS REASONS

Of the 48 persons questioned, 20 were disqualified when they said they could not vote to send Ruby, or anyone else, to the electric chair. Another 16 were disqualified "for cause"—that is, for having formed an opinion about the case, being opposed to the suspended-sentence law in murder case and so on.

Two factors are contributing to the slow progress.

One is Belli's contention that Ruby can't get a fair trial in Dallas. He says the city is frustrated with prejudice, ashamed of the fact that President Kennedy was assassinated here and is bent on vindicating itself by executing Ruby.

The second factor is that this is the first death case in which the killing was seen on television. Cameras recorded the fatal instant when Ruby killed Lee Harvey Oswald, who had been charged with the assassination of Kennedy.

Belli contends that anyone who saw the televised scene is a witness. Under Texas law, he argues, such persons are disqualified to serve as jurors. The prosecution disputes this interpretation of the law, and Brown has ruled with Wade.

Police Use Dogs to Break Up Race Riot

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP) Four Negroes and one white man were arrested and a state police captain was slightly injured Saturday when a racial demonstration erupted into fist-swinging violence.

The fighting started when an unidentified white man pushed his way out of the entrance of a segregated restaurant which was blocked by some 200 Negro demonstrators, most of them students at nearby Maryland State College.

The white man began swinging and a fight erupted. Capt. Paul Landall, a state police commander who was in the middle of the crowd pleading with them to disperse, stepped between the antagonists and was hit in the face.

He called for dogs and two of them were quickly launched into the rapidly dispersing crowd of demonstrators. Club swinging state police also moved into the swirling crowd.

Police Pressing Search for Coed Killer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Police are pressing a search for the killer of a pretty 19-year-old University of Tennessee coed, fearful they may have a "Boston strangler" on their hands.

The body of Paula Herring was found in the blood-spattered living room of her apartment early Saturday morning by a neighbor who knew she was baby sitting with a six-year-old brother.

Police say the roomie student, home for the weekend from the university of Knoxville, was shot and killed after she had been thrown to the floor in a struggle that left her bruised and scratched.

District attorney's investigators think the slayer may have been an intruder or voyeur who has terrorized the suburban area for months. Along with cases of window peeping and door rattling, several rapes and attempted rapes have been reported in the area since September. Included were reports of a "busy — haired" young man who tried to break down doors, and flees swiftly on foot when he is seen.

SEEK MISSING BOY

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — More than 200 persons were combing the snow - covered mountains north of Prescott for a nine-year-old boy missing since mid-morning Sunday. Yavapai County sheriff's officers said Dennis Hargus of Mesa, Ariz., walked away from a YMCA camp. Searchers said they found tracks in the snow but that they were obliterated by a rapid thaw.

Girl Abducted After Boy Friend Robbed

SARNIA (CP) — A 19-year-old girl was rescued by police Sunday from an abandoned Sarnia Indian reserve house where she had been held captive by an abductor.

The rescue ended eight-and-a-half hours for the girl, when her boy friend was knocked unconscious and robbed and she was abducted by an escapee from the boy friend's car.

She told police she had been sexually assaulted. Police allowed her to go home after a 4½ hour interview. They said she was not arrested but had gone through "quite an ordeal."

Lawrence Clifford Kiyoshk, a 28-year-old Walpole Indian Reserve resident, has been charged with car theft. Three other men are being sought by city and provincial police.

The girl said she was parked with her boy friend, Arthur Bernard, 20, of Port Lambton, about 2½ miles north-east of Port Lambton when four men drove up and stopped beside the Bernard car. They forced Bernard from the car, attacking him and leaving him unconscious on the roadside. They took $140 from his wallet.

The girl said one of the men, brandishing a knife, abducted her in Bernard's car. He drove toward Sarnia, then abandoned the car and forced her to walk about 2½ miles to the vacant house.

She was held captive by the man for the rest of the night, she said. Police were called by Bernard after he regained consciousness and made his way to a telephone. Bernard was not seriously injured.

Butler Outlines Plan To Enhance UN Peace Role

Arms Conference Hears 9-Point British Scheme

GENEVA (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler of Britain put a nine-point plan—including proposals for building up the United Nations peace-keeping role—to the disarmament conference here today.

Butler, in his first speech to the 17-power conference, said: "As the peace-keeping forces of the United Nations are built up, so the dissemination, not only of nuclear weapons but of all types of arms, can be brought under control."

The foreign secretary's nine-point plan covered:

1. An improved procedure for the protracted disarmament conference.

2. Proposals for international peacekeeping.

3. Proposals for verification.

4. Observation posts in the NATO-Warsaw Pact areas.

5. A comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty.

6. An agreement to ban the further dissemination of nuclear weapons or knowledge.

7. Increased use of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes.

8. A freeze of strategic nuclear delivery vehicles.

9. Keeping outer space free of some armaments.

In his 6,000-word major policy speech, Butler also emphasized the essential importance of building up the peace-keeping role and capabilities of the UN.

READY TO LOOK AHEAD

He said Britain was ready to look ahead and discuss the problems of building up international peace-keeping forces in the second and third stages of disarmament.

He then outlined three principles:

1. The collective responsibility of all members to contribute to and UN activities including peace-keeping operations.

2. The effort to take account of the excessive burden which the costs of an expensive operation might impose on the economies of the developing countries.

3. The special position of the larger countries and the permanent members of the Security Council which could be recognized, since they are in fact liable to bear a heavy heavy financial responsibility for large peacekeeping operations.

Queen Not Welcome In Quebec -- Chaput

TORONTO (CP)—Queen Elizabeth's life will be endangered if she visits Quebec this fall as planned, separatist Dr. Marcel Chaput said Monday.

The former leader of the Quebec Republican Party told 200 members of the Young Men's Canadian Club that violence was a probability.

"Some of my own people are ready to let loose violence, literally—that she is no longer welcome in French Canada."

He said French Canada would regard the visit as a provocation.

Dr. Chaput said French Canada is a conquered nation which wants its freedom, not adjustments in Confederation.

The looting of armories in Quebec was successful, he said, because half the French-speaking Canadians serving in the armories were separatists.

CAN'T SUPERVISE IT

He suggested there was nothing that English-speaking Canadians could do to prevent the creation of a separate French nation in North America.

"Independence is already half done. The other half is to be done and it will be done."

Dr. Chaput said if English-speaking Canadians understood the feelings of the French, creation of a separate state would be easier "and perhaps less bloody."

"You say that you like Canada the way it is," he continued. "I say that if I was on your side I would like it that way too."

Dr. Chaput was heckled both during his address and in a stormy question period that followed.

He said in his address the royal commission on bicultural-ism will place "a cover of paint over some of the illnesses of Canada" but will not do any real good.

"WHAT DO I CARE . . ."

"What do I care as a French-Canadian if some people in Vancouver, Winnipeg or Toronto speak a few more words of French."

Styles for Men This Season Draw More Snickers Than Praise

LONDON (CP)—British clothing manufacturers, opening their second annual exhibition of men's wear, paraded Monday some of the most revolutionary apparel seen since Adam donned the leaf.

If the manufacturers have their way, he male wardrobe will be complete without such items as "stick-in" sinks" slim pyjamas, plaid slacks, slim-line suits with bell-bottom trousers.

Today's Chuckle

A toast to the iron curtain: "May it rust in peace."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Further warming is anticipated for southern Ontario today and a few snowflurries will occur as a disturbance moves across the north.

The disturbance is expected to pass out of the province this evening and the northerly flow of very cold air will re-establish itself over all regions. Winds will noticeably add to the discomfort of the low temperatures.

But some of the more extreme styles drew more snickers than praise when paraded before the gentlemen of the press at a preview showing.

These included, to quote the flowery language of the program, a 100-percent nylon shirt "for avant-garde evening wear," short - sleeved "blouse top and shorty trouser" pyjamas and a white poplin shirt with "novelty" lace edging on collar and cuffs.

To go with the slim-line suits, there were narrow leather ties, half-inch belts and fish ties with hardly any brim at all.

But the prize for originality went to Zeno Elison, a 19-year-old Liverpool designer who created a "one-piece suit" of shirt, bell-bottom trousers and attached, low-cut vest with four brass buttons.

The outfit—worn with a boldly striped shirt and narrow, pointed shoes—is for "with-it" teen - agers and reflects the "Mersey look" to go with the "Mersey sound" created by the Beatles.

Chance To Upset Govt.

By ARCH McKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Another chance to upset the minority Liberal government occurs tonight—on paper at least—as the House of Commons votes on a Conservative motion of non-confidence and any second one that may exist.

The four opposition parties, with a combined manpower edge of 136 to 129 over the Liberals, could unite behind the Conservative motion to topple the government on the ground that it has not ended the sales tax imposed in the last budget on building materials and equipment.

Today—the fourth day of the eight-day throne speech debate —must clean up any outstanding non-confidence motions and the Creditistes made two attempts Tuesday to move such a motion.

No. 1 called for an immediate increase in the family allowance payments. Gilles Gregoire (Lapointe) said the Liberal government had forgotten.

That was ruled out of order as irrelevant to the Conservative motion and the decision sustained by a vote of 135 to 21 —the NDP supporting the Creditistes.

BOUNCE BACK

Then the Creditistes bounced back with a motion that the government use the proceeds from its sales tax—which is to reach the full 11 per cent in 1965—for boosting family allowances. This motion remained under study at adjournment.

After tonight, no further non-confidence motions can be moved until the final vote in the debate occurs Monday on the main motion to express thanks for the Governor-General Vanier for reading the throne speech.

Like most throne speech days, Monday was a day of variety.

In other matters, Mr. Gregoire said bluntly that Quebec would seek independence as a "regime with two independent nations in one great country."

THE BOARD STIRTHS

Russell C. Honey (L—Durham) called for establishment of a national farm marketing board "through which could be used by groups of producers wishing to market their output on a national basis."

He said there is a constitutional question. But there was no constitutional problem if federal and provincial governments genuinely wanted to find a solution, he added.

Prime Minister Pearson said the government is considering the suggestion which could be used by groups of producers wishing to market their output on a national basis.

Governor-General Vanier Will Present Hasty Pees With New Regimental Color

A colorful milestone in the history of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is scheduled to take place here on Sunday, May 17.

It is the ceremonial of the pre-sentation of the Regimental Color. The Color replaces the original removed by a person or persons unknown from the regimental officers' mess some time ago. It has never been recovered.

Major Kenneth Willcocks, second-in-command of the regiment, said today that His Excellency the Governor General, Major General Georges P. Vanier, DSO, MC, CD, is expected to officiate at the presentation.

The presentation and accompanying ceremonials will take place at the Fair Grounds on the afternoon of May 17.

The commanders of plans for the presentation ceremonies was laid at a meeting of former commanding officers of the regiment held in the armouries recently.

GRAHAM IN CHARGE

Lieut.-General Howard D Graham, DSO and Bar, ED, Toronto, was named head of the special committee to complete arrangements for the ceremonial.

At the meeting were former CO's of the regiment: Lieut Col. Angus Duff; Lieut.-Col. E. B. Fairman; Lieut.-Col. W. A. Davern; Colonel Don Cameron; Lieut.-Col. A. Kennedy; Lieut.-Col. M. Davison; Colonel Gerald Allison and Lieut.-Col. J. B. Black, present CO. Also present were Major William Inrig, Major Stan Ketchenson, Major Cliff Broad and Major Willcocks.

Major Willcocks was named chairman and public relations committee. Other committees will look after parade arrangements, organizations, ceremonial, etc.

Combined with the color ceremonial will be the presentation of Freedom of the city to the regiment by His Worship Mayor Jack Ellis.

Meanwhile the regiment will undergo special training for the ceremonial as last drawn by the military. Half the training time from now to May 17 will be devoted to this phase of activity. The regimental band will supply music for the event.

Another meeting of the special arrangements committee has been called for Wednesday March 4 in the officers' mess.

COLOR STOLEN

The original Regimental Color was taken from a glass case in the officers' mess some two years ago and has never been returned.

Appeals to the person or persons responsible met with no response. Various anonymous communications were received by the commanding officer at that time, Lieut. Col. Duffy, but these left no trace as to the identity of the person responsible.

Col. Duffy, deeply hurt by the incident took it as a personal matter and removed the regimental badge from his forage cap, vowing not to replace it until the color was returned.

The colonel wore his "badge-less" cap until the day he was retired.

On February 6th the 8th Belleville Cub and Scout Auxiliary and Group Committee was held at Queen Mary School with Mrs. Beasie Smith presiding. There were seven members present.

The president announced that the Annual Cub and Scout Hobby Show would be held February 19th.

Plans for the Annual Father and Son Banquet were discussed and it was decided that it would be held on March 17th at Prince Charles School.

The meeting was adjourned with the Scouts' Mizpah, followed by coffee and doughnuts served by Mrs. Gelsthorpe.

The January meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the 6th Belleville Cubs and Scouts was held at Tabernacle United Church.

Scarves, made by the sewing convener, were presented to both packs and to the troop. The Auxiliary served lunch at the Akela party and catered to the Dominion Council Home and Family banquet. They also assisted at the Pack Hallowe'en party and assisted at the Christmas party for both Packs.

FATHERS-MOTHERS

The Cannifton-Corbyville Cub and Scout mothers and fathers met at Cannifton United Church rooms recently with 15 present. President Mrs. Helen Holgate opened the meeting and introduced the District Commissioner Mr. Jarvah, also Mr. McBride and Mr. Ellis.

It was felt the Cub and Scouts would not carry on unless there was more interest by the parents, and more efforts to turn out to the group meetings, and leaders were needed.

Each guest from Belleville spoke and outlined the duties of the groups and leaders, and answered questions raised by the meeting.

It was decided to carry on with Bill McMurter put in charge as games convener for men's group to meet with the ladies. Secretary-treasurer, Doris Pound; public relations, Jo Curlette, C. Reynolds; camping chairman, Ross Pound were elected.

The banquet was discussed and further plans to be made by the Scout leaders, Mrs. Ranah reported on scarves.

The meeting brought the meeting to a close.

Youth Fined And Licence Is Suspended

He fined 19-year-old Richard Hay $200 and suspended his licence for two years. Daniel Carl Bradley, was remanded to Friday for sentence. Although on bail, Magistrate Baker ordered that Bradley wait for his sentence in Hastings County jail — an unusual decision for a Belleville magistrate's court.

Hay narrowly missed a reformatory sentence.

Both youths were arrested on separate counts in what appears a police crackdown on hazardous driving on city streets.

"It is evident . . . that you shouldn't be on the road," the magistrate bluntly told Hay. "I has considered a stretch in the provincial institution — the reformatory institution for you for this type of conduct. This may be the only way you may be kept off the road."

Police chased Hay four miles across Belleville at speeds up to 70 miles an hour. During the pursuit the youth drove through stop signs and stop lights and swerved around a police road block.

Suspending his licence, Baker told Hay: "I warn you now that any breach of this suspension will involve you in a jail sentence — a fairly lengthy one."

Failure to pay his fine will bring Hay two months in jail. He has already been in custody a week.

PLEADS GUILTY

Bradley, who also pleaded guilty, was arrested Friday after a chase at 80 miles an hour through city streets.

He was first spotted at mid-night when he drove across a service station lot to avoid traffic lights at College and North Front Streets. As police gave chase, Bradley doused his car lights and tried to shake pursuit along Sidney and West Bridge Streets. He went through at least four stop signs.

Magistrate Baker called for Bradley's driving record and, learning it was still awaited by police, remanded the youth for sentence Friday.

As Bradley who has been on bail since his arrest walked back to his seat the magistrate added: "That will be in custody".

Visibly shaken by the unexpected order, Bradley was taken from the court by a police officer and later transferred to Hastings County jail.

Possible Footpath Along River Bank Is Inspected

Eight intrepid walkers joined the CPAC walking tour up the Moira's east bank on Sunday to look over a possible footpath along the water. (By CPAC is meant the Community Planning Association of Canada, Belleville Branch.) There are interesting places to walk all the way from the Yacht Club to College St., interrupted in just a few places.

The great retaining wall below the Lowe, Bridge forms a good path, needing only a railing for safety and some way of entering from Bridge St. The view of Panter Park across the river is fine. There are sheltered bays behind the Ontario Intelligencer and other buildings that could be provided with benches and attractive planting.

Between the Lower Bridge and the Footbridge the existing trees are good in their way and more might be planted to provide shade. A number of little look-outs could be arranged, with benches overlooking the water. At the Footbridge, a walke, must log around a building, but that is all right, because Annex's Tea Room is right there to welcome customers (though not on a Sunday) and it has a lovely view across to the Lower Bridge.

Northwards along the dusty alley road the path could be thickly planted with willows or even more Manitoba Maples, and might one day be attractive. If a street were built on the old Foley Foundry site, this part of the path could be the most attractively landscaped of all.

There is a feeling of adventure as one dunks down behind the old fire hall, and a distinct awareness of sewage behind one of the buildings. One can walk under the Upper Bridge with ease when the water is not too high, for there is a concrete sidewalk there already: this might be extended northward at the same level, skirting the base of the wall along Station St. in front of the Post Office. It is unpleasant to walk along the upper level here, especially in hot weather, on account of traffic.

SPLENDID VIEW

The view across the river here is one of the finest that the city offers, but it will be ruined if the proposed bridge is built.

Continuing on water level one finds foundation walls of buildings on the A. Safe premises that must surely be part of Meyers' original mill of the 1790's. This is a very picturesque area and the old trees are a marvellous sight at all seasons.

Walking is easy from here to College St., across stony flats, past the backs of Canniflon gardens, some well kept up and some not. It is fun to walk under the railway bridge. To judge by the footprints all along the river, many people have been doing it: mainly children, one imagines, for they have a keener sense of what Belleville has to offer.

From the CPR bridge to College Street is about a mile and a quarter. The tour took the walkers about a quarter to cover it. Particular grace and agility was shown by certain members in climbing fences and descending icy embankments. One member stepped into the river, but dried himself at the Roma restaurant, where the group retired for coffee.

WANT PARK SYSTEM

This tour was prompted by Mr. Josa's request for Centennial and parks projects. Besides their scheme for marina and historical re-development of South Front St., the CPAC is suggesting a system of parks along the bay shore and up the river, of which this footpath might form a part.

Next Sunday's CPAC tour will be over the property of Mrs. George B. Zimmele, who has offered the historic Ponton house and five acres as park and museum.

Wrecked after it hit tree at Fairfield's Bridge was this '47 auto. Six teenagers were hospitalized.

Six Teenagers Lucky to Be Alive After Car Hits Tree

Six local teenagers last night were admitted to Belleville General Hospital—after their car hit a tree.

If it hadn't hit a tree they might be dead!

Hospitalized last night were: Ken Hewitt, age 17, of 67 Dundas Street East; Wayne St. Pierre, 18, of 31 Church Street, South; David Thomas, 17, of 44 John Street South; William Green, 18, of 71 Dundas Street East; Diane Baldwin, 15, and Cossette Baldwin, 13, both of Foxboro.

All six teenagers were in a '47 Chrysler, which struck a tree trunk at Fairfield's Bridge on Thurlow's fifth concession, wrecking the automobile.

Said an OPP officer on the scene: "If they hadn't hit the tree they would have gone over into the creek.

"If they hadn't hit the tree, bad-as it was, they might all be drowned now."

"K40" Club From Kinsmen Being Formed

Plans for the formation of a "K 40" club in Belleville were announced last night at the Kinsmen's regular meeting. Honorary Kinsmen Oriiff Lloyd made the announcement.

Kinsmen normally are barred from executive and voting positions in their club at the age of forty years. They can serve active membership, but without full membership privileges.

"K 40" clubs are clubs for Kinsmen more than forty years old who form their own club. The K40 Club operates in parallel with the Kinsmen and in most cases, they meet with the Kinsmen about once every six weeks. The clubs usually cooperate on service projects and in other matters.

Mr. Lloyd announced last night his plans to contact all past Kinsmen more than 40 years old in the area, (only past Kinsmen are eligible for membership), during the next two weeks. More than 70 past-Kinsmen are known to be living in the Belleville area.

Dart League Playoffs

TRENTON — In weekend Trenton Dart League playoffs, One Half Hundreds drew Hasty Pees one to zero and went on to conquer the hitherto-fore unconquerable Airmen with the same score.

Ted's Antennas repeated the Half Tons' victory by downing Bert and Hasty Pees' Toppers, one to zero for each.

Sgts. Mess, Airmen, Bar Flys, Tigers and Hasty Pees' Toppers and Glen Miller Wickers each came up with a one on the night's scoring, while Bear Cats and Erie shared the cellar spot, each with a goose egg.

Each game consists of three "legs." The team must win two out of the three legs to make a score of one. Each team plays two games a night.

League playoffs will be held weekly until the final game on March 19. In early April, a banquet will be held to which the wives of the players will be invited.

12 Rotary Past Presidents On Hand for Birthday Party

TRENTON — Trenton Rotarians last night celebrated the 42nd anniversary of their club with a birthday cake and all the fixins. Twelve past presidents joined with 1964 president, Robert Patrick, to honor charter president William House, who was presented with a self-portrait by the club.

Mr. House recalled that the "background" of a Rotary Club in Trenton had been formed by directors William Bleeker, William Ireland and J. K. Fraser, all deceased with Arthur Allan as vice-president and Mr. House as president.

"We all had a hand in the puddin' " said Mr. House.

He recalled that the club at first had met in various halls — the I.O.O.F. Hall, the Knights of Columbus Hall.

"I've enjoyed 42 years of membership," said Mr. House, "I would like to go to 50 years . . . but I expect that's asking too much."

The fourth president of the Trenton club, Fred Adsett, who took office on May 1, 1928 recalled highlights of his year in office when the late Gwen Fortune was vice-president.

Kenneth Couch, master of ceremonies for last night's commemoration banquet, recalled that the Metropolitan opera star, Knight McGregor, visiting in Napanee during Mr. Couch's year of office, had sung for a ladies' night in the Gilbert Hotel, accompanied by Jos Riggs, another opera star, at the piano. "This was the highlight of his year," Mr. Couch said.

The 17th president, Dave Harrison, said that he would have had much to recall for the members if his daughter hadn't thrown out his records during his year's activity in a spring housecleaning flurry. He did recall however, that during his year, 1938-39, the club hadn't spent much money as the year fell in the world wide depression.

ONE DISTRICT GOVERNOR

Twentieth president, Canon Victor Hutchinson, a former rector at St. George's Anglican Church, referred to last night's get-together as "an occasion of almost sheer delight," and reminded the Rotarians that "Rotary is personality in action."

Twenty-fourth president, C. Saylor, said that during his year the club had invited the Oshawa Skating Club to perform in the old natural ice arena and the affair had been a success, in spite of the fact that the spring thaw set in that night. "It complicated things a bit."

Mr. Saylor and past president Herb Smith both recalled Rotary-sponsored "amateur nights" in the old Trent Theatre, emceed by Rotarian Clayie Maxwell. Such stars as Giselle MacKenzie (then Lafleche), George Murray and Bing Whittaker took part in performances staged by Rotary in the same theatre.

Richard Whitley, 25th president, said the highlight of his year was the fact that the club had that year equipped the operating room at Trenton Memorial Hospital. Past president, the late E. L. Fraser, did all the purchasing for this project.

Mr. Whitley and his wife have visited Rotary clubs in 12 different countries and attended eight international conventions.

Herb Smith recalled that the late president, Ed Simmons, had been the one and only district governor to come out of the Trenton club and that the club had in his year, 1945-46 sponsored the formation of the Stirling club.

Present at last night's banquet were past presidents Mike Andison, H. B. Smith, Dick Whitley, George Cobley, C. A. Baker, Clarence Saylor, Bill House, J. C. Garrett, Dave Harrison, Ken Couch, Bob Smithers, Fred Adsett, Canon Hutchinson and R. D. McDonald. Absent were: C. V. Graham, Jim Holmes, Clarence Gillan and Jack Taylor. Several past presidents are now deceased.

They Done Him Wrong!

What right have adults to make decisions for children? The right of age and experience?

A recent issue of the Vancouver Sun tells the story of a boy who at 17 discovered that the course in which the school had put him could not lead to university. The boy's ambition, to be a geographer, was shattered. In the next 18 months, he set eight school fires, with damage totalling nearly a half million dollars. He is now in a provincial mental hospital, and his diaries and testimony are providing valuable study material for psychiatrists, police and fire marshals.

The Sun does not tell why the student was put in the course which left him ineligible for university, or who put him there. Just possibly he or his parents were careless in letting some teacher or guidance counsellor steer him into a course the implications of which they did not take the trouble to learn. More and more, though, there is a tendency for educational institutions to copy a trend already well established in industry—the method of separating the sheep from the goats by psychological tests. These are used in Belleville schools. Here, though, the student is under no compulsion to accept the advice of guidance counsellors who give these tests.

Properly used, these tests can be helpful. But they are not conclusive and it would be deplorable if they were ever used as any more than an aid. The teacher, unless he is also a trained psychiatrist, is not qualified to administer even a foolproof series of tests, and has not the time to play with the tests in use. A trained psychologist, given a full day to test each student, could make a reasonably dependable appraisal of the student's abilities and inclinations—but the psychologist would make no bones about the possibility of error.

The time to use will usually show that an absolutely normal person is normal, that the average is the average. But let the subject deviate, if only slightly, from the norm, and the tests are useless.

The psychologist testing a student would probably start with a series of tests aimed at the norm. If the results show the student is abnormal in any way—he will follow that abnormality with specific tests designed to track it down.

The child has no defence against the size, strength, and supposed experience of the adult. The adult on the other hand, often has little idea of the size of the world the child must live in, at maturity, and usually has no idea of the child's hidden thoughts and motivations. In some matters, relating directly to the child's health and survival, the adult has the right and the duty to make decisions, wrong though they may be. While the child is a child, adults are responsible for its survival and health. But if a man or a child has a worthwhile ambition, it is an offence against man and nature for anyone else's "common sense" decision to turn him from it.

Hospital-Bed Surplus?

Ontario has more hospital facilities than it needs.

Hon. Matthew Dymond, Ontario Minister of Health, is authority for that statement.

Who are we to dispute it?

Mr. Dymond admits the existence of "a problem of unequal distribution" of the available hospital beds.

Still, hospital building costs being what they are and the province's debt steadily climbing, perhaps something could be done about shuffling patients before any further expensive building programs are undertaken.

Where are these surplus hospital beds located? In the major centres of population? We seems to us we have read of "waiting lists" for all but emergency cases in Toronto hospitals). In smaller cities? If so, in which ones? Certainly not in Belleville, where hospital corridors are turned into sick-rooms. Or are these hospital beds in small towns and villages, in buildings which lack modern equipment, with few specialists? Are they, perchance, the product of that unfortunate period in hospital expansion, right after the end of the Second Great War, when the Ontario Government was seized with the idea that the way to solve the province's crying need for additional hospital space was to provide a multitude of little hospitals, in the home communities of patients, no matter where they might live?

Dr. Dymond, besides saying Ontario has enough hospital beds, also says it has enough doctors. What this province needs, he says, is more psychiatrists. To make sense out of the conflicting claims of the Minister of Health and hospital boards?

Ottawa Offbeat

No Election Jitters Plaguing New Session of Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Parliament has been back in business now at the same old House of Commons stand for a week and already the mood seems to be set.

It is one of relative stability.

After three years of political turmoil, and at times real crisis, a comparatively peace and quiet may be settling over the previously tumultuous scene.

Nobody — or almost nobody with the possible exception of some, although by no means all, Conservatives — wants an election.

And everybody, except perhaps Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and some of his more aggressive and spirited partisans, appears ready to hold still and not rock the political boat — not vigorously enough, in almost any event, to swamp it.

John Diefenbaker, ever the fierce foeman, who likes to play for keeps — whether in power, fighting to hold it; or in Opposition, battling to seize it — personally would have no objection to a spring election, come when it may as long as it is soon.

He, alone of the key figures on the Opposition side of the Commons, has that fire-eater and test-of-battle look and by all that love-of-combat that suggests he might welcome still another outing on the national campaign trail.

But the political arithmetic is all against it.

It is a simple, problem in addition.

To a minority 129 Liberals, add 25 New Democrats and 13 Social Crediters, and you get 167 Members of Parliament persuaded by their self-interest that the only possible improvement to the current political imbalance would be more of the same.

Robert Thompson has pledged his Social Credit and Tommy Douglas his New Democrats to support Mr. St.

But who, under almost any circumstances, needs Real Caouette, or Mr. Graydon, or both, even enough to count on his uncertain and politically unwelcome support?

But the simple political arithmetic is not all that is involved. For as matters now stand in the high - paid House of Commons that some of its inhabitants on the Opposition side, including certain of the Conservatives — will duck out, skip like behind the nearest curtain or skulk off to their offices if the arithmetic looks like it might, by accident, add up to 135-plus for the Liberals.

Some of them did it last Session when the votes might be close. And without hesitation, they'll do it again.

It is not difficult.

All the careful MP has to do is take a short walk to the back of the Commons before the vote is called and not return until it is counted.

That $10,000 a year plus all those fringe benefits provides a standard of living he's loath not easy for every MP to match in business, industry or the professions.

It is the best thing this side of the Senate and carries a pension almost as good.

Two things could go wrong for the MP who, for the sake of the financial stake, wants this Parliament to live out its full five years of life.

Both would be in the nature of political flukes.

The Liberals, in their theoretically shaky but practically firm minority position might find the pension lease shaping up into something on which, in an election appeal, they might hope to parlay their 129 Commons seats into something more substantial.

In such a snap vote, the Conservatives, due to Ontario Premier Robarts' continued objections to the Federal pension plan, might find themselves in the impossible position of opposing it — which, of course, they don't.

The second political accident that could upset the Parliamentary applecart would be the bicultural-bilingual issue getting suddenly and unexpectedly completely out of hand.

But this isn't really likely, either. So for the first time in more than three years, Parliament is at work and not 404 suffering the election jitters.

Strictly Personal

Simplicity Is Not in Itself Common Virtue

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

People are peculiar about the use of words. A reader in Canada has objected because I recently used the word "mentation" in a column, and he was unable to find it in his abridged dictionary.

"Mentation" means "total mental activity," or the whole process involved in thinking. It states in one word what would otherwise take three or four; it is concise, specific, and objective.

There are two reasons for using long, difficult or obscure words. One reason is that they offer a kind of shorthand; they say in brief what it would take a whole sentence to say in another way. We should learn more of these words, and use them more often.

The second reason is exactly the opposite. A long or obscure word is used to conceal the true meaning of something, to disguise fuzzy thinking or special pleading, or to create pseudo-intellectual superiority. We should avoid all such words like the plague.

But the average person cannot and will not distinguish between the two, and resents any use of a strange word for whatever purpose. He thinks the writer is putting on airs, or engaging in double-talk. He demands "simplicity" in what he ever he reads.

But simplicity is not a virtue in itself; it is only a means to an end. One of the most dangerous things we can do is to provide simple answers to complex questions. If it sometimes the flaw of the expert to complicate the easy, it is usually the flaw of the layman to over-simplify the complex.

Social scientists are especially fond of using long, cumbersome and hyphenated phrases to describe quite common observations and conclusions, not because they are trying to imitate the exact-science (which sometimes they do) and because they are unsure of themselves, and embarrassed to exhibit their platitudes in naked language.

On the other hand, an automechanic uses "special" words because they save time: "compression ratio" is simply a useful shorthand to express a fairly complicated physical process. There is no easier or shorter way to say it, and the listener has no right to demand one.

It is foolish to say "commence" when we could say "start," or to say "nugatory" when we could say "worthless," whoever does this is merely pretentious. But some words have no ordinary equivalents, and words are so highly charged and compressed with meaning that they resemble a tool designed for three or four operations. Obviously, it is better to use such a word than a tool that is clumsy and limited in its operation. What we need is more mentation on the whole subject of words.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

February 25th, 1944.

As was the case of the Belleville General Hospital an all-time high in the number of births registered at the city hall was seen during 1943, it is announced from the city clerk's office. During the year there were 1,022 births registered in the city, 53 more than were registered in 1942 and 60 per cent over 1940 when there were 634 visits from the stork registered. The boys won out during 1943, there being 541 male births as compared with 493 female.

Although last year saw a zenith in the number of births recorded, there has been a falling off in the number of marriages recorded in the city in the past two years. The past year Dan Cupid failed to get in his deadly work was in 1941 when 288 couples trippedthe hitherto to the altar.

Tobacco and chocolate bar thieves were quite active in the East Ward district over the weekend when two pieces of business were entered and robbed. At Chapman Hick's new stand was entered and a quantity of such articles along with $60 in cash taken, while at McCauley's service station in Marysville the robbers made away with tobacco and a tank of gasoline. Here the robbers boldly drove their motor car into the service station and procuring the keys of the gasoline tanks from the cash register inside the building proceeded to fill their car tank.

The Board proposes to the city council to provide for the Board an amount equivalent to one mill on the rateable real and personal property in the city for the year 1924. The Board proposes to use the money raised in this way in the following manner; the sum of $2,000 to be devoted towards the purchase of grounds to be used for park and athletic purposes, and the balance to be used in the maintenance and improvement of the present park properties under control of the board.

Big Difference Between Stye, Cyst and Pink Eye

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: On my lower eyelid my doctor says I have a cyst. Exactly how does this differ from pink eye or a stye? Will hot fomentations help? Will a cyst open itself if it is properly treated. — J. V.

Let's go at it backwards, which will make things clearer.

Pink eye is a sort of general term for inflammation of the eye and the inside of the lids, caused by one or another type of germ.

A stye is an infection in one or perhaps several of the many tiny glands which surround the eyelashes.

Both of these usually clear up if reasonable care is taken not to let the infection spread.

A cyst is quite different. In this case one of the small glands of the eyelid (you can have cysts in glands elsewhere) becomes closed.

If a gland becomes sealed over, these substances cannot get out. They accumulate inside the gland, and it swells. This is a "cyst."

In time, the pressure builds up and becomes painful. Sometimes the pressure causes a small rupture, allowing the material inside to escape, and then — for the time being — it feels better.

Or, of course, if it becomes too painful before the pressure breaks a path through, the cyst can be lanced, relieving the problem.

Unfortunately, this is not a permanent cure. The cyst closes up again, and the pressure builds up again, and you have to go through the same thing once more.

The only permanent answer is to remove the cyst. This is a minor procedure even though, of course, it requires careful handling because of its location. Cysts are usually removed from the under side of the eyelid, so the scar won't show, although it is a rather small one in any event.

Hot applications might speed up the draining, but that's all. The cyst will form again, unless it is removed.

Dear Dr. Molner: I heard a doctor on radio say one should not eat bread, potatoes, etc., or anything containing sugar. Is this foods are liable to cause diabetes or gangrene. If such is the case, what foods may be eaten by persons with diabetes symptoms? — P. M.

Such is not the case. I hope you have not forgotten this one and that you misunderstood what the doctor said.

Anyway, such foods do not cause diabetes, or we'd all have it. We don't know what causes diabetes, although we know that people who are overweight are more likely to get it, and that it tends to run in families. Parents have it, children are more likely to develop it eventually.

If you already have "symptoms of diabetes," that's one thing. You should be on a diet tailored to your needs, and may (or may not) need either medication in pill form or insulin by injection.

If you do not have diabetes, just keep your weight under reasonable control and don't be alarmed by newspaper talk.

I can't give you the whole story in limited space, but if you have any signs of diabetes, you ought (first) to have a physical checkup and (second) to get a copy of my 32-page booklet on "Diabetes, the Sneaky Disease," which will explain why and how your doctor will be treating you.

To receive the booklet, send 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 136, Dundee, Ill.

Gangrene, by the way, is not caused by diabetes. However, it can result from untreated cases of diabetes.

Note to Mrs. W., S.: We have theories which may not be right but we know from repeated observation that smoking irritates (but probably does not cause) ulcers.

Sews Without Any Needle

BBC London Letter

A sewing machine without needle or thread has been developed at the Omega Laboratories in London. Interviewed by the BBC program "Science and Industry", the managing director of the laboratories, Mr. L. A. Swift, explained the principle on which it bonds materials together using a fused plastic powder and electricity. The probe is tuned at an ultrasonic frequency of 20,000 cycles a second, and the plastic under this frequency delivers intense heat where the bonding of the material, raising it to its precipitation point. At this stage the various molecules or fibres in the material are hammered together as the material passes between the anvil and wheel.

Mr. Swift pointed out that there was a principle of motion, rather than pure fusion. "Normally, if a thermo-plastic material were taken to its melting-point temperature, then obviously the material would tend to flow sideways. But if you raise a molecular structure to its melting-point and precipitation temperature and then hammer it at a very high intensity, then the fibres and molecules which are free to move, in fact moving together and interlocking with the adhesion. Similarly, if you have a molecular structure in a thermo-plastic material and a cotton material with an ordinary fibre, the molecules will tend to diffuse and intermingle with the fibres, thus causing the bond."

The bond, he said, was normally strong as the parent material, and certainly as strong as a normal stitched seam. They had failed to find any difficulties together — cotton to cotton, linen to linen, or wool to wool. But cotton could be bonded to nylon; they had successfully bonded wool repeats, and most plastics bonded perfectly well.

Mr. Hellyer's chief crime, it seems to us, is that he is looking facts that Defence Minister after to Mr. Hellyer's shakeup may well be similar to that which met Brig. Dalton Desrosiers, Retired Defence Secretary Robert McNamara when he locked horns with the Pentagon. But Mr. McNamara is now recognized as one of the most effective secretaries the United States has ever had.

Early Man in Indonesia

BBC London Letter

On a recent visit to British, Tom Harrisson, the ethnologist and curator of the Sarawak Museum, spoke to the BBC programme "Here and Now" about the enormous richness of the past uncovered by excavations in Sarawak, on which he has been working for years.

A highly important find was that of a skull of modern man (homo sapiens) dated by the Carbon-14 method at forty thousand years ago. This proved, said Harrisson, that homo sapiens had been established in the Far East at a much earlier date than had previously been supposed, and no doubt excavations in other countries of South - East Asia would bring to light similar examples.

"With our excavations," he pointed out, "we found a great wealth of crafts and skills, showing that by the late Stone Age, men there were making really wonderful pottery, beautiful boats, exquisite stone tools, and with the impact of the Bronze Age and Early Iron Age — about the year 500 B.C. — Christianity even — there was a tremendous flowering of their kind of civilization."

A major difficulty in reconstructing the social system of ancient civilizations is a country like Borneo, said Harrisson, was the fact that the jungle quickly overgrows any open space. Thus there were no excavations right out of doors, there were all in caves. One wonderful cave had a floor area of two acres, and caves, and excavations of any part of the floor revealed remains of the people who had lived there. By the late Stone Age — two to three thousand years before the Christian era — people were beginning to build houses, and it was clear that these were of considerable size. For instance, as early as 5,000 B.C. they were burying the dead in beautiful wood coffins and the bodies on matting and wrapping them in matting; bodies were placed in the coffins earthenware urns.

While in the far interior, as of course, still existed, with the Long House as the essential unit of living, said Harrisson, the arts and crafts were changing rapidly under the impact of modern civilization. There was no way back, and it was the function of a museum such as the Sarawak Museum to preserve what was good and beautiful of the past and history people that it was that, duty to preserve it. "Most human beings, especially in Asia, do want to preserve it."

HELLO — Harry McCreary, whose name has been synonymous with telephone service in Thurlow for more than four decades, demonstrates with 1906 Swedish American, now long out of service. He still has enquiries for antique equipment.

Mr., Mrs. Harry McCreary Retiring After Operating Phone Company 42 Years

After 42 years in the telephone business as operators of their family-owned telephone system, Harry and Lena McCreary of Latta are going to call it quits this week.

On Thursday the Thurlow telephone system, serving parts of Thurlow and Tyendinaga townships, will be taken over by Bell Telephone and Mr. and Mrs. McCreary will take the long holiday which they feel they have coming to them.

The Thurlow system with approximately 360 subscribers will be operated "as is" by Bell for about four years, with maintenance handled by their Madoc service crew.

GOOD OVER IN 1922

It has been a full-time job for Mr. and Mrs. McCreary since they took over the operation of the then Bradden Telephone Company back in 1922.

Since then Mr. McCreary has either carried out or supervised maintenance details while Mrs. McCreary, as chief operator, has been away from the job for only one extended holiday—a two weeks' jaunt to Florida about ten years ago.

"In all those 42 years I don't think I have been away from the job for more than a total of six weeks," Mrs. McCreary said.

Once she went for a full month without having been spelled off at the switchboard.

Mr. McCreary got into the telephone business on the whim that it was something he would like.

He started out as a farmer, then became a carpenter and it was while working on the construction of the Bell Telephone office on Pinnacle St. that he decided he would like to get into the telephone business.

STILL CLIMBS POLES

Now at 70 he still helps with line maintenance and still does a bit of pole climbing. He has one assistant installer, while Mrs. McCreary has two girls to spare her at the switchboard.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McCreary belong to the "Telephone Pioneers of America."

The McCreary system had its beginning in 1906 when three Thurlow township residents, Henry A. Fairman, William J. Allison and James H. Bradden, formed what was known as the Thurlow Telephone System.

That first year it had a total of nine phones.

The three men operated the system until 1918, when Mr. Bradden bought out his two partners.

Mr. and Mrs. McCreary took over the system four years later.

"Telephones were a luxury then," said Mrs. McCreary. "They are a necessity now and we feel there is a good future for owners of independent systems. But it needs someone a bit younger."

Mr. and Mrs. McCreary said they had considered installing dial but felt it was too big a project for people their age.

But in most other respects the McCrearys kept up with the times in telephone improvements.

For instance a mechanical auger was purchased to take care of hole digging and miles of multi-wire cables have been installed to reduce line maintenance.

Telephone cable has its advantages and disadvantages, according to the McCrearys.

The advantages are reduced maintenance but when troubles do come they are grossly multiplied.

SHOT HIT CABLE

For instance there was the time when a township resident out shooting squirrels accidentally fired into a cable, cutting telephone service for numbers of subscribers.

"When they couldn't get central they came down to enquire, thinking that something was wrong at the house," Mrs. McCreary laughed.

Originally the McCreary system took in the Foxboro area but about 10 years ago the Foxboro exchange was sold out to Bell.

Now the area served by the McCreary line is bounded by the Moira River on the west and the Shannonville Gravel on the east and runs from Roslin on the north to just north of Corbyville on the south.

DEPRESSION TOUGH

The number of subscribers dropped from well over 300 to 90. Mr. McCreary looked after maintenance duties alone and, with revenues lower than operating costs, the assistant operator was allowed to go and Mrs. McCreary looked after the switchboard alone — 24 hours a day.

Mrs. McCreary got her initiation as owner-operator during a exciting period shortly after the line was acquired back in 1922.

There had been a murder in the area and police were using the phone all hours of the day and night as the chase closed in on the suspect.

"I didn't get nervous until it was all over," she said.

Now, one of 250 independent telephone systems still operating in Ontario, the McCreary line has its share of long distance calls which today are merely routine.

Last month, 3,800 long distance calls originated from Thurlow subscribers. There were just as many incoming long distance calls and hardly a day goes by that someone doesn't call overseas, to Texas or to Alaska.

The Latta central provides 24-hour service but calls are few during the night shift from midnight to about 5 in the morning.

Then it starts to get busy and calls are frequent until the afternoon, which are quieter. Calling again picks up in the evening, slacking off again just before midnight.

"We were never sorry that we went into the telephone business", Mrs. McCreary said, "but we are sorry that we have to give it up."

He is associated with a hardware business in Belleville.

STILL A LINEMAN — Despite his 70 years, Harry McCreary still takes his turn doing line maintenance. He is seen above on pole outside "central" office at Latta.

NUMBER PLEASE — Mrs. Lena McCreary, chief operator of the Thurlow telephone system for the past 42 years, prepares to hand over to her assistant, Marlene Robinson.

30th Birthday Of Kinsmen Club Is Celebrated

Kinsmen last night celebrated their thirtieth anniversary in Belleville. Seventy-two members and guests were gathered at the Shrine Club. The club was chartered in the city in 1924, under President Wilam McIntosh, now an honorary member.

Vice-president Frank Walker was chairman for the meeting, Kinsmen from Tweed, Campbellford and Peterborough visited. Honorary and past Kinsmen also turned out.

Guest speaker of the evening, Robert Keyes of Newmarket, talked on "droodles" (a form of cartoon), and arranged for Quinte Cavaliers Barbershop Quartet to present four numbers.

The speaker and singers were introduced to the club by Kinsmen Bill Andrews and thanked by Kinsman Charles Gray. Two new members, Norm Eyre (a former member) and Jack Canning, were accepted into the club during the meeting.

Dr. Pauline Jewett No Hard-Bitten Feminist Or Academic Egghead

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — She is a Canadian rarity — a woman political theorist trying to survive in the rough-and-tumble of practical politics.

But Dr. Pauline Jewett, who spent 21 years studying and teaching political science before she graduated to Parliament Hill in last April's election, is no hard-bitten feminist or academic egghead.

The former chairman of the political science department at Ottawa's Carleton University can be "just one of the girls" when she relaxes. Not that she has much time for relaxing these days.

"It's not easy to keep up hobbies and feminine pursuits like cooking or sewing when you are a member of five House of Commons committees," says the Liberal member for the Ontario constituency of Northumberland.

She is quick to add, however, that she has "absolutely no regrets" about entering politics. "I love every minute of it."

A tall (five-foot-seven) brunette with candid blue eyes and the lean attractiveness of Katherine Hepburn, 40-year-old Dr. Jewett is one of four women MPs.

TWO ARE SINGLE

Like Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, she is single. The others are Jean Casselman (PC Stormont-Dundas) and Margaret Konantz (L — Winnipeg South), both widows.

Dr. Jewett has a formidable list of academic achievements to her credit. She received her master's degree in political science from Queen's University Kingston, Ont., in 1950, and went on to the London School of Economics and Oxford.

She later lectured at Wellesley College in Massachusetts, at Queen's and finally at Carleton where she worked her way up from assistant professor to become head of the department in 1960.

The next year she declined a Nuffield Foundation travel grant in order to enter politics.

Although she is a native of St. Catharines, Ont., Dr. Jewett decided to run in her mother's home constituency and took up residence in Brighton, Ont., 21 miles west of Belleville. Her mother, Mrs. P. C. Jewett, is a descendant of Northumberland County's first white settlers, the Simpson family, who settled there in 1796. As a child, Pauline Jewett often visited her grandfather's farm there.

PROBED ATTITUDES

Dr. Jewett's two campaigns, in 1962 and 1963, were based largely on personal contact with constituents, but the opinion polls she ran reflected a continuing interest in politics as a science as well as an art.

She tried to find out whether many women still voted exactly as their husbands did and whether a woman candidate influenced voters' thinking.

"I don't think women voted for me because I was a woman, or that men voted against me for that reason. I did find that the women were usually pretty strong in their political beliefs.

"In a few cases, women even persuaded their husbands to change their vote towards me."

County wags attributed Dr. Jewett's initial loss in the 1962 election to being seen smoking in a church public basement and also to the fact that she refused to wear a hat.

By the 1963 election, however, she had put down firmer political roots in her adopted constituency and she won by several thousand votes — even though, as she says, "I still smoke furiously."

TOO MUCH TALK

Although her former academic career makes her, at least theoretically, one of the best-prepared MPs in the Commons, it isn't always an asset.

As a member of the Liberal "new frontier" and as an outspoken campaigner for the right of backbenchers to be heard in government councils, she has been accused of being too politically idealistic because of her academic background.

"It's true that I was a bit disillusioned during my first few months as an MP at the slowness with which the work of Parliament seems to proceed.

"But then I think most backbenchers have that reaction at first.

"I'm much more philosophical now about parliamentary processes, even though I still wish some of my fellow members would say less and make more sense."

In private life, Dr. Jewett's personality has none of the ring of a crusading female. Her voice is quiet and still has the hint of the classroom in it. She dresses simply, preferring uncluttered wool dresses in brilliant colors.

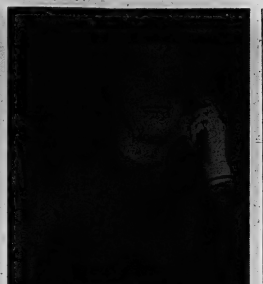
"I love shopping and find that I need more clothes now that I'm an MP."

She rents a furnished apartment in downtown Ottawa. Her mother lives in the same apartment house so they see each other every day and often eat together.

READS HANSARD

Working her in Ottawa is a wonderful help and encouragement to me—she's a terrific sounding board on everything from politics to clothes."

Dr. Jewett's taste in art and literature (Socrates is contemporary).



"I like Picasso and several of the modern Mexican artists and can also very fond of modern Canadian art which attracts my intellectual curiosity."

She hasn't time to be a gourmet cook—"but I like my own cooking, especially beef which I've at last learned how to select."

She wears her thick brown hair straight and very short. "It is so much easier to look after that way."

When she has time, Dr. Jewett's favorite hobby has always been music. She collects chamber music recordings and other classical music, but likes to listen to jazz when she relaxes.

The attractive MP enjoys detective stories and contemporary novels, but is most often discovered reading a copy of Hansard — the parliamentary record. "It's not always as dull as people think."

BUSY M.P. — Dr. Pauline Jewett, one of Canada's four women members of Parliament, keeps up a busy schedule which includes attending meetings of five Commons committees in addition to regular House sittings. The 40-year-old political scientist was first elected as a Liberal member for the Ontario constituency of Northumberland last spring. Here she places a telephone call from her Parliament Hill office. 113 Attend Successful W. I. Summary Day

STIRLING — One hundred and thirteen adults attended Hastings County Women's Institutes Summary Day at Stirling Community Hall on Friday under the direction of the home economist Miss Elizabeth Speare and centred around the theme "Focus on Finishes."

There were eight displays of print dresses, dusters, blouses and other attractive articles all made by group members. Presentations were made by Miss Speare to the following leaders: Chatterton, Mrs. E. Demille and Mrs. Harold Reid; Cooper and Remington, Mrs. Gordon Holmes and Mrs. George Graham; Madoc, Mrs. Verna Tanner and Mrs. Dan Bronson; Marmora, Mrs. Percy Gordon and Mrs. Mark O'Neill; Rives Valley, Mrs. Jack Bush and Mrs. Albert Wilhelm; Sidney South, Mrs. Jack Bush and Mrs. D. Douglas; Uxbridge, Mrs. George Reddick and Mrs. Edison Sine; Wallbridge, Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson and Mrs. R. DeBruin.

Mrs. George Graham was the mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon and three members from each of the eight groups modelled the dresses which they had fashioned. Mrs. Edison Sine was fashion commentator and gave a description of each dress as it was modelled.

Following the fashion parade each leader spoke briefly giving the number who began the course, those who completed the project and the number in attendance at the summary day. They also gave a few highlights of their classes. Several reported new beginners who had been successful in their first attempt at sewing.

GUEST SPEAKER

Miss Dora Burke, clothing specialist of the Home Economics Service, gave an interesting address and remarked on the fine attendance. She gave answers to many problems and pointed out that it is necessary to rip as well as to sew if you wish to have a well finished article. There is always much to learn even with those women who have fashioned articles for many years. She urged that it is worthwhile to try out the new ways as outlined in the procedure manuals.

In closing, Miss Burke stressed that any organized group of women from a church, lodge or home and school group are welcome to have any of the courses sponsored by the Home Economist Service of the Department of Agriculture if they apply for it.

Following a question and answer period and intermission the program followed.

Twelve ladies from the Rives Valley Branch sang a song in keeping with summary day. Four ladies from Marmora Branch presented a short skit entitled, "Problems Period." Fourteen members of Cooper and Remington Branch contributed a number. Three ladies from Uxbridge Branch gave a garment display and one read a poem. Three ladies from Madoc Branch entertained when one read a poem and the others demonstrated the value of using lots of pins.

Miss E. Speare thanked all those who had participated in summary day which had proven most successful.

TRUDY

"It's a conversation piece. Ted is always mentioning how much I paid for it."

Moira Student In National Pie Contest

Miss Jean Gough of Foxboro, a grade XII student of Moira Secondary School, was the winner of the cherry pie bake-off for Eastern Ontario, when she competed successfully with Miss Patricia Sargeant of Kemptville.

Miss Gough is in Vineland, where she will take part on Tuesday in the national competition for baking a cherry pie. About 15 girls from all parts of Canada will be taking part in the bake-off.

The contest is sponsored by the Red Cherry Institute.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

MAIL CALL

Question: I dislike riding in the back of a car, but when friends invite me out for a ride on a Sunday afternoon I'm not sure whether or not it would be polite to ask to ride up front with the driver. I'm a widow and, when the weather is nice, I usually go on a short excursion with a married couple who live in my apartment building. Since they're so nice about asking me, I feel it might be rude to ask the wife to exchange seats. What do you think? — Mrs. P. A., Newark, N.J.

Answer: As a guest, it's more polite to take the seat assigned to you. Of course, if your hostess should ask if you have a preference about where you sit, then you may tell her frankly you would prefer sitting up front. But, unless she does, it would be rather ungracious to accept an invitation to take a ride and then try to rearrange the seating to suit your own convenience.

Question: My parents are planning a fairly large reception in a hotel after my wedding, which will take place in May. We're having a bit of a problem, though, about the guest list. My father wants to invite some of his business associates and their wives, most of whom I know very sketchily and have met only when they've been to the house to dinner. I want to invite only friends, not acquaintances. But my father insists that he wants them to come, since they are close friends of his and it's already how might feel hurt if he doesn't ask them to his daughter's wedding. I don't feel that it would be correct for him to do so and would like to know if this is usually done and if inviting business associates is considered in good taste. — C. A. H., Stamford, Conn.

Answer: Since the father of the bride picks up the tab for the wedding party, he certainly should have some say about who is to be invited. Very often, close business associates are asked to attend, especially if the wedding is large and there's no big problem about how many guests can be accommodated. Have no fear — it's considered just a tasteful for the bride's father to invite his business intimates as well as the bride and bridegroom to invite close friends from their school and business worlds, who very often are complete strangers to the bride's parents, as well.

Crumbed Smoked Cod Fillets With Tartare Sauce

by Mary Moore

We had a "think" session. The supply of fresh frozen fish in the frozen food counter of the supermarket was at least half fresh frozen smoked cod fillets at 49c per pound, packed in Halifax.

As children we remembered our mothers poaching smoked haddock in milk and making a milk gravy for it. But I wanted to make this inexpensive and plentiful smoked cod up in a different but still popular manner.

So, not according to custom, our "think" session resulted in me crumbing it after it was defrosted and fried, and serving it with Tartare Sauce. It was a hit.

TUESDAY
(Guests)

Dinner Menu

Baked Ham Slice in Milk; Mashed Turnip; Green Lima Beans; Grapefruit and Apply Salad Mould (see Monday); Steamed Steamed Pudding; Hard Sauce; Tea.

CRUMBED SMOKED COD FILLET WITH TARTARE SAUCE

This amount calls for one pound of fresh frozen smoked cod fillets and will serve 3 or 4, or a family of 2 adults and 2 children.

1 lb. fresh frozen smoked cod fillets
1 small egg, beaten
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup fine bread or cornflake or cracker crumbs
¼ cup cooking-oil (or butter)

Thaw and dry the cod fillets. This drying is very important, for if the fillets are damp the egg and crumbs will not cling. Cut into 6 serving pieces (if not already cut in pieces in package).

Add the lemon juice to the beaten egg and stir. Dip cod pieces in egg, then in crumbs to coat both sides. Let rest on plate for 5 or 10 minutes. Heat oil or butter in large frying pan until hot then gently transfer fish to pan. Fry over medium heat until lightly brown on one side (5 or 6 minutes). Carefully turn and brown other side. Mine took 11 minutes in all to cook until fish would flake when I cautiously tested it.

Transfer to hot platter. Serve with

TARTARE SAUCE (serves 4)

1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1 teaspoon green onion flakes (or minced onion)
2 tablespoons green pickle relish or chopped sweet pickles
¼ cup mayonnaise
Combine all ingredients. Serve in small sauce boat.

Note: The same method of egging and crumbing above may be used for any filleted fish.

Art Association Makes Plans For Annual Spring Show

At a recent meeting of the executive of the East Central Ontario Art Association held at the home of council representative Mrs. Philip Graham, in Brighton, plans were announced for the silk screen demonstration to be held in the Legion Hall, Division Street, Brighton, on Sunday afternoon, March 15. This workshop is the first in a plan to increase demonstration, instruction, as well as numbers of judges at association exhibitions. It is hoped this will be made possible through the increase in membership fee of the Association of $2.00 per person, instead of the $1.00 fee as in previous years.

The workshop will feature silk screen demonstration by Kay Carroll of Islington, Ontario, who is a member of Canadian Painter-Etchers. An added feature will be a ceramics display and demonstration by Jarka Zarr, of Brighton, internationally known professional ceramic artist. Those who plan to attend are requested to notify Mrs. Graham by March 10, if possible.

There are two elected council representatives of the E.C.O. Art Association in each of the five areas which the Association embraces. Currently, the two representatives for this eastern area are Mrs. Margaret McMillan of 86 Queen St., Campbellford and Mrs. Philip Graham, 14 Division Street, Brighton. Members and potential members are invited to communicate with either of these representatives at any time.

The date for the annual spring show of the Association was set to open at the McLaughlin Public Library in Oshawa, on Friday evening, May 8. From there the paintings will travel to Lindsay on May 24th. Following the Lindsay showing, the exhibition has been requested for Belleville, and it is expected to be available for this city early in June, with an opening date to be announced later, the Corby Public Library having made their exhibition gallery available. The executive hopes to have a panel of three judges for this year's exhibition, which is open to all members who have paid their 1964 association dues.

The spring sketching-painting weekend is planned for June 13 and 14 and the Presque Isle Beach Motel at Brighton was favored as the location.

An art show of wide interest will be held at RCAF Station Trenton late in April.

FROM THE MAIL BOX

A reader from Ottawa writes the following letter, typical of a problem which I am often asked in personal discussions.

Dear Pegg Rogers: I would like to try to open a Ladies' Wear Shop in Ottawa. I see it is a little store, especially for the woman who has difficulty finding suitable fittings for her size and style. Perhaps there may be too tall, too short, too small or too big for regular sizes. As far as I know, there is no such store in Ottawa. Is the demand for these specialized sizes big enough? How can I find out?

I cannot take too big a financial risk for certain manufacturers make these special sizes? How do I get in to see them? How much money would I need for a start?

I was a saleslady in a fashion shop for two years. Many of my customers would often compromise by buying clothes they really did not like, but only because they were hard to fit. Sometimes, they could not be fitted and I would have to watch them leave the store. I am sure that I could make a go of it on my own, but the money question worries me. — Signed — I. K.

Dear I. K.: I am very glad that you wrote to me while you are still only thinking about your store. Please, please consider very carefully before investing in a specialty store of this type. What you say that as far as you know there is no such store in Ottawa, you have answered your own question. I know that there are many women all over Canada who have difficulty obtaining the type of fashions they need because of "problem" figures. The results of this, I believe, would be, in actuality, they are far outnumbered by the women who can be fitted in a regular store. I do not think the demand is great enough in Ottawa to support such a store. As far as I know, there are only about five such stores in Montreal and Toronto and they are open between Tall sizes and Half sizes.

Some of the larger stores have departments for Half sizes and tall sizes. When these departments are first started, they usually lose money for at least one season until they become well-known.

If you are considering opening any type of fashion shop, you must know your markets and have had some experience in buying fashions for retail sale. Quite frankly, I think it doubtful that you have had enough experience to be successful. The operating of a profitable fashion store calls for far more than the good taste necessary to assemble a selection of dresses. Do you know how to calculate your mark-up? What does "laid-down" cost mean, "total market", "turnover, etc.? For experience, in this regard, I would suggest that you get a job assisting the buyer in a fashion store for a while. You will then be equipped with many more of the answers necessary to starting up in business for yourself. Thus, you will be better able to make your final decision.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers in care of this paper.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian exports in 1963 increased for the ninth consecutive year to a record $6,798,500,000, final figures issued by the bureau of statistics showed Monday.

The 1963 total represented a gain of 10 per cent from 1962 exports of $6,178,500,000.

Substantial gains were made in shipments to all main trading areas. Important advances also were registered in the export of a wide range of items, particularly wheat, lumber, iron ore, wood pulp, navigational system and electronic measuring and testing equipment and haying and harvesting machinery.

Shipments rose in the year by 4.3 per cent to the United States and 5.6 per cent to Britain, reaching $3,300,000 and $262,900,000, respectively. Exports to other Commonwealth and preferentialtrade countries advanced by 3.2 per cent to $102,200,000.

The largest increase was in shipments to the group of remaining countries which increased by nearly 20 per cent to $384,800,000. This total reflected the large wheat shipments to Russia in the last quarter of 1963 and sizable gains in general shipments to Japan and Latin America.

with even wider variations in particular cases.

The other opposition parties—New Democrats, Social Credit and Creditistes—raised no serious objections on these two points in discussions last session.

COULD CALL VOTE

Sources in several parties have suggested that a compromise may be proposed to provide a tolerance of 25 per cent, and, if there are still objections, to bring the matter to a vote in the Commons. The government has said it is willing to be guided by the majority of MPs in the final form of the legislation.

Rapid passage through the Commons would give the commissions a fair chance of placing the new constituency maps before Parliament by the spring of 1966, experts say.

French?" he asked.

"This does not represent the attitude of the province. It provides us with more opportunity to run our own affairs."

Dr. Chaput said Quebec Premier Jean Lesage, in Ontario on a goodwill visit last weekend, accepts a traditional state of Confederation and does his best to work within it.

"He belongs to the traditional class of nationalists—I belong to the other."

He said Mr. Lesage's phrase "masters in our own house" is a separatist slogan but the premier did not realize it when he used it.

Dr. Chaput corrected a question which underestimated him to say that separatists were in the majority in Quebec.

"I did not say majority. Besides, all revolutions are minority actions, by definition."

By JOHN WOODFIELD

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tiny electronic circuits, barely visible to the naked eye, are the latest addition in the United States arsenal for space.

Known as molecular electronic circuits, the technique squeezes into tiny wafers the functions ordinarily performed by an entire assembly of electronic components.

The wafers contain as many as 50 separate electronic components with no moving parts and few connections. The wafers are smaller than the head of a match and thinner than a match book cover.

Already, 300 of the tiny circuits replace conventional circuits 1,000 times their size in every Minuteman ballistics missile. Others are used in the Apollo missile program, the mobile medium - range ballistics of missile, the Titan III, the TFX aircraft and several top-secret space programs.

Their development has made possible television cameras 7½ inches long and weighing only 27 ounces; computers weighing 10 ounces, and a radio receiver weighing less than eight ounces.

FAST DEVELOPMENT

Molecular electronics, also known as integrated circuitry, originated in 1948. Until last year, however, development had been slow. Now, it is meteoric.

Laboratory workers start with a silicon wafer the size of a quarter, and .005 of an inch thick. Eventually, this wafer will house from 20 to 1,000 separate circuits each with up to 50 components.

The surface of the wafer first is highly polished. Then each side is masked by a layer of oxide. Transistors, diodes and other electronic components are formed on the wafer's surface by opening tiny windows in the oxide and driving selected impurities into the wafer through the openings. Masks of different designs are used on the face of the wafer to achieve the different patterns that make up the circuit just as a stencil is used to print an address on a box.

The silicon wafer is untouched by hand from start to finish. Instead it is handled by tweezers or vacuum pencils and always in a laboratory environment. When the wafer is cut into the individual circuits, the units are so small they can be worked on only with the aid of microscopes.

C. Harry Knowles, general manager of the Westinghouse molecular electronics division, predicts that $70,000,000 worth of molecular circuits will be produced in 1965, $100,000,000 in 1966 and several hundred million dollars worth by 1970.

Westinghouse, one of the pioneers in the field, has just dedicated an entire complex near Baltimore which solely produces molecular electronic circuits.

Knowles says that one day soon, perhaps in 1965, car radios will use molecular electronic circuitry and two-way radios no bigger than a wrist watch will be in mass production.

Westinghouse already is supplying the components for tiny radio transmitter-receivers that will be built into the helmets of combat troops.

Knowles says that by 1970 there will be hearing aids so tiny the entire unit, including battery, can fit inside the ear.

Even smaller units are foreseen.

There would be true molecular electronics."

Interpreter's Job Calls For Unbiased Translations

Could you please send me some addresses to write to, pamphlets, or any information concerning the career of an interpreter, specially a U.N. interpreter? There is little information about the career in the school guidance office. — AMBITIOUS.

DEAR AMBITIOUS — You need a love of languages and a lot of feeling for using them. A conscientious interpreter also keeps a cool head and his own opinions to himself — otherwise his free translations may carry prejudice. Marriage would be an appalling solution for a 14-year-old girl — even if it were legal. Our child care agencies bend over backwards to save our misguided girls from unhappy lifetime sentences, devoting much time to each panicky girl and her special situation.

DEAR DORIS'— You and Mrs. Mary Moore, dietitian, sound much alike. I wonder if you are sisters. — MRS. K. H.

DEAR MRS. K. H. — We are. And it's a great help having a cook-counsellor in the family. Then when one of her readers presents an affair of the heart, I help her.

DEAR DORIS — Our adopted daughter of 14, is a big problem. She resents us for adopting her. (She was just seven months old.) She will take no responsibility at home.

If she does something wrong and I try to explain to her she gets angry and tells me I'm not her boss nor am I her mother. She'll turn around and call me the filthiest names she can think of and it almost breaks my heart.

She is making grades fine and has just made passing marks in school. I do not scold her if she fails; just tell her to try her best. But every day she reminds us that once she reaches the age of 16 she will go away and never come back.

We give her clothes, take her places, yet she says we never take her any place. It seems to me if she would co-operate we would be very happy. DISTRESSED.

DEAR DISTRESSED — Somewhere along the line your girl got the idea that she did not really belong to you. Expert counselling then might have helped. You make a child yours by the love you give and receive far more than by bearing her. How have you detached yourself?

There is a time for discipline and limits; a time to give affection; a time to give yourself in companionship. Intense personal casework could help, even now, from the agency which arranged the adoption.

• • •

This would have to be spelled out in a formal agreement with your parents, entered into because they do not want you for their child any more. Which I can't believe! Caterer Ponders Disrobing Techniques of Imbibers

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Why do people who have had too much to drink invariably peel off their clothing? I have yet to see a person who is loaded put anything on — but an awful lot of drinkers seem to take things off.

Usually it's the shoes that come off first — particularly with women drinkers. Next, they shed stockings, belts, earrings and so on.

I've worked as a waitress for a catering service for 10 years and have had plenty of opportunity to observe party drinkers. I have always been baffled by the inevitable disrobing process which usually begins after three martinis. What causes it? — SARDINE PUSHER.

DEAR PUSHER — Alcohol removes the inhibitions and produces a "don't give a darn" attitude. It also dilates the surface blood vessels which cause people to feel warm.

Combine these two factors and you have the complete answer to your question.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Three years ago I married a bachelor who was 30 years my senior. He was kind, gentle and considerate.

I knew the score when I went into this second marriage. Romance was not in the picture. It was pure companionship. There was one drawback — I had to accept his spinster sister since they had always made their home together. Before long I realized what a mistake I had made but never once did I complain or let him know how abusive and domineering she was.

Two months ago my husband died. His sister refuses to move out of this house. My husband owned the home outright and left it to me in his will. She says it makes no difference. The house is all she has left of him and she will never move.

He left her a nice trust fund which will take care of her if she lives to be 100. Please tell me how to get rid of this shrew — short of calling the police? This I will not do. — MARTHA.

DEAR MARTHA — Offer to sell her the house at a price arrived at by an appraiser. If she refuses to buy the house from you, then go ahead and sell it and let the new owners call the police.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a 16-year-old girl who is very mature for my age. I have been served liquor since I was 15 and no one has ever asked to see my I.D. card.

I'm madly in love with a boy who is 17. He has given me his class ring which means we are as good as engaged. I am going to marry him. Nothing in the whole world can stop me.

My problem is his mother. She hates me like poison. When ever he wants the car to take me out she thinks up an excuse. Once when I was in her house and she wasn't there I accidentally burned a hole in the sofa. Like a dunce I called her the next day and offered to have the sofa repaired. Instead of being nice, and complimenting me on my honesty, she blew her top and ordered me never to come to her house again when she wasn't there.

I would give anything if I could get this woman to like me. Please give me some suggestions. — CHILLED.

DEAR CHILLED — You are never going to get this woman to like you, so forget it. As a matter of fact, you aren't going to get any boy's mother to like you unless you straighten around, kiddo.

No mother in her right mind would approve of a 16-year-old girl who drinks, smokes and visits in her home when no adult is there. Where is your mother, Toots?

CAMPBELLFORD

Woman Remains In Critical Condition

CAMPBELLFORD—The condition of Mrs. Lillie Annie Stone, injured in a one car accident here Friday remained critical according to a report from doctors at Peterborough Civic Hospital Monday evening. Mrs. Stone was a passenger in a car travelling north on Highway 30 which went out of control and crashed into a ditch. She received severe scalp lacerations, a fractured neck and spinal injuries as well as other undetermined internal injuries. The driver, Frederick Fader, 40, of West Hill, had an ear almost severed in the accident, but his condition is reported as good.

BOWLERS COMPETE

Bowlers from seven district branches of the Royal Canadian Legion competed in a qualifying round at the Trent Valley Lanes here Saturday. A Trenton team placed first, Port Hope was second and the team from the Campbellford branch captured the third and last qualifying position.

In singles competition, Campbellford Legion's entrant, Garland Irwin, placed first and won a play-off berth.

Fourteen teams, two from each branch, competed in the qualifying round. The three winning teams and the singles winners will compete in Oshawa early in April, with the winners of the finals going to Thorold later in April to compete for the provincial command championship.

Guantanamo

ica: Castro said Cuba is ready to establish relations with any government in Latin America willing to do so and added that all Latin American nations have common interests and problems.

Asked whether Cuba would insist on a change in the status of the U.S.-leased Guantanamo naval base before discussing ways to improve the situation with the U.S., Castro said:

"The U.S. government would have to desire such discussions. I don't think it would be practical to establish any preconditions such as the case of Guantanamo Bay. In our opinion the United States is occupying the base by virtue of a treaty imposed by force. Legally the position of the United States is very weak.

"The base can be used for counter - revolutionary activities and is in all ways a beachhead from which we are menaced."

"It is logical that we aspire that this piece of land will be returned to our country some day. On the other hand it is not an urgent question to make us feel impatient in any way."

Mrs. Lillie Annie Stone, 37, of West Hill, formerly of Campbellford, remains in critical condition in a Peterborough hospital following an accident in which this car, in which she was a passenger, was demolished Friday night near Campbellford. She suffered a fractured neck, severe scalp lacerations and other undetermined injuries. Frederick Earl Fader, 40, of West Hill, whom police said was the driver, had an ear almost severed. (Wm. W. New B-A Durafilm Motor Oil can give you a smoother running engine

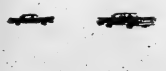
It eliminates oil-induced pre-ignition and plug fouling

Should you use B-A Durafilm in your car engine? If you own a late model car or are planning the purchase of a new one, B-A Durafilm is the motor oil for your car. B-A Durafilm was created for the high-powered engines of today's automobiles. These engines are harder on component parts. Valves, cams, bearings and spark plugs are subject to greater stresses; higher temperatures. And crankcases are getting smaller. This means that these more powerful engines have to be lubricated with less oil. Obviously, the oil must be a lot more efficient.

Surpasses all car manufacturers' requirements. New B-A Durafilm motor oil has been fully tested under conditions prescribed by the car manufacturers' themselves. In every case, B-A Durafilm surpassed by far the requirements of the most severe service tests. B-A Durafilm is not just a good motor oil, it is a vastly superior motor oil.

B-A Durafilm keeps engines clean. Newly developed and extremely powerful detergents and inhibitors have been used in new Durafilm. The inhibitors prevent oil breakdown at high temperatures. The detergents keep the engine clean. This means no clogged oil screens, no stuck valve lifters, no draggy pistons, no stuck piston rings. B-A's new detergent combination also eliminates oil-induced pre-ignition as well as plug fouling and engine rumble. Durafilm makes your car engine run better, last longer and cost less to operate and maintain.

Easy starting—greater fuel economy. New B-A Durafilm has a very high viscosity index. (Flows easily at extremely low temperatures and does not thin out at extremely high engine operating temperatures.) This means that extreme temperatures have less effect on viscosity than is the case with ordinary oils. This makes your engine start easier and gives you better valve-lifter performance. You will get better gasoline economy, (up to 10% better in city driving). You'll also use less oil and have lower piston ring wear.



B-A Durafilm absorbs contaminants. One of the functions of a motor oil is to "hold" contaminants such as soot, dirt and water and prevent then from depositing in your engine. When too many contaminants get into the oil, it breaks down and releases these contaminants throughout the engine. This clogs the engine with gummy deposits, sludge and rust. When this happens, you're faced with a big repair bill. New B-A Durafilm prevents this.

Two grades of B-A Durafilm. New B-A Durafilm is available in SAE 10W-30 for most driving conditions and SAE 5W-20 for extreme cold. B-A Durafilm Motor Oil is at your B-A dealer's now.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Davy Crockett, the legend says, once killed a bear with his bare hands. Tonight a pugilistic Crockett goes "b-ar-hunt'n'." But he faces a mighty Ursus with a warhead for a fist propelled by the force of a torpedo.

Cassius Marcellus Clay, by far the most colorful ruinbow to flash across the flstic horizon well meet the awesome Sonny Liston, a man he has dubbed "that ugly ole bear" in what should be a brief but blasting climax to months of bombast, bellowing and boasting.

There is no doubt the handsome young poetry-spouting "Lip from Louisville," has, through a magnificent ego and showmanship, built the "take" to somewhat fantastic proportions although the ringside crowd tonight will not by any means realize promoters' dreams.

As a matter of fact the Clay verbal and physical calisthenics over the fight was rapidly approaching the boring stage. It is just as well perhaps the fight will take place tonight and not two months from now.

At this writing it was reported that Clay's share of the gate will approximate $600,000, a far cry from his boasted three millions. Liston will collect two million, unless a miracle happened overnight and the $250-per-seat customers fill Miami's Convention Hall, and the fans in the hinterland pass up radio for closed television circuits in arenas and theatres.

As one informed observer puts it, "Clay nearly blew the whole scene when he said he would crawl across the ring to kiss Liston's feet if he lost. Then he admitted he would not feel so bad because he would laugh all the way to the bank because he had caused everybody to come and see him and because he had created a national scene. Cassius cannot lose no matter what happens Tuesday night."

Clay may have created a national scene but in the creating he may have twisted the Russian roulette revolver to where the hammer lies over the loaded cartridge. Simply he has made Liston "mad" and anyone who makes the "Bear" mad before climbing into the ring with him is asking for a quick release from consciousness.

Clay has sung, danced, clowned and "poemized" his way through workouts while playing to an audience. True he is reported to be in perfect physical condition but, as he claims, he may be hiding his true form from those who paid to see and hear him.

On the other hand, a Miami report states, "In a not pleasant scene Liston moved grimly, like a creature on display while behind him on stage a dozen handlers stood frozen in tableau as the champion danced, shadowboxed, skipped and mauled the heavy 75-pound bag."

One day last week Cassius and his retinue visited Liston's training quarters in a sleek Cadillac. "Float like a butterfly; sting like a bee" they roared in unison. They explained how pretty Clay was and how ugly was the "Bear." Within seconds a crowd gathered.

Then one of Liston's men came running out of the centre with a popsicle in his hand. "Here's the only thing you can lick," he said to Clay.

Well, tonight tells the story.

Live coverage of the fight will be carried over the CBC radio network (CJBQ) starting at 9.35. The coverage will include a special 15-minute pre-fight program of interviews and commentary.

Blow-by-blow will be given from ringside by Les Keiter while between-rounds commentary will be handled by Howard Cosell and Rocky Marciano.

And in case you didn't know, there will be no home television.

The limb? I don't think there will be action in Miami's Convention Hall after the third round. Liston will be on his way to a gastvictory steak celebration while Cassius will be in dreamland listening to those golden eagle birdies chirp Cadillac choruses while bank tellers count the "loot."

Predict Record 'Lights-Out' For Clay

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla- (AP)—Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, the brooding destroyer, is an overwhelming 7-1 favorite to—with virtually no betting—to burst the fabulous bubble of the brash bard from Louisville, Cassius Clay.

Most observers predict the lights will go out tonight for the boastful, poem-spouting challenger within minutes, perhaps seconds, after the scheduled 10 p.m. EST opening gong in Miami Beach's Convention Hall.

The fastest knockout on record in a heavyweight championship is one minute, 2 seconds, scored by Tommy Burns over Jem Roach March 17, 1906. Many are convinced this mark will be broken.

"I won't be trying for a record, but I am for a quick knockout," Liston said. "It will be over as soon as I catch him." Sudden demolition has become the theme of Liston's awesome fists.

LAST THREE QUICK

His last three knocked out his last three opponents—Albert Westphal of Germany and former title-holder Floyd Patterson twice—in the first round, using a total of 4 minutes, 14 seconds.

The 22-year-old Clay, who says he "floats like a butterfly and stings like a bee," refused right up to the zero hour to assume the role of a man waiting for the modern guillotine.

"I'll outbox him in seven rounds and knock him out in the eighth," he insisted, adding his favorite poetic twist: "I'm predicting eight to prove I'm great."

His never-ending spiel of "I'm the king—I'm the greatest" has failed to make a dent however, on boxing fans, who must shell out on a scale of $20 to $250 for one of the 16,000 seats. Indications were that they would stay away in droves.

A closed circuit television network, covering 269 theatres and arenas in the United States and Canada, is expected to gross between $4 and $5 million, assuring both fighters a handsome pay day.

The fight will be carried on the CBC radio network across Canada.

If the over-all figure reaches $5,000,000 Liston stands to earn $1,360,000. Clay could draw $600,000.

A victory for the Louisville Lip—regarded as something in the miracle category — would provide one of the upsets of the century and one of the most astounding success stories in sport history.

HAS LIGHT PUNCH

Cassius has banged his cane against the ground and repeated "I am the greatest" so often that he seems to believe himself that he is unbeatable. He is a superb-looking athlete, 6-foot-3 and at 215 the heaviest of his career, but, by comparison with Liston, he has a powder-puff punch.

There are those who believe that Liston could drop his hands and let Cassius whale away at him for a full round, without ever being dropped to the canvas.

"He'll make a monkey out of Liston," Dundee said.

Liston is a frightening bulk of a man, 6-1 with an 84-inch reach 46½ inch chest when expanded, muscled biceps and neck that measure the same—17½ inches.

He has a left hook that, along with devastating force — It was this blow that smashed Patterson into senselessness both times—and a right hand that is frightening.

MOVES LIKE CAT

An enigmatic, surly man, he moves like a big jungle cat, his cold eyes piercing into those of his opponent and never changing expression.

Liston insists that Clay's incessant boasting and slurs (Cassius calls the champion that "big ugly bear") never have got under his skin.

"Talking don't win fights," Liston said. "Between one and three rounds you'll be going home."

Cassius showed up at Convention Hall shortly before noon and took a look at the ring. He was more subdued than he's been in weeks. "I'm not talking now," he said. "I want to get on with it."

Two hours later Liston and his trainer, massive Willie Reddish, made an appearance. They picked up tickets and left, without a word.

Junior A Score Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andre Boudrias of Montreal Jured Canadiens scored four goals in four games last week to increase his lead in the scoring race in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Boudrias has 37 goals and 33 assists for a total of 130 points, 27 more than his closest rival, linemate Yvan Cournoyer, who has 89 goals and 44 assists for 103 points.

Fred Stanfield of St. Catharines Black Hawks continues to hold down third spot with 32 goals and 66 assists. Five points back of him is teammate Denis Hull.

Bernie Parent of Niagara Falls Flyers continues to have the best goaltending record in the eight-team league. In his 26 games he has allowed 75 goals and racked up four shutouts for a 2.88 average.

Ray Ouimet Of Maroons Suspended

CHATHAM (CP)—Centre Ray Ouimet was suspended indefinitely Monday by Chatham Maroons of the International Hockey League for failing to return from a trip to his home in Noranda, Que.

Women's Curling Championship

Upset Leaves 3 Rinks Unbeaten

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP)—A double takeout by Nova Scotian skip Rene Snow with the last rock of an extra end produced a resounding upset in first-day play of the Canadian women's curling championships.

Mrs. Snow's clutch delivery Monday produced a 9-7 second-round victory over Alberta, tumbling the westerners out of the ranks of the undefeated and leaving Ontario and New Brunswick to join favored British Columbia in first place with 2-0 won-lost records.

Next in line, together with Alberta and Nova Scotia, were Saskatchewan and Manitoba, each with a win and a loss. Newfoundland, Quebec and Prince Edward Island were winless in two starts.

Ina Hansen's Kimberley, B.C., rink, making its third appearance in the championships, breezed past Newfoundland 14-7 and Quebec 10-4. Helen Hanright's Ottawa foursome also looked impressive downing Nova Scotia 11-7 and Prince Edward Island 12-3. Joan Callaghan's Bathurst, N.B., quartet disposed of P.E.I. 11-9 and Newfoundland 13-7.

Alberta, represented by Mickey Down's Dawson Creek, B.C., foursome, from an area affiliated with the Alberta Curling Association, was involved in a couple of squeakers.

MISSES TAKEOUT

Manitoba skip Myrtle McGregor missed a last-rock try for a double takeout that left the Albertans lying three for a 9-8 victory in their first-round match. Then Mrs. Snow came through on a similar shot in the 11th end, her second straight difficult shot, to lead Nova Scotia to victory.

Saskatchewan whipped Quebec 11-4 in the first round but bowed 12-8 to Manitoba in the second.

Two more rounds were scheduled in the round-robin tournament today.

The opening draw pitted New Brunswick against Quebec, Newfoundland against Manitoba, Saskatchewan against Ontario, Alberta against Prince Edward Island and British Columbia against Nova Scotia.

The evening pairings were Nova Scotia vs- Manitoba, New Brunswick vs. Saskatchewan, Newfoundland vs. Prince Edward Island, British Columbia vs. Ontario and Alberta vs. Quebec.

SCORE FIVE-ENDER

Mrs. Hansen's favorites from Kimberley broke open their first-round game with Tinker Rockwell's St. John's rink with five on the 10th end- B.C. led by two coming home after coming from behind 3-2 and 7-5 deficits.

B.C. settled down in the evening round and had no difficulty with Anne Phillips of Mount Royal, a Montreal suburb.

Joan Callaghan's New Brunswick rink was equally impressive. The New Brunswick quartet broke open a tight game with three on the ninth end of the first round and surrendered a meaningless single to Prince Edward Island's representatives, skippered by March Nicholson of Montague, on the 10th.

The Montague quartet fell behind Mrs. Hanright early, trailing 7-3 after five ends. Es- is tremely deliberate, Ontario counted four on the last two ends to trip Mrs. Snow and her Halifax associates after eight ends in the first round.

The tournament ends Thursday.

Hall Has 5-Goal Margin For Vezina

Assist Record

By MARVEN MOSS

WOW! FIST OR HAM? — The above composite picture shows the massive right mauler of Sonny Liston and how Clay — or anyone — might feel if it were headed in their direction. There's a lot of power behind that "mitt, podner" and one application could be sufficient. There is no home television but you can hear it via CBC radio (CJBQ) starting 9:45.

MONTREAL (CP) — Glenn Hall seems to have overcome the touch of the jitters that befell him in the first half of the National Hockey League schedule and he heads into the stretch run with a lead of some proportions in his defence of the Vezina Trophy.

In a less, probable department, he is piling up assists. Mark him down for two now.

A five-goal gap separates Hall from his pursuers for the goal-tending award and the rest of the schedule confers an additional edge to the 32-year-old journeyman.

But he counted his second assist of the campaign in the league's weekend play—setting up a 50-foot goal by Bobby Hull while shutting out Boston 3-0—and that's a better mark than some defencemen can show playing on a more-or-less regular basis.

FIVE-GOAL LEAD

Official league statistics released today show the man fans of the Black Hawks in Chicago call Mr. Goalie has a five-goal cushion on Johnny Bower and Charlie Hodge in the goal-tending competition.

But 10 more games and the Black Hawks are through for the schedule. Bower's Toronto Maple Leafs have 13 to go and Hodge's Montreal Canadiens 12.

The trophy goes to the goaltender most active for the club with the best defence.

The NHL weekly sheet shows the Black Hawks have given up an average of 2.14 a game—is actually three percentage points lower than Hall's. But Don Simmons who shares the job with Bower piled up a 3.46 tab in 15 games.

Hall came down with a couple of jitters and nervous tension in the first part of the season. His fill-in Denis DeJordy performed at a 3.35 clip. But it was only for 5 2-3 games.

2.28 COMBINED

The combined Hall-DeJordy mark is 2.28 compared with 2.49 for Bower-Simmons. The Canadiens' a four percentage points below Toronto. Hodge's mark since ousting Gump Worsley from the goal-keeping job is 2.22.

Hall, a man of mild mien, was up to Vezina chance for seven seasons before his string of consecutive appearances was served at 552 games Nov. 7, 1962.

An injury finally shunted him to the sidelines. But this season the strain on him job became even too much for him and with the highly-rated DeJordy as a standby Hall's guts grew him a rest periodically.

But not since Jan. 1 has he been out. With the scramble for the No. 1 spot in the standings as tight as it is, it's unlikely he will. Five days of sideline time until the issue is resolved.

Hall tops in their special departments are Hall's teammates Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull. Mikita is the most prolific man on the attack with 75 points and Hull the most potent goalgetter with 36. Penalty leader? Mikita with 136 minutes.

Henry Cooper Decisions Brian London

MANCHESTER (AP)—Henry Cooper scored a 15-round decision over Brian London Monday and added the European heavyweight boxing championship to his British and British Empire titles.

It was the third time Cooper and London have met and the third time Cooper has won.

It was Cooper's sixth straight British heavyweight victory, and the one that made him the first man in history to win two British heavyweight belts. Fighters get one belt for successfully defending their title three times and another for three more successful defences.

Cooper, who suffered a fifth-round knockout by Cassius lay last June 18, has held the British title since 1959.

There were no knockdowns.

Cooper was rated ninth among the heavyweight challengers going into the fight.

BCI Bantams Shade Moira In Opener

By ROBERT WILLIAMS

BCI bantams took a four point lead over Moira in a home and home series total points to count for the Bay of Quinte championship. In a game that started slow and picked up quickly BCI edged Moira 28-24.

BCI held a 4-2 margin in the 1st quarter but Moira came back in the 2nd quarter to tie it up 6-6. Pierce checking by BCI held Moira off but poor passing gave the ball back to Moira more than once.

The end of the 3rd quarter saw BCI with a 10 point lead 20-10 but Moira smartened up and lead outscoring BCI 14-8 in the final quarter by getting most of the rebounds.

Gary Swa earned 11 points followed by J. McCreary with 10. Wishart at Moira had eight and six points for Moira while J. Hayman was held to four points.

Smoke-Eaters Meet Kingston In Charity Ex.

Charity will be the winner when the Belleville Fire Department tangles with Kingston "No-Stars" in an exhibition hockey match at Memorial Arena here tomorrow (Wednesday) night.

The game is part of the "No-Stars" Operation Penelles but half of the profits will go to the Belleville firefighters who will in turn donate it toward a proposed Belleville Youth Centre.

Large crowds have filled other district areas for the fun and laughs on the Kingston squad's exhibition tour. The "No-Stars" have many Kingston TV-Radio personalities, such as Max "Old Baldie" Jackson, Brian Olney, Gerry Tinlin, Doug McFarlane, Dave Kirkland and others, in their lineup.

Meanwhile the Firemen will send out the likes of George Woodhouse, big Freddy Smith, Reg Christopher, Pat Barrett, Lyle Wannamaker and numerous others.

Laughs should outnumber the goals but the cause is a worthy one and it is hoped a large crowd will attend.

Game time is 8:30.

Watkin Wins City Ten-Pin Tournament

Austin Watkin scored highly in the final five games to capture first place in the Brunswick Masters 10-pin bowling tournament played here on the weekend.

Watkin, by winning the Belleville area tournament crown, will join winners from 24 other districts in the overall finals to be played at Sault Ste. Marie on March 13 and 14.

There were 15 games in all bowled to select a winner from the Belleville area and Watkin copped the honors by rolling 960 in this weekend's five-game string. His total for 15 games was 2768.

Other scores were: Randy Lowen 3616; Toots Holway 2600; Jerry Miller 2585; Wally Lavergne 2580; Bob Liscum 2489; George Newell 2489; Gar Anderson 2477; Duane Peschler 2463; Bill Taylor 2455; Pete Drenth 2451; Bob Rutherford 2429, and Art Pfeffer 2407.

In ladies' ten-pin action last Friday night, Vivian Moreau bowled a tremendous 256 single, said to be a woman's high for ten pins since the game became popular here three years ago.

Mrs. Moreau had seven strikes in a row in her high game.

Picton, Napanee Win Playoffs

Picton Merchants and Napanee Red Wings, favored to meet once again in the OBA Eastern Junior "C" hockey league group title, both moved a step closer to that goal last night.

Picton shaded Gananoque Islanders 5-4 in Gananoque to grab a 2-0 lead in their semi-final series. Harold Haddock scored three goals for Picton, Hannell and McConnell one apiece. Doug Higgins had two, Dwight Hall and Bob Hannah the others for Gananoque.

Meanwhile, Napanee Red Wings clopped Trenton 4-2 in Napanee in the first game of their similar series. Both sets are best-of-five.

Next games have Napanee in Trenton Wednesday night while Gananoque returns to Picton on Thursday.

Winnipeg To Play In Europe

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons, a team with plenty of experience and few young skating lags, fly to Europe Wednesday hoping to duplicate a 1960 hockey tour in which they conceded only one loss and two ties in 10 starts.

The Maroons, mainly composed of former professional players and averaging 30.7 years of age, face a gruelling schedule of 13 games in 18 days in West Germany, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland.

A team without a league of its own in Manitoba, they have won 13 of 16 games this season against teams of the neighboring Saskatchewan Senior League, the provincial athletic union play, they tied the national teams of Canada 1-1 and Czechoslovakia 5-5, losing to Sweden 7-4 and the United States 3-2.

Notes From Ringside

By MURRAY ROSE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Every heavyweight title fight in nearly nine years had ended in a knockout. The last one to go the distance was champion Rocky Marciano's 15-round decision over Ezzard Charles, June 17, 1954.

If undefeated Cassius Clay should upset champion Sonny Liston he will join an elite group of three heavyweight rulers who had won all of their pro fights before getting a crack at the throne. The only others were John L. Sullivan, Marciano and Ingemar Johansson.

Joe Louis holds the record of first round knockouts in heavyweight title fights. The Brown Bomber belted out five challengers in the first round. Sonny Liston has two—both over Floyd Patterson.

The last big, upset in a heavyweight title fight was Jersey Joe Walcott's seventh round knockout of Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh, July 18, 1951. Walcott had been beaten twice before by Charles and was a 6-to-1 underdog in their third clash. Jimmy Braddock was a 10-to-1 long shot June 13, 1935, when he dethroned Maxie Baer on a 15-round decision in New York.

The referee will be wired for sound at the Liston-Clay title fight. Closed circuit television viewers will be able to hear him long knockdown counts. A tiny microphone will be attached to the ref's shirt and it will look like a fly button. The transmitter will be carried in a pocket.

Under the new rules, if either Clay or Liston is on the floor from a punch when the bell ends a round, the referee will continue the count. If the downed fighter is counted out in the rest period, the knockout will belong to the round which had just ended.

Most of the betting by the professional gamblers is on whether the fight goes more than five rounds. It's even money that it doesn't go beyond five.

Lightfoots Win First From Flyers

Regular - schedule scoring champion Doug Rose continued his hot scoring pace while pacing Belleville Lightfoots to a 62-37 triumph over Trenton RCAF Flyers at the air station last night.

The game was the first in a three-of-five Bay of Quinte Basketball League tiltilar series. Second game of the series is also slated for the air station next Monday night, at eight o'clock.

Flyers took an early lead before Lightfoots fought back to tie it 18-18. The Belleville squad never trailed after that point, moving ahead 32-22 at half time.

The winners increased their margin to 16 points early in the second half but RCAF battled back and cut the margin down to a spread of five on several occasions — and thats the way it ended.

Rose hooped 22 points to pace the Lightfoot attack, although's the team's points were well distributed. Warren Wesley and Don Smith were next in line behind Rose with ten points apiece.

Wilf Borden was the big gun for RCAF, hitting for 27 points. Ernie Clarke followed with 10. McNichol and Wyzuk each getting eight.

It is expected that the entire series will be played at the air force court, at the rate of one game a week, since the Belleville club does not have a home court.

Belleville Lightfoots (62): Rose 22, G. Smith 6, L. Campbell 4, G. Duggan 3, I. Houchin, G. Reynolds 4, D. Smith 2.

RCAF Flyers (57): W. Borden 27, Cooke 2, M. McNichol 8, B. Foyle 2, E. Clarke 10, Wydzik 8, B. Butterfield, Waldie, Nelson.

Meet Kingston In Semi-Finals

B's Bow To Peterborough 5-1

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

PETERBOROUGH — Belleville "B"s face the unhappy task of meeting their arch rivals, Kingston Frontenacs, in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" group semi-finals today after losing a steady-fought 5-1 decision to Peterborough Monsene here last night.

Monsene took top position among the three-clubs with last night's win — leaving the "B"s and Frontenacs to face each other in what will likely be a 3-of-5 semi-finals. The series is expected to open in Kingston on Saturday unless committee room decisions change the picture in the meantime.

Peterborough spotted the "B"s a 1-0 lead then came back with three goals in the first heat and singletons in the second and third on their way to the 5-1 schedule-ending decision.

Belleville's opening goal came on a power play at 12.06, seconds after a hooking penalty to Bean. Pinkerd Larry Stewart finished off a three-way play with Grant Hagerman and Bobby Boyle, shooting the disc in a corner after a pass across the goal mouth.

The lead was shortlived. Steve Latinovitch knotted the score at 14.41, tapping home Curtis' pass after a pileup in front of Bobby Moon's cage. Pete Byer made it 2-1 two minutes later, picking the far corner after taking LaPlante's pass in fairly close.

In the middle frame, neither club impressed, throwing the puck away time and again when opportunities beckoned. Play was scrambly although the losers missed a good chance by the Stewart-Jones-Lang combo at the doorsep on one occasion. Moon raced 20 feet from his net to beat LaPlante to a loose puck once.

Lang and Curtis were off together for high sticking and fighting when Dave Kariio made it 4-1 at 19.22. He broke in, decked the lone defender, out of his skates and perfect it behind Moon with apparent ease.

Early in the third, Muirhead set Rutherford up perfectly from close range but Steve Reze blocked the shot with a pad. Minutes later Richard Scammell closed the scoring, working in from the side boards before sinking a backhander. That was at 8.19 and both clubs missed several good chances after.

Pete Byer was tops for Monsene with a goal and two assists, Paul Curtis getting one of each.

Larry Stewart, Bobby Boyle, Gerry Jones and the ever-dangerous Rutherford - Muirhead - Hagerman line were Belleville's best, although Muirhead reinjured his knee slightly late in the game, slowing him to a standstill.

There were 11 penalties assessed, Peterborough drawing six.

BELLEVILLE — Moon, Boyle, Rowland, Rutherford, Grant Hagerman, Lang, Smith, Muirhead, Gee, Hagerman, Jones, Stewart, Pringle, Boomhower.

PETERBOROUGH - Rose, Shirton, Goody, Byer, Kariio, LaPlante, Hunt, Bean, Scammell, Stabler, Crawford, Latinovich, Curtis, Ingham, McCarthy.

Referee — Jimmy Williams and John McFadden, of Peterborough.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For February 26

Aries (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): Don't count too heavily on wishes being fulfilled. Say No to be realistic and practical. If you want things done, do them yourself. Attend to routine matters. Emphasize solidity.

Taurus (Apr. 20 - May 20): Look to future once details are out of way. You have been through trying period. Now, relax. See the forest as well as trees. Share hopes, aspirations with trusted friend.

Gemini (May 21 - June 21): Key is harmony. Don't be at cross-purposes with yourself. Wild goose chase results if you fail to double check. Includes addresses, telephone numbers. Family member has valuable answer.

Cancer (June 22 - July 21): Fortunate time if you analyze situation. Don't take things for granted. Temptation is to "believe." Wise course is to be skeptical. Messages very clear by tonight. Remain alert!

Leo (July 22 - Aug. 21): News concerning money affairs should be given priority. Check with expert. Especially where family security is involved. Remember your responsibilities. Put work before pleasure.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22): Finish projects. Expand. Widen area of contacts. Don't be limited in actions or mental processes. You could come across lucky - saving method in personal life, be affectionate.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): You can now find pleasure in exploring. Don't be afraid to investigate. Be your own critic. Attend unusual theatrical production. Volunteer in "off-beat" community project.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): One who "teaches" can offer you valuable lesson. Heed it. Don't hide yourself in progress, opportunity. Day when you can advance aspirations. Take major step toward goal.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Family dispute could upset plans. Use avoid this. Bring forth wonderful sense of humor. Means be considerate, mature. Be kind. Handle with your own way — hear suggestions!

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): Reach out for information. Don't remain "in the dark." Highlight knowledge. Be scrupulous in checking details. Important that you have thorough knowledge of basic facts.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19): Many express appreciation for your past efforts. But don't fall victim to flattery. This is not time to accept added burdens. Break away from those who "weigh" you down. Relax!

Pisces (Feb. 20 - Mar. 20): Fulfill promises, obligations. Shop for that "stocker" item. Self-doubt vanishes once you take positive action. Means stop worrying and start doing. Key is energy.

If today is your birthday . . . you have flair for succeeding when odds are stacked against you.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Virgo, Libra, Scorpio. Special w. d. to Taurus. Every today make it obvious that love is of paramount importance. Don't duck the issue!

Finley Comes To Terms

Peace, Ain't It Wonderful!

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley says he's ready to sign a four-year stadium lease for his Athletics Wednesday and city officials pledge their support.

This would appear to lift the clouds from the troubled franchise, coming on the heels of an American League vote authorizing a meeting to consider ousting Finley from the league.

General Manager Pat Friday reported a flood of telephone inquiries about season tickets Monday after Finley's acceptance Sunday. Friday said an extensive sales drive is being organized.

But Kenneth Krakauer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the city is entitled to assurances from Finley that he won't try to break the lease in the future by suing the league. Krakauer indicated he wouldn't fire loose the chamber's team of 400 ticket sellers until Finley gives assurances no lawsuit will be filed.

"I want to play ball. Joe Cronin (American League president) wants to play ball, the city wants to play ball, so let's get going."

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

"The acceptance telegram speaks for itself. If anyone wishes to attack or criticize the proposal extended to us by Kansas City and which we have accepted, I just don't understand their thinking and have no comment."

After the first American League meeting Jan. 16 rejecting his bid to move to Louisville, Finley said he would take his case to court. He made no such threat after the AL meeting last Friday, but a reliable source told The Associated Press that Finley's counsel, Louis Nizer, had advised the owner to accept a lease that had turned reasonable, then sue the league on grounds he was forced to accept a lease he didn't want.

It's obvious the club will have problems, with the season only six weeks away. Only a little over 750 season tickets have been sold, compared to 8,500 by opening day last year. No television or radio contracts have been negotiated.

Closed Circuit Business Poor

No Rush For Fight Tickets

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Closed circuit telecasts of the Sonny Liston - Cassius Clay heavyweight championship fight to two New Orleans theatres were cancelled Monday because of the possibility of segregated seating.

Liston, the champion and an officer in Muslim Black Nationalism, the agency handling the closed circuit telecasting, has insisted that all theatres abide by the fight he racially desegregated.

Nate Halpern, president of the Theatre Network Television, announced the cancellation and said:

"It appeared to us that the anti-segregation clause in the contract would be violated. Therefore we decided to cancel."

TORONTO (CP)—A five-theatre network showing the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay championship fight on closed-circuit television still had two-thirds of the tickets unsold 24 hours before the opening bell. But the promoters said they weren't worried.

A sixth outlet, Maple Leaf Gardens, said its advance sale had passed 8,000 with another 5,000 seats available.

Mort Margolius, coordinator of theatre television for Ontario, said about one-third of the 8,800 seats had been sold in the five theatres—two in Toronto and one each in Oshawa, Hamilton and St. Catharines.

He explained that most customers buy their tickets the day before or the day of the fight.

Toronto's 'Dancer' Favorite

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Northern Dancer reestablished himself as the favorite for Hialeah's $100,000-added Flamingo when he turned in a powerful effort Monday in a seven-furlong exhibition race.

Northern Dancer, owned by Windfields Farm of Toronto and ridden for the first time by Bill Shoemaker, beat Chiefain by seven lengths. Trader, making his debut as a three-year-old, was far back in the three-horse field.

Shoemaker flew in from California to ride the Canadian colt, replacing Bobby Ussery. Three weeks ago Chiefain beat Northern Dancer, with Ussery up, at six furlongs.

Northern Dancer is the 2-1-0 choice in the big stakes. Roman Brother, winner of the Bahamas and Everglades, 5-5 to 1 and Mr. Brick, second in the everglades is 8 to 1. Other contenders are Quadrangle, Journalist, Alphabet, Bupers, Inkhodah and Dandy K.

Crothers, Kidd Run In New York

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers and Bruce Kidd will be among eight Canadians participating in the Knights of Columbus indoor track meet in New York Wednesday.

Coach Fred Foot said the group would be the largest number he has taken to the U.S. this season.

The others will be George Shepherd, Regas Lepi, Glen Irons, Dave Bailey, Don McCarten and Dave McClure.

Crothers will run in the 600 yards, Kidd's opposition in the two-mile event will include Don Clake of Australia and Terry O'Riordon of Ireland.

Shepherd will run in the 1,000 yards, McCarten and McClure will round out the mile-relay team and Lepi and Irons-fare will entered in the individual mile event.

District Darts League

Jim's Place topped Don's Delivery and Wiff's Cities Service downed Robertson, by scores of 7-4.

In three one-point decisions, Bartliff's topped Skytiners, Plaza A. and F. edged Sawdusters and Bell's Dusters edged El Rancho, all by 6-5 counts.

The regular schedule winds up next Monday night.

WINTERS BIG SUCCESS

Chicago Tops Senior Curling

HAMILTON (CP) — Darwin Curtis and C. J. Watson skipped their Chicago rinks to victory in the first round of the Ontario Seniors bonspiel Monday.

Curtis posted a 10-6 win over George Sewell of Toronto. Watson scored J. McIntosh of Chatham 9-6 but lost 11-6 to D. E. A. Walkey's Hamilton rink in the second.

Last year's winner, Roy Smith of Toronto defeated B. McInnis of Windsor 11-4. Dr. J. H. Duff of Toronto, winner in 1961, downed J. A. Schinbein of Listowel 11-6.

Other results included:

First round—C. O. Thatham, Woodstock 8, George Combs, Ottawa 7; W. Crutch, Queensborough 12, R. Rushorne, Windsor 6; A. J. Sloane, Hamilton 10, J. Mc Cutcheon, Ottawa 8; N. P. Reid, Hamilton 8, A. E. Fergusgani, Kitchener 7.

At the Belle

Jack Lemmon and Carol Lynley in "Under the Yum Yum Tree"

It took some time but producer Frederick Brisson and actor Jack Lemmon got together to fix the Columbia Pictures comedy, "Under the Yum Yum Tree," now at the Belle Theatre in color.

When Brisson was first planning Broadway productions for his Lawrence Roman play on which the film is based, he tried to sign up Lemmon, who was busy making a movie and who was, therefore unavailable.

But, looking ahead, the producer then and there made a deal with the star to appear in the future film version of the play. "Under the Yum Yum Tree" co-stars Carol Lynley, Dean Jones, Imogene Coca, Eugene Coca, Paul Lynde and Robert Lansing. David Swift produced and directed from the screenplay by Roman and Swift.

Brisson says the Roman comedy was written for theatre and screen with Lemmon in mind. Lemmon is doing one of his most scintillating light comedy characterizations — that of a cool-cat, swinging bachelor, completely dedicated to the pursuit of beautiful and desirable females.

As the unabashed rake who invades a platonic design living of a fun apartment next door, Lemmon has a lively change of pace from his more frenzied and serio-motion pictures appearances: the deeply dramatic part of the alcoholic advertising executive in "Days of Wine and Roses," which won him an Academy Award nomination and the wild-eyed naive lead opposite Shirley MacLaine in "The Apartment."

Lemmon describes "Under the Yum Yum Tree" as a "barrage of hilarious funny powder puffs. As for the woman-chaser Hogan, the character I do well, I really think him bizarre," the actor said. "I became curious to know why Hogan was as he was. Invariably with theatre audiences across the country, Hogan is founded on unmitigated gall, and is ragesously oblivious to humanity. He refuses to conform, his own way. Hogan is armed with all the social structures, and people love to see other people really doing this . . ."

MURDER IS THEME

Beatles Appeal to Masses Of Girls Says Hayley Mills

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At last we have someone to explain the Beatles—Hayley Mills.

"They're simply marvellous," Hayley says, sharing the opinion of her fellow teenagers in Britain and the United States.

Yes, but why are they simply marvellous?

"They just are, that's all," she replied. "I guess they appeal to the mass of girls because they are ordinary. They're not very good looking. They're not very good musicians. Yet they manage to manufacture a group sound that is rather appealing.

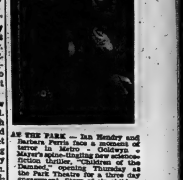
"A year ago nobody knew knew who they were—or cared. Now they've made so much money I don't suppose they'd ever have to work again. Yet they have taken the whole thing with good humor and they haven't lost the common touch.

"You know what that definition is? One of them wants a beauty parlor. Another wants to run a garage. You know that common blood still pulses in their veins. That's why young audiences like them. That, and the hairdos."

SHRIEKING A BOTHER

Hayley hasn't met the Beatles, but she'd like to. Only one thing bothers her about them: The shrieking females they attract.

"I think those silly girls are absolutely revolting," she says.



Hayley was in town to do a Danny Kaye television show with her father, John Mills, and to talk about The Chalk Garden, which she has made with her father, plus Deborah Kerr and Dame Edith Evans.

"It was a challenge," she said, "because it was the first time I ever had a chance to really be natural. I've been usually so sunshiny that it gets sickening. But in Chalk Garden I could really be 'bad' and—I suppose I shouldn't admit this—it seemed to come easy, to me."

Hayley, who lives in England but will be seen in Hollywood in color, and will be shown cuddling the mischievous Cary at the Park Theatre for a three day engagement. Story of six children who, by spinning elaborate tales about the mysterious characters surrounding them endanger one another. On the screen in Metro Color "Gladiators 7"

70 Million People Saw First Showing of Beatles

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The first appearance of the Beatles on Ed Sullivan show of Feb. 9 was seen on television sets in an estimated 23,000,000 homes and by close to 70,000,000 people, according to rating firms.

These audience figures, projected on the basis of samples made by the A. C. Nielsen Company, catapulted the Sullivan show into the No. 4 position among the networks' top 10 programs.

If the ratings had been taken on the basis of only one Sullivan show—the Beatle program it would have been at the top of the list, well ahead of the perennial winner, Beverly Hillbillies.

The ratings cover a two-week period.

The industry now is interested to know how the Sullivan show made out during the last two weeks, when he had the British rock 'n' rollers on both programs.

CBS apparently has dropped plans for a series next season based on the old Tarzan books and movies. But NBC is thinking seriously about scheduling a weekly series about another type of outdoors man, Daniel Boone.

There are currently 39½ hours a week of game, panel and audience participation shows, daytime and nighttime, on the three major networks. If and when CBS gets through with its plans to replace The Judy Garland Show with two more panel shows on Sunday nights, it will bring the weekly total to more than 40 hours. More time is devoted to this category of entertainment now than any other.

Recommended tonight:

Telephone Hour, NBC, 10-11 EST—celebrating its 1,000th program as a radio television program, with Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy, Count Basie and orchestra and Robert Casadesus, his wife and their son, as a three-piano team.

Ecuador Engineer Visits Cement Plant at Picton

Mr. LeRoux, William T. Barron, Operations Manager of the Lake Ontario Portland Cement and Fred Cohrs check over a blueprint.

PICTON (Staff) — Picton has a visitor from Guayaquil, Ecuador, South America. He is Carlos LeRoux, plant engineer of La Cemente, Nationale, in Ecuador.

Mr. LeRoux is visiting cement plants and cement block plants in the United States and Canada, and Picton is the only stop he will make on this side of the border.

In an interview with The Ontario Intelligencer on Monday, Mr. LeRoux said that while his plant is only about 70 per cent the capacity of the Lake Ontario Portland Cement Plant, the equipment is very similar.

This young man, who speaks perfect English in a country where Spanish is the predominate language received his degree in Mechanical Engineering at the University of Louisiana.

Mr. LeRoux's comment on the weather — "It's very cold here. In my country it never goes below 50 above and right now down there it is between 70-85 degrees, this is our summertime," he added.

Fred Cohrs, Technical Superintendent of the LOPC was Mr. LeRoux's guide for part of the cement plant tour. Mr. LeRoux expects to be at the local plant for about two weeks yet.

He is looking forward to seeing his first hockey game, and to throwing the first curling stone down the ice.

Picton Drops Juvenile Game To Napanee

PICTON (Staff) — Napanee held off elimination in O.M.H.A. Juvenile "D" playoffs here last night by defeating Picton 3-1 in a penalty-studded battle.

Picton leads the best-of-five series two games to one and the fourth game will likely be in Napanee on Saturday night.

Picton led 1-0 after one heat but Napanee tied it in the second and fired two without reply in the third.

There were 20 penalties in the contest, ten per team, but Larry Fredericks wore the goal's horns for Picton. Fredericks drew four minors, a misconduct and a game misconduct when he attempted to get at the referee.

Refugee Exodus From China Down But Money Pours In

By RONNIE WEI

HONG KONG (AP)—The exodus of refugees from Red China is down to a trickle but the flow of money to friends and relatives on the China Mainland is growing.

People in Communist China, eating slightly better than they did, are not so desperate to flee as they were a year ago. The improved food situation is caused partly by slightly better harvests and partly by Peking's purchases of food from abroad.

But the Chinese Communists now need foreign exchange to replace the hard currency they spend importing food. They are trying to get it by resorting to stratagems close to extortion.

Many Chinese residents here report an increase in letters from friends and relatives in China pleading for money. These often say members of families are sick and need medical attention. Others say they need the money to buy food. The letters are regarded by many recipients as blackmail.

The Chinese Communists allot extra food rations to recipients of overseas remittances to draw more money from abroad.

The Hong Kong government recently announced thousands of food parcels sent from this British colony were returned by the Chinese Communists. No reason was given.

Many people here believe this is a device to encourage Hong Kong residents to send money instead of food to relatives and friends in Red China.

Newspaper surveys estimate Hong Kong residents in January remitted a total of $18,000,000, three times the amount sent in the same period last year.

Additional funds from Southeast Asia, the United States and other parts of the world are funnelled into mainland China through this British colony.

Flow of refugees from Red China has dwindled to less than 100 a month compared with 1,200 monthly a year ago and 12,000 a month during the mass exodus year of 1962. This is partly due to strict border restrictions imposed on both sides.

The British inaugurated special patrols after May, 1962, when an estimated 100,000 refugees poured into this colony. The patrols maintain a 24-hour watch on all land and sea approaches to Hong Kong.

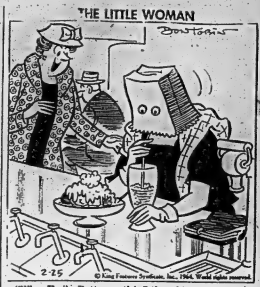
Visitors from Red China report the authorities on the other side also have strengthened border patrols to cut off escape routes.

Blizzard Sweeps Out of Rockies

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A blizzard swept southward from the northern Rockies today, deluging mountains in heavy snow and creating highway havoc.

Snowfall was general but light across the Plains where winds cut visibility to near zero.

Hundreds of motorists were stranded by deep snow drifts and blizzard conditions in Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado Roads in northern Wyoming were closed.



A motorist near Helena, Mont., died when he tried to make it to shelter after his jeep had stuck in the snow.

Launch Drive On Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese forces launched a large operation in the Cambodian border area 120 miles west of Saigon today. Heavy initial contact with the Communist Viet Cong was reported.

Only sketchy reports of the action were available, but it appeared that the engagement was the heaviest since the lull near new year holidays last week brought a lull in the fighting.

Two Viet Cong ambushes Monday of a train and a military truck convoy — were reported, with 22 dead or missing on the government side and six Viet Cong dead confirmed.

CYPRUS CRISIS HAS EXPLOSIVE ISSUE

Surgeon Denies Death Certificate Was Falsified

Claims He Did Not Know Clamp Was in Stomach

TORONTO (CP) — The doctor who started an operation on a woman who died 18 days later has denied he falsified the death certificate.

Patricia Morgan died in Toronto East General Hospital Nov. 1 after surgery begun by Dr. Kenneth A. Brown, but finished by other surgeons.

Her death, the subject of an inquest before which Dr. Brown was testifying Tuesday, has been attributed to a bowel obstruction caused by a clamp left in her abdomen after the operation.

Dr. Brown was cross - examined by Crown Counsel John Hoolihan for listing cancer and acute intestinal obstruction as the cause of death without reference to the clamp, after he had been advised of an autopsy report mentioning the clamp.

"I suggest Hoolihan's portion of the death certificate was deliberately falsified," Mr. Hoolihan asked.

F. B. Pepper, the doctor's lawyer, objected to the remark and Coroner Gerald Blanchet's ruling that it was proper.

REJECTS SUGGESTION

Hoolihan again suggested Dr. Brown had falsified the certificate, the doctor replied simply, "I didn't."

Dr. Brown said he was not present at the autopsy when the clamp was discovered and at the time he made out the certificate did not believe the clamp had caused the death.

"With the information I have now," he said, "I would be willing to change the death certificate."

Dr. Brown gave the court the first public account of what happened in the East General operating room Oct. 18. He said during this operation the fatal clamp was believed to have been left in Miss Morgan's body.

The physician said he was satisfied at the outset by Dr. A. T. Vargo, chief resident of the hospital, and Dr. Paul Takahashi, an intern. They were attempting to discern whether the patient's attacks of nausea and intestinal pain were caused by stomach cancer or bowel obstruction.

DOCTORS DISAGREED

He said he and Dr. Vargo came to a disagreement about operating procedure and Dr. Vargo called in Dr. Burns Pelewes, the hospital chief of surgery.

Dr. Plewes decided the pa-

Queen Will Come As Scheduled

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The Queen's visit to Canada in October will be severely curtailed and tightly wrapped in security precautions as the result of fears for her safety, government officials said Tuesday.

A program for the Royal visit to Charlottetown and Quebec City Oct. 6-12 still is in the draft stage, but officials said it is certain to be carefully reviewed as the result of recent statements by Marcel Chaput and other leading Quebec separatists.

Prime Minister Pearson said in the Commons Tuesday the government has no intention of cancelling the visit by the Queen and Prince Philip and regards Dr. Chaput's remarks to a Toronto audience Monday as irresponsible.

Privately, however, officials is close touch with the prime minister's office and others on Parliament Hill expressed deep concern with the extremity of the separatist views.

Dr. Chaput, in an address to a Young Men's Canadian Club in Toronto, was reported to have said the Queen would meet with trouble on her visit to Quebec.

"Some of my own people are ready to let her know—brutally —that she is no longer welcome in French Canada," he was quoted as saying.

When Leon Balcer, Quebec leader of the opposition Conservatives, read this quotation into the Commons record Tuesday some MPs shouted "treason!"

Mr. Balcer asked Mr. Pearson what the government intends to do "in the face of this statement and of all the problems it is bound to create."

"The plans regarding Her Majesty's visit to Canada will not be affected in any way by such an irresponsible statement," Mr. Pearson replied.

Robert Taylor (PC—Edmonton North and Victoria) asked whether such statements did not leave Dr. Chaput open to criminal proceedings.

Justice Minister Favreau said

Bobby Baker's Secretary Cousin Will Not Answer Senate Queries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carole Tyler, Bobby Baker's attractive secretary, refused today to answer questions about her part in the Senate Senate aide's get-rich-quick deals.

"On the advice of my attorney . . . I refuse to answer any questions that may be proposed to me by members or employees of this committee other than those which relate to my name and identification as the person named in said subpoena," she said.

In a statement read to the Senate rules committee hearings, the 24-year-old former secretary based her refusal on constitutional grounds.

Miss Tyler was subpoenaed by one day on the witness stand before a standing-room-only crowd and five television cameras in the marble-columned Senate caucus room.

Like Baker, she refused to answer question on grounds of possible self-incrimination, and also invasion of privacy.

Miss Tyler, former Tennessee beauty queen, arrived in the Senate caucus room about 10 minutes before the scheduled start of the hearing. The chestnut-haired girl was a striking figure in a wide double breasted suit with big black buttons.

Miss Tyler was described by Baker as his cousin when she moved into a swank four-bedroom apartment where she still lives. She now works in Baker's law office.

PICKS UP DEBRIS — A U.S. Coast Guardsman using a net scoops up debris from Lake Pontchartrain near New Orleans from the crash of an Eastern Air Lines DC-8. The plane carried 51 passengers and a crew of seven. There are no known survivors. Only bits of clothing were being picked up. (AP Wirephoto)

Hook Onto 'Something Big' In Search for Plane Debris

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Boats and divers looking for the wreckage of the huge Eastern Air Lines jet that crashed into Lake Pontchartrain gathered at day light today on a point where one boat "hooked onto something big." All 58 persons aboard the plane, including a Canadian secretary, were killed.

The four-engined DC-8 crashed into the lake 20 miles north of New Orleans nine minutes after takeoff from New Orleans International Airport at 2:01 a.m. Tuesday.

A Canadian was identified as Miss Clarice Nassif of Montreal, a secretary with the Quebec Liquor Board.

The jet, with a capacity of 126 passengers, was on the 650-mile leg of a flight from Mexico City to New Orleans, to Atlanta, to Washington, to New York City. It had 51 passengers and a crew of seven.

By nightfall, which forced suspension of the search, only bits of the wreckage had been recovered, along with what was described as bits of bodies.

The U.S. Coast Guard boat snagged something big near the north shore of the lake, which is about 30 miles in diameter, but darkness prevented divers from further investigation.

The coast guard said the object might be a main part of the fuselage.

But chances of finding any large part, which could have trapped most of the bodies, seemed remote after reports indicating the airliner exploded.

House To Sit Past Easter

TORONTO (CP) — The present session of the legislature cannot possibly wind up before Easter, Premier Robarts said Tuesday in denying he had set a deadline for prorogation.

He was answering charges by NDP Leader Donald C. MacDonald that the premier had told a caucus the house would prorogue by March 25.

The premier was trying to stifle the opposition, Mr. MacDonald said. It was impossible to do justice to the business of the house in a 10-week session.

Premier Robarts said he did not make the statement attributed to him by the NDP leader, noting that the house couldn't possibly end its business before Easter. Good Friday is March 27.

Farquhar Oliver, acting Liberal leader, took the government to task for limiting many hours of debate at an early stage of the session.

The decision to lengthen three of the four afternoon sittings to four hours from three, together with three night sittings a week, was "pouring it on a little thick," he said. The legislature now sits from 2 p.m. Fridays.

AIM ISN'T OVERWORK

Premier Robarts said he was not trying to overwork the members.

He announced he plans to schedule budget debate today if speakers are available, denying charges by Mr. MacDonald that he was trying to cut off the debate except for the lead - off speakers.

In other business, the government served notice it plans to crack down on uninsured motorists.

Six Jurors of Required 12 Sworn in at Ruby Trial

DALLAS (AP) — A young salesman was accepted today as the sixth juror in Jack Ruby's murder trial, making the jury half completed.

He was R. J. Fiechter, 29, married and the father of two children.

He passed the tests of first the state and then the defence in record time for this trial— 20 minutes.

He said he saw a rerun of the televised shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald. But he was not questioned by either side as to whether it made a deep impression on him.

Fiechter is a Christian Scientist. He said he had been curious as to why Ruby shot Oswald. But when chief defence counsel Melvin Belli asked whether he has any opinion on this, he replied "not really."

Belli's final question to him was: "If you were sitting here on me here, as Jack Ruby is, would you want your case tried by a jury in your frame of mind?" Fiechter said he would.

Prior to Fiechter, another prospective candidate was excused when he said he is opposed to capital punishment.

Principals in the courtroom agree, generally, that the jury may be complete by the end of this week or early in the next. At that point, testimony begins.

Luther E. Dickerson, 27, vice-president of a chemical firm, and Douglas J. Sorell, 35, a mechanic for an airline, were selected Tuesday as the fourth and fifth jurors. They joined a woman and two men previously sworn in.

Ruby is accused of murder with malice in the shooting of Oswald last Nov. 24. He faces a possible sentence of execution in the electric chair. Oswald had been charged with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22.

More than half of those rejected "for cause" said they are opposed to capital punishment.

Belli said he doesn't believe this is their real reason.

"I think people are using capital punishment as an excuse for getting out," Belli said. "The real reason is that they have fixed opinions about Ruby."

Artists Object As Work Banned For Bad Taste

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario Society of Artists objected Tuesday to a decision by a women's committee of the Art Gallery of Toronto to ban a painting because it is in bad taste.

A society spokesman is to report at the gallery Friday. However, the gallery committee decided last week to have five of the paintings removed.

The painting by Quasena is composed of a nude female torso, shows a can of dog food and is called Last Supper.

MacKay Houston, society president, said Tuesday "we don't agree with their (the gallery's) thinking but we will go along."

The artist has described his painting as a series of cartoons, showing life in a particular society.

Other panels show a patch of green grass with the word "please" in it; an exploding atomic bomb with the underline "When you dare enough to send the very best", and two cartoons entitled "Finding more and proving it less."

8 Votes Sustain Govt.

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — In its closest squeak of the minority Liberal government has survived a Conservative non-confidence challenge in the Commons with the help of five members of a smaller opposition groups.

Three Social Crediters and two NDP members provided the crucial edge Tuesday as the Commons voted 128 to 120 to defeat the non-confidence motion by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

The motion attacked the government on the sales tax levied last year on construction materials and production machinery.

It was the second test of strength so far this session for the Pearson government which easily weathered a 134-to-97 vote last Friday on an NDP non-confidence motion on the medicare issue.

Tuesday night's cliff - hanger was even closer than the 134-to-113 decision early in last year's session on which the minority Liberals faced an NDP challenge over nuclear policy shortly after they took office on April 22.

CAN FACE MOTIONS

The government now is halfway through the eight-day Commons throne speech debate and still is open to possible further opposition non - confidence motions today and Thursday.

One such test could come from the Creditiste group which earlier, this week made three unsuccessful attempts to introduce a motion criticizing the government for not increasing family allowances.

The rules barrier which prevented the Creditiste motion now has been removed by the vote on the Conservative non-confidence proposal.

Voting with 123 Liberals against the Conservative motion were Social Credit Leader Thompson and two of his supporters—Mrs. Ernest Hardy (Fraser Valley) and H. A. Olson (Medicine Hat)—and two New Democrats, Frank Howard (Skeena) and Reid Scott (Toronto Danforth).

Mr. Howard is pledged to support the government to the end of this session. Mr. Scott told reporters following the vote that he feels an election now would be "a calamity" that would be a strain on national unity.

CONSERVATIVES MUSTER 89

The 120 votes for the Diefenbaker motion were 89 Conservatives, 15 New Democrats, 12 Creditistes and four Social Crediters, plus Speaker.

All parties were close to full strength for the vote with five of the 129 Liberals and five of the 95 Conservatives absent. Also absent were one each from the 15-member Creditiste group and from the 11-member Social Credit group. The 17-member NDP party was at full strength.

Four of the Liberal absentees were offset by opposition "pairs" — MP who agree not to vote in the absence of a member who would otherwise be voting in the opposite way.

One of these was former Conservative defence minister Douglas Harkness, who refused to go along with his party's policy against pairing and paired himself instead with Minister Sharp, absent on a trade mission to London.

Three Social Credit MPs were also paired with absent Liberals: Gerard Chapdelaine (SC—Shefbrooke) and Marcel Lessard (SC—Lac St. Jean).

DEAL WITH TAX

Though normally the throne speech debate is a wide-ranging one some of the speeches before the vote zeroed in on the issues posed by Mr. Diefenbaker's non-confidence motion itself — the controversial sales tax on building materials and production machinery.

E. J. Benson, parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Gordon, attacked Mr. Diefenbaker as "a spokesman for the

Makarios Plans To Create Own Security Force

Move Obviously Aimed At Minority on Island

By ALEX EFTY

NICOSIA (AP) — Plans by President Makarios to increase his Greek-Cypriot security force and disarm all irregulars on Cyprus has injected an explosive new issue into the crisis in the eastern Mediterranean.

The Greek-Cypriot president said his order Tuesday to create a special 3,000-man police force was designed "not only for the island's security and return to normality, but also to face any other unpleasant situation."

In a move obviously aimed at the Turkish-Cypriot minority opposing his Greek-Cypriot regime, Makarios said any Cypriot carrying arms illegally would be disarmed and anyone attempting to import arms "will be prosecuted."

Turkish-Cypriots immediately challenged the constitutionality of the order, which would raise the legal Greek-Cypriot armed strength to nearly 7,000 men, about the size of the British peacekeeping force on Cyprus. The Turkish-Cypriots said that under the constitution the special force would have to be made up of 60-per-cent Greek-Cypriot and 40-per-cent Turkish-Cypriots.

Greek - Cypriot officials said Turkish-Cypriots would be welcome to join the force if they swear allegiance to the Makarios government and promise to defend the island's independence and territorial integrity. But it was unlikely that any of the Turkish faction would want to join such a force.

Maj-Gen. R. M. Carver, commander of the British peacekeeping force on Cyprus, termed Makarios' order "a very clever document." He said it could be interpreted in two ways: As a move to deprive persons in control of private armed forces of power, or as a move to immobilize the Turkish-Cypriot police by disarming everyone.

Since fighting broke out between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots in December, thousands of civilians have armed to form vigilante groups.

Diplomatic intelligence sources say the archbishop may have brought in as many as 40,000 rifles, machineguns and other automatic weapons, but Greek-Cypriots insist the figure is lower.

Cassius Now Wants To Retire

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)— A subdued Cassius Clay, the new heavyweight boxing champion, told a press conference today that he seriously is thinking about retirement from the ring.

"No I am not joking," the 22-year - old Louisville sensation said. "I don't like to fight, I don't like to get hurt. I don't like to hurt anybody.

"I only fight to make a living and when I have enough money I won't fight anymore."

Cassius, talking in a low monotone that contrasted greatly with his earlier loud, shouting antics, contradicted himself immediately, however, by saying his immediate future was fighting.

He declared he would again fight Sonny Liston, whom he stopped Tuesday night in a seventh-round technical knockout, or any other fighter the public wanted him to meet.

The new champion was asked if he planned to retire after one more big fight, which now would be expected to gross perhaps $10,000,000.

It was at this point that Clay dropped his retirement bombshell, saying in a low voice: "I am thinking about retiring right now."

More than 100 reporters, clustered around a raised platform in an anteroom at Convention Hall where Clay won the title, refused to believe their ears and repeated the question.

However, few of the reporters took the statement seriously and the young descendant of a Kentucky slave has proved himself one of the "greatest" sports seers to appear on the sports scene.

Clay also drew a loud round of applause from the questioners when he announced, also in a low solemn voice: "I say emphatically I don't have to talk any more. I have proved my point. I will let the others do the talking."

Swiss Block Balzan Foundation Funds Over Peace Prize Dispute

BERN (AP)—The Swiss government blocked the plans of the Balzan Foundation today, but $151,000 presented to the United Nations as the foundation's 1963 Peace Prize was not affected.

The Swiss interior ministry, supervisor of the Swiss-Italian foundation's finances, said all prize money will be withheld from the organization's directing council it receives disclosure of the foundation's decision between its Italian director and a number of prominent Europeans who had lent their prestige to the newest of the international prize givers.

A spokesman for the interior ministry said the prize money freeze "affects only future awards." It in no way affects the UN "and the possibility cannot be excluded that a court would decide in favor of UN."

Some members of the foundation's prize committee have charged that they were not consulted about the award to the UN and that it was therefore illegal.

It was not known immediately whether UN Secretary-General U Thant had cashed the prize cheque.

The Swiss government's action came one day after the presidents of Italy and Switzerland announced they were quitting as honorary co-presidents of the foundation created in memory of an anti-Fascist Italian immigrant lawyer who made good in Switzerland as a financier.

The Swiss interior ministry said an investigation will be made into the foundation dissolution by its director, the Rev. Enrico Zucca, a Roman Catholic priest of Milan, and the foundation's prize committee as well as a number of European supporters.

The interior ministry said the rift inside the foundation "has given cause for concern for some time."

Presidents Antonio Segni of Italy and Ludwig von Moos of Switzerland severed their connections with the foundation Tuesday charging the 1963 Peace Prize was awarded to the UN without convening the prize committee.

They stressed they did not oppose the choice but were resigning because, they said, other Zucca ignored their request to delay the award pending the results of deep examination of the causes of the (Foundation) crisis."

Support Canadian Industry Is Theme of Kiwanis Talk

Canadians are responsible for the support of Canadian industry, Belleville Kiwanis Club was told yesterday.

Speaking at the club's weekly dinner meeting, F. A. Wilson of the Trade and Industry Branch, Ont. Dept. of Economics and Development asked:

"Is it too much to ask that Canadians show some patriotism, and support the industries which have helped to develop this country and which provide their jobs and those of their neighbors?"

But the responsibility does not rest completely with the buyers, Mr. Wilson added. "When someone has not bought Canadian", he said, "it means that someone else has not sold Canadian." Mr. Wilson spoke of the need for more Canadian firms to look for the products being imported into Canada which could be manufactured here - and of the need for Canadian manufacturers to get out and sell the products they have available.

Manufacturing Opportunity shows - five of them so far - have helped promote Canadian content of Canadian manufactured goods. At these shows, firms which import some of their components showed samples of the components being imported. Other manufacturers seeing the components required, were able to quote prices for similar items made in Canada. In effect, it was the reverse of the normal trade show - with the would be purchaser doing the exhibiting instead of the would-be vendor.

MISSIONS SENT OUT

"Sales and Ontario-made goods have also been promoted throughout the world by Trade Mission Sales Missions sent out by the provincial government," Mr. Wilson said. He said these missions were largely responsible for the fact that although exports of Canadian manufactured goods increased by only eight percent during the first nine months of 1963, exports of manufactured goods from Ontario increased by more than 16 percent.

Mr. Wilson also outlined, during his speech the organization of the Department of Economics and Development, and of the Trade and Industry branch. He himself chief of the Manufacturing Arrangements Division of the Trade and Industry Branch of the Department of Economics and Development.

Mr. Wilson was introduced to the club by past president Gerald Wishart and thanked in the name of the club by John Denton.

Farm Loans Up 24 Per Cent Over Last Year

Good use of Farm Credit Corporation assistance for the farmers in Hastings and Prince Edward is revealed in a report issued by the Federal Government's Loan Agency Office in Campbellford.

In these two counties there were 31 loans averaging $10,555. Loans are based on the agricultural productive value of the farm, the average farm contained 127.6 tillable acres.

The FCC report said that to the end of November, 1963, lending in Canada from this source was up 24 percent over the previous year for a total of $102,000,000. Indications were that this fiscal year will end with $110 million being loaned for the 12 month period.

Ontario loaning was up 22 percent and already indications were there will be a general increase of 10 percent during 1964.

The FCC believes the increased use of credit by farmers marks a change in attitude of the farmer. A few years ago credit was regarded as something to be avoided and farmers were proud in being able to get along without it. However, mechanization and other technological developments in modern farming require greater investment and expenditures, the result being that today's operators must boost their income to meeting mounting costs.

OFFICE IN CAMPBELLFORD

Farm credit corporation advisor for the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward is J. R. Humphries who has an office in the federal building at Campbellford. The office is open each Thursday.

Letting the approved uses to which farm credit might be put, Mr. Humphries at the same time warned credit used improperly could have serious consequences.

Farm credit to work profitably must be supported by efficient operation and management. It may be used to purchase productive land and livestock; labor-saving equipment matched to requirements, high utility buildings and other improvements and essential farm supplies.

It was emphasized that credit is not a substitute for income and should never be used to cover losses or to re-finance debts caused by unprofitable farming unless the weaknesses of the enterprise are corrected.

Scouting activities

Christ Church Parish Hall took on a Scouting atmosphere recently as all sections of 2nd Belleville Boy Scout Group turned out in numbers to see Troop Leader Steven Middleton become a Queen's Scout.

For the investiture the troop was in horse shoe formation with the colorful boxes situated in the centre supporting a candelabra, upon which were candles representing the ten Scout Laws and the three parts of the Scout Promise.

During the opening ceremonies, Rev. R. Fleming chaplain of 2nd Belleville Group said the opening prayer.

After the opening, A.S.M. Merle Ramsay spoke on the origin and history of the Queen's badge.

Mr. Robert Temple M.P. presented on behalf of the Queen a certificate of recognition which was then presented in position in scouting to which many aspire, but few obtain. Mr. Temple quoted, "as a Queen's Scout you have pledged yourself in service to God and your fellow men and have shown yourself a worthy member of the Scout Movement Brotherhood. May you continue under God's guidance to gain courage and strength to enable you fully to discharge your duty to your country".

Mrs. R. Ingham on behalf of 2nd Belleville Group Committee presented a model of Steven's Proficiency Badge suitable for hanging.

Mrs. J. Foster, past president, in the absence of Mrs. O. Gray, president, presented the new Queen's Scout with a ring from behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

District Commissioner William Jarvis brought to the new Queen's Scout congratulations from the Belleville District and presented the class "B" all round cord signifying Steve as a Queen's Scout qualified to wear 14 proficiency badges.

Steve has been and continues to be an active member in 2nd Belleville Scouting. He first joined as a Cub and the part put in there to support its former member. Upon attaining the age of 12, Steve joined the Scout Troop, where he worked hard to become a Queen's Scout. The troop turned out in force to wish him well and lend their support in making it a night he will long remember. Immediately after his investiture as a Queen's Scout he was advanced to 2nd Belleville (St. Marks) Rover Crew. The troop wishes to see him leave and hopes that his adventures in Rovers will be many and exciting.

When the final ceremonies were over the Ladies' Auxiliary provided refreshments.

Christian Service Brigade Takes Evening Service

By A. HENDERSON

Twenty-six years ago, on a winter's night in a town in the United States, a group of lads formed a Council Ring in a room lighted by a single torch. On the wall hung a brief, sharp sword, and in front of the lads lay an open Bible. These were the beginnings of the growing, world-wide Christian Service Brigade, the objective of which is the winning of boys, lads and young men to Jesus Christ.

That fire meeting was highlighted by the story of "The Torch Bearers" of ancient Scotland, who carried the important and urgent messages, in relays, from one town to another. From village to village and city to city each one would pass the torch to his fellow bearers in this way the clans of Scotland were alerted and prepared to meet impending danger.

TAKES SERVICE

Sunday evening the local Christian Service Brigade had charge of the service in Alliance Church and demonstrated to the congregation the workings of the Brigade, its functions and its ultimate aims. Captain Lloyd Kerr, formerly of Gloucester, Ont., now lad was chosen to assume questions pertaining to 'achievements', as was also a demonstration of part of the training in order to build up poise and proper deportment, and a brief but useful portion of their training, the study of the "Living Torch" — the Word of God was most important.

NEEDS OUTLINED

Chief Ranger Cliff Ackerman spoke on the subject of the outlook of the Christian Service Brigade, stressing its need of able, godly leaders; its need of much prayer; its need of Brigademen to form a bulwark for Christ and for the righteousness in this generation; alert Christian men who sense the urgent needs and great potentialities of boyhood; the need of sound spiritual training and counsel of Christian leaders, who can channel boys' lives into Christian service at home; to the ends of the earth —into Christian leadership in business, industrial and civic life, and into full time service.

The service was interspersed with the singing of spirited Gospel hymns, under the leadership of Andy Armstrong, and closed with the Brigade song and doxology.

A report on the final outcome of last year's campaign was presented by the retiring campaign chairman, Mr. N. B. Keith. The amount raised was $56,666.00 some 21½ per cent short of the $85,000.00 goal.

Arrangements for this year's annual meeting will be held Monday, March 9th at 8.00 p.m. in the council chambers at the city hall were given approval.

Mr. Orr said his duties as superintendent of secondary education would be general supervision with particular reference to personnel and instruction.

He said it would also entail the duties of inspector, although he expected district inspectors would continue to visit Belleville schools.

"I promised the high school board I would immediately give what spare time I could to the new position, but in fairness to the school I feel I should remain at BCI until the end of the school term," he said.

Mr. Stirling has been at Belleville Collegiate since 1947 when he came there as teacher. He was named vice-principal in 1954—the same year that Mr. Orr was named BCI principal.

Prince Philip Thinks Beatles Are 'Helpful'

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Philip said Tuesday he thinks Britain's pop - singing Beatles are a "helpful" influence and he could not care how much noise people make "singing and dancing."

What he objects to, he told a gathering of foreign reporters, is people "fighting and stealing."

"It seems to me that these blokes (Beatles) are helping people to enjoy themselves and that it is far better than the other," said Philip.

Speaking to the Foreign Press Association, Philip confessed he reads no foreign newspapers.

He reads five British papers a day and relies on their foreign correspondents for world news. He regretted, however, that "foreign affairs do not perhaps get as much coverage in British newspapers as they might do."

He said sympathetic understanding and objective reporting of news in every nation could do much to establish a healthy international atmosphere.

NO MONOPOLY

"No nation has a monopoly of all virtues, there are different attitudes and points of view. It is these things that can be made assets of friction by the ill-disposed or by the extremists."

The prince, who said he did not mind answering questions concerning royalty, drew laughter from reporters when he said royalty might be kicked from both sides—as it stayed away from the extremists because they kicked the hardest.

Did he think the royal family had the right approach to problems of present-day Britain?

"What you are implying is that we are rather old-fashioned," he said. "Well, it may easily be true. I do not know.

"One of the things about the monarchy and its place, and one of its great weaknesses in a sense, is that it has to be all things to all people.

"Of course it cannot do this, it cannot be all things to people who are both traditionalists and iconoclasts."

he couldn't be called on to give a legal opinion on the spot, but his departmental officials would make whatever investigation is warranted. He wouldn't say whether he would instruct his officials to launch an investigation because he hadn't read the report of Dr. Chapui's speech.

Reid Scott (NDP — Toronto Danforth) asked whether the government is trying to find out whether "such people, even if they are responsible, are contemplating acts that might tend to embarrass Her Majesty during her visit to Canada."

"The House can be assured, and I believe the question need not even be asked, that in relation to any statements made by any person or group, action is always taken, and is being taken by the responsible officials and officers to ascertain whether any measure ought to be taken, and to take those measures if necessary," Mr. Favreau said.

Mr. Pearson said the house could be assured adequate measures for the security of the Queen will always be taken.

"It was thought that president Kennedy was safe, too," Mr. Muir interjected.

Outside the Commons, officials said the government's security forces maintain volunteer files and careful watch on extremists, but they are unwilling to make public the extent of their knowledge or their methods.

Treason, as defined in the Criminal Code, includes conspiring or forming an intent to kill, attempt to kill, or cause any bodily harm to the Queen.

Whether any particular is an act of treason, punishable by hanging or life imprisonment, is a legal and judicial decision. Whether to prosecute is a political decision.

Sales of Fluid Milk, Cream Show Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales of fluid milk and cream, in milk equivalent, advanced two per cent in 1963 to 6,092,835,000 pounds compared with 1962, the bureau of statistics said today.

In December sales also were up two per cent at 527,909,000 pounds compared with December, 1962.

Sales in the full year were above those in 1962 in all provinces.

Year's totals in pounds, with percentage gain in brackets: Prince Edward Island 27,715,000 (1), Nova Scotia 203,313,000 (2), New Brunswick 167,729,000 (1), Quebec 1,838,745,000 (3), Ontario 2,282,288,000 (2), Manitoba 329,656,000 '(2), Saskatchewan 350,539,000 2), Alberta 392,343,000 (2) and British Columbia 500,350,000 (3).

Removal of the sales tax, Mr. Benson said, would cost the treasury $290,000,000. This could only be recouped by higher personal income taxes or higher taxes on necessities.

Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal "would please the few at the expense of the many."

Mr. Benson said the construction industry "has thrown up the best-organized lobby in Canadian political history" against the sales tax.

WANTS ELECTION

"It now wants to force a general election to get rid of these taxes."

In reply, Murdo Martin (NDP —Timmins) displayed a pile of letters, about 2½ feet high on his desk, which were sent to Prime Minister Pearson last year protesting the tax.

He termed the letters "pretty good evidence" that Mr. Diefenbaker's non - confidence motion was not a frivolous one as claimed by the Liberals.

Albert Rochon (L — Bonsaventure) turned to an attack on what he said is violence and immorality in television programs. He called on the government to stop this "poisoning of our youth."

"Why must it be that any television drama includes two or three murders or suicides, or the description of a life of debauchery, or disgraceful scenes between married couples."

Issues of national unity also featured the debate, with Mr. Beebe criticized communications media for giving too much publicity to separatists and acts of terrorism. These, he said, are strongly opposed by most Quebec residents but reports of such activity fanned anti-French feeling outside Quebec.

Howard Grafftey (PC — Brome-Missisquoi) said it is bad for national unity to have Liberal governments in both Ontario and Quebec — Liberals said different things inside and outside Quebec.

"The centralist doctrine of Liberalism . . . leaves no room for a satisfactory solution to the problem of Confederation."

Harold Danforth (PC — Kent, Ont.) said the policy of calculating railway freight rates discriminates against southwestern Ontario farmers, many industries were being driven out of the area and others were discouraged from moving in.

He expressed the hope that the government's new legislation would eliminate some of the inequalities. Details of the legislation have not been announced yet.

Mr. Danforth also said he has been unable to discover a single instance where tax "bribes" for new industries locating in depressed areas had had any impact in his district.

Dr. William Howe (NDP—Hamilton South), a medical doctor, urged the government to arise above "medieval mediocrity" and implement a national medical care program.

Marcel Lessard (SC—Lac St. Jean) said the Liberals have failed to carry out their policy of curbing foreign ownership of Canadian industry.

In the Senate, the upper chamber launched its throne speech debate.

Home Owners Want Itemized Account of Planning Board

TRENTON — Admitting that he didn't quite "get the reception the Beatles got in New York," Stanley Downing, past-president of the Amelisburg Township Home Owners' Association, reported to a meeting of the association in St. John's Parish Hall at Carrying Place last night the results of his recent meeting with the Amelisburg Planning board. Mr. Downing was accompanied to the meeting by another member of the association, Christopher Frost.

At the outset of his report, Mr. Downing advised the association to ask the township clerk for an itemized account of monies spent on having a Toronto firm of planning consultants prepare an official plan for the township, a zoning by-law and monies received by planning board members themselves. This motion was adopted.

Mr. Downing said some township municipalities had the planning board would do as it pleased no matter what a zoning by-law thought, but he said this was not so. He said he felt the planning board members were diligent, prepared to consider individual "gripes" or suggestions for changes in the proposed zoning.

The association members at last night's meeting were agreed that the township building inspector should have nothing to say about the design of a proposed home, while he should be responsible for seeing that the structural details were all right. The proposed zoning by-law calls for a written approval from the inspector as to the location of a dwelling house.

Mr. Downing said that he and Mr. Frost had succeeded in getting the planning board to agree to delete the word "employee" from a clause in the proposed zoning by-law, the building inspector or any officer or employee of the township may enter upon the premises (of a house in the building) at any reasonable hour for the purpose of carrying out the terms of the by-law."

PROPOSED LOT SIZES

Mr. Downing said that he and Mr. Frost had proposed to the planning board that lot sizes in built-up areas be set at 100 feet frontage and 150 foot depth and that a 700 square foot lot size be allowed for the house to be tolerated. The proposed zoning by-law calls for three different lot sizes, varying from 15,000 square feet to 42,560 square feet and house sizes from 1,000 sq. ft. to 1,500 sq. ft. Areas are, according to the plan, to be designated "residential One" — "residential Two — R2" and "agricultural" and some members of the association claim that the zoning is unrealistic.

Some association members last night complained that their land was designated in the plan "cottage area" when the land is agricultural land and others that their land should be residential rather than agricultural.

Mr. Downing said that these members should take their case before the planning board as "test cases," because the board had promised to consider re-zoning where indicated.

Suggested changes in the proposed zoning by-law, brought forward at last night's meeting, will be taken back to the planning board.

WORST OFFENDERS

TORONTO (CP) — Parents who drive children to school are the worst offenders when it comes to creating hazards at school crossings, says Etobicoke traffic co-ordinator Peter Martin. He released a film of parents stopping across or too close to crossings at a roads and traffic committee hearing. The committee decided to show the film to parents at home and school meetings.

Trenton Man Given Term Of Six Months

TRENTON — A Trenton man, Russell Andrew Weldon, Sidney St., was sentenced to six months in jail by Magistrate F. E. D. Baker, in Trenton court yesterday. Weldon received the six months' sentence for breaking, entry and theft at a store owned by Oscar Stewart on Prince Edward County. Other jail terms, varying from three months to six months on four additional charges are to run concurrently.

Weldon was convicted in Picton court last week of breaking, entry and theft at another Prince Edward County store, Kenny's Store and in Trenton, also last week, of attempted break and enter at the Spur service station in east Trenton; the theft of a motor vehicle, the property of William LeBlanc of Trenton and of illegal possession of a transistor radio, the property of Don Bell of Trenton.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Baker warned Weldon if he continued in his anti-social behavior, any further sentence the courts would probably involve a long term in penitentiary.

The magistrate said that Weldon appeared to be a follower rather than an instigator in the charges laid against him but that he was just as guilty in the eyes of the law.

In connection with the same charges, Carl Buck of Trenton, charged with the theft and possession of the transistor radio, the theft of the motor vehicle and attempted break and entry at the Spur service station, was remanded on bail until March 10, pending sentencing in Brighton court on another charge of which he was convicted last week.

Gordon Woodcock, also of Trenta, charged with the theft of the motor vehicle, was also remanded until March 10, when a preliminary hearing will be held in Trenton. Woodcock has elected trial before a judge and jury. Bail was set at $300 cash.

Airman Fined $100, Costs for Impairment

TRENTON — John C. Latta of the RCAF was fined $100 and ordered to pay $2.50 in court costs after he pleaded guilty in Trenton court yesterday to driving while his ability was impaired.

Magistrate P.E.D. Baker said that with public transportation easily available and the continuing increase in death toll on the highways, due to motor accidents, he failed to understand why men continued to drink and then endanger their own lives and those of others by driving.

The magistrate told Latta he was "lucky" to have landed in court on a charge of impaired driving rather than having been involved in a serious accident.

tient, who had a long history of abdominal cancer, would not likely survive the operation, Dr. Brown said.

The witness said he told Dr. Plewes he thought the patient young enough to stand a good chance of recovery and that there had not been any evidence of cancer in that operation.

After 30 minutes of discussion the anaesthetist found it necessary to give Miss Morgan her second blood transfusion.

ORDERED HALT

Dr. Plewes ordered the original operation discontinued and the spleen removed to halt bleeding, the witness said.

He said that after the spleen had been removed, Dr. Varga stepped into his place at the operating table and said he would complete the operation. He allowed Dr. Varga to do so rather than force another argument.

At one point, the witness said he had neither used the type of clamp listed as being responsible for Miss Morgan's death nor worked in the part of the abdomen where it was found.

Mr. Hoolihan asked the doctor why he had not treated Miss Morgan for severe pains and vomiting she had experienced about a week after the operation.

Dr. Brown replied he had been forbidden to do any further operating on the patient. The long, often tense day in the courtroom ended in confusion when Dr. Brown appeared after a 15-minute recess called at 5:15 p.m.

Mr. Pepper said his client, who is partially deaf, had probably misunderstood instructions and believed the inquest was adjourned for the night.

Flight Sergeant J. E. Samain, RCAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Samain, 62 James Street N., Belleville, receives his Certificate of Service on retirement from Group Captain E. M. Butcher, CD, Commanding Officer, RCAF Station Trenton. F/S Samain will continue to reside in Belleville.

Viet Cong's Clever Game

The cards are stacked against the U.S. in South Viet Nam, and the Anglo-Saxon's racial superiority complex is one of the Viet Cong's best weapons.

Consider the recent theatre blast in Saigon. Three U.S. citizens were killed and 51 others were wounded when a terrorist dropped a bomb in a theatre lobby. Police are holding a man they think is the terrorist who delivered the bomb—a rickshaw driver who was himself wounded.

A Saigon rickshaw driver. Dirty, smelly, flea-bitten scum of the earth. A man, perhaps, to be pitied. A man who works like a horse—and probably—for about twenty-five cents a day. Certainly a poor exchange, in Anglo-Saxon eyes, for three dead U.S. citizens. If a hundred like him had been captured, the U.S. would regret the exchange.

And now the Viet Cong are considered a threat to U.S. children living in Saigon. Military police will ride in school buses, and will stand guard in the schools. They will be of little use to anyone.

If a terrorist wants to pick off a few U.S. kids, all he need do is step out with a burp gun and spray one of the school buses. He will be killed himself, he knows, but the Viet Cong believe they have more to die for in their cause than they have to live for without it. And in the U.S.—with a few riddled school children to count —will not be satisfied with the blood of a terrorist.

It's a mean game the Viet Cong are playing, and it will probably be an effective one. Whatever the reprisals when a U.S. citizen is killed, they will impress neither the Viet Cong killers nor the U.S. community. If the campaign is pressed, the only course open to the U.S. will be withdrawal of all non-combatants from the country.

Because the Viet Cong, apparently, has ceased to believe the fiction that the U.S. troops in Viet Nam are not there as fighting forces. The Viet Cong knows an army when it sees one, and it knows where to strike an army where it hurts—right behind the lines.

Recognize Zanzibar

Canada, Britain, five other Commonwealth countries and the United States have all recognized the new government of Zanzibar.

This is the regime which, when it first ousted the Arabs who ruled the newly independent island, was said to have been patterned after Castro's Cuba.

It was widely reported that Cubans had been used to help establish the first communist-dominated government in Africa.

Now a U.S. state department official declares that the U.S. feels the main cause of the revolt was the dissatisfaction of the African majority with the Arab-Asian minority which ran the government.

There is a lesson here for those who are always ready to see Red when a revolution occurs.

If the communists were half as influential as some would have us believe, the world would be an even more precarious place than it is.

While a man can sometimes be judged by the company he keeps, this is not always true and never less so than in the days of a revolution. These may help to be likely to be accepted and the real nature of the new regime cannot be ascertained until stability is restored.

Hasty judgments can do more harm than merely slander the rebel leaders. When acted upon they frequently produce precisely those alliances which were erroneously believed to have existed—and which could have been avoided if greater discretion had been used.

It is encouraging to discover that, in the case of Zanzibar, the U.S. has joined Britain and the Commonwealth in revising earlier opinions, apparently before these opinions had time to cause any permanent damage.

The belief that because science is usually a good thing it must be virtuous to spend as much as possible on scientific research and development is rapidly becoming one of the most beguiling fallacies of the modern age. But in reality, just as it is possible for horses to eat too much grass, so it is possible for too much money to be spent on science. It is not just that money can be wasted; the real danger is that financial support that is at once extravagant and uncritical can seriously damage the character of science itself.—John Maddox, science correspondent of "The Manchester Guardian."

Women in Business

By Frank Oxley in the Financial Post

What is the true story about women in business? Is it all milk and honey? How the average boss must sit the flash of a smile or the flutter of an eyelash and how extend special privileges to his experienced female employees?

Not according to four professional women interviewed: Eve Edwards, systems analyst, R. L. Crain Ltd.; Margaret Hyndman, QC; Mary Macaulay, Manufacturers' Life Insurance Co.; and Elsie Gregory MacGill, national president, Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

All four were asked this question: What is wrong with the business climate so far as women are concerned and what should be done to correct it?

Here are their answers:

Mary Macaulay: The business community has not yet realized that women are able to perform the jobs that are necessary for the continuance of contemporary society . . .

The answer, to the question therefore, is that business should delegate and give increasing responsibility to women and also should expect them to measure up to efficient standards irrespective of sex.

Eve Edwards: We are far too concerned in business with male versus female and this leads to a climate in which the business girl is not really encouraged to go ahead.

Most girls have a split goal in life — marriage or business — whereas boys know they will have a job until they are 65 and this gives them more reason for ambition.

We should encourage women in business to accept their counterparts and give more to employers by putting the job first, at least from 9-5 . . .

Margaret Hyndman: Most companies have a great many women executives. And many of these companies serve women customers as well as men. But they haven't yet in any great number, elected suitable women as directors. . . .

Every time a woman does a good job in business, it makes it a little easier for some girl starting out in that field. Look at the school reports — it's the girls who make the high marks. The highest dropout is among boys rather than girls. In the end, just like the banks, future boards will have to choose women if they want people with the best-trained minds and the best education.

Elsie Gregory MacGill: Business practices toward women vary across Canada. I shall mention the common ones — great and small. Most managements will recognize some of them as their own. Some managements may be surprised, even chagrined when they do so. I would use three headings — Stop, Start and Incorporate — and sum up the important things as follows:

Stop — chiseling on women's pay for the same job; scrimping on women's training; impersonalization and dependents' benefits; crossing women out of the privileges of membership arbitrarily go with the job; arbitrarily relegating women to the Cowper room; and discriminatory unfair practices by parroting unworthy generalizations long since disproved.

Start — paying women wage rates based on job content without regard to sex and substituting talent for sex as the yardstick in matters of pay and advancement . . .

Recognize — that women constitute an essential, stable and beneficial labor force; that management could practice preclusive exploiting women; that the powerful forces of technology and trade competition are lining up in support of the principle of equality in pay, training and advancement for women.

Miss MacGill concludes: "The management which is blind, inflexible or arbitrary in its employment practices toward women invites the speculation that it may be equally blind, inflexible and arbitrary in other aspects of business as well."

Napoleon escaped from the island of Elba 149 years ago today—in 1815. The Congress of Vienna was still sitting when, early in March, the news came "Napoleon has arrived at Cannes in a bombshell." By April 20, Napoleon was at the Tuileries and Louis XVIII had fled to Ghent. Within three weeks, France had rallied to the Emperor's standard, but the Battle of Waterloo June 18 ended it all. The British government in exile returned to the remote island of St. Helena, where he died at the age of 51 in 1821.

1962—Algerian rebel leaders approved cease-fire arrangements with France.

Children Run Ragged

Montreal Gazette

American children are being run ragged; they are rushing toward heart disease and nervous breakdowns." So a professor of education has told the convention of the American Association of School Administrator in Atlantic City.

The real trouble, he says, is not so much the work that children have to do at school. It is all the other activities that are pressed upon them.

The child is pushed into one kind of activity after another. He must prove himself a marked success. And so sooner is he home from school than he may be rushed off for an appointment for music or dancing or other "advantages" that his parents have added to his competitive upbringing.

The result is that the poor child, while added to that time in life when he ought to know something of freedom, is already in the rat race. He is never allowed to be a child.

These conditions may be truer of cities on the border than they are here. But Canadians would do well to look out. There is such a thing as running children off their feet. The most precious gift to any child is to accord him an opportunity to grow privately, quietly, and independently, to be himself. It is something no child should be denied.

Cruel Words On Montreal

Ottawa Journal

There seems to be no shame left in the world. People will say anything in mixed company. The other day in the city of Montreal, Mr. Jean Drapeau, said quite openly, "Montreal is going into the public relations business." The city is going to put out a newspaper, "a glossy, "high-class" job, trumpeting its virtues.

Predecessors of Mr. Drapeau would have hooted. They knew it was not for its virtues it or Montreal was loved. And a Mayor like Camillien Houde, knew that his oyster-eating prowess alone did more for his city's name than millions of dollars spent singing its praises in hypercolor.

A magazine to sell Montreal! Who needs sell-jobs? Why, the city has ever strolled in the little grassy courtyard off the Gesu Theatre during intermission with Ti-Coq, looked at Sherbrooke Street's maples and mansions, hunted for some fine restaurant at Hotel Harry's in Craig Street, strolled down the streets sloping south from Notre Dame near the Cathedral into the old city, sat in the Mountain woods on a Summer evening and listened to Mendelssohn, or roamed St. Lawrence Main at Saturday midnight.

Montrealers liked to keep up the quaint myth that theirs was a cosmopolitan city, and in fact, pleasantly provincial and insular. To a real Montrealer, anything that didn't happen in Montreal wasn't worth bearing about, and probably didn't really happen anyway. So much could the idea of Montreal recognizing the rest of the world, and sleepering it off for decades, that was not cosmopolitan, it was civilized, in the aristocratic sense of having the time and to keep quiet about its own virtues and exaggerate its wickedness.

Perhaps all this is to be with the coming to Dorchester Boulevard — it used to be a nice poky little street — of skyscrapers where you can have your car parked in the basement and take an escalator up to what appears to be an indoor Bloor Street. The more it changes the more it isn't the same city at all. What used to be called the Paris of North America is to will be the Toronto of Quebec. Alas, O Montreal.

Consult Urologist About Removal of Kidney Stones

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had several attacks from a kidney stone about the size of a pea. The doctors tell me it cannot be dissolved, that it is too large to pass by itself.

The attacks are extremely painful at the time but after a shot of some relaxing drugs I feel fine again. However, the doctors recommend surgery or else the kidney may be irreparably damaged.

I understand that you have stated kidney stones can be dissolved. May I have further information? — Mrs. B. B.

Yes, I wrote that, and it is true. I said that some kidney stones can be dissolved. I did not say that all can.

In most kidney stone attacks you suffer several times as much pain as from an entire operation. And from some . . .

Up to now, we know how to dissolve some kidney stones, but not gall stones. I keep making this distinction because people confuse the two — that is, until they have one or the other.

There are different kinds of kidney stones. Some dissolve; some don't. The size also is important. When a stone, because of size or chemical type, will not dissolve, then we get it surgically. Otherwise it will keep on causing trouble (infection and bleeding) and may, as you were told, damage the kidney besides. The "dissolving" procedure is a technical hospital procedure. Your urologist should decide whether it is for you.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 68-year-old uncle had lived with me for some time since his wife passed away.

In the last three years he has developed a dry, hacking cough from smoking too many cigarettes, but he refuses to be X-rayed. He smokes three packages a day besides cigars and a pipe even if you "don't count" those that he doesn't inhale and it doesn't hurt him. We can't accept that and we keep pleading with him, but he is stubborn as a mule. We all read your column. Perhaps your advice will help. — K. A.

I doubt that my advice will help, but I'll try.

Is the dispute over his smoking the real issue, or is it just the focus of friction between you?

Anyway, I don't know how you can make him stop smoking or make him have an X-ray or anything else, if he doesn't want to.

He certainly has read about the surgeon general's report on smoking. I hope he'll heed it.

I do not believe in arguing with someone without getting some of it into the nose, throat or lungs even if you "don't count" those. I generally irritates these membranes. Hence a "cigarette cough."

I wish the surgeon general's report had added one more thing. Instead of stressing the serious diseases, it might have pointed out that a chronic cough is a strain even if you don't have lung cancer.

Personally, I like the logic of a San Francisco doctor who, several years ago, quit smoking just because he didn't like to cough to interrupt his sleep. I think it's a perfectly valid reason.

Note to L. A. C.: After three doctors independently have said the "tightness across the stomach" is nerves, why not suspect that maybe they are right? Anyway, give the theory a try. Tell yourself, every morning, "I'm worrying without good reason — so let's, for today, just enjoy life." And if this works once, try it twice.

Flexibility Key to Being Top Executive

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A friend of mine, who is the head of a good-sized industrial concern, mentioned my recent column on the "strong" and the "weak" executives. "The word you used that stuck in my mind" he said, "is the word 'flexible.' That is the real mark of executive capacity."

"Why do you single out that characteristic?" I asked.

"Because the main problem we have with executives and managers and administrators," he explained, "usually boils down to one thing: their inexpicte rigidity. They simply don't know how to bend."

"Maybe they consider their stiffness a sign of strength," I ventured.

"I don't know what they consider it," he shrugged, "but it can be disastrous in any real development in our plant. These days, unless a company has imagination and versatility and flexibility, it can't hope to compete in a changing market. And the emotional immaturity of the managerial people is dead-set against any innovation in thinking or procedure."

"Why do you suppose these men, if yours are so rigid?" I asked him.

"It's partly fear of being wrong," he answered. "If you do something the way it's always been done, nobody can blame you if it doesn't work. But kind of rigidity is a self-protective device — it's not really for the sake of the company, but for face-saving purposes.

"Its hard for a great many people to give up entrenched ways of thinking and feeling and acting." I suggested. "And it's interesting to see what often happens to them when two incompatible beliefs confront one another squarely — they simply 'solve' the problem by ignoring one of them entirely, and clinging desperately to their own irrational idea of what 'reality' is."

"Could you explain that a little better?" he asked.

"I'll tell you one of Larry Adler's favorite stories to explain it," I said. "It's about a man who walks into a doctor's office and says, 'Doctor, I'm dead.' The doctor says, 'How do you know?', and the man answers, 'I just feel dead, that's all. I'm dead, I tell you.' 'How do you prove myself I'm not a nut, I've come here on clinical confirmation. Will you examine me?'

"The doctor nodded, 'All right. First of all, let's see if we can find some dead person.' 'You agree that a dead person doesn't bleed?' The man shook his head. 'Of course not.' 'Give me a little incision in your hand — if you bleed, you're alive; if you don't you're dead. Satisfied?' 'Go right ahead,' the man said, offering his hand.

"The doctor made an incision. It began bleeding. 'What do you know!' exclaimed the man. 'Dead people do bleed!'"

Much A-Do About Duck

Montreal Star

Since three representatives of the judiciary have places in the story of Michael Sikyea and the duck, a magistrate who convicted him of hunting illegally, a judge who quashed the conviction and a second judge who reinstated it, it should be made clear that the praise is for the question. Mr. Sikyea is an Indian of the Yellowknife band, whose territory lies on the northern shore of Great Slave Lake.

In May, 1962, he shot a duck, for food. He maintains that he was permitted to do so, under treaty. A magistrate held that he had broken the Migratory Birds Convention Act, fined him $10 and confiscated his rifle. Judge J. H. Sissons of the Territorial Court upset the conviction. Mr. Justice Johnson of the Territorial Appeal Court reversed the appeal decision, reinstating the fine. Leave is to be asked for an appeal against reversal to Three to the Supreme Court.

It seems like an exaggerated fuss over a matter, but Indians are deeply concerned over hunting rights and the, comparative lack of protection the subsistently enacted laws. A Supreme Court ruling would settle the question, which would be a useful outcome.

But just as earthly justice is the earthly counterpart of mercy, it is also better for application with some appreciation of proportion. The shooting of a duck on Great Slave Lake is not the offence which the shooting of a duck on Lake St. Louis would be. A fine of $10 combined with loss of a rifle to a Yellowknife Indian in the former area would be very steep punishment indeed. The purpose of the bird-protection legislation is not defeated by spring hunting on the part of Northwest Territories Indians, a view not at all unsympathetic to due safeguards for the birds. The conflict is between two different sets of hunting conditions, as much as between law and treaty.

Second Thoughts

Winnipeg Free Press

An open quarrel on defence policy, an unworkable tax on the sale of American corporations in Canada; its quick withdrawal; then an attractive tax on capital exports devastating to the Canadian economy but soon modified in Canada's partial favor; finally a discriminatory Canadian withholding tax on the dividends of American investors — this catalogue of headaches on both sides of the border is sufficient to show that the neighbors must rethink their whole relationship or see it deteriorate further.

Four Captured In 10 Minutes After Escape

TORONTO (CP) — A guard and a laundry room supervisor were seriously injured Tuesday in the escape of four young prisoners at Guelph reformatory, Reform Institutions Minister Allan Grossman announced.

He said the four were captured within 10 minutes after they escaped from the laundry room via a skylight. About 25 other prisoners were in the laundry room at the time.

The guard, Harold Pattison, 40, and the supervisor, Robert A. Drysdale, 55, both suffered fractures of the skull from blows struck by the butt ends of large sweeping brooms. They were taken to hospital in Guelph.

Mr. Grossman said those captured were Harold Hulse, 17, Silver Creek, N.Y.; Lanny Joseph, 17, Oshawa; Richard Parsons, 17, Ottawa, and Anthony Prest, 19, Niagara Falls, Ont.

The breakout took place about 3:30 p.m. Mr. Grossman said the supervisor and the guard, who was unarmed, were "very seriously beaten up."

Truck Driver Takes $4,000 Coffee Break

That's the police estimate of damage to a tractor trailer he was driving west on Highway 7 this morning.

At Actinolite he decided to stop at a roadside diner.

The highway was still slippery from a light overnight snowfall. As he braked, the trailer jackknifed, crushing the cab against a clump of pine trees.

Had the trailer been fully-loaded Wilson could have been seriously injured, police said.

Peyton Place Author Dies In Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Grace Metallous, who said she wrote the controversial novel Peyton Place because she was hungry and thus won five years of prosperity—and loneliness, is dead at 39.

Entering Beth Israel Hospital Sunday night, she died Tuesday. The hospital said death came from chronic liver disease.

Monday night she dictated to a Boston lawyer the closing paragraphs of her will.

CLAIM CHINESE REVOLT

TAIPEI (AP) — About 10,000 Chinese staged an anti-Communist revolt in mainland China's remote Sinkiang province, the Nationalist Chinese Taiao news agency said Tuesday. Taiao, operated by the Formosa ministry of justice, said the revolt erupted in December, and several thousand rebels fled to the Soviet Union after killing 10 Communists and destroying government buildings.

JUST A SCRATCH — Driver John Wilson of Toronto was wheeling his empty transport west on Highway 7 this morning when "crunch" there he was sitting in the ditch with the cab wrapped snugly around him. The rig had skidded on slippery pavement, jackknifed, knocked off a guard post and sandwiched the cab between the van and some trees. All the glass was smashed in the crumpled van, but driver Wilson got out with only a tiny scratch on the right finger he is holding up. The accident happened right across the highway from Hollister's service station at Actinolite.

Landlady Resents Being Called a 'Busybody'

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I just caught up with some of your streamlined, 20th century advice to "nosey landladies."

No wonder people like you. You conveniently look the other way while they raise hell. You call it "minding your own business."

I'm a landlady who doesn't stand for any kitchen-kooks on my premises. I own two buildings and my caretakers have orders to tell me if any female tenant has male guests who leave after 1:00 a.m. Now you know very well, Ann Landers, that a single girl living alone who entertains men until dawn is not playing scrabble.

It's not enough that people pay their rent and not rip out the plumbing. I expect decent morals from my tenants and if they don't measure up, they can live someplace else. — AUNT NETTIE FROM WILKES-BARRE.

DEAR AUNT NETTIE — Don't deceive yourself into believing your rules have saved even one maiden from taking the primrose path. If that's the path they want to travel, they'll travel it. And by the time a girl is old enough to rent her own apartment, she's decided.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am so ashamed of my problem I can't ask questions of anyone who knows me.

I am 16, a junior in high school, get good grades, have lots of friends and am considered an extrovert. I go to bed every night at about 10:00 p.m. but I can't sleep because I'm afraid. Don't ask me what I'm afraid of — I don't know. Sometimes I'm afraid I'll get sick because I don't get enough sleep. Other times I'm afraid someone will get into my room and harm me. I always sleep with a stuffed dog so I will have something to cling to.

I baby-sit almost every Friday and Saturday night and am never afraid in anyone else's home. Do I have insomnia or a loose screw? Please help me. — WARREN, PA.

DEAR WARREN — The fear of sleepiness can be more damaging than lack of sleep.

See your family doctor. He will explain that many people who fear they are not getting enough sleep, get more than they think. He may also tell you to retire at 11:00 instead of 10:00, drink a glass of warm milk, take a warm bath, and read in bed for 15 minutes . . . etc.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The letter from the young mother who was being driven nuts by her four young children could have been written by me.

I was in worse shape than she was. I lived with a haunting fear that I might go completely off my rocker and do something drastic. A friend suggested a solution. I believe it saved my sanity and maybe it will save hers, too.

One Sunday I announced to my husband and children that I was going to my room for three hours to read, and relax, and they'd have to get along without me. I made it clear that nothing short of an explosion would get me out of that room.

At first the kids came to the door, one after the other — each with an excuse. But I held firm, through all the whining, fighting and tears and finally they were sure I meant business.

My husband, when he knew he had no choice, dealt with the "emergencies" beautifully.

I have kept this up for almost a year and now I know I've made it. — S. B.

DEAR S. B. — In the face of everything that's been said in behalf of togetherness, I'm delighted to print a word in support of "apartness." Thanks for writing.

Speaking Personally

By Gladys Ward

MORE ABOUT NURSING

As a follow up story about nursing, we have received information from the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario concerning the challenges and problems facing the profession.

There are more nurses in active practice in Ontario than ever before in history. But demands for nurses in hospitals, private practice, industry, teaching and public health have increased.

A growing population, a steady increase in hospital, medical, and surgical insurance, a trend towards government-sponsored health insurance programs, an increased awareness of the importance of good health and preventive medicine, these are all reasons why more nurses are needed.

Each day in Ontario more than 3,000 people enter a hospital. In public general hospitals alone, 1,507,904 patients received treatment during 1962. This is a staggering figure and does not include several thousands more treated in mental hospitals, sanatoria, private hospitals and federal hospitals.

The trend towards increased hospital insurance coverage means that more people are seeking treatment and hospitalization for medical problems.

Advances in medical science have meant an increased life span for everyone. Most diseases are diagnosed and treated at earlier stages. The average person today has a larger number of medical problems treated during his life span than the previous generation.

A reduction in the length of stay in hospital, means more critically ill and post-operative patients receive more intensive nursing care but for shorter periods of time.

A valuable addition to the nursing force is the Registered Nursing Assistant. In 1940 the Registered Nurses' Association pioneered in the development of this group. Ten years later there were four schools operating in Ontario, training 310 nursing assistants. Today there are 40 schools training over 1,200 nursing assistants each year. In Belleville this program was started this year at Quinte Secondary School with 20 students, and next year another 20 will be enrolled. In 1962, 76 percent of the 9,850 registered nursing assistants on the register were providing service for the general public.

This is a field where girls are being encouraged to enter. It is a rewarding one and challenging and a further inducement is that the marriage rate among nurses is high.

A registered nurse who read a previous article in this column said to me, "I would be glad to go back to nursing, but I have a small baby to care for. If the hospital provided a nursery where the baby would be cared for and where I could see her if I wanted to, that would solve my problem, and get me back on the job. But I am not going to leave my child for eight hours a day with a person who might be incompetent."

This sounded like an excellent idea. I wonder why some hospital has not tried it?

A STITCH IN TIME

Has anyone tried the new "invisible thread" that came on the market a year ago? According to a release that came to this desk the home-sewers' response was so outstanding that the length of thread per spool has been increased. It says that although first regarded as a novelty it has fully proved itself as a staple product in the notion field. I am curious about its use and its "invisibility". If anyone has tried it I would be interested in hearing about it.

Women's Institutes

SIDNEY SOUTH

The February meeting of Sidney South Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ted Aikens on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Douglas Reid was in charge of the business session. Mrs. Fred Meens read a letter from the Ontario president, Mrs. Trivers who stressed full membership attendance to the annual meeting and the convention. The safety consideration is on the "Use and Misuse of Poisons".

A nominating committee, Mrs. M. Nobes, Mrs. Ted Aikens, Mrs. Findlay, Scrimshaw and Mrs. Carl Moon was appointed to bring in a new slate of officers for the April meeting.

Mrs. Fred Meens gave a splendid account of the Achievement Day held at Moira Secondary School. Eight of the 4-H girls sponsored by Sidney South Institute received a silver spoon, each. Mrs. Ken Bush reported that 14 members are attending a course on "Focus on Finishes". Mrs. Ken Jones reported on a meeting held in her home when Miss Elsie Hamilton of the Extension Branch of the Federation of Agriculture gave lectures on safety and first aid. This meeting was attended by 13 members and friends.

Mrs. Ross Windsor was convener for the program on citizenship. This study was on Australia. Mrs. D. Reid gave an account of the Institute work in Australia — where it sponsors student hostels and has an extensive program in the care of the mentally ill. Bata Shoe and Bakelite have plants in this country. Mrs. Windsor conducted a contest on Australia, this was won by Mrs. Ted Aikens.

The hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Fred Aikens, Mrs. John Best, Mrs. Ken Bush and Mrs. Fred Meens served tasty refreshments and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

PIANIST RAINED OUT

OPORTO, Portugal (AP) — German pianist Wilhelm Kempff stalked off an Opera stage in the middle of a Beethoven sonata Tuesday night after pitting his fury against the banging of windows and other noises from a hard wind and rain storm. SINCLAIR — TAPP

A lovely winter wedding was solemnized recently in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, when Marilyn Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tapp, Belleville was united in marriage to Dennis Henry Fletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sinclair, also of Belleville.

Archdeacon G. S. McConnell officiated at the double-ring ceremony before a background of large white ornamental mums and pompon mums. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

The wedding music was rendered by the church organist Mr. Donald Davenport who accompanied the soloist, Mr. William Stone.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown of nylon organza over taffeta, designed on princess lines with fitted bodice having a scoop neckline. The bodice was accented by applique lace with embroidered seed pearls and long sheath-like sleeves ending in tapered lily points. The full bouffant skirt, featured the same lace appliques at the sides of the skirt. The back of the gown was caught up with several tiny organza roses extending over the entire back of the gown. Imported silk illusion veiling with scalloped edge formed a four-tier bouffant veil, caught by a tiny tiara of seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses mixed with hyacinths and long trailing ivy set with rosebuds.

Miss Roma Godden of Kingston was maid of honor, wearing a sheath dress of satapeau in Mandaun blue, with a scoop neckline and cap sleeves accented by a three-tiered overskirt and fastened at the waist with a bow. She wore a matching wedding ring headpiece with bow at front, with circular veil and matching shoes. The bridesmaids were Miss Judy Sinclair, Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Brenda Stone, Belleville, and Mrs. Verne Hope of Peterborough, who wore gowns identical to the maid of honor. They wore floor length white gloves and carried crescent shape bouquets of white daisies, centred with white ribbon and fern.

The little flower girls, Miss Linda Mason and Miss Wendy Simpson, cousins of the bride, wore identical bouffant dresses of white nylon organza over taffeta, with rosettes at the waist and cummerbund to match the color of the bridesmaids' dresses. Their headpieces were a white cluster of roses with circular veil over the face, they wore white wrist-length gloves and carried a basket of white daisies, mixed with blue sprayed hyacinths.

The groomsman was Mr. Gerald Sinclair, Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Larry Magee, Belleville, Mr. Wayne Trice, Belleville, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Verne Hope of Peterborough.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was attractively appointed with white damask cloth, with a three-tier round wedding cake, topped by wedding bells with two tiny doves holding wedding rings, and white candles completed the setting. White tulle around the base of the cake was accented with tiny Sweetheart roses. The colorful bridal bouquets added to the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a taupe brown brocade sheath dress with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a blue two-piece dress with beige accessories, and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

For going away, the bride wore a three-piece double knit suit in dark brown, with a short brown fur jacket, beige accessories, and a corsage of yellow mums.

Guests were present from Montreal, Barrie, Kitchener, Kingston, Peterborough, Carrying Place, Corbyville, Point Anne, and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Verne Hope of Peterborough with co-hostess Mrs. R. Reid of Peterborough; a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. D. Mason with co-hostess Mrs. B. Trice. The bride was entertained at a dinner party by the office staff of International Harvester where she was employed, and was presented with a plate glass mirror; also at a kitchen shower by Miss Brenda Stone with co-hostess Mrs. Wm. Stone.

Note the few adroit seams and darts that are responsible for the flawless fit — they're typical of Estevez finesse. Sew A794 in silky crepe, fancy wool, shantung or surah to wear to Spring parties, dinners or on a cruise.

History of Harder's School Gives Early Education Methods

By MRS. ALVA MEYERS

END OF SIDNEY — The former Second of Sidney School was an old log building of one room, later bricked, situated on the south - east corner of what used to be the old John Knox farm, today owned by Alva Meyers. The lot that housed the old school is owned now by William Hart. At that time, there was a cheese factory called Springfield Cheese Factory, situated by Meyer's Creek that flows through the same field.

The log school deteriorated, then it was necessary to build a new school There was quite a controversy as to where this should be built. The majority wanted it between the Knox farm an the Westfall farm, but these people did not care to have a school of children so close by, so a half acre of land was purchased from Dickie Harder, across the 2nd concession road, half way between the concessions, where the children would not bother anyone Mr. Harder let,them have this land for almost nothing.

1878 — Most of the bricks from the old school were used to build the new school and all of the men of the neighborhood turned out to help. They called it Harder's School.

SONS NEEDED ON FARM

In those days farmers' sons were not allowed to go to school in the summer time as they were needed on the farm to help with the work, so in the winter there were some very large boys going to school. One man in this vicinity, Bleecker Morrow, remembers his father telling him many times of the scrapes these young men would get into, in the old log schoolhouse.

This school was heated by an old-fashioned large box-stove that would take wood a full cord length. The boys had a grudge against the teacher and one day toward the end of the school day, they tried the teacher off the stove, after filling the stove with wood, and then went home and left him there. Someone going by heard the teacher yelling and came in and untied him, but he omitted that the teacher did to the culprits when next they came back to school.

Teachers were more strict in those days—they had to be, to keep the large boys in order. The teacher would come up the aisle with a strap up his sleeve, and all at once that strap would come down on the top of a desk. It would scare a small child, it made me shiver at times.

It is nice to know that teachers do not act that way with children these days.

All the children of section No. 4 went to Hogle's School, whilst Harder's school was being built, and they walked the three miles east, on the 2nd concession road to this school. P. W. Fairman of Trenton, who was a very young man at that time, taught at Hogle's school.

The registers of Harder's school are missing from 1876 to 1899, hence there is no way of knowing who taught these in 1876. It is known that Frankie Vanderwater of Trenton taught at Harder's on a permit when she was 15 years old. It was her first school. Alva Meyer's father, W. H. Meyers also taught in the new school. Jim Sandercock was taught by Mr. Meyers. He also strapped him on day this broke-in-a-horse. Sandercock family has been going to Harder's school for four generations. The Meyers family are all descendants of Captain Meyers, a U.E. Loyalist of Belleville many years ago.

These two teachers' names cannot be found in the registers so they must have taught in the years 1876 to 1899. An uncle of Bleecker Meyers, Dr. John R. Graham, a very old man who lives in Auburn, Indiana, attended Harder's school in these years. A. L. E. Crouter taught here, and later became president of a U.S. university. Other teachers were: P. L. Dorland, James Munn, Mr. LaRushe, Lottie Young, James Hoard taught in 1899; Robert Brown, James Black, H. B. Delong, W. J. Morrow, H. Empey, Rita Eggenberger, Jean Elliott, Lillian Cornwall, Trenton; Barbara Sherwin, Audrey Houndsome, Pauline Veitch, Miss Holgate, Mrs. Mrs. Earl Wager who teaches in the new school today, having 29 pupils of all grades. This is the least number of pupils for some years, there have been at times close to forty.

In the early 1900's the school yard was enlarged by one half acre on each side, bought from John Knox.

RENOVATED SCHOOL

A few years ago the one room school was renovated by putting in a lowered ceiling, water, and furnace and septic tank toilets.

Of late years there has been much talk of a new school, by the small land owners, but the few farmers have the largest share of the taxes to pay and they will not agree.

The town of Trenton is spreading out further all the time and this area is on the outside edge of it, so it may soon be in town.

Confederate Soldier Left Inspirational Poem

DORIS CLARK

DEAR READERS — My good friend, Hank Viscardi, of rehabilitation fame, sends the following lines:

I asked God for strength, that I might achieve,
I was made weak, that I might learn humbly to obey . . .
I asked for health, that I might do greater things,
I was given infirmity, that I might do better things . . .
I asked for riches, that I might be happy,
I was given poverty that I might be wise . . .
I asked for power, that I might have the praise of men,
I was given weakness, that I might feel the need of God . . .
I asked for all things, that I might enjoy life,
I was given life, that I might enjoy all things . . .
I got nothing that I asked for — but everything I had hoped for.
Almost despite myself, my unspoken prayers were answered,
I am among all men, most richly blessed.

Author unknown. This gem, which he calls "our prayer, at Abilities, Incorporated," is reported to have been found on the body of a Confederate soldier during the Civil War.

Hank adds: "I do hope you will use it, for most people find it a comforting and inspiring reference." Thank you, Hank!

Four Officers Face Dismissal From Force

TORONTO (CP) — Four of eight Metropolitan Toronto police officers, found by a royal commission to have arrested a New York rabbi illegally in 1962, have been charged with conduct unbecoming an officer, Metro Chairman William Allen said Tuesday.

He said at a meeting of Metro council the disciplinary action had to await the outcome of civil action, which Rabbi Norbert Lelner brought against the policemen.

The four officers, whose names were not released, will be defendants in a discipline trial in closed session March 5. The charges were brought under the Police Act by Metropolitan Toronto Police Commission.

Maximum penalty for the charge is dismissal from the police department.

A royal commission conducted by Mr. Justice Dalton Wells in 1963 into the circumstances of Rabbi Lelner's arrest on Jan. 26, 1962, found the arresting officers subjected the rabbi to foul and abusive language. It was determined that Sergeant of Detective Alvin Sproule struck the rabbi in the face twice without justification.

Last month the police officers agreed to an out-of-court settlement, said to be $4,000, in the civil suit brought by Rabbi Lelner.

Dr. Penfield Sees No Evidence Of Malnutrition in China

WASHINGTON (CP) — Dr. Wilder Penfield, famed Montreal neurosurgeon, says he has seen no evidence of malnutrition in Red China. Instead, he has found the Chinese have made great progress in eradicating disease, with hospitals and medical schools that are "absolutely first class."

"The Chinese may not have too much to eat but they have enough to maintain a vigorous life," Dr. Penfield added Tuesday as he addressed a selected group of U.S. correspondents, editorial writers and commentators.

With him were Dr. Denis Lazure, director of child psychiatry at Montreal's L'Hopital Sainte-Justine, and Dr. Geoffrey C. Andrew, executive director of the Canadian Universities Foundation, Ottawa.

The three Canadians, all of whom made trips to the mainland in recent years, are delivering a number of talks in this capital as part of an international seminar sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, a Quaker organization.

Dr. Lazure said he saw something strikingly similar between the youth of the U.S. and Red China—both were strong conformists.

Dr. Andrew said he was mainly impressed with the puritan nature of Chinese society, rather than its Communist fabric. He also felt the exodus of Prisoners Under Close Scrutiny At Reformatory

GUELPH (CP)—Four young prisoners at Guelph Reformatory are under close supervision today after they seriously injured a guard and a laundry room supervisor in a bid to escape Tuesday.

Charles Sanderson, reformatory superintendent, said the four teen-agers will be kept under "close supervision" until they are brought to court in Guelph. A date for their court appearance has not been set.

Police will complete their investigation before the youths appear in court.

The guards, Harold Pattison, 49, of Arkell, and Robert A. Drysdale, 53, of Guelph, are both in fair condition in hospital. The two suffered fractures of the skull from blows struck by the butt ends of large sweeping brooms.

The four youths are Harold Hulse, 17, Silvercreek, N.Y., serving eight months on breaking, entry and theft, Lanny Joseph, 18, Oshawa, serving 12 months for breaking, entry and theft and seven charges of automobile theft, Richard Parons, 17, Ottawa, serving nine months for breaking and entry with intent and theft, and Anthony Prest, 18, Niagara Falls, serving nine months for breaking, entry and theft.

World Peace-Keeping Plan Advanced by Britain at Geneva Refused by Russia

GENEVA (Reuters) — Britain submitted Tuesday a comprehensive disarmament and world peace-keeping plan that won American approval and Russian criticism.

Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler outlined to the 17-nation disarmament conference here the nine-point plan that included backing for a United States "bomber bonfire" proposal.

Butler suggested increased use of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes and stressed the collective responsibility of all United Nations members to contribute to all UN activities, including peace-keeping forces.

He took the U.S. "bomber bonfire" proposal a step further with a call to include tanks and some missiles as well as bombers.

(Butler said on his arrival back in London that disarmament ought to be "planned and done by degrees." He said he rejected a Russian suggestion for a total arms ban on the grounds it is necessary to keep a "balance" in disarming.

CITES QUESTION

(He added that the question of "national life" is involved. "We have offered to continue to talk to the Russians on this, and that is why we took the stand.")

U.S. Delegate William C. Foster, co-chairman of the conference along with Russian Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin, expressed "genuine interest" in Butler's proposal for UN peacekeeping forces.

Tsarapkin said the speech will receive the "very careful attention" of the Kremlin, but what is really needed is the reduction of troops on foreign soil and the removal of all nuclear weapons from German states.

The Russian spokesman also criticized Britain's view that a NATO multilateral nuclear force is compatible with the non-dissemination of nuclear forces.

He said the whole idea of such a force goes against non-dissemination and western activities toward creating it are "disturbing."

WELCOMES SUPPORT

Foster also welcomed Butler's support for President Johnson's proposed "freeze" of the numbers and characteristics of strategic nuclear delivery vehicles.

The British foreign secretary told the conference production of uranium 235 for military purposes had ended in Britain.

He also said military plutonium production is being ended.

The Soviet delegate denied Butler's assertion Russia devoted 40 per cent of its gross national product to armaments.

Tsarapkin said the U.S. devoted 55 per cent of its national budget to armaments and Britain 29 per cent.

WILDLIFE KILLED

About 1,700 roe deer and 1,000 elk were killed in traffic accidents in Sweden in 1962.

Haskett introduced bills calling for suspension of licences up to a year for motorists who make false statements while applying for licence plates and for those who produce false evidence or who cannot produce evidence of insurance when involved in accidents.

The licence suspension for giving false evidence while applying for plates will be in addition to present fines of $50 to $500. When applying for plates motorists must state whether they have insurance, and if not must pay an additional $20.

FACE SUSPENSIONS

Suspensions for those who give false evidence while involved in accidents will also be in addition to present fines. Such drivers will also be required to pay $20 to the Motor Vehicles Accident Claims Fund, under the amendment to the Motor Vehicles Accident Claims Act given, first reading Tuesday. This is not required at present.

Another revision to the act allows a person injured by a stolen car to make a claim against the accident claims fund even though the identity of the other driver is not known.

On another topic, Health Minister Dymond said the government's problem was to educate the public to accept retarded children in the community, not to build more hospitals to tuck them away out of sight.

James Trotter (L — Parkdale) had said there were not enough beds to accommodate the 10 percent of mentally-retarded children who need bed care, and Vernon Singer (L—Downsview) claimed children were getting poor treatment in provincial institutions.

Answering charges that the Hospital Services Commission shows little interest in hospital care, Mr. Dymond said the commission may not have the policing powers needed to improve supervision of hospitals.

RECEIVES 36 BIDS

Municipal Affairs Minister Spooner said the government has received 36 applications from municipalities for loans totalling $37,900,000 under the municipal works assistance program.

To date only seven commitments for loans totalling $863,000 have been made, he said.

The Municipal Works Assistance Act passed by the federal government makes a total of $127,000,000 available to Ontario for loans to municipalities undertaking winter works programs.

Mr. MacDonald said workers in a section of the Dow Chemical Company of Canada Limited plant at Sarnia have complained they are being exposed to excessive mercury vapors that could induce poisoning.

He said the workers claim that vapors in a section of the plant were higher than the legal limit in a 1950 air sampling. Since then the mercury cells in that section had almost doubled.

Health Minister Dymond, replying to a request by the NDP leader, said he will obtain a report on a 1962 inspection.

TUESDAY, Feb. 25, 1964

The Commons voted 128 to 120 to reject a non-confidence motion moved by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, narrowest win yet for the government.

Five opposition MPs—three Social Credit and two NDP—voted with the government in the crucial roll call.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the army's removal of old rifles from an Ottawa boy's college was "outrageous . . . lawlessness."

Defence Minister Hellyer apologized for the army's zealousness in carrying out his orders to remove arms from unguarded militia units.

Prime Minister Pearson said adequate security measures will be taken to protect the Queen when she visits Canada next October.

Albert Bechard (L—Bonaventure) said the CBC is poisoning youthful minds with violence and immorality on TV.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 26

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. EST to continue the throne speech debate. The Senate meets at 3 p.m.

Remembered Rare Recipes Readily Discovered

by Mary Moore

We had a rare stroke of luck. A reader remembered a Swiss Apple Pie eaten by her when she was in Switzerland for five months at the age of fourteen. Her description was good and Eleanor remembered we had not only the recipe but a dandy picture of it.

So following the recipe and watching the picture I made to cost them. Bake until firm (about ½ hour). Then pour over some of remaining mixture, slowly spooning over what is left at intervals when it will absorb more. Bake again until knife inserted near edge comes out clean (about ¾ hour). Remove pie from oven. Carefully pour melted butter evenly over top. Sprinkle with remaining sugar. Return to oven. Bake 5 minutes longer, or until top is crusty and golden. Let pie cool before cutting.

Your mind must be on this pie as it bakes for it is so full it threatens to overflow. After it is baked, as it cools filling subsides, so pie really is not too full. This big rich pie will serve 8.

It was very popular here — too much so for three of us went off our reducing diets. We yielded to temptation.

This would be lovely to serve with coffee at a dessert party.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Braised Shoulder Lamb Chops with Mushroom Gravy; Buttered Peas; Fluffy Boiled Rice; Individual Fresh Fruit Salads; Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

SCELOSS HERRLINGEN APPLE PIE

(A rich apple custard pie — similar to, but richer than, German Apple Pie.)

¼ cup butter,
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour,
½ teaspoon salt,
3 tablespoons cold water (about),
2 tablespoons very finely chopped blanched almonds,
1 tablespoon fine sifted dry bread crumbs,
4 cups thinly sliced tart apples (I used 4 Spys),
2 eggs,
2 egg yolks,
¾ teaspoon salt,
1½ cups (½-pt.) whipping cream,
½ cup milk,
¾ cup sugar, divided,
2 tablespoons melted butter.

Cut butter into flour and salt with pastry blender. Add cold water gradually, mixing with fork, until pastry can be packed together. Roll out on lightly floured board to ⅛" thickness. Line deep (1¼") 10" pie plate, forming high fluted edge. (You must have a deep pie plate or filling will over flow.) Sprinkle almonds and crumbs over pastry in bottom of pie plate. Arrange apple slices in pie plate, layering neatly. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 5 minutes. Meanwhile combine eggs and yolks. Beat slightly. Add cream and milk and ½ cup of the sugar, and salt. Stir until sugar dissolves. Pour half (nearly 2 cups) of this mixture over apples, being sure to pour some over every apple piece on top.

Indian Girl Makes Home Under Huge Steel Bridge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vicki Haig - Brown lives with the magic of the outdoors — under a soaring structure of steel and concrete.

Her home is a cabin set at the end of Clay's Wharf under the Granville Bridge, an six - lane artery leading into downtown Vancouver.

She and her university student husband, Alan R. Haig-Brown, have lived for three years in their quiet and solitary world which goes unnoticed by the motorists roaring overhead 24 hours a day.

"I love it here," Vicki said. "There is so much to see. There is the sky and the boats, and I li' to hear and see the ducks."

Houseboats rise and fall with the tide near the wharf, and the gulls cry. The bridge supports tower up near the cabin lik. the arrow - straight Sitka spruce, and the traffic overhead cannot be heard.

Vicki, 20, comes from a fisherman family of Kwakiutl Indians on Quadra Island, off the east coast of Vancouver Island near Campbell River.

ANGLER'S SON

Alan Haig-Brown is the son of Roderick Haig - Brown, the Campbell River magistrate who is internationally known for his books on sport fishing and the mysteries of the salmon.

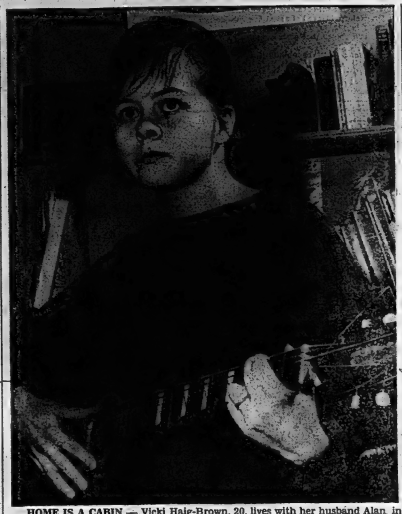
Alan is working for an education degree at the University of British Columbia, and hopes to do educational work among the Indians of the B.C. interior.

The little house on the wharf has been cleaned and decorated by the young couple. Indian paintings hang on the walls, and green fish-net is draped from the ceiling.

Each summer Vicki and her husband go to her home on Quadra Island and spend four months in the Straits of Georgia on a fishing boat owned by her family.

There she cooks for the seven man crew while Alan works with the nets. This way they can meet his university fees and pay living expenses for the coming year.

LOVES PAINTING



Mrs. Haig-Brown is never idle while her husband is studying. Her main pastime is painting. She is trying to achieve the traditional West Coast Indian style of bold and colorful ravens and thunderbirds. At present she is working on a series of silk-prints which may hang in the Campbell River museum.

"Color has a lot to do with the style, and shape," she says. "But it's hard to start at first; you get a lot of criticism."

Also busy learning to play the guitar, Vicki has plans for when her husband has finished university.

"We hitch-hiked through the interior and loved it around Williams Lake," she said.

"Perhaps we could go there. I am thinking of taking the kindergarten teachers' course at UBC so I could work with the Indian children, too."

HOME IS A CABIN — Vicki Haig-Brown, 20, lives with her husband Alan, in a cabin at the end of a wharf underneath Granville Bridge, part of a six-lane artery leading to the heart of downtown Vancouver. Vicki occupies herself with painting and learning to play the guitar while Alan works toward an education degree at the University of British Columbia. They plan to work among the Indians of the B. C. interior. (CP Photo)

U.C.W. Meeting

WHITE'S DISTRICT U.C.W.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Lawrence DaFoe was hostess to the ladies of White's U.C.W. on Wednesday evening with two new members present.

Mrs. J. Palmer was in charge of the "Word and The Way," with Scripture readings by Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Albert Jones and Mrs. Eric Jones. A discussion was led by Mrs. J. Palmer.

A report was given by the new treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence DaFoe, who also contributed an idea for a penny fund. It was decided that whoever gave the largest donation on the travelling apron would receive the apron at the end of the year.

Mrs. George Bilham offered her home for a March afternoon meeting and each member is to bring a visitor. Mrs. Lorne Hunt is to be in charge of the Easter devotions. Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Mrs George Bilham and Mrs. Earl Meyers were named to attend Belleville Presbyterial at Napanee.

Cookies, donated by Mrs. W. Jones and Mrs. Earl Meyers were sold.

Readings were given by Mrs. Earl Meyers, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Lorne Hunt and Mrs. Albert Jones. Mrs. J. Palmer won the Valentine contest of songs.

A social time was enjoyed, while the hostess and Mrs. Meyers served lunch. Mrs. Hunt moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Dafoe for her hospitality.

SCOTT'S U.C.W.

6th SIDNEY — Mrs. Grenville Sine was hostess to Scott's U.C.W. on Thursday evening, with twelve members and two visitors present.

Mrs. M. Dafoe, the president, was in the chair and opened the meeting with a call to worship.

An invitation to attend a St. Patrick's tea and bazaar on March 8th in the Frankford community hall, sponsored by Zion UCW, was accepted.

Plans were made to attend the Presbyterial UCW in Napanee on the evening of February 26th and all day, February 27th. There will be one car going to each session.

Mrs. K. Faul conducted the Bible study using various verses of Scripture.

Mrs. Edison Sine had charge of the program. She gave a report of a trip to United Church house and Victor Mission in Toronto. Mrs. Sine spoke on "Lent", stressing that it is a time for soul searching and self-denial and represents the forty days Jesus spent in the wilderness. As the word Lent comes from the root "spring," all car begin again. However, it is a good thing not to confine communion and meditation and self denial to the forty days but spread it throughout the whole year. Occasionally we should pause and ask ourselves the question, "How Am I Doing?"

A social hour was enjoyed by the ladies.

The Experts Say
Sugar Not the Cheapest But Still the Sweetest

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—Sugar is an expensive commodity these days but it is still the cheapest and best sweetener in the long run, say home economists in the federal agriculture department.

The economists, who have been experimenting with substitutes for granulated white sugar in baking, such as brown sugar, honey or molasses, find them all either more expensive or unsuitable for substitution in most recipes.

The only real answer for the housewife who wants to cut down on her use of sugar for economy reasons is to do less baking, they say.

The adventuresome cook may experiment with syrups and honey in baking, but the taste of the finished product is not likely to be as good.

Brown sugar can be substituted cup for cup for white in many recipes, but in most parts of Canada brown sugar now is just as expensive as white sugar.

HONEY COSTS MORE

And, say the economists, you definitely shouldn't substitute brown sugar for white in cakes, because the texture depends on the type of sugar to a large degree.

What about other sweeteners, such as honey or molasses?

Most molasses is less expensive—especially in darker, less refined varieties — than white sugar.

"But to produce good cookies, for example, you would buy the finest molasses, which can be just as expensive as sugar.

Honey now is about five cents a pound more expensive than white sugar, so unless you own bee hives or buy in large quantities it is not particularly useful in reducing sweetener costs.

Housewives who do try a syrup as a sugar substitute should remember that they have to reduce the amount of liquid used in a recipe by one-half to three-quarters of a cup for each cup of syrup used.

For example. If your recipe calls for one cup of water and you use one cup of liquid honey instead of one cup of white sugar, reduce the amount of water to one-half cup.

WAYS TO SAVE

It is impossible to use honey to preserve fruit and still retain a good flavor, but you can cut down the amount of sugar used in preserving. Honey could be used for one-quarter of the amount of sweetener called for and sugar for the other three-quarters.

It is not really necessary to use sugar in preserving at all, as the water is the needed ingredient. A small amount of sugar goes a long way to add flavor to fruit preserves, but most people like their jams and jellies fairly sweet.

Although it seems difficult to escape using sugar if you do a lot of baking and preserving, there is one practical way to cut down the amount of sugar used by your family from day to day—a method well known to families during the war years when sugar was rationed.

This method is to stop using sugar in tea or coffee. The amount of sugar saved may seem small at first, but three teaspoons will add up to pounds in a matter of weeks.

FRANKFORD A.O.T.S.

Frankford United Church A.O.T.S. Men's Club's ladies' night, in Rose-Lowery Hall on Feb. 20th was an outstanding success with the Eastern Ontario string quartette, directed by Stephen Choma, for entertainment and George Lyon's pictures of Ireland with his humorous commentary delighting everybody.

President Preston Chase was master of ceremonies. Mr. Gordon Savage proposed the toast to the ladies and Mrs. J. K. Beach responded. Devotional speaker Mr. Alf Storey had an interesting talk on the modern approach to religion. "We are involved in a changing world and at the dawn of a new era" said Mr. Storey, "and our spiritual life must meet the challenge of the changing conditions". About 100 people sat down to a banquet dinner served by U.C.W.

Rev. Everett Smith opened the meeting with prayer. Reports was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Clara Green regarding the Valentine euchre. The group decided to hold a bake sale on March 4th with members to donate baking. The next meeting will be on March 17th at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Hart.

Mr. Smith demonstrated the correct way of placing articles on the altar.

After the meeting Mrs. Ellis served refreshments.

Women's Institutes

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

2ND OF SIDNEY — The Bay of Quinte Institute held its February meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White on Wednesday evening with a good attendance and Mrs. Cecil Jeffery in the chair.

At the business session it was decided to give a box of groceries as a door prize at the next card party on February 21st.

Mrs. Jermyn Palmer, a member of the Bay of Quinte Institute, was the guest speaker describing a tour of 10,000 miles which she took last July by bus. Mrs. Palmer was formerly a teacher at Brredner school, but is now retired. The trip was organized for school teachers and friends who wished to travel widely, but economically.

There were three Pullman buses and each had two drivers. There were 106 people on this trip made up of many nationalities including Italians, Germans, English, Swiss, Scots, Australians, Americans and Canadians. Five of the tourists were men.

SPECIAL BUSES

The buses were fitted to provide special facilities for this mode of travel with upper and lower berths, kitchen and other conveniences. Three meals a day with wholesome food were served. Each person on the trip helped with the work. Groups took turns washing dishes, bringing food to the table and peeling a tub of potatoes each day. There was an electric table which was used every morning to make pancakes for breakfast with syrup.

The travellers stayed mainly at public government sponsored parks at night. Many people without much money spend their holidays in these parks.

Mrs. Palmer preferred to visit museums and Parliament buildings rather than going shopping in every city, because she felt she could shop anytime.

CALGARY STAMPEDE

The trip started in London, Ontario through Winnipeg, and Regina to Calgary, where they saw the afternoon and evening performances of the Calgary Stampede.

Some of the finest scenery in the continent was seen at Jasper National Park, Mt. Edith Cavell, Maligne Canyon and Athabasca Falls. On Sunday they saw the Columbia Icefields and much beautiful mountain scenery.

At Lake Louise and Banff there was mountain climbing, swimming, boating, horseback riding and chair lift on Mt. Norquay. The tour followed the newly opened section of the Trans-Canada highway to Vancouver with beautiful views of mountains, lakes and the Fraser Valley. At Victoria there was a boat trip to Vancouver Island and a bus tour of Victoria.

Taking the Columbia River highway they entered Crater Lake National Park where there were Rangers who gave lectures and took people on hikes.

POINTS OF INTEREST

The most interesting part of the trip was at San Fancisco with the Golden Gate, Fisherman's Wharf, Civic Centre, Chinatown, and the cable cars providing points of interest.

The group visited Disneyland and from there to Tijuana Mexico with its colorful shops, native costumes, food and handicrafts.

The trip followed the Virgin River along the floor of the canyon with immense red cliffs towering above. From Yellowstone Park to the Black Hills one sees a great area of natural phenomena. Mount Rushmore has four great American Presidents carved in stone on the face of it, Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt.

Mrs. Donald Sandercock thanked Mrs. Palmer for her interesting talk. A contest was held and won was by Mrs. John Reid.

DO YOU ATTRACT ELIGIBLE BACHELORS?

My husband brought two of his co-workers home for dinner the other evening. After eating, they were to retire to the study and put in a few hours on a project all three were working on.

This was not an unusual occurrence, but the two young men were rare in that they both were highly presentable bachelors. And they intended to stay that way.

If this sorry state is to continue, then the girls have only themselves to blame. Over dinner, we got on the subject of "How Girls Go Out of Their Way to Impress Eligible Young Bachelors." Judging from their observations, I'd say many young ladies seem to go way out and the kind of impression they make couldn't win them a ring on a carousel, let alone the kind that goes with orange blossoms and old lace.

Certainly, eligible young bachelors like to feel that equally eligible young ladies are interested in them. But sometimes they overdo it.

According to my informants, here are a few mistakes guaranteed to trip up any young lady before she gets anywhere near the altar:

After a young man takes you out on a date, feel free to call him at his home or, better yet, at his office, whenever you feel like chatting. He won't ask you for another date, but he'll certainly lose your phone number in a hurry.

When you're out on a date, be sure to tell him all about the other fellows you go out with, how successful they are and the absolutely fabulous places they take you. Be assured he won't ask for a return engagement — or an engagement of any type. He'll figure you'll be too busy being fabulous to waste time on him.

Criticize his friends. Sure, it makes him look steady, dependable, glamorous—and desirable by comparison. But men have an odd sense of loyalty and, since he's been pals with these "strips" since old college days, it's too late to mend his ways. If anyone is to be told to "dry up," it looks like you are the likely candidate.

Be possessive. When you are out together, cling to his arm and don't leave him alone at a party for an instant. After all, you want everyone to know you've got him tagged. But the only label the fellow may want is the one sewed inside the jacket of his suit. So if you persist in keeping a straight-laced, you'll have to find another jacket and switch labels.

Above all, worm your way into his family's heart. Visit his mother while he's at the office and get her solidly in your corner. But while you're working on mommy, he might be working up an acquaintance with another girl who isn't working so hard on snagging a man. And you'll have worked your way out of any future entanglements.

Now, is that any way to run a romance?

Captivating Wild Life Slides Enjoyed by Many

By A. HENDERSON

"Never look directly into the eyes of wild creatures," stated Mrs. Aima Wallis, wild life enthusiast, photographer, and taxidermist, as she addressed the Quinte Field Naturalists' dinner meeting Monday evening in Holloway Street United Church; "if you want to get a close-up picture of their personalities when they believe they are unobserved. By this method of 'not-appearing-to-notice' you will be amazed how close you can come to them and how soon they will accept your presence when they see you have no intention of injuring them." Mrs. Wallis mentioned that one can talk to these wild creatures (though she did not demonstrate with what tongue she communicated.

The slides, for the most part, included those from the environs of her own home on the Front Road and in and about the marsh along the Bay of Quinte; with some lovely sunsets of the Northern Ottawa River and Rolphton, where Mrs. Wallis will make her future home with relatives — a district well known, to her and one close to her heart.

MANY ANIMALS

Beginning with a lordly red fox with a magnificent tail, the slides portrayed many fauna, such as the sly weasel, nature's executioner who keeps the explosive population down among the smaller wild life creatures; whose summer vestments are in brown, and in winter, pure white save the tip of his tail, which is black — it is with weasel pelts that the robes of royalty are trimmed; the snowshoe rabbit, so named for the size of his hind feet which in deep snow act as a sort of snowshoes; the muskrat a cousin to the beaver, and his shacks across the snowy ice covered pond to his muddy entrance thereto; the black mink; the non-hibernating skunk who is more sinned against than sinning, unless driven to extremes and the intriguing courtship of the black squirrels which fared, rather badly — every time he came within her reach she cuffed him soundly so that he manoeuvred a continued swinging position, upside down; and then the delightful coons with their squaint faces.

THE INCREDULOUS COON

One coon picture was most captivating, showing the male unconcerned upon a limbless old curved dead elm, gazing steadfastly at Mrs. Wallis who had waded out into the marsh and who was endeavoring to climb another limbless curved trun, laden down with heavy equipment, all the while intently watched by the old coon whose countenance showed his disbelief in her ability to make the ascent. As he supposed, the dead bark gave way and down she slid. The coon's visage displayed a "I thought so" expression, and as the latest photographer, like King Bruce of Scotland, made another attempt, and succeeded, the coon plainly said, "Would you believe it, she made it." A wonderful piece of photography!

Among the many birds were seen a variety of marsh ducks and their nests among the bulrushes; almost indistinguishable with their four and five eggs; the blue heron; the wood duck who lays her eggs in the willow tree; red-headed woodpecker; cedar waxwing; American bittern; the snow owl; the little goldfinch; the jay; the mourning dove, and the ravens who build their nests on the ledge of a rocky cliff. Mrs. Wallis obtained this view by sliding down a rope attached at the summit. The ascent up was a lot harder than the descent, she added.

DEW-DOTTED WEB

Other views included that of a lovely, dew-dotted spider web taken in early morning; the sunlight breaking through the mist-covered bushes in a burst of glory; a spawning four-foot pike in the Bay of Quinte marsh; a lamprey eel; a sewer rat; a snapping turtle which lays its eggs, soft-shelled, in the sand of the beach, and lets the sun do the hatching; two small-mouth bass; the dance of the rabbits, and many others denoting the approach of spring —to mention but a few.

Mrs. Wallis was introduced by Miss Grace Tucker, and thanked by Miss Florence Fitzgerald, on behalf of the Quinte Field Naturalists, and presented, as a tangible mark of appreciation with a beautifully bound edition of "Gathering the Shore Birds", for which Mrs. Wallis expressed her thanks.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Joy Nichol, out-going president, read a brief items regarding a departure to the souther clime, and which was rescued from the ice and put into the care of a Mrs. Kay Boudoin of Kirkland Lake, who took the loon home, placed it in the bathtub, "which did not prove too satisfactory as he bit and splashed water, and was occasionally embarrassing to the bathroom". So he had his fare, by train, paid to Toronto, and from there to Toronto Bay", "where with a grateful little gasp, he took off the the south", and let us hope, a sadder, but wiser loon.

A short business meeting was also held.

Those at the head table, adorned with pale pink lighted ed; the incoming president, Miss Florence Fitzgerald; Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Swann; Mrs. Fred Wallis (guest speaker); Miss Grace Tucker; Miss Joy Nichol - out - going president, Miss Bertrude Lazier; and Miss Lillian Hart.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1964

TWO SEWER LINES will run up this trench from Church Street along Lattimer Street and across some private property to John Street. Normally the storm and sanitary sewer lines would be put in separate trenches, at least ten feet apart, but lack of space on this job demands they be in the same trench. In the picture, city inspector Don Dalrymple and Lightfoot's foreman, George Hopkins, discuss the job.

CROSSED CRANES at the Bell Telephone building both carry concrete for the top slab, poured last week. With this slab poured, most of the men on the job have been laid off until it's time to strip the forms . . . about two weeks.

Construction Roundup

By ANDY TURNBULL

CITY SEWER JOB

Lightfoot Construction started yesterday morning on about 750 feet of sanitary and storm sewer in downtown Belleville. The 12-inch storm sewer and the eight-inch sanitary sewer will run along Lattimer St. from Church to Turnbull, then across some private property to John Street. Work started at the corner of Lattimer and Church, with foreman George Hopkins in charge.

The new lines replace part of an old combined sanitary-storm sewer, running down John St. from near Bridge and out across an easement to Lattimer and Church. Because five catch basins were tied in to the lower end of the sanitary line, it has an unfortunate habit of overfilling during rain storms. The new storm sewer connects the catch basins—at the bottom of John St. and on Lattimer—with the main storm sewer on Church St. The new sanitary sewer connects the John St. section of the sanitary sewer with the main sanitary sewer on Church St. The two are being laid in the same trench—normally they would be laid at least ten feet apart but there's not enough room on this job—and some tricky work is expected in a narrow space between an apartment building and a retaining wall. The job should take about two weeks to complete, according to assistant city engineer Dick Kraft.

PICTON SEWAGE PLANT

Bill Tatham reports the underground piping is all done now at the Picton Sewage plant, being built by Bill Tatham Co. and the "digester" is installed. This item, a steel tank about 60 feet in diameter and 25 feet high with intricate "innards," is the most expensive part of the whole project. The quality of workmanship in the digester—especially in the welding—is unusually high according to Tatham.

BELL TELEPHONE BUILDING

The top slab was poured last week on the new office building at Victoria and Pinnacle, being built by Dodge Construction of Cardinal, Ont. All but a few men are laid off now and will be off for about two weeks. There's nothing for them to do, according to superintendent Charles Farmer, until it's time to strip the forms from the inside.

A shovel from McFarland's was at work Monday and Tuesday, cutting away space for a retaining wall around the parking lot behind the building, and some of Carr-Braint's men were stripping the forms from the outside of the south wall. The inside of the building is still a jungle of jacks.

MORMON CHURCH

The new Mormon Church on Palmer Road is about 90 per cent finished now, according to Orval Tustian, the man in charge of the building. There is no definite date on completion yet, because the labor is volunteer and th labor force fluctuates from day to day.

The building will not be dedicated — or used for meetings — until it is fully paid for, Mr. Tustian says. Mormon church law says the building does not belong to the church members and cannot be used by them, while they owe money for it. When the building is paid for though (which will be when it's finished), there will be a "Thanksgiving Service" and from then on it will be in use most days of the week.

KING GEORGE SQUARE

Second house in the King George Square project and the last house planned by Maurice Rolling Construction for completion under the winter construction bonus, was begun Saturday. First house in the project begun earlier in the week, was damaged by vandals but has since been repaired.

The roof is on this house, but it's not closed in yet. The second house has some block laid in the basement, but not much else. Joe Rolyes is in charge of the men working there now.

BLACK DIAMOND

McAlpine's foreman on the Black Diamond addition, Larry Yurack, hopes to be able to pour the floor sometime this week. He's about a week behind on his schedule now, mostly because the frost was deeper than he expected. There's a Lightfoot crane and roller inside now, smoothing the area.

ELLIOTT MOTORS

Infra-red heaters - 20 of them so far with two more to go - are up in the service and quick-service areas of the new Elliott Motors building, and plumbing is being laid in the floor. The floor will be poured as soon as the plumbing is completed, according to Roy Brooks. Terrazzo is being completed in the washrooms and will soon be laid on the showroom and office area floors. The front area is closed in with canvas and a wall has been poured around the outside, under the canvas. The curbing of this walk will support the bottom of the frames for the big windows.

BELLEVILLE TOWERS

Nicholas Dix, superintendent of the Belleville Towers apartment project on Victoria Ave., at George St., went back to Toronto last Friday, leaving Tom Hill of Shannonville as watchman on the job. Work on this site stopped at the beginning of the first cold snap, and hasn't resumed since.

CAR WASH

Fred Smith and Walter Bronson are working alone at the new car wash building on Dundas Street East setting up forms for the machinery that must go into the floor. Forms are up now for the trench to carry the chain that pulls cars through, and for the motor-housing at the end of the trench. The motor-housing will include steel channels, cast into the concrete, on which the motor will be mounted. The office area of the building is mostly finished.

Report Hoover Strong, Alert Despite Illness

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover remains "strong and alert despite his age and illness," and his kidney bleeding has stopped, his doctors report.

The latest medical bulletin, issued Tuesday night, said, however, that Hoover, 89, had spent "a rather restless day due to respiratory (breathing) difficulty."

There were no immediate plans to move the 31st U.S. president to hospital from his hotel suite at the Waldorf Towers.

The announcement Tuesday that Hoover was seriously ill followed by 12 months an operation he underwent at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center to remove a cancerous tumor from his intestinal tract.

Two Javelin Jet Fighters Sent to Sarawak

KUCHING (AP) — Two RAF Javelin jet fighters armed with deadly Sidewinder missiles arrived in Kuching, capital of the Malaysian state of Sarawak, Tuesday to help meet any threat from Indonesia's warplanes.

Deputy Chief Minister James Wong of Sarawak said the swift jets will join an air patrol of "Malaysian skies to intercept any Indonesian intruder." Patrols will fly night and day.

Indonesia has announced it will use its air force to drop supplies to 200 or more guerrillas it is supporting in Malaysia's Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah (North Borneo).

Malaysia has warned such an airdrop will violate the ceasefire arranged a month ago between the two feuding Asian nations by United States Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy on his peace-making mission to Asia.

In the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lampur, Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman broadcast a message to his people to be on the alert because "anything can happen in the next few days."

Indonesia is known to have Soviet MIG jets, possible some on base in its part of the island of Borneo.

Two Killed, One Wounded In Shooting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two men were shot to death and another critically wounded early today in a famed Hollywood bar when a disgruntled "customer previously kicked out came back shooting.

The double slaying occurred in Durando's restaurant on north Vine Street, across the street from the Steve Allen television studio.

Police said one of the men killed was the owner, Joe Durando Sr., 69.

Detectives said Arthur Jacobson, 42, had been ejected from the restaurant because of disorderly conduct. He came back shortly before the 2 a.m. closing time, threatening to kill everyone in the place.

Detectives said Durando and a man identified as Dominick Christiano, 49, of Hollywood, were slain in the shooting that followed.

Another man, not immediately identified, was shot in the stomach and taken to hospital in critical condition.

Police said the shooting spree came to an end when Jacobson was disarmed by a husky young patron at the bar.

District Catholic Teachers Hold Meeting in City

Nearly 100 teachers were enlisted after class by the sisters of Nicholson Catholic College yesterday.

The mass detention - - in the interests of higher education - - was voluntary.

The teachers were the district & membership of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association and the event was the group's annual meeting.

As soon as Nicholson's supplies left for the day, the teachers and sisters moved into the vacated classrooms and launched their convention with a series of group discussions on mutual problems.

P. A. G. McKAY

The delegates, from the Quinte district and Central Ontario west to Port Hope, were guided in the seminars by educators from outside their area.

Leading the discussions were G. W. Penrose and H. E. Hedges, Toronto Teachers' College and W. C. Tiessen, vice-principal of Whitby's Henry Street High School.

In proper contemporary style, science equipment drew much of the afternoon's attention. Canadian Laboratory Supplies stocked out one of the rooms with laboratory appliances and sent along company representative George H. Leimbach as a counsellor.

Later, the teachers heard some blunt after-dinner talk from the convention's keynote speaker, P. A. G. McKay, editor-in-chief of The Canadian Register, the Kingston diocesan newspaper.

FAITH NO SUBSTITUTE

In education, faith was no substitute for knowledge of their subjects, he said.

"You must also be experts in your chosen field before you can claim to be good Catholic teachers," he said.

Particularly does this apply in the complex of today's highly-specialized society, where social intercourse is tending to break-down into communication between like-minded groups.

"Civilization, let alone society cannot exist, let alone flourish under such circumstances," he said.

Teachers have common cause to encourage social communication and hence they must become involved in knowledge of the world around them.

He told the assembly that, as Catholic teachers, they had a duty to be well-informed in both religious and scientific fields.

Honored Name Of Admiralty Is Retained

LONDON (AP)—A sentimental crusade to keep the old and honored name of the admiralty intact has logged a victory in the House of Lords.

Peers Tuesday night voted against a governmental proposal to redesignate the admiralty the navy board. They carried an amendment by a vote of 68 to 67 urging that the present name be retained.

Said Lord Teynham, a Conservative peer and a former Royal Navy captain: "It will be a sorry day for England if the time honored name of the admiralty is allowed to disappear into the limbo of forgotten things."

The Conservative government has proposed the change of name as part of a new unified defence setup, under which the admiralty will become a subsidiary of the Defence Council.

Old sea dogs among the peers said they would have none of it.

Said Lord Alllwyn, another Conservative and retired naval captain: "It is unthinkable that the government could with a stroke of the pen expunge a word which has conjured up the highest degree of loyalty."

ATTLEE COMPLAINS

From former prime minister Earl Attlee came agreement. "This government is always pulling down things," he complained. "I like the old titles."

Navy board is in fact an old title. A body under that name administered the Royal Navy for three centuries. It had a reputation for corruption and inefficiency. The navy came under the wing of the admiralty by an act of 1832.

Several legislators were mindful of this piece of dark history. "The navy board," said Lord Teynham, "is not a name which commands any great respect."

Cheers broke out when the amendment moved by Teynham was carried.

For the government, Lord Carrington reminded legislators that it would still need the approval of the House of Commons before it could become part of new statutes governing the administration of British defences.

Some Motorists Will Be Given Short Respite

TORONTO (CP) — Motorists whose applications for drivers licences have been delayed through the department of highways' newly automated system will be given temporary licences, it was announced Tuesday.

But those who have only themselves to blame for the delay still face the Feb. 29 deadline, said W. M. Earl, registrar of motor vehicles.

"The complications have arisen while the department is changing to a new licensing schedule based on a motorist's birthday. The department sent punch-card applications to licence-holders this year which were to be returned to the department accompanied by the required fees.

Mr. Earl said the department had mailed 2,500,000 applications by Jan. 22 and advertisements were placed in every newspaper in the province advising motorists to inform the department if they failed to get one.

He said several thousand replies have been received. Many applications were missed as the result of persons not advising the department of a change of address, said Mr. Earl, and some as the result of mistakes by new punch-card machines.

The registrar said 92 per cent of Ontario's motorists have received their drivers' licences, and with only three days to go 200,000 motorists still have to obtain them.

Licence plates have been issued for about 83 per cent of Ontario's motorists, leaving a balance of 300,000 to be issued, he said. Licence plates are not handled under the new system.

'Tom Jones' Scored More Mention Than Any Oter Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Almost half of the Academy Award nominations for acting went to English performers Monday, and Tom Jones scored more mentions than any other film.

Tom Jones, as English as Yorkshire pudding, totalled 10 nominations and appeared to be the favorite to dominate the 36th annual Oscars award ceremonies April 13. It was followed by Cleopatra with nine and How the West was Won with eight. All three were named for best picture of 1963, along with America America and Lilies of the Field.

Three Englishmen, all nominated for the first time, scored for best actor: Albert Finney, Tom Jones; Richard Harris, This Sporting Life; Rex Harrison, Cleopatra. They were joined by Paul Newman of Hud and Sidney Poitier of Lilies of the Field, both previous nominees.

Rachel Roberts, wife of Harrison, made it a his-and-her nomination by being selected for best actress award because of This Sporting Life. Also nominated were Leslie Caron for Lshaped Room, Shirley MacLaine for Irma La Douce, Patricia Neal for Hud and Natalie Wood for Love with a Proper Stranger.

IS MOSTLY BRITISH

The best supporting actress field was almost a British monopoly. Diane Cilento, Edith Evans and Joyce Redman were all nominated for Tom Jones and Margaret Rutherford for The V.I.P.'s. Also running: Viennese Lilia Skala for Lillies of the Field.

The supporting actor race was more diverse. It included director - turned - actor John Huston (The Cardinal), one time romantic star Melvyn Douglas (Hud), past winner Hugh Griffith (Tom Jones) and two youngsters, Nick Adams (Twilight of Honor) and Bobby Darin (Captain Newman, M.D.).

The Commonwealth could claim nine of the 20 acting nominations (Miss Cilento, who is the wife of actor Sean Connery, is Australian-born of Italian descent.) Leslie Caron might even be added to the total, since she is married to an Englishman and won her nomination in an English-made film.

Tony Richardson continued the Tom Jones winnings with a nomination for best direction. Others named were Elia Kazan for America America, Otto Preminger for The Cardinal, Federico Fellini for 8½ and Martin Ritt for Hud.

The Italian Fellini's 8½ was also nominated as best foreign language film.

For best song: Call me Irresponsible from Papa's Delicate Condition; More from Mondo Cane; So Little Time from 55 Days at Peking; title songs from Charade and It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World.

Now the real campaigning begins. It will all end April 13 at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium when the gilded statuettes are presented.

HIT BY STORMS

MANAMA, Bahrein (Reuters) This normally hot, desert island in the Persian Gulf is recovering from the worst wintry gales and floods in its recorded history. Gale-whipped seas, along with high tides, smashed concrete seafront walls, flooded villages and sank a number of Arab sail boats. The inhabitants of the 21-square - mile island for the first time in living memory saw ice forming.

Reds Believe Viet Nam Tide In Their Favor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Wallace M. Greene, new commandant of the U.S. Marines, says that the Communists in South Viet Nam have stepped up the size and intensity of their attacks because they think the war is developing in their favor.

But Greene said he is optimistic about the eventual outcome of the Viet Nam war being waged with heavy U.S. help.

Greene discussed the war in South Viet Nam in the first question - and - answer interview he has granted since becoming commandant of the 190,000-man marine corps Jan. 1. He looked over the situation on the spot just before the last coup.

WHITES EARN MORE

PRETORIA (Reuters) — In spite of recent pay raises, the average African teacher in South Africa still earns much less than a white teacher. An African teacher with matriculation, plus a professional certificate, earns a maximum $2,000, compared to a maximum $4,100 paid to a white teacher with the same qualifications.

Holy Mackerel! A Walking Fish!!

VANCOUVER (CP)—A zoologist is naturally impressed when a fish plays peek-a-boo with him and then hops ashore for a pogo-stick trip from rock to rock.

The immediate scientific reaction?

"You chase it until you catch it, especially if you've travelled over 3,000 miles to see it," says Dr. C. C. Lindsey, associate professor of zoology at the University of British Columbia.

The fish is a 2½-inch sprite called sycidium cocoensis. Dr. Lindsey's bring - 'em - back - alive success—with a butterfly net—is a scientific first.

A pair of the rare fish have been presented to the Vancouver Public Aquarium where the staff, fingers crossed, is trying to hit on the right tank conditions and an acceptable diet.

An initial offering of 24 white worms went down well.

Sycidium cocoensis appears only in the waters off Cocos Island, a speck in the Pacific 300 miles off Costa Rica and 500 miles from the Galapagos Islands where Darwin first formed his theories of evolution.

LOST THEIR FINS

Dr. Lindsey made a two-week cruise off Central America with wealthy lumberman H. R. MacMillan on the MacMillan yacht Marifean.

"We spent six days anchored off the island to give me a chance to catch some of the fish. But I was only able to get two of them—I'm hoping a male and female."

He said the evolution of the species is unique. Their back fins have disappeared in the million years they have taken to evolve, leaving a suction cup apparatus under their stomach.

This allows them to survive terrific currents caused by torrential downpours. The apparatus holds them on to rocks when other fish would be washed away.

It also enables them to jump from rock to rock out of the water.

"I chased one for 10 minutes before finally catching it," Dr. Lindsey says.

The species first was discovered in 1903 by two scientists named Heller and Snodgrass, but little work has been done on sycidium cocoensis since.

"I have a suspicion that they even can breathe out of water as they are always sticking their heads out and looking around," says Dr. Lindsey.

ROCK - HOPPING FISH — This 2½-inch fish has a suction cup under its stomach that enables it to hop from rock to rock out of water. One of two presented to the Vancouver Public Aquarium after being caught in the Pacific, the sycidium cocoensis gets its name from Cocos Island, the only area in which it is found. (CP Photo)

Britons Press For Cheaper Ocean Fares

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Canada launched its European travel pitch Monday, and heard some polite heckling from British travel agents.

After Canadian officials proclaimed their determination to make tourism Canada's No. 1 industry, Britain's travel chief Ernest Garner quietly but firmly pressed the need for cheaper transatlantic fares.

Garner is chairman of the Association of British Travel Agents. What he particularly wants is a travel gimmick called the "tour-basing fare," a familiar device in Europe but little known in North America.

Travel agents arrange the lion's share of Britain's holiday business. The tour-basing fare enables them to obtain lower than scheduled transportation charges as part of a package deal including other tourist facilities.

Special difficulties confront North American application of the system. Travel men nevertheless are convinced that some inclusive principle is bound to come sooner or later.

"It is quite illogical that such a fare is denied us," Garner said at a luncheon in the London Hilton Hotel.

CHEVRIER SPEAKS

Lionel Chevrier, making his first speech as Canadian high commissioner in London, earlier promised that settings for the 1967 world's fair in Montreal would not only equal but probably surpass previous fairs at Brussels, Paris and Seattle.

Two Children Consume Aspirin Tablets

CAMPBELLFORD—The condition of two children who consumed a quantity of aspirin tablets Sunday night is reported as serious, but improved by doctors at Belleville General Hospital.

The children, Betty, age one and a half and her brother Arnold, is two and a half are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Jensen of R.R. 1, Campbellford.

Mr. Jensen and a boarder were at home alone with the children when Mrs. Jensen returned to the house about 11 p.m. Sunday. The children were sleeping. During the night, both became ill, and it was not until Monday morning, when Arnold was unable to talk, that it was discovered the aspirin tablets were missing.

Mrs. Jensen is reported to have given two tablets to a baby sitter about 6 p.m., but said she could not remember where she placed the bottle after using it.

The children were taken to Campbellford hospital by taxi, then rushed to Belleville General behind a police escort for treatment.

Two Arrested After Break-ins In Percy Twp.

CAMPBELLFORD — Provincial police here, investigating three break-ins, two of them in the same home in Percy township, have arrested two men, one from Toronto and the other from Oshawa and charged them with two counts of break, entry and theft, and one count of theft.

The thefts are alleged to have taken place from a home in Percy township owned by Clayton Green of Akron, Ohio. Police did not reveal the exact location. The home was first entered February 17 when entry was gained by breaking the rear window and door. About $150 worth of antiques were taken at that time. A week later, on February 19, the same home was entered a second time and a quantity of household furniture was taken. On the same night, a second home, about two miles away from the first, and owned by Wilfred Hicks, was entered, and an old oxen yoke taken.

Following a week of investigation, OPP Constable M. S. Rutherford of the Campbellford detachment travelled to Oshawa and arrested Forbes Darrington, 30, of Oshawa, and Peter Hofer, 18, of Toronto. Both have been charged with two counts of break, entry and theft, and one count of theft. Police recovered a quantity of merchandise reported taken in the break-ins. The two men will appear in magistrate's court in Campbellford, February 27.

Queen's Scout Certificates Presented at Banquet

CAMPBELLFORD — About 170 persons attended a father and son banquet staged by Scout Troops and Cub Packs here Saturday night at St. John's United Church auditorium, to mark the anniversary of the founding of the movement by Lord Baden Powell.

A highlight of the event was the presentation of Queen's Scout certificates to four district Scouts — Gary Atkinson and Dwight Bennett, both of Campbellford, James Carlaw of Warkworth and William Watkins of Norwood. The boys received their awards from Judge J. C. N. Curreliey, judge of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. Only a representative of the Queen may present such a high Scouting award.

In speaking to the boys and their fathers and other guests, Judge Curreliey briefly outlined the history of law since early times, and said that if the people of the world would abide by the ten points contained in the Scout law as laid down by Lord Baden Powell, this would be all the law, that was required in the world today. He pointed out to the Scouts the value of the training they received as members of the world-wide organization, and said they would become better citizens because of it.

Speaking from his own personal experience in law, the judge remarked that Scouts are seldom involved in the courts and that to his knowledge, no Queen's Scout has ever run afoul of the law.

Norman Griffith of the Scout Group Committee acted as co-chairman for the evening, along with Scout Gordon Grant. The group committee consists of 12 district men, half of whom are members of the Campbellford Rotary club, who sponsor the movement locally.

Following the banquet, Cub Peter Cheyneweth proposed the toast to the fathers. His own father, Jack Cheyneweth, teacher at Campbellford district high school, replied to the toast.

Scout Master Jack Connor presented a Scout ring to retiring Scout leader Douglas Carswell, saying Mr. Carswell had contributed a great deal of time and effort to the local Scout movement, and with his leadership, the troop had seen much progress. Mr. Carswell conducted the boys on several canoe trips and camp-outs, and was, as Mr. Connor termed it, responsible for putting the "out" in Scouting.

Queen's Scout Gary Atkinson of Troop B presented Mr. Carswell with a pair of bookends bearing the Scout emblem, on behalf of the boys in the Troop.

In replying Mr. Carswell said he had received much satisfaction from his 14 years of working with the boys, and praised the members of the scout committee for their interest. He said that while local businessmen and residents were always generous in donations of money or merchandise, no one cared to donate time, and that time was the most valuable commodity in Scouting. He urged more local residents to take an active interest in Scouting, and to donate their time as leaders and advisers.

During the latter part of the evening, Troop A provided a skit in which the boys acted out the ten points contained in the Scout Law, and the three Cub packs demonstrated a typical Cub meeting.

On Sunday, the Scouts, Cubs and Girl Guides took part in church parades to mark the founding of the Boy Scout movement, observed during the past week which had been proclaimed Boy Scout Week.

Three Injured, Driver Charged In Accident

CAMPBELLFORD—A one-car accident on the Campbellford-Hastings road at Cuff's corners Saturday afternoon injured three persons and resulted in a charge of careless driving being laid against 23-year-old Herman Klooosterhof of Campbellford.

Klooosterhof, who received only minor cuts and bruises, is the alleged driver of a car travelling west, which failed to stop at the intersection at Cuff's corners, eight miles west of here, then continued across the highway and plunged down a narrow gravel lane. The 1958 model car careened 218 feet, struck a tree, then sailed through the air without touching the ground for another 78 feet, landed in snow and ended up against a second tree, which stopped its progress, more than 400 feet off the highway.

Klooosterhof received only minor cuts and bruises, but two passengers, Albert Young, 21 of Port Hope and Kenneth Reynolds 23 of Hastings were thrown from the car during its wild ride. Young received a fractured right arm and chest injuries and Reynolds has head lacerations and possible back injuries. He was taken to Civic hospital in Peterborough. Young went to Port Hope hospital for X-rays. All were treated by Dr. L. G. Patterson of Hastings. OPP Constable Ernest Stacey of the Campbellford detachment investigated.

'SONNY ECLIPSE' STUNS BOXING WORLD

Yields Ingloriously To Clay

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Cassius Clay, the fascinating Louisville blowhard, has stunned the boxing world by blowing down heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, the man who couldn't lose. When he says "I'm the greatest" now, nobody laughs.

The frail-strong, tiger-mean Liston yielded his crown Tuesday while slumped ingloriously in his corner between the sixth and seventh rounds, blood gushing from a gash under his left eye and his left shoulder in severe pain.

It went into the books as a seventh round technical knockout — one of the most astounding ring upsets of all time but one that left the millions of fans pondering unanswered questions.

How did it happen? When did it happen? Why didn't Liston, the awesome ring killer, demolish the loquacious Kentuckian as he had his other rivals in the last three years?

Liston was taken to St. Francis Hospital where eight physicians subjected him to a 3½-hour series of x-rays and other examinations.

SHOULDER INJURED

The group issued a statement that said the champion had suffered an injury of the left shoulder which prevented him from defending himself.

The statement said there was a "separation and a tear of muscle fibers" with some bleeding, but gave no other details.

Liston, dressed in a red shirt and slacks, pushed his way out of the hospital without comment. His aides said he planned to go to his Miami Beach temporary home and would make no statement immediately.

His purse from the gate attendance had been ordered held up by the Miami Beach boxing commission pending outcome of the doctors' examination.

Jack Nilon, the ex - champion's advis'r, said Liston wrenched his shoulder in training but that the two of them decided to try to bluff their way through "because we thought we could get away with it."

Nilon pointed out that Liston stopped boxing six days before the fight but others recalled that Sonny showed no signs of an ailment in other phrases of training and even declared himself "in the best shape ever."

IS FLOP AT GATE

This was just one of the many contradictory aspects of the bout, which was a financial flop at the gate with 8,000 paying only $400,000 for the privilege of watching—half of the figure needed to break even.

Clay, the exultant, hysterical and almost berserk new champion, sought to erase any stigma from his spectacular victory even before any had been officially cast.

Unsettled by the ringing boos that rocked the arena, he screamed to all within earshot:

"This no fix. I closed both of his eyes. He didn't touch me. I didn't stop the fight. The doctors did."

Boxing writers, accustomed to

weird occurrences in this sometimes sordid sport, were seeking answers to questions which left them befuddled.

THEY ASK 'WHY?'

Why wasn't Liston, the sullen destroyer who twice put away former champion Floyd Patterson in the first round, able to unleash the same devastating punching power on the fast but supposedly vulnerable Clay?

In the fifth round, when Clay came out at the bell blinking and groping his way around the ring, as if half-blinded, why wasn't the deposed champion able to nail him with his fistful of dynamite?

Even if his shoulder was painful why didn't Liston try to bull his way through, waiting for perhaps a lucky punch, against a fighter renowned as a powder-puff hitter?

Doesn't this amazing development set the stage for a return bout, which might set financial records yet undreamed of in the sport?

Even this fight, a turkey at the gate, was made an astounding success financially by a closed television network that broke the old record of 560,000 viewers and more than $3,200,000 receipts at the box office.

A second Clay-Liston battle conceivably could gross $10,000,000 over-all.

The fifth round of the fight was indeed a mockery.

Clay, blinking and stumbling from one end of the ring to the other, looked like an easy target. But the massive Liston, weighing 218 pounds to the challenger's 210½, merely pawed at his back-pedalling and apparently helpless prey.

Once during the round, Clay stopped flat on his heels and reached out and patted Liston gently on the nose with his left glove. Liston made no effort to reply.

It looked as if he might have swung and knocked the challenger into the $250 ringside seats.

"That man put liniment on his gloves and almost blinded me," Clay said afterwards in the press interview room. "It made no difference. He still couldn't hit me. I was too fast. I am too beautiful."

Clay, a 22-year-old descendant of a Kentucky slave who has skyrocketed to boxing's highest prize in only four years on the strength of fast legs and a glib tongue, became almost hysterical after his hands were raised at 10:33 p.m. EST.

STINGS LIKE A BEE

"I am the king—I am the greatest; I float like a butterfly and sting like a bee," he yelled, repeating an old refrain.

Surrounded by his chanting admirers, he held up his hand and said: "I have been talking to God—and I know the only God."

He went to his dressing room for a brief reunion with his father, Marcellus Clay, Sr., a Louisville sign painter; mother Odessa and brother, Rudy, before moving over to a special room set aside for interviews.

He immediately announced he would be willing to fight Liston again—or any other fighter—but added: "That old bar fights like an amateur. He's going to have to work his way up again. I want to fight Doug Jones or Eddie Machen."

Clay beat Jones in a close fight at Madison Square Garden in New York last year. Machen is on a comeback after suffering a nervous breakdown.

Clay, who produced a wild, almost maniacal weigh-in scene at which he was fined $2,500 for his conduct, brought the crowd to its feet immediately after the opening bell by standing up to the awesome Liston and swapping punches.

SHAKES LISTON

Circling out of danger while his handlers in the corner yelled "Rumble, man, rumble," he flicked a steady jab in the champion's face and rocked him with a right-left-right combination that shook up the champion and brought a look of surprise to his dark, brooding eyes.

Liston improved in the second round with a strong, pressing attack but in the third, Clay opened a gash under the champion's left eye with a stinging left jab.

It was obvious to all in the arena that Clay was growing in confidence and the drive was going out of the tough, lumbering champion as the bout progressed through the fourth round, past the bizarre fifth and through the sixth which saw Clay suddenly turn into a boxing master and Liston into a confused, lumbering giant.

Even so, there was no hint that the end was near. A gasp went through the crowd when Liston failed to answer the bell for the seventh round, and Clay began dancing his victory dance hands high over his head.

GETS CHEERS AND BOOS

Then there was a roar of cheers and finally boos.

It was several minutes before the spectators knew what had happened.

Dr. Alexander Robbins, chief physician of the Miami Beach boxing commission, said at that time that Liston strained his left shoulder. "He couldn't raise his arm," the doctor added.

Bill MacDonald, the Miami Beach millionaire who lost $400,000 on the promotion, was bitter.

"The operation was a success, but the patient died," he said, adding: "I didn't mind losing all that money. But I do resent the fact that so many people gave me a singlet.

"They said Clay didn't have a chance. This boy showed them. He would have knocked Liston out if it had gone two more rounds."

Two Out Of Thirty Picked Clay

NEW YORK (CP) — One of the proudest sports writers around today is Leonard Shecter, the walrus - moustached columnist of the New York Post.

He picked Cassius Clay to win the world heavyweight title from Sonny Liston via a technical knockout. Shecter said it would happen in the 14th round. Clay won on a TKO in the seventh.

Shecter was the only one of the leading sports writers to pick Clay the winner via the TKO route, and only two other writers polled before the fight by The Associated Press chose Clay to win the title.

Shecter was not included in the AP poll. It showed a 30-to-2 margin in favor of a Liston victory.

Bob Waters of Newsday, Garden City, N.Y., and Leonard Koppett of the New York Times, a baseball expert doubling on the fight during spring training also picked Clay.

Game Tonight Starts at 8

"I'm The King" — He Is!

Womens Curling Championship

Looks Like BC, Saskatchewan

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP)—A climbing Saskatchewan rink knocked two rivals out of the unbeaten column Tuesday and loomed as a chief roadblock to British Columbia's threatened runaway in the Canadian women's curling championships.

Ina Hansen's Kimberley, B.C. foursome, the last undefeated entry in the round-robin competition, ran its string of victories in the third and fourth round. Saskatchewan, Alberta and New Brunswick were tied for second place with 3-1 won-lost records.

Ontario, Manitoba and Nova Scotia were next at 2-2. Prince Edward Island had one victory in four tries and Quebec and Newfoundland were still winless.

Mrs. Hansen's veteran rink, which hasn't won by less than a six-point margin since play began Monday, breezed past Nova Scotia 16-5 and Ontario 11-2 Tuesday. Barring a surprising fifth-round upset at the hands of Prince Edward Island, the leaders should face their sternest test in sixth-round play against Janet Perkin's rugged Regina crew.

Second-round losers to Manitoba, the Prairie foursome shattered Ontario 13-1, starting Helen Banzhaf's Ottawa entry onto the downgrade after two died New Brunswick 14-6. The Marchinears had stayed with the leaders by edging Quebec 10-8 in the third round.

STAYS HIGH UP

Alberta, upset Tuesday by Nova Scotia, stayed in the leading group by whipping Prince Edward Island 12-4 and Quebec 9-6.

Newfoundland fought a couple of losing battles, falling 13-9 to Manitoba and 10-7 to Prince Edward Island.

Three rounds of competition were scheduled today with Saskatchewan tangling with Alberta in the feature of the fifth. Besides the B.C.-P.E.I. clash, the round also paired New Brunswick with Nova Scotia and Manitoba with Ontario.

The sixth - round draw had Newfoundland against Nova Scotia, Quebec against Ontario and New Brunswick against Alberta as well as the B.C.-Saskatchewan match. In the seventh, the pairings were Saskatchewan vs. Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia vs. Quebec, Alberta vs. B.C., New Brunswick vs. Manitoba and Newfoundland vs. Ontario.

Mrs. Perkin's Regina rink showed little respect for their unbeaten opponents Tuesday, blanking Ontario for seven ends and wrapping up the match with a three and a four after conceding the losers their only point. Against Joan Callaghan's Bathurst, N.B., entry, they ran up a 7-0 lead in two ends and made it 12-2 after eight.

Nova Scotia, which has upset two Prairie rinks, never had a look-in against Mrs. Hansen's B.C. crew, which built up an 11-0 lead before letting in the losers for their first score in the ninth end. The Kimberley foursome looked equally impressive in handing Ontario its second straight lopsided defeat.

Anne Phillips of Mount Royal, Que., made a game bid for her first victory in the fourth round but missed a last-rock takeout that would have tied the score against Alberta in the 10th end.

The final game of the two game series was played in Bancroft Monday night before a fair crowd.

Bancroft had the best of the play in the first two periods, but while Madoc failed to score in the third the visitors had the best of that period.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

(Tune:—"They Didn't Believe Me.")

"And when I told them how wonderful I was,
They didn't believe me; they didn't believe me.
My handsome looks, my jabs and hooks are now down in the record books.
I'm the prettiest thing the world could see,
And when I tell them, and I'm certainly going to tell them,
That for the next ten years the champ I'll be.
They'll have to believe me, they'll have to believe me.
For in this great big world there's none like me."

That is this red-faced agent's idea of what the Louisville Shakespeare of Shock is warbling this morning after he reduced the "Big Ugly Bear" to a harmless Teddy variety in that Miami bombshell last night.

This wacky global pin ball machine is wearing a large "Tilt" today and world-famous boxing experts, not to mention former heavyweight world champions are gobbling large helpings of crow.

The aforementioned experts including the world's top sportswriters after oiling their typewriters and whatnot, sat back awaiting the more or less sudden slaughter of the Louisville innocent. It would, they said, be over in at least three rounds.

At the end of the first canto the picture had changed. A confident, cocky taunt-spouting youngster, flats spewing rights and lefts, had more or less stopped the alleged "killer" in his tracks.

Scared? Clay was as much scared as the first hungry lion to leap into a Roman arena to tackle a helpless slave.

The wire stories carry the query, "What happened to Liston?" Was he hurt in the first round; was he out of condition? Had he sold this brash young bard from Kentucky too short.

Liston claimed he slipped his shoulder in the first round. The radio version had it that he staggered Clay with a sharp hook in the third. He was definitely hurt in the sixth as he more or less stood there like a slowly-moving punching bag.

But the big question is, where was this menacing killer, the unbeatable bulldozer whose dynamite-laden fists had reduced Floyd Patterson to a beaten pulp before the pewsters had settled in their seats on two previous occasions?

The kid with the magnificent ego who talked, spouted and doggerelled his way to a six-figure take is perhaps the only walking commercial who backed up his sales pitch with having exactly what he said he had and doing what he said he could do.

His screaming, exultant voice rose shrilly above the cacophony of sports writers' queries in his dressing room. "I'm the King. I'm the greatest. I'm the prettiest." I'm not a masculine beauty judge, but I'll go along with the first two.

Clay said he would give Liston a return bout, "probably within three months." And hang on to your top sticks. This, I believe would draw a gate that will reach a world record. Say somewhere around seven million.

And it will probably provide answers to a lot of questions the experts are asking. Was Liston a vastly over-rated fighter? Is he still the murderous menace his former victories indicated?

Clay has proved his ability. And he will probably tour his nation advertising it. After all who can blame him.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — "I am the king—I am the greatest."

"I float like a butterfly, sting like a bee — rumble, man, rumble."

"I am the prettiest."

Cassius Marcellus Clay repeated these boasts as often —like a phonograph record with a stuck needle—that he apparently came to believe it himself.

He became obsessed with his own majesty.

But Clay proved he was "the greatest" Tuesday when he stopped heavyweight champion Sonny Liston in the seventh round.

It was one of the great upsets in ring history.

Clay, a 7-to-1 underdog had been given little, if any chance by anyone.

The calloused fight game, hit by diminishing talent, declining interest and probes of its unsavory connections, was delighted at first by the antics of this brash, young descendant of a Kentucky slave.

Then it became bored with them and finally alarmed as Clay's wild - eyed, frenzied demonstrations took on the complexion of not just a loud-mouthed youngster on a publicity binge but of a possibly deeply disturbed athlete on the verge of a breakdown.

BECOMES CRITICAL

This situation hit a critical point on the day of the title fight.

He almost went berserk at the weigh-in, brandishing his fists and screaming wildly, drawing a $2,500 fine from the Miami Beach athletic commission for his unseemly conduct.

Dr. Alex Robbins, the chief physician of the commission, had said:

"This boy is emotionally disturbed. He is scared to death, he is in mortal fear."

Cassius played it loud and bold all the way, even when almost everybody but those closest around him insisted that he was freezing with fright on the inside.

They called him a charlatan and a fake. They said he was a popoff and a loud-mouth. They laughed at his limited fighting ability, but no one questioned his gall.

The unanswered question always remained:

Was he the biggest fake in all sports history? Or was he a modern miracle—a golden boy with a golden gift of gab and a golden talent?

GETS LOUDER

As Clay's success skyrocketed—from an amateur and a member of the United States Olympic team in 1960 to No. 1 contender among the heavyweights in 1964, his boasts became louder and his antics more flamboyant.

He affected a cane, which he banged against the floor, and he dashed off poems, which didn't scan but often rhymed:

"You can believe this jive, I'll win in five."

"I predict I'll win in eight, Just to show that I am great."

Clay has all the attributes of a heroic figure in the often sordid game he chose for a career.

He is a tall, handsome athlete—six-foot-three, weighing 210½ for his fight with Liston. He is brown in color—like a cup of coffee with plenty of cream. He has a fine, strong face, boyish and pleasant with big brown eyes.

There was some question of his boxing ability, despite his sensational string of 19 victories leading to the title fight. He had good legs, plenty of speed and lightning reflexes, but the experts said he couldn't bust a paper bag with his punch.

Born in Louisville, Clay apparently was destined for greatness from the very beginning.

"He was born with a noble name," his father, Cassius Marcellus Clay Sr., said of his offspring. "He came into the world with a good body and a big head."

Naturally, the handsome, successful Clay attracted the eyes of professional promoters. Many made grabs at him but he finally accepted a deal which put him in the hands of 11 captains of finance in his home town of Louisville.

15 PAID 50 PER CENT

The syndicate's arrangement with Clay provided for him to get 50 per cent of the purses. The syndicate pays all expenses. The fighter gets $500 a month in cash. Fifteen per cent of the remainder is put into a pension fund which starts accruing when he is 35.

Cassius got $10,000 for signing the contract and was guaranteed $4,000 for the first two years.

To supervise and direct Clay's boxing, the group hired Angelo Dundee, one of the game's leading trainers.

"I swallow a lot," said Dundee, a serious young man. "But it is worthwhile. He's a great young fighter."

Picton Ints. Win Second From RCAF

By JACK FAWKES

PICTON (Staff) — Two overtime goals by Larry Pero, both unassisted were the margin of the win as the Picton Intermediates dropped the RCAF Trenton by a close 5-4 score here last night. Picton leads the best four-of-seven playdowns 2 games to none.

Picton outshot the fly boys by a wide margin in the opening period and had a 3-0 lead to take into the middle frame. Shaker Baker, Carl Schrader and Peg Ecker were the marksmen, with Jim Guernsey, Carl Stacey, Dave Jones and Holland Barry assisting, in that order.

Trenton came out roaring to start the second period and fired two goals into the Picton net before the 8.26 mark. Ken Currie started it when he scored in a pass from Charlie Rowbotham at the 5.00 mark. Austin Scott scored the play. Joe St. Pierre took advantage of a Stacey penalty to make it 3-2 at the 7.00 mark of the second period with Roger Drake and Ralph Plane assisting. Picton took six out of eight minor penalties called in the second period.

In the third period, Trenton once again fired a pair, before Picton scored to tie the range. Currie fired his second of the night with Drake and Frank Lewis drawing assists at the 2.08 mark.

Trenton went one up at the 8.47 mark when Austin Scott fired perfect passes from Rowbotham and Yvonne Blanchard to beat Tom O'Halloran with a sizzling drive.

Holland Barry tied it up at four all at the 13.39 mark with a beautiful unassisted goal, to set the scene for the overtime session, with Picton ice this season.

At the 2.00 minute mark with Picton Body serving a penalty, diminutive Larry Pero, picked up the puck at his own blue line, scooted down centre ice, walzed around the Trenton defence and blasted one that was in the net before Derril Johnston could make his move. It was so fast, it is doubtful if he even saw it go by.

Again, at 8.45, Pero picked up the puck at the Trenton blue line, golfed one that somehow eluded the gloved hand of Johnston and that was that.

Picton outshot Trenton by a 40-40 count, Picton took the long end of a 13-8 penalty count.

It is not too often that this reporter disagrees with the officials at any game, but the calling of Bill Hurst of Belleville, left a lot to be desired. We have been very fortunate in having some real top referees here for our hockey game—I guess we have to be satisfied with second best at times.

Some of the penalties he called, and against both teams, bordered on the ridiculous. More important were the ones that he didn't call. Surely in playoff hockey the fans and the players are entitled to a better deal from the OHA than they had last night.

Trenton — Johnston, Peterson, Plane, Rowbotham, Lewis, St. Pierre, Currie, Collins, Guire, Drake, Blanchard, Fields, Scott and Seymour.

Picton —O'Halloran, Weese, Boily, Murray, Fawcett, Stacey, Pero, Guernsey, Baker, Kellar, Jones, Schrader and Barry.

North Shore Hockey

Wellington and Simson Construction carried their winning habits into the Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League semi-finals last night, collecting victories over Consecon and Melville Shorellmers.

Wellington down Consecon 8-3 and Stinson's topped Melville Shorellmers 5-2 in the opening games of their best-of-five series. Second games are slated for Wellington Thursday night.

Consecon held the pennant winners to a scoreless tie in the first period and it was 2-2 going into the third. Wellington then romped home six to the losers' singleton.

Lavern Biggs scored three Wellington goals, Joe Scott getting two, plus two assists. Gary Fyke also netted a pair and Vic Allen had a goal and assist.

Dave LaRue had a goal and assist with Doug Wilson and Mike O'Halloran potting the other goals for Consecon.

Stinson's led all the way but that game was a tight one for two periods with scores of 1-0 and 2-0.

Pete Mitchell was a two-goal man for Stinson's, Garry Genereaux and Bill Bowerman each having a goal and assist and Royce Doxtator the other goal.

Mike Langston scored both Melville goals.

Both games were cleanly played, only three penalties in one game and four in the other.

Jean Beliveau Speaks
Says Leafs, Blues Deal Unfair

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) — Big Jean Beliveau, veteran centre of Montreal Canadiens, said Tuesday the startling trade of his name players last weekend between Toronto and New York was "unfair" to the other National Hockey League teams.

"I can't understand it," Beliveau said in an interview. "It isn't fair to the other teams to make a big trade like that with only a few games left before the playoffs."

The two-for-five player deal was announced Saturday in Toronto. New York Rangers gave up two stylish veterans, right winger Andy Bathgate — fourth in the scoring race—and centre Don McKenney. In exchange, the Rangers got veteran Leaf wingers Dick Duff and Bob Nevin and three promising youngsters, including highly rated Rod Selling, 19, of Toronto Marlboros, a member of Canada's Olympic hockey team.

Beliveau said Toronto has always been tough. "Now we are going to have to play a new Toronto team." The Leafs celebrated the trade by beating the Rangers in their weekend home-and-home series.

They play Canadiens here tonight in the 11th clash of the season between the teams. Canadiens have a 7-3 won-lost record against the third - place Leafs. One game ended in a tie. But in their last four games, Toronto has been able to muster only one goal against the Habs, who shut them out three times in that span.

Beliveau said the trade can't help but benefit Toronto. "New York are out of the playoffs, so they had nothing to lose," Beliveau said. "It looks like they're thinking for the future."

Beliveau said he wasn't questioning the legality of the trade, nor did he mean to imply there was any collusion between New York and Toronto to strengthen the Leafs for the playoffs.

"I just don't think it's fair to the others to pull off big trades like this so late in the season."

Toe Blake, Canadiens' astute coach, had a worried look Tuesday when he was asked about the trade after putting his squad through a hard workout at the Forum in preparation for Wednesday's tilt.

Did he think the strengthened Leafs would be tougher than Chicago Black Hawks, the Canadiens' rival for first place?

"We'll find out Wednesday night," Blake growled.

Tops Field In Men's Figures

CP from AP-Reuters

DORTMUND—Olympic champion Manfred Schnelldorfer of West Germany took the lead Tuesday after five of the six compulsory figures in the men's singles competition at the world figure skating championships in this West German city.

Canadians Donald Knight and Dr. Charles Snelling were 10th and 13th, respectively, after the first five figures.

Schnelldorfer, who won the Olympic title earlier this month in Innsbruck, Austria, piled up 946.9 points in unofficial tabulations for the first five figures.

Close behind him were Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia and Alain Calmat of France, with 936.2 and 924.6 points, respectively.

The three are expected to maintain their positions when the judges' marks are stated today and the title probably will be decided among them in Thursday's decisive free skating.

Knight, 16-year-old Dundas, Ont., where he finished ninth at the Olympics, had 854.6 points after five figures. Dr. Snelling, 26, of Milton, Canadian champion who returned to competition this year after five years off to get his medical degree, had 831.7 points.

Generals Wallop Hawks
Marlies Shade Flyers 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A determined last-ditch drive netted Toronto Marlboros three unanswered third-period goals and a 4-3 win over Niagara Falls Flyers Tuesday and increased their first place lead to six points in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action.

Peterborough Petes edged Kitchener Rangers 5-4 and Oshawa Generals walloped St. Catharines 8-4 at Bowmanville in the other scheduled games.

Marlboros, trailing 4-1 going into the final 20 minutes at Niagara Falls, got the winning goal by Barry Watson with less than two minutes remaining to gain a six-point edge over idle Montreal Junior Canadiens.

Pete Stemkowski, Mike Walton and Ron Ellis were the other Toronto marksmen. Bud Desbrody, Ted Snell and Derek Sanderson scored for the Flyers.

Stemkowski and Jack Chipchase of Toronto and Gilles Marcotte and Sanderson of Niagara Falls were handed majors in the first-period as the result of a fight.

Toronto netminder Gary Smith was cut on the chin in the second period and required seven stitches.

At Peterborough, Don Herriman hit the empty net to give the Petes a last-minute insurance marker as Kitchener attempted to knot the count with six attackers.

Ron Naud, Jim Paterson, Dale Watson, Mike Self and Mickey Redmond were the other Peterborough marksmen.

Wayne Cashman got two for Generals and Bill Smith, Bill Lastic and Ron Buchanan added the others.

Minor Hockey

Black Hawks and Bruins won the opening rounds of the BMHA's Midget division last night, ousting Canadiens and Red Wings.

Hawks rallied for a 5-3 victory to cop their series by a total score of 8-6. They lost 4-3 last week. D. Emerson fired two goals and set up another to pace the Hawk attack. B. Wickens, T. Harrington and P. Ford fired the other goals. M. Sharland, M. Walsh and Harrington also drew assists. B. Hibbard and R. Rosebush were the Canadiens' marksmen, aided by Hunter and Royal.

Bruins nipped Red Wings 3-2 last night for a 6-3 on the round. E. Ellis triggered the Bruin goals and B. Fullerton scored the other. R. Summers drew the only assist. D. Muir and S. White potted the Red Wing markers, both solo efforts.

Club Travel Planners Elected

OLIVE BRANSCHE GUNTHER ACTROS

Planning to attend the same drama festival, two clubs are merging for this occasion to charter a Canadian National coach. This novel approach to cut expenses was explained by Mrs. Olive Branschе, newly-elected travel convenor for her Ladies' Club, and Mr. Gunther Actros, well-known theatre personality and drama teacher. "Each club had sufficient members . . . about 30 . . . to obtain the CN Party Fares discount of 20% explained Mrs. Brsnache. "Even over and above CN's rock-bottom Red and White fares. But by travelling together, we can charter a CN coach, for even greater savings", Mr. Actros added "Our students could not have afforded the trip by themselves, but the CN Charter Coach Plan gives us our 'own' air-conditioned coach with savings as much as 33⅓ — and places the festival within our means. In fact, we are planning to use the Canadian National Group Travel Plans for all future excursions."

Reds Bow To Aces

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces defeated Providence 3-1 in a dull close - checking American Hockey League game before 8,606 fans Tuesday.

Providence spoiled Lorne (Gump) Worsley's bid for a shutout with just 44 seconds left to play in the final period.

The win put the Aces eight points in front of second-place Hershey Bears in the AHL's eastern division.

Scoring for the Quebec team were Bill Dineen, his 25th of the season, Ed Ockstra and Doug Harvey.

But Not On Purpose

Black Hawks Saw Howie Off

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A funny thing happened to Howie Young at the Chicago airport the night he left to join Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League.

The entire Black Hawks' team was there.

"But not to see me off," hurriedly explained the tempestuous defenceman. "They were just off on a road trip."

Young, a Toronto native who insists he is happy to be with the West Coast team, recently was waived out of the National League, where he incurred a record 273 penalty minutes last season.

"Some of the Black Hawks looked at me at the airport as if they wanted to trade places with me," Young said.

The Hawks, tied for first place in the NHL, sold the 28-year-old Young to the fourth-place Blades two weeks ago. He was expected to report 10 days ago, but did not arrive until Tuesday night.

"I'm in good shape for the shape I'm in," said Young, who has been in jail a couple of times after brawls, including one with a policeman. "My mind is willing."

"A man gets to be marked," Young said. "Let someone else do something and nothing happens. I can't even spit or I get a penalty."

SUSPENDED FIVE GAMES

He was suspended for five games last month by Clarence Campbell, the NHL president for spitting and indecorous language while in his second home, the penalty box.

Was he rebellious about going to the minors? Did he refuse to be sent to Buffalo Bisons of the American League, a Chicago farm club?

"I didn't refuse to go to Buffalo," he insisted. "I just gave them a hint and I guess they figured I wouldn't go there.

"But I wanted to come to Los Angeles. This is new territory, new faces, new opportunities. The only thing I'm sorry about is the loss of money."

He has no complaints about the Black Hawks, who obtained him from Detroit Red Wings last June, except that they didn't play him much this season.

Young played his first game for the Blades Wednesday night, collecting one minor penalty and one assist.

"People have been writing so long about the notorious things they forget I can play hockey," Howie contended.

The Blades' coach, Al Pike, former pilot of New York Rangers of the NHL, isn't ready to predict how well Young will play in the Western League.

"At 26, he's in his prime—if he has a prime," Pike said.

Played Tricks On Saxophone, Pocketed $192

Police said the man entered the store, browsed through the music department, removed a $200 price tag from a tenor saxophone and substituted a price tag reading $8.

Once outside he put the proper $200 tag on the instrument, returned to the building and obtained a refund from clerk Eleanor Inouyh.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

Following a player behind his net when he has the puck generally isn't very smart hockey for a couple of reasons. However, there are rare occasions when such an extra effort will pay off but they are the exception.

First of all, as a right winger, if I chase a player behind the net, I'm pulling out of position and probably pulling my centre and left wing out of position as well.

Secondly, the puck carrier generally has a little head start. Go in behind the net and you're actually behind the play.

He can cut you off at the corner of the net by coming out sharp. That'll leave you out of the play and usually leave one of the wingmen open, because your centre probably is in there, too.

That'll give you a rough time getting back, and they may get a three-on two breakaway against you.

The smart play is to pull up in front of the net and play a little chess game with the puck carrier.

Staying out may make him stop, if he figures you may intercept him on the other side in the initial sweep.

If you make him stop and stall, you're giving your wingmen, as well as your defencemen time to pull up into proper position, to make it rough for them coming out.

In a recent game with Boston, I hooked a defenceman a little as he started behind the net with the puck, slowing him up.

Another defenceman already was behind the net. The puck carrier evidently was certain it wasn't coming behind the net.

He carried almost to the other side of the net, then dropped the puck for the second defenceman I had followed in and had the advantage of surprise.

The second defenceman tried to flip the puck back to the first defenceman. Instead, I got it and was lucky enough to get by both and surprise goalie Ed Johnston with a shot between his skates for my 31st unassisted goal.

No Attention Should Be Paid to Few 'Hot Heads'

- Lesage

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Lesage said Tuesday that all necessary precautions will be taken to protect "those who do us the honor" of visiting Quebec this year.

Without specifically naming the Queen, who is scheduled to visit the city in October, Mr. Lesage said in the legislature no attention should be paid to a few "hot heads."

Apparently he was referring to a speech in Toronto by separatist Marcel Chaput who said Monday the Queen would be in danger if she visited Quebec.

"The population of Quebec, with the exception of a few hotheads to whom no attention should be paid, is calm and has a solid reputation for hospitality.

"Our eventual visitors can always count on the warm and enthusiastic reception which 'La Belle Province' always reserves."

WILL GET WELCOME

No matter "what the quality" of visitors this year, they would have a warm welcome, Mr. Lesage said.

He was replying to Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson who said the premier should "use his strength" to protect "any eventual visitors" to Quebec.

Visitors will be "perfectly protected," Mr. Lesage said. Some of the precautions, he suggested, would be, "even superfluous."

Mr. Lesage's first comment on the remarks by Dr. Chaput was: "These are the words of an irresponsible person."

Mayor Wilfrid Hamel of Quebec City said: "one or two, maybe half-dozen youngsters might attempt something when the Queen visits but he didn't believe they would succeed.

"Most of the population will welcome her."

Police staff an intense study of the situation is being made to determine whether there are any movements in the city that might cause trouble.

WILL MAKE POLICY

Once this study had been completed, policy would be worked out, Chief Roger Lemire of city police said. RCMP said extra security precautions definitely will be taken here because of "recent activities and movements."

Besides Dr. Chaput, former leader of the separatist Republican Party of Quebec, Raymond Barbeau, another Montreal separatist, has warned in recent weeks that there may be violence if the Queen visits Quebec.

Members of the association of law students at Laval University passed a resolution recently urging that the visit be called off. They said it would be too costly at a time when students were having difficulty paying college fees.

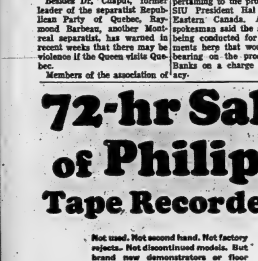
Quebec has been the scene of several violent incidents in the last year—toppling of the Wolfe Monument last March 31, distribution of sticks of dynamite on 18 mailboxes May 24, and the blowing up of a statue of Queen Victoria with nitroglycerine.

Police had regarded these as separate acts of pranksters rather than terrorist groups such as those active in Montreal last spring.

Chief Lemire said Tuesday police now are not so sure an organized group hasn't been at work and are checking thoroughly to find out what the situation is.

Escapee Given Extra Year In Prison

KINGSTON (CP)—John Douglas Sauve, 24, of Cornwall, said in county court Tuesday he took a four-month leave of absence from the nearby Joyceville prison to "seek medical treatment."



Sauve escaped from the minimum security prison Oct. 29 while serving two years after being convicted in St. Thomas last August.

He told court he first travelled to Ottawa, then Montreal, Toronto and swung through three Western provinces before being arrested in Edmonton Jan. 15.

"You can only see a doctor once a week at Joyceville," Sauve told Magistrate James S. Garvin, who gave him an extra year in prison.

SEARCH SIU OFFICES

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver offices of the Seafarers International Union of Canada (Lakes) were searched Tuesday by RCMP for documents pertaining to the prosecution of SIU president Hal Banks in Eastern Canada. An RCMP spokesman said the search was being conducted for any documents here that would have a bearing on the prosecution of Banks on a charge of conspiracy.

Bobby Baker Hearing Gets Live Coverage for a Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Real life drama beats fiction every time, even when it lacks the proper dramatic form.

Far and away the most exciting television program of Tuesday and many a day before that was NBC's dogged three - hour coverage in the morning of what it called The Bobby Baker Hearing.

For more than two of those hours, the cameras were focused stoically on the upper half of a pair of what looked like varnished oak doors and a discreet sign that said "caucus room." Meanwhile, our television sets functioned merely as radio eavesdroppers on the proceedings, getting no clue of dressing and answers being fired inside.

Both CBS and NBC had planned to provide live coverage of the Senate rules committee puffle hearing on activities of Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate majority.

After a long and confusing argument, the committee chairman reluctantly — or so it seemed to the home viewers—ordered the television cameras out of the room after an informal committee vote. Then, almost like an afterthought, he excluded film and still cameras. That still left NBC's sound equipment functioning.

All three networks, in a show of togetherness because a common interest was threatened, immediately fired off telegrams to the committee chairman protesting the exclusion of television cameras.

NBC has made another multi-million-dollar deal for a batch of feature films, some as recent as 1960, from MGM. They will be used in both season and in with films recently acquired from Paramount, on the networks Wednesday night, Saturday night feature movie shows.

Oscar-Sniping Remains Favorite Local Sport

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There was the usual carping after the Oscar nominations were handed out in the library of the Motion Picture Academy this week.

"How is it," wailed the Warner Brothers man, "that America can win for best picture, writing and direction and not get a single nomination for acting?"

"How could it happen," moaned the Paramount man, "that Hud could serve for three performances, best direction and writing and not be named best picture?"

"We only got one nomination," sighed the Disney man, "but what the heck—we make more money than any other company."

"How come," sniffed a devotee of the cinema art, "such obviously commercial movies as Cleopatra and How The West Was Won got so many nominations?"

BLAME PRESSURE

"Who says the academy voters can't be pressured?" snapped a social critic. "Bobby Darin and Nick Adams spent a fortune on trade paper ads—and it paid off with nominations."

And so it goes. Each year's nominations bring new reasons for complaints. Oscar - sniping remaining one of the favorite local sports.

Only anglophiles could be entirely satisfied with the nominees for 1963 awards, which are shaping up as the biggest American rout by the British since the sacking of the White House. Hollywood has always had a trend of the New York theatres, which for the last few seasons has relied largely on English imports.

"Y" Basketball

Teachers thumped the C.N.R. 49-34 while Pollock's nipped Holloway by a closer 38-30 score in a pair of men's basketball league games at the YMCA last night.

The teams continue to have trouble getting enough men out for full lineups and once again some teams had to use players from other clubs.

Teachers had little trouble, leading 28-18 at half time, in subduing the C.N.R. Bill Lackey sparked the Teachers with a big 24 points. Wally Uhrynuk hooped 12, Gus Williams 8 and Lloyd Bryson eight and Paul Bresse six.

John Taylor paced the C.N.R. with 14 points, followed by Ralph McCabe with 10. George Campbell eight and Lionel Bovay two. Dave Yourt, Fred Roberts and John Walsh filled out the lineup.

Holloway led Pollock's 19-18 at the half-way mark in the second game but the winners pulled away in the second half.

Ian Smith was top for the winning Pollock's squad with 18 points. Phil Lang had 10, Don MacPherson six, George Campbell and Graham Geldart two apiece. Bruce Wallbridge and Bill Simmons were pointless.

Max Woolley, playing part of the game, scored 15 points for Holloway. Ron Denyes had nine points, Larry Gerow six, John Morrow two and Don Wilson none.

Would Queen Be in Danger?

Dr. Marcel Chaput, the former civil servant who first brought the word "separatism" into the news, says that Queen Elizabeth's life would be endangered if she visits Quebec this fall.

A law enforcement source in Montreal, who asked not to be identified, agrees in substance. "There isn't much room for doubt that these guys have such a plot in mind," he said.

This is an alarming statement. One striking feature of recent raids on Army quarters in Quebec Province has been that, in sharp distinction from the conduct of the earlier FLQ, the perpetrators appear to have taken great pains not to cause injury to anyone. They have taken great risks themselves, but have treated with care those who might, given the opportunity, have used force to thwart their raids.

The image they have created is not that a bunch of dastardly ruffians who would endanger the life of a conscientious, kind-hearted wife and mother just because she happened to be Queen of England.

If this image is false, if Dr. Chaput and the Montreal law enforcement authority, speaking from the knowledge of their vastly different backgrounds, are correct when they say the Queen may be attacked if she visits Quebec, then the situation in that province is much worse than most of us have dreamed.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson said in the House of Commons that plans for the Queen's visit next fall will not be affected by any "irresponsible" statements.

But are these statements irresponsible?

It would be humiliating, more so for Canada as a nation than for the Queen, if the visit had to be postponed because her safety could not be guaranteed.

But it would be much worse than humiliating, it would be a tragic catastrophe, if she were killed, injured or even fired at on a visit to Canada. Even if she survived, Canada might not. It would raise the tension between French-speaking and English-speaking Canadians to the combustion point—and this in spite of the fact that the vast majority of French-Canadians would find the attack as repugnant as would English-Canadians, and the vast majority of English-Canadians would be well aware of this fact.

Is the visit worth the risk?

A Real Language Problem

So you think Canada has a language problem!

Consider Ethiopia.

Until the Second World War was over and the Ethiopians were able to turn their attention to the need for putting their country in step with the modern world, they decided that English should be the official language of instruction in all schools.

Not that many Ethiopians had any comprehensive knowledge of English. As Abyssinia, the country had been a forbidden land to European for many years and it escaped the white man's yoke until Mussolini descended upon it in the middle thirties. But the Ethiopians were not going to take instruction in the language of their hated conquerors, there were no textbooks in the official language, Amharic, and the Ethiopians had been associated with the British during the war years. So it was decided to teach in English.

In 1957 a new look was taken at this policy and its results. It was found that language difficulties resulted in a high percentage of dropouts and the use of English also promoted the bad habit of learning by rote, memorizing rather than understanding the lessons.

In 1958 the government decided to give instruction in elementary schools in Amharic, which is itself the native language of only a quarter of the population. However, instruction is still given in English in the last five years of school, and junior high school students spend 35 per cent of their time studying the English language itself.

If a backward nation like Ethiopia has the courage to face a language problem of this proportion, is it impossible for Canadians to learn to merely communicate with each other in two languages, which is all that the most rabid bilingualist has ever asked?

The truth is, I do indulge myself a little the more in pleasure, knowing that this is the proper age of my life to do it; and, out of my observation that most men that do thrive in the world do forget to take pleasure during the time that they are getting their estate, but reserve that till they have got one, and then it is too late for them to enjoy it.—Samuel Pepys.

Proposed Pension Plan Looms As Long Dilemma for Grits

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Silently, slickly, in a beautifully smooth operation behind the scenes, the Federal Government's passive publicity machine seldom has done a difficult job with such quiet expertise as in manipulating public thought and opinion on the thorny controversial issue of the Canadian Pension Plan.

Both Quebec Liberal Premier Jean Lesage and Ontario Conservative Premier John Robarts were extremely dubious of the plan from the very outset.

They both had their own provincial pension plans in the works.

Without hesitation or regrets for the birth in which he left the Federal administration, Premier Lesage took out Quebec.

The Federal Government may have expressed polite disappointment, but if it did, it was done so quietly, and so very discreetly that hardly anybody heard.

At least the public was never made aware of what the Federal feelings may have been as the Ottawa pension planners were, in fact, deeply wounded — about Quebec being so provincially exclusive.

The Federal publicity pitch immediately was that the Federal pension scheme depended on Ontario.

TRAPPED

Without Ontario, it just wouldn't be financially feasible.

(Even with the province in the plan, argues Mr. Robarts, it simply doesn't make practicable pension sense, but without Ontario, it plainly would be impossible.)

This put the Federal finger on the Ontario Premier — if he didn't fall in line, Ottawa clearly was telling him via the dog in the manger, was denying rightful pensions to millions of Canadians outside of the Maritimes and the West.

But what of Premier Lesage? Wasn't Quebec's participation almost as necessary as Ontario's and certainly more of a problem than those of the provinces, excepting perhaps British Columbia?

It it was, nothing much was said about it.

Quebec could brush off the Federal pension plan and go ahead its own private provincial scheme and that, for all Ottawa ever objected publicly, was just dandy.

But let Ontario even hesitate or, worse, question some of the things Ottawa was doing in the pension plan and that, obviously, was little short of sabotage.

This is the most amazing "snow job" the Federal publicity machine did on Premier Lesage and Quebec. It took the attention, and whatever political heat might be involved entirely off Ottawa. It worked it, full blast, on Premier Robarts and Ontario.

But since nothing one catch, and a real political flashback it is.

The Federal Government must go through with the Pension Plan or leave Quebec and Premier Lesage in the lurch. It worse lurch than they left it.

SMALL ARMY

Ottawa has no choice, really, but to make the Pension Plan acceptable to Premier Robarts. The Federal planners have either to devise, or appear to devise, for without Ontario, the pension plan is financially impossible—and Premier Lesage would be left holding the bag with a program guaranteeing his taxpayers four percent of income.

To Quebec, the provincial pension is to be swung with a two percent payroll contribution both by employers and employees—double the proposed rate of the Canada Pension.

To the Federal specialists, not to mention commercial advertising types. Top salary for the Federal publicists, most of whom come from the newspaper news rooms, is $17,000, paid by the Trade and Commerce Department.

To stuck with a high rate pension plan double the cost of that for the rest of the country is difficult enough. But to be stung alone among the ten provinces with a plan costing four percent of income with taxpayers in the other nine getting off cost free—which would happen if Ontario dropped out and the Canada Pension Plan died—would be politically impossible.

It would almost certainly be the end of the trail for Premier Lesage, and for Liberal support in Quebec.

Ottawa, then, is trapped. It must keep Premier Robarts content, if not exactly happy —or the Pension Plan is done, and without it, the Quebec Premier.

One last note: that Federal publicity machine is manned by perhaps 500 well-paid professionals, including public relations officers, ministerial assistants, the assorted Cabinet

Canadians Overspend

Ottawa Journal

A groan-goes up from many over Ontario's higher taxes.

What did such people expect? Were they naive enough to believe that the Ontario government could go on spending more and more for roads and schools and hospitals, plus a multiplicity of other services which people these days a demand, without taxing them more to meet bigger bills?

Governments have no money of their own. They still they spend they can get their hands on only by taxing and borrowing, and every dollar they borrow they add to their need for more taxes. For example, the provincial treasurer estimates that for the coming year he will, with the aid of his new taxes, have a surplus on current account of about $450,000, but his statement also shows that a deficit on capital expenditure will reach some $100,000,000.

Where will this last sum come from? It will come from borrowing. Not only will it add $100,000,000 to the province's debt, but because it will have to be borrowed at an interest rate of around 5 percent, it will mean $4,000,000 more for the annual cost of servicing that debt, which must come out of current taxes. For debt is built - in expenditure; as much a part of the cost of government as anything that may be named.

Yet expenditure, debt and taxes all combine to pile up. There is hardly a province in Canada, or a municipality for that matter, in the land spending more than it can afford, mortgaging its future in the process. The misfortune is that revenue from the provinces and the provinces more from Ottawa, and simply because they don't have enough revenue to meet the demands of them all, this particularly since Ottawa dictates in its expenditures, too, all of us are threatened with a financial mess.

We are told, of course, that some future growth of the Gross National Product will provide blessed phrase — will take care of everything. Well, a growth of eight percent in the Gross National Product last year and a probable growth of six or seven percent in 1964 will not begin to take care of much, we continue with unemployment and we begin to dig further into debt.

The stark truth is that in he matter of expenditure we are now too much sail on the ship, and the stark truth also is that we here in Canada have got into a bad habit of overselling our future prospects. We oversold the St. Lawrence Seaway, and we oversell our resources and oversell our future trade, plus other things in our daily lives considering our revolutionary world, must be blurred to say the least.

Perhaps it is time we took a hard, realistic look at ourselves and stopped spending money we just don't have.

An unusual report from Prague describes the formation of a long queue of would-be purchasers lined up before a shop in Wenceslas Square early one recent morning. By noon it included 600 people.

Why the queue? The occasion was the sale of a book "On the Western Front" by two Czech writers. And the significance of the lineup lay in the fact that this was the first volume allowed to go on sale there in the last 18 years saying something favorable about the Western allies' war effort as seen by Czech soldiers and airmen who took part in it.

The Women's Canadian Club, of Belleville extended a welcome to Dr. Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., well - known public speaker of considerable renown, who is at present on an extensive lecture tour which is expected to take her to the West Coast, appearing before local chapters of the Women's Canadian Club. Dr. Whitton was introduced to her audience of members and friends by Mrs. W. H. Finkle, President of the local club. The Bridge Street United Church Sunday School room was packed to capacity to hear Dr. Whitton.

Mrs. Finkle presented the speaker in glowing terms of praise and recognition of a brilliant co-member of the Women's Canadian Club. She said that it was a privilege to invite and welcome the friends of the members to whom she said, Our guest tonight needs little introduction. For the past two years we have been fortunate in having many excellent speakers address our club but, it is seldom that our guest tonight, is outstanding in respect to talent. She has travelled extensively throughout Europe, and has addressed continental audiences in practically every one European city, as well as English clubs."

"Said Mrs. Finkle, "Dr. Whitton is a Canadian, a native of Ontario and it is with extra feelings of warmth that we welcome her here. A graduate of Queen's University, Dr. Whitton entered the University with no less than six scholarships and graduated with a Master of Arts degree She was represented Canada on the General peace commission, in England and in many other countries of the world. She has had the Order of Commander of the British Empire conferred upon her by His Majesty the King".

Espionage Is Waning

Christian Science Monitor

Espionage is slowly becoming less important in today's world.

There is less to conceal. Edward Teller recently suggested that Russians have as big secrets as the Americans and perhaps bigger, and that the Americans have big enough. With an expectable rate of development on both sides, or an agreed arms limitation, the balance is too massive to be upset by any momentary excess of secrets on one side.

As there is less need to conceal there is also higher visibility. Satellites circle the earth with cameras able to count the leaves on a tree. It is impossible to put all the vast complex of supplies, transportation and factories ready to make a major arms supply system underground. It is spread out for the cameras to see.

American society was always fairly open. A spy could hire a car, driving about Lichen plants, and has it any relation to cancer? — M. H.

Dear Mr. Molner: Please tell me something about lichen plants, and has it any relation to cancer? — M. H.

Lichens planus is a recurring, itchy, inflammation of the skin. Although we do not know the cause, there is no indication that it has anything to do with cancer. It tends to occur more often among high-strung, nervous individuals.)

There is no specific treatment, because we don't know the cause, and haven't been lucky enough to find a remedy evident. The best course, therefore, is the use of medications to relieve itching and drugs to relax the patient which may help.

No special ones. Just the normal vitamins that anybody else needs. There are no vitamins that have a special relationship to the heart, any more than you need special ones for headaches, arthritis, ingrown toenails or anything else.

Rupture Should Be Treated Immediately by Surgery

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told I have a rupture (not by a doctor) but I'm not certain about it.

What are the symptoms, and would anything serious happen if it does not have immediate attention. — J. L.

You make me curious. Who told you you had a rupture?

However, let's give you some answers.

A rupture, by definition, is a fault in some restraining tissue, allowing the tissues inside to push through the weak place.

For practical purposes, this means a weakened place or aperature in the abdominal wall, or in the groin.

A bulge appears, and this enlarges when you cough or strain.

There may be no other symptoms. Or there may be some: a sort of dragy discomfort in the area of the rupture in one. Then again, is aggravated by lifting or straining. Or you may notice the discomfort when you stand up after lying down, as when getting up in the morning or after a nap.

It is possible, but rather rare, for a rupture to be so located that an external bulge is not discernible.

In most cases the discomfort and annoyance of the rupture is sufficient to lead the victim to have treatment before it reaches a dangerous state. Ruptures tend to enlarge and if they are to be serious indeed. This depends largely on the location. If a loop or portion of the bowel gets into the ruptured place, and becomes trapped (strangulated) the blood supply to the trapped tissue is shut off.

This is extremely dangerous. It also will be extremely painful and required emergency surgery.

So, of course, it is wise to have a rupture (or hernia) repaired before it gets to that stage, for the sake of safety and for the sake of your comfort in the meantime.

How to treat a rupture? The best way and the permanent one is to have it corrected surgically, and this is a type of operation which is performed very frequently. It's nothing to worry about.

If, in some cases, there are reasons why the patient should not have surgery, a truss may be used. The truss simply applies pressure at the proper, preventing other tissues from forcing their way through the gap.

Trusses are a nuisance and sometimes uncomfortable. They are not a substitute for surgery, but they do not cure. A rupture does not get better by itself. It can only get worse as time passes, so except in unusual circumstances I strongly recommend surgery rather than a truss. There are sides the reason I've mentioned, there's this: The smaller the rupture, the easier it is to repair.

Strictly Personal

Famous Father Is Answer to Youthfulness

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Sons of famous or distinguished men generally tend to look down youngsters as they are far into middle age; a father who is a celebrity gives a son an occasion of perpetual "junionship."

The real trouble with success is that while it doesn't necessarily satisfy a man, it keeps him from being satisfied with anything less.

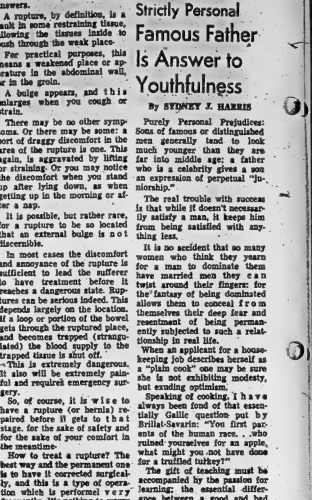
It is no accident that so many women who think they yearn for a man to dominate them have married one they can twist around their fingers: for the fantasy of being dominated allows them to conceal from themselves their deep fear and resentment of being permanently subjected to such a relationship in real life.

When an applicant for a housekeeping job described herself as a "plain cook" one may be sure she is not exhibiting modesty, but exaggerating.

Speaking of cooking, I have always been fond of that essayist Gallic realism created by Brillat-Savarin: "You first parents of the human race. . .who ruined yourselves for an apple, what might you not have done for a truffled turkey?"

The gift of teaching must be accompanied by the passion for learning; the essential difference between a good and bad teacher lies not so much in their disparate intellectual qualities as in their "openness" or "closedness" to further knowledge on their own parts.

Much pride and shame of ancestry are merely opposite sides of the same vice: the unwillingness to accept ourselves as individual, and to draw out of the past only those things which have a bearing on the problems of what we are, and not those which serve us only as a means of self-congratulation or self-contempt.



Anyone concerned — and all American should be — with the dwindling natural resources in our country, and the efforts of a small band of conservationists to combat the forces of waste and greed, should read "The Quiet Crisis," the recent book by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, which is "dedicated to the proposition that man must grasp completely the relationship between human stewardship and the living forces of the American earth."

Of all crackpots, the "realist crackpot" is perhaps the most dangerous; all he can see is what is in front of his nose, and our most pressing need, happens to be a device for seeing around the sharp corners of tomorrow and tomorrow.

Sitting Senators Not Affected By New Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will propose legislation to Parliament for the retirement of senators at age 75 but present senators will not be affected.

First details of the proposed legislation, forecast in the throne speech at the opening of Parliament Feb. 18, were outlined in the Senate Wednesday by Senator J. J. Connolly, new government leader in the Upper House.

Senator Connolly said in the throne speech debate that senators appointed after the legislation is approved would be retired automatically at 75 and would receive a pension to which they would contribute during their years in office.

SIMILAR TO COMMONS

The pension would be comparable with one available to retired members of the House of Commons. Maximum Pension in the Commons is $9,000 annually.

Senator Connolly said present senators would have an option to retire from their $18,000—a year lifetime appointments on or after reaching 75. He said they would receive an "appropriate pension" but gave no further details.

This provision is expected to avoid the strong protests expressed at previous sessions of Parliament over any move to retire senators who have been appointed for life. Senators argued that such a move would be breaking a contract with persons appointed for life terms.

Two Members Of Service Club Cheated at Play

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Two members of a local Optimist club were each jailed for two months and three other persons were fined when they altered their pleas to "guilty" Wednesday at a court hearing of a charge they cheated at play during an Optimist Club - sponsored bingo game.

Douglas Oliver Campbell, 39, and John Bowen, 36, both of London, were jailed on the charge, laid following a police raid on a bingo game here Feb. 18.

Bowen's wife Barbara, 39, was fined $200 without costs or a month in prison and fines of $100 without costs or a month were imposed on Nell K. Pavey, 21, and Lois Culhane, 21, both of London.

The court dismissed charges of cheating at play against Leo Blair, 35, and Mrs. Lelia Fitzgerald and Eugene Woods, 47.

HAD LOST HOME

Campbell, described as the "caller" of the game, said in a statement read to the court that he lost his home and furniture through foreclosure, his car through repossession and was given a proposition to fix games by working with Bowen and men on the floor of the hall.

He said the scheme backfired when, on the night of the raid, a lucky person won the $500 jackpot prize. Miss Culhane, who described herself as Blair's girlfriend, said in a statement to police read to the court here she was to have won the game.

She said she picked up a bingo card from Mrs. Bowen in the arena washroom and was supposed to play it. But it didn't work. "I understand it was an accident." She said she was supposed to take $25 from the jackpot and turn the rest over to Mrs. Bowen.

Asked to Jump From Window Says Witness

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Mrs. Margaret McMillan of West Lorne told a non-capital murder hearing here that the man charged with the slaying called to her to jump from her second floor apartment as the fire he is alleged to have set swept through the building claiming the life of 63-year-old Frank Welch Nov. 3.

The elderly resident of the village some 25 miles southwest of here was testifying in the trial of Kenneth Witherow, 24, also of West Lorne.

Mrs. McMillan said she was aroused in the early hours of Nov. 3 by her brother William Welch, who was staying with her, as the building filled with smoke. She prevented her escape down the stairs and they both went to the window.

She said Witherow was standing on a ladder below the window yelling for her to jump but because of her arthritis she could not. She was carried to safety down the ladder by Fred Kirschner, one of the villagers. It was her cousin who perished in the first floor of the building.

The trial before Mr. Justice J. M. King and a jury of two women and 10 men continues today.

Father of Nine Given Five Years in Jail

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP) — Patrick Solomon, a 40-year-old father of nine was sentenced Wednesday to five years in penitentiary on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the death of his wife, Elvena, 33, last Oct. 4.

Solomon had originally pleaded not guilty to non-capital murder.

Judge Campbell Grant and a 12-man jury agreed, following a Supreme Court recess Wednesday, that the charge be reduced to manslaughter on the recommendation of defence lawyer R. S. Hetherington.

Defence counsel told court after the recess that Solomon, of the Saugeen Indian reserve near Southampton, Ont., was under the influence of liquor Oct. 4 when he struck and knocked his wife to the kitchen floor of their home during an argument.

Mr. Hetherington said several witnesses had indicated there were no previous bad feelings between the couple.

A representative of the attorney-general's department told court that samples of blood and urine taken from the body of Mrs. Solomon revealed a high state of intoxication.

Press Blamed, Then Praised By Delegates

An East Hastings Conservative Association meeting following last year's federal election apparently heard much criticism of the part played by national newspapers.

Last night's annual meeting of the Association approved the minutes which included a speech from a delegate blaming the press for costing many seats in the election.

The would be an obstacle to be overcome by "doing our own thinking," quoted the minutes.

(An executive member of the association echoed the sentiment from the platform last night, adding while comments might appear in the press, people "shouldn't take it for gospel").

The national Progressive Conservatives lost the federal election.

Later, at last night's meeting, delegates heard a review of last year's provincial election and were told by another speaker:

"I think we might clap ourselves on the back that we had such a wonderful election and congratulate our member."

The Ontario Progressive-Conservatives won that election — by a landslide.

Eight Jurors Now Sworn in In Ruby Trial

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — With eight jurors sworn in for Jack Ruby's murder trial, and four yet to be found, lawyers on both sides say that testimony may start this week.

"You may find yourselves on trial here Saturday," said Melvin Belli, chief counsel for Ruby answering reporters' questions.

District Attorney Henry M. Wade said he believes the jury will be complete before the end of the week. "But I'm not sure that you'll go right into the testimony," he said.

Three jurors—a record for a single day in the trial — were qualified Wednesday. Four men and a woman were accepted earlier in the hearing.

Ruby faces a possible sentence of death in the electric chair if convicted of murder with malice for having shot Lee Harvey Oswald last Nov. 24. Oswald had been charged with assassinating president Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22.

Six of the eight said they saw Oswald billed on television. One said he was out of town on the fateful weekend when Kennedy and then Oswald were slain. The other said he was fishing.

Belli said while examining one prospect Wednesday: "There's an old saw that lawyers don't want intelligent jurors. We do want intelligent jurors in this case."

It appears that Belli and Wade are assembling an intelligent jury. District Judge Joe B. Brown thinks so, he said.

Muslim Leader Says Cassius Is Member

The 66-year-old Muhammad, speaking to some 5000 Muslims Wednesday in the Coliseum at the group's annual convention, said of the 22-year-old Clay:

"I'm so glad Cassius Clay was brave enough to say that he was a Muslim. Clay whipped a much tougher man (former champion Sonny Liston) and came through the bout unscarred because he had accepted Muhammad as the messenger of Allah."

Muhammad, who considers himself a direct disciple of Allah, said Clay had been told that Liston would "tear up your pretty face," but that he didn't because "Allah and myself said 'no'."

IT'S NOT CLEAR

Muhammad's assertions of Clay's beliefs were not clear, however. John Ali, Muhammad's secretary, told The Associated Press that anyone who believes in Muslim principles is a member of the sect, but noted that there was no written membership list.

Clay's father recently described his champion boxer son as a Muslim member.

Clay's brother, Rudolph Valentino Clay, said he was a Muslim member.

Asked if brother Cassius was a Muslim member, Rudy answered: "I don't know, why don't you consult him?"

Cassius addressed a Muslim meeting in New York last month.

Charlotte Gets Along With Bertram Loeb

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton said Wednesday that she and Bertram Loeb get along splendidly.

"It's just that a couple of Gentiles have been meeting into it," she told a banquet in his honor at the Jewish community centre.

Mayor Whitton spoke as the only woman in a crowd of about 300, including Jewish community leaders and leading Canadian food merchandisers.

Mr. Loeb, 48, whose firm operates the largest group of IGA stores in Canada, was honored at the banquet as the B'nai B'rith Citizen of the Year in Ottawa for 1963.

He recently offered $450,000 for a medical research centre at Ottawa's Civic Hospital, but the city has not yet accepted the offer. Mayor Whitton said the offer was like having a gun pointed at her head because of the cost of maintaining and staffing the proposed institution.

She shed no further light Wednesday on whether she and the city council will accept the offer before the already extended deadline of March 2.

"Any woman who has remained unmarried 53 . . . well, she doesn't get 'yes' easily," the mayor said.

Justice Rules NDP Leader Can't Be Sued

REGINA (CP) — Chief Justice A. H. Bence has ruled that T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, and two Saskatchewan cabinet ministers can't be taken to court on a civil suit alleging they sat illegally in the provincial legislature in 1962.

But he ruled that another part of the suit alleging conspiracy to defame the Saskatchewan medical profession can be launched again.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd and seven other members of his cabinet still can be sued on both counts of the action, brought in 1962 by Dr. William J. Cranley of Prince Albert and Dr. Malcolm H. McDonald, formerly of Saskatoon, now of Calgary.

The doctors based their claims on the Medical Care Insurance Act. Mr. Douglas was premier when the legislation was first introduced.

Mr. Douglas, Attorney - General Robert Walker and Resources Minister Alex Ruzicka were not served with the writs within a year from the issue, as required by rules of the court.

The doctors allege the introduction of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Act was unconstitutional and was defamatory to them and the province's doctors. They charge the government conspired to introduce it.

The doctors also charge that the ministers named have all had benefits under the Hospitalization Act. This disqualified them from sitting because it was "payment" under a government contract.

Apart from asking $20,000 damages each for defamation, Dr. Cranley and Dr. McDonald are suing for the legal penalty of $100 a sitting day which can be assessed against MLAS who sit illegally.

They also ask that the medical care act be set aside because the province was acting beyond its power.

Successful Living

Twelve Is Too Young To Start Private Dating

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — I am 12 years old. This boy who is 14 likes me very much and I like him very much. We do not date of course but we do go tobogganing, sliding, skating, and bowling. When he does ask me to date I feel frightened and say "no."

The reason why I feel frightened is because he is two years older. When you write back in the paper please answer these questions:

1. Should a girl go out with a boy who is two years older?
2. Should I feel frightened when he asks me anywhere with him?
3. Should a 12-year-old girl let a boy 14 years old kiss her?
4. Should you be frightened to go out with a boy whose father has left his mother? — ONE IN QUESTION.

DEAR ONE —

1. Not when their respective ages are 12 and 14.
2. No. Just don't go.
3. No; not privately, not passionately.
4. No. Not for that reason.

The safe thing is not to go out with boys on single dates when you are 12; and to associate with the other sex in group activities.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am always looking out for something to read or recite at our G. Mothers' Club; I still have some I have kept for a very long time, but I need something new. — ALBERTA.

DEAR ALBERTA — I'd love to contribute to your repertoire. How about it, readers?

DEAR DORIS — I am 40; have never been out on a date. Is it too late for me? I feel so out of place I'm sure I wouldn't know what's right to do.

Because of my aged parents being not too well for many years I worked in this small town. My parents refused to move or let me go out. They both passed away last year. I sold what there was, paid off debts and moved to a bigger town.

I like people very much. Why do I always end up never to meet and date? I am not shy to talk to women but I cannot come out and talk to men unless it's strictly business. — LOST AT LAST.

DEAR LOST — Chase that martyr complex! After a going over by a beauty parlor and a smart clothing saleslady, try to make one new friend. Perhaps through church or Y.W. or volunteer work.

An evening course in public speaking — or a job on a committee — can help give you poise. I am sending you the names of some books on dating and making conversation which are good sense at any age.

DEAR DORIS — For quite some years I have been very interested in our North American Indian and his ways of living.

Now that I have plenty of time on my hands I was wondering if you would have any suggestions as to how I could make personal contact with them and assist them with their problems. —LOOKING WEST.

DEAR LOOKING WEST — Good. You could open up a whole new world of interest. Write to the Department of Indian Affairs, Ottawa, Canada, about your idea.

* * *

(Don't just muddle along. Take pen in hand and ask Doris about your problem.)

Fantasy in Fashion Shows Style Trends for Spring

Style trends as spring fashions were shown on Wednesday evening at the Collegiate auditorium when the Women's Auxiliary to the Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Society presented their "Fantasy in Fashion" by Rachel's.

Mrs. R. S. Morphy was convenor for this event with Mrs. J. R. Birchard as co-convenor. President Mrs. A. Rota welcomed the audience which filled the hall to capacity and explained the work of the Auxiliary in welfare projects, which included contributions to the Retarded Infants' Home at Plainfield.

The show was introduced by soloist Gordon Locklin, a 12-year-old boy soprano who was accompanied by Mrs. Hazel-anne Reid.

ATTRACTIVE STAGE

The stage looked most attractive with a two-wheeled white decorative cart, the shelves filled with flowered hats, daffodils and spring flowers. Immense Easter eggs, gaily decorated, oversize bunnies with Easter baskets and a wheelbarrow filled with flowers added to the gay background. Mrs. M. Schryer and her committee of Mrs. J. Empson, Mrs. R. S. Gibson, Mrs. J. Nelles, Mrs. G. Pearce and Mrs. N. Reid, were responsible for the stage decor.

Mrs. H. Williamson was commentator, seated at a table which bore a crescent-shaped flower arrangement in yellow with pussy willows and a yellow chick perched on it.

Throughout the evening Mrs. J. Sine played appropriate piano music as well as a piano solo selection. Each change of fashions was heralded by two dancers, Miss Caroline Chisholm and Miss Karen Post, pupils of Dorothy Dickey Dance Studio.

Special — coiffeurs by the French Salon were shown by Mrs. R. J. Isaac, with a peek-a-boo blunt hair style cut the same length all the way around, and Miss Marilyn Vaughan who appeared with hair a delicate pink shade, sprinkled with glitter.

PINK IS FAVORITE

To generalize, the favorite shade appeared to be pink, with navy a close second, although shades of blue, including turquoise and sea green seemed popular. Hats supplied by Woodley Furriers showed Breton — sailors, wind-swept brims, and high crowns.

Mrs. Morphy made her initial appearance in raspberry slims and jacket with a top of multi-colored stripes worn under the jacket. The opening styles were for activity uses with sportswear and raincoat shown.

A black sleeveless shift in handkerchief colors of deep yellow and pink on black was worn by Mrs. Horne. She wore yellow bangles. Jewellery created by Avon Jewellery as did all the models.

Mrs. Dudley Wiggins appeared in a gold shirtwaist dress of silk and Dacron with a scarf in navy and green-blue. Her two-toned strapped spectator pumps were from Shalimar Shoe Room.

Mrs. Douglas wore a culotte play dress on her first appearance, made of stretch material which is gaining popularity in all sportswear. The color was navy and green-blue, which suited her coloring and Max Factor make-up.

Mrs. N. MacDonald wore a blue two-piece dress with sleeveless blouse and skirt of pleated pleats.

PINK TWEED

Mrs. Pearce modelled one of the new tweedy materials, but unlike ordinary tweed, here it was whitened pink, with a capeline jacket over a sleeveless pink and white polka dotted blouse set off with bows.

The bridal styles were modelled by Miss Judy Johnson who appeared first in a patio or beach outfit of shorts in ribbed Dacron and Orlon pullover with a Mexican flavor.

A mint green shirtwaist dress with roll-up sleeves was shown by Mrs. Empson, with a banana yellow bulky sweater worn over it.

The Easter parade was a showing of coats, suits, daywear, hats and furs in smart and striking combinations and ensembles, with capes getting favorable attention.

As a finale, cocktail and evening gowns provided a colorful show. Makeup was provided by Kelly's Drug Store, and the flowers by Weese's Greenhouse and Flower Shop.

WINS WARDROBE

The draw for a wardrobe value dat $100 was made by Mrs. F. Beeby, President of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, and was won by Mrs. H. W. Pointer, 86 Hastings Drive. Many other prizes were given to winners who had lucky numbers drawn.

A sheaf of roses was presented to Mrs. Schwartz of Rachael's Ladies' Wear at the conclusion of the show.

St. Andrew's Guild Enjoys Travelogue

St. Andrew's Women's Guild held its regular meeting in the Sunday School hall with Mrs. G. Durno presiding. After the usual opening several items of business were discussed.

The Golden Book or Charity convener reported that a large carton of labels was expressed to Toronto, and the ladies were reminded that several new products have been added to the list of labels to save. Mrs. G. Durno was appointed on the Christian education committee replacing Mrs. J. Allan who is ill. The date for the annual bazaar was set for the last Wednesday in November.

Following the business meeting Mrs. J. Marvin introduced Mr. Robert Lincum of the RCAF who showed many interesting slides taken while he was stationed in Middle East for ten months last year. Members were transported to such ancient cities as Khartown in the Sudan where the white Nile meets the Blue Nile, to Cairo, To Aviv, Gaza, Damascus, Syria, Bierute and many other interesting places in the Middle East where the temperature goes up to 120 deg. or more in the midday and the women still carry the water in pots on their heads sometimes walking ten or twelve miles to get fresh water.

Road work was still done in the primitive way. The water buffalo is still used for plowing. Pictures taken in Jerusalem showed Olive trees 2,000 years old and still bearing fruit.

Cairo and Khartown both have interesting zoos where the wild animals receive the best of care in beautiful surroundings with many trees and flowering shrubs. Views taken from a plane were breath-taking showing the vast deserts and on to fertile fields in neat patterns.

Mrs. J. Biy on behalf of the Guild extended thanks to Mr. Lincum for a most interesting and informative evening of travel pictures that were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Mr. W. Mantle and the Happy Group served the lunch at the close of the meeting.

WEDDINGS

BOSKO — HORNSEY

MARMORA — The wedding took place in Cordova Free Methodist Church on Saturday, February 15th when Mary Ellen Hornsby became the bride of Flying Officer Floyd Dennis Bosko of 8 SCAF Station, Rivers, Manitoba. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father, Reverend N. A. Bosko, now of Athens, formerly of Cordova.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hornsby of R.R. 1, Havelock and was given in marriage by her father.

Wedding music was played by Miss Eleance Nixon of Norwood and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Jack Grant of Peterborough.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown of embossed satin brocade. The bodice featured a Sweetheart neckline and long lily point sleeves. The skirt was highlighted with a large bow and streamers at back. A shoulder length veil of illusion tulle was caught to a crown of crystals and seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses with yellow feathered mums petals and white satin streamers with yellow rosebuds.

The attendants were Mrs. Gordon Hartin as matron of honor and bridesmaids, Miss Madeline Parker and Mrs. A. C. Flayne. They were identical short gowns of cream satin brocade and dark brown velvet ribbing hats with veilling and matching gloves and shoes. They carried nosegays of bronze and white baby 'mums with white satin streamers.

The bridegroom was attended by Ted Smith of Winnipeg and ushers were John Hendly and John Thompson.

A reception was held in Havelock Hotel Frontier room where Mrs. Hornsby was wearing an ocean blue wool suit with white accessories. Mrs. Bosko wore a teal blue suit with beige accessories. Each wore a cream colored rosebud corsage.

Guests were present from Montreal, Toronto, Peterborough, Vannacher, Winnipeg, Havelock and Norwood.

For their honeymoon to Western Ontario the bride chose a charcoal grey wool suit with Persian lamb jacket; black accessories and corsage of coral carnations.

THE HERITAGE OF TUTANKHAMUN

The Canadian tour of the Tutankhamun treasures arouses great interest and with good reason. The very fact that the treasures are estimated to be over 3,300 years old is intriguing enough to capture the most pedestrian mind. The tomb was unearthed in 1923 by Mr. Howard Carter, an archaeologist working with Lord Carnarvon in Egypt's Valley of the Kings. The collection is now on tour in Canada, through the generosity of the U. A. R. Ministry of Culture and the Museum of Antiquities in Cairo.

Although many historians, architects and Egyptologists have written erudite reports about the treasure, I have not seen an article written about a fashion writer's reaction to the collection. I am sure that many designers, fit both house furnishings and fashions, have found much to fire their imaginations.

Throughout the ages gold and silversmiths have been tempted by ancient Egypt's skill and craftsmanship in experiment with these precious metals. The collection contains a gold pectoral, which is an ornament meant to be worn on the breast. It is mounted on a gold chain with a counterpoise, worn at the back of the neck. The pectoral is in the form of a hawk made of openwork gold, inlaid with semi-precious stoned and colored glass. The counterpoise, or balance, is of gold, moulded to resemble a human head.

AMULETIC SHEET GOLD

Another jewelry item is an amuletic collar of sheet gold with the body of a winged cobra as the centre point. The etched wings of sheet gold curve out to encircle the throat. Another ornament, an amuletic girdle knot fashioned of sheet gold, imitates each fold of a bowed ribbon.

A small collection of tall, slender walking sticks with carved handles, reminded me of some custom-made umbrella handles I saw on my last trip to Paris. A funerary sandal of gold, measuring 10¾", has the slightly turned-up toe of the leather Italian sandals that were so popular last season. A pair of linen gloves were finely stitched and had tapes to fasten them at the wrist. (In a slave society, there was always someone around to tie them.)

A simple alabaster jug with a rounded spout and balanced handle, closely resembles what we now call the "Danish Influence" in room accessories. It and an alabaster chest, inlaid with decorated pigments in a formal floral pattern are as breathtaking as the famous Grecian Urn. A pear-shaped vase of dark blue and a simple cup inscribed with the king's name, are both made of faience and remind me with a shock of my contemporary collection of pottery.

It is interesting to note the dictionary meaning of the word, "faience", which is defined as:

U.C.W. Meeting

HOLLOWAY STREET U.C.W.

Holloway Street United Church Women held their February meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors with Mrs. R. Trefler presiding.

Plans were discussed for "Family Night" when the Rev. Rosmyer from the Fred Victor Mission in Toronto is to be guest speaker. It was decided to hold an "Antique Tea" in May. Members were reminded to bring their labels for the "Golden Book of Charity".

An inspiring devotional was led by Mrs. G. Dobbs on the principles of consecrated use of time, of investing the hours, which are irreplaceable, to the best advantage, taking time to pay tribute to God who has given to all men the same number of hours in a day.

A solo was rendered by Mrs. A. Daniels accompanied by Mrs. Hubbs at the piano.

Mrs. Keith Bray of Ivanhoe, chairman of the Stewardship, brought a challenging message to members, urging them to greater usefulness and more faithful administration of duties — not squandering life but making the highest use of time, talents, energy and money.

Houston Feb. 7 were discussed.

An invitation was read by Mary Peters from the U.C.W. at Bannerville, asking the Guild to meet with them on Friday, Feb. 14th, for World Day of Prayer.

Preparations were made to get started on the junior choir gowns.

Lenten folders were given to each member to be turned in before Easter.

SHANNONVILLE W.G.

Rev. Smith opened the meeting and the president, Mrs. McKenzie, presided.

The secretary, Mrs. M. Peters, read the minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer, Mrs. I. Whittle, gave her report.

Must Modify Father's Power Over Children

QUEBEC (CP) — The notion that the father has the final word over his children must be modified in Quebec law, Mrs. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, minister without portfolio in the Quebec government, said Wednesday.

The notion of "paternal power" goes back to the Roman Emperior Justinian and has come down to the province's Civil Code, she said in an address to the Liberal party's Reform Club.

She said the idea of a father's power over his children must be "modified from top to bottom."

She cited these examples of articles of law which should be changed:

1. Only the father has the right to punish children. The mother may only punish children with his permission or in his absence.

2. Children under 21 must obtain parents' permission to marry. But if the parents disagree, the father's consent is enough.

3. A minor child may leave home, even over the mother's objections, if the father approves.

Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain said it wasn't necessary to go any further "to understand that this notion of paternal power has been outdated for a long time and that it is time to substitute a new concept—that of a partnership between man and woman within the family."

Pineapple Upside Down Cake

by Mary Moore

Calorific requests from readers give me lovely legitimate excuses to go off my reducing diet.

In December a reader asked me for a recipe for Pineapple Upside Down Cake using a white cake mix. I sent her that and promised to make a Pineapple Upside Down Cake using homemade batter. More than two months later I have gotten around to doing that. It is a beauty and turns out of the pan in perfect shape.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN MAKE:

First Step: 1-3 cup butter, ¼ cup light brown sugar, 6 or 7 pineapple rings (from canned pineapple slices), 8 or 7 red maraschino cherries, 12 or 14 whole pecans (optional).

You must use a broad-based dish to accommodate the pineapple rings without crowding. I used a tin pan you measure 9¾" in diameter by 1¼" deep and it was exactly right. You could use a frying pan but it must be one with a metal handle which is ovenproof or it may be a large shallow baking dish.

Over low heat melt the butter in the pan you select. Sprinkle brown sugar over evenly. Arrange pineapple slices on butter-sugar mixture attractively. Place cherries in centre of rings and pecans (if used) between them. Keep warm.

Batter: 2 large eggs, 3-3 cup white sugar, 6 tablespoons pineapple juice (from canned pineapple slices), 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1-3 teaspoon baking powder (one-third teaspoon is correct), ¼ teaspoon salt.

In beater bowl beat with rotary or electric beater the eggs until thick and lemon-colored and increased in volume — at least 5 minutes. Then slowly add sugar until blended. Remove from beater and stir in pineapple juice. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and stir in until blended. Pour batter evenly over warm prepared pan-mixture, being careful not to disturb fruit.

Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 minutes. While very hot, carefully invert over large dessert serving plate, allowing pan to rest over cake for 2 or 3 minutes so all fruit and any syrup separates from pan and rests on cake. Serve with or without milk or cream or whipped cream.

Problems of African States Discussed at Study Guild

Africa has been likened to a baby that is just wakening. Some of the problems of this wakening process were outlined to the Women's Study Guild on Monday evening by Mrs. M. Meldrum and Mrs. C. Trill. A flitting introduction to the program was given by the president Mrs. Ellis who gave a devotional reading. She pointed out in the story 'The Two Villages' that ill feelings bred by pre-conceived ideas and misunderstandings soon disappear when the truth is made known.

Mrs. Meldrum in dealing with the daily changing political scene in Zanzibar, referred to Lady Listowel's recent talk on the subject of politics in Africa. The color ratio in Zanzibar is one-third Arab and two thirds Negro. The Chinese communists of Peking are said to be responsible for the revolt in Zanzibar in January, which in turn sparked revolts in Tanganyika and Kenya. The new regime under the negro leader Karume has this week been recognized by the United States, Great Britain and Canada. Immediately after the former Sultan was ousted Canadian help was sought and a young law professor was sent to give aid.

TOLERANT OF CANADIANS

President Nyerere of Tanganyika is more tolerant of the Canadian people than of the American or Russians because Canada is not such a big power. President Nyerere is the greatest leader in Africa, although his popularity is waning because he went into isolation at the time of the revolt. He has been educated at a Christian mission school and in Edinborough and is said to be half a century ahead of all other African leaders. Tanganyika has evolved from the stone age to modern 1964 in such a short space of time that it makes it difficult for those of us in the more established countries to understand.

ECONOMIC PROBLEM

Kenya, stated Mrs. Trill, is the 35th state of Africa to gain independence. The white population have recently been leaving Kenya, hence much capital is also leaving. This creates an economic problem as there is no mining and very little agriculture. Less than one-third of the area is arable, the balance consisting of mountains and deserts. Premiere Jomo Kenyatta wants the remaining whites to stay as they are as important to him as foreign aid. Kenya is largely made up of numerous tribes of natives and many are agitating for the removal of the whites from the richest part of Kenya which they now occupy.

Land hunger is a big problem, Kenyatta says that his country is neutral and will accept aid from the east or west. Mrs. Trill outlined the problems with the Mau Mau and the bitterness that followed their uprising, which resulted in a general lack of confidence in the future of Kenya. Kenyatta however is trying to keep the blacks and whites living in harmony and Great Britain has great hopes for his success. If some of their problems can be solved it may be an example of harmony to the entire world, even to the Southern United States. Kenya is dependent on Great Britain for its defence for a period of one year following independence. The question is — can East Africa afford to let Great Britain leave at the end of this time and depend on her own defence? Is a federated state of Tanganyika, Zanzibar and Kenya the answer?

A stimulated discussion followed while refreshments were being served by Mrs. H. Seldon and Mrs. L. Lantz. Mrs. A. E. Orr graciously opened her home for this February meeting.

CHRIST CHURCH W.A.

Members of the Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church met on Monday night in the parish hall for their monthly business meeting.

The president, Mrs. L. Mason conducted the devotional service assisted by Mrs. P. Burton.

Reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. Lang and treasurer, Mrs. L. MacInnis. Correspondence included a letter from the Diocesan treasurer, one from the Girls' Auxiliary thanking the members for the $20 they had received and the monthly board letter. Mrs. J. Reid presented the Dorcas secretary's report, Mrs. H. Stevens the Sunshine Fund and Mrs. W. Edwards the Social Fund.

The president asked for volunteers to assist with the breakfasts after the 7.30 communion services on Wednesday mornings during Lent.

DISCUSS PLANS

It was decided to cater for the father and daughter banquet of the Junior Auxiliary and plans were also discussed for a pie and coffee night early in April. Mrs. Burton gave a report of the Vestry Council meeting.

During the social hour which followed tea and cookies were served by Mrs. O. Ragsdale and Miss L. Morton. Tea hostesses at previous meetings this month were Mrs. F. O'Connor, Mrs. C. O'Connor, Mrs. L. Mac Innis and Mrs. J. Ling.

Friends Honor Young Couple

MINTO—Friends and neighbors of this community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ryan Saturday evening to honor their son John and his bride who were recently married. Mr. Goldie McInroy filled the duties of chairman and expressed happiness and best wishes to the newlyweds.

Mrs. Bill Donnan sang a solo and the Misses Betty and Mary Lou Sine sang. Readings were given by Mr. Mac Sarles, Mrs. Revoy, Mrs. J. McInroy and Mrs. Tom Clements. Several men of the neighborhood spoke briefly.

Mrs. Mel Wickens read the address and John and Louise were presented with a hostess chair and floor lamp for which they made appropriate replies, expressing thanks for the gifts as well as all who had contributed and were responsible in any way toward the success of the shower and invited all to visit them in their new home in Oshawa.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

TIGHTEN GUARD

OTTAWA (CP)—A "general tightening" of security on Parliament Hill has led to the arming of all patrolmen there, the RCMP said Tuesday. A spokesman said that although .38-calibre service revolvers are normally "part of the RCMP uniform" they had not been worn except by a few of the guards on Parliament Hill until recently.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My daughter is to be married in just three weeks. We sent out invitations to 75 guests more than two weeks ago. Replies have been trickling in and, so far, I've had acceptances from only a handful. The reception is to be held in a private club, and I have to let them know at least a week in advance how many guests to expect. It's to be quite simple, with champagne, hors d'oeuvres, cake and coffee, so arrangements may be a little more flexible than for a luncheon or dinner. If I don't hear from the rest of the people we've invited within another week or so, would it be permissible to phone or write and ask for a reply? Do guests only reply to a wedding invitation if they expect to come? This is the first wedding in our family, and, frankly, I'm at my wit's end about how to proceed in arranging the reception. — Mrs. W. H., Bayside, New York

Answer: An invitation to a wedding and reception definitely should be acknowledged, whether or not the person invited is able to attend. If you don't hear from the remainder of the guests on the list within a week, then it would be permissible to start checking so you'll have a fairly accurate count to give the caterer a week before deadline. It's unfortunate, though, that many people wait until the last minute to acknowledge invitations. If they answered immediately — which, correctly, they should — it certainly would spare the parents of the bride what has become a fairly general king-size headache.

Question: I was in such a rush to get out to a dinner party recently that I forgot to dab on a bit of perfume as usual. Since I'm used to wearing fragrance, I felt undressed without it, so, after taking off my coat in the hostess' bedroom, I applied some perfume from a bottle that was sitting on her dresser. She came in just as I was using it and I felt rather embarrassed to be caught in the act. She made no comment, but I wonder if I did the wrong thing in using her perfume without asking permission first. — Mrs. M. E. H., Norwalk, Conn.

Answer: Usually, cosmetics and toiletries set out so obviously in the room where coats are deposited are there for the convenience of guests, so it's not necessary to round up the hostess and ask permission before making use of them.

Unacknowledged Wedding Gift Cause for Friction

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Last September the daughter of a close friend was married. I went to considerable trouble and expense to select a beautiful wedding gift and felt sure the girl would be delighted.

Last week it occurred to me that I had received no word of acknowledgment from the bride. I checked my date book and noted the gift had been purchased four months ago to the day. The bride lives in this city so there is no chance that the gift was lost in the mails. It occurred to me that perhaps the gift might have been delivered to the wrong address. So I phoned the bride to inquire.

She was noticeably flustered and said, "I'm a little behind in my thank you notes. The gift was lovely. I'll write you a note when I get around to it."

Ten minutes later her mother phoned me — enraged. She said I had insulted her daughter and that the poor girl was in a state of nervous collapse.

Did I do the wrong thing by calling her? — NOT SURE.

DEAR NOT SURE — Four months is plenty long to wait for a thank you note. Don't allow that ill-mannered young woman to transfer her guilt to you.

Strange that the most boorish of clods — those who have no regard for the feelings of others — are the most easily hurt.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My boy friend and I have been going together for 41 years. I had my first date with Atherton after I graduated from Vassar in the class of 1923. He was in the Yale class of 1921.

My parents have never allowed us to go anywhere unchaperoned because they were afraid we might get into trouble. Father passed away in 1954 and it's awfully hard on mother to go everywhere with us, especially skiing. She fell last winter on a ski slope at Sun Valley and her hip never did mend just right.

Don't you feel that now, since I am 63 years old, and past the child-bearing age, that Atherton and I should be allowed to date without a chaperone? Please rush your advice, Ann. We are desperate. — IMPATIENT LOVERS.

DEAR LOVERS — Now that you are past the child-bearing age why don't you do your homework and stop bothering me with phony letters?

If you kids knew how much alike your group-constructed masterpieces were, you'd be thoroughly embarrassed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — What are the chances for a successful marriage in this case? The bride to be (I'll call her Mae) is 18. She has given the ring back to her fiance four times since August. Whenever they have an argument, she throws the ring in his face. By the time he gets home his phone is ringing. She is sorry and wants him to bring the ring right back.

The last time she pulled this he refused to patch things up. He took out another girl. Mae sat waiting on his porch when he got home at 12:30 a.m. He said he was through for good so she went on a hunger strike and didn't eat for three days. Her mother called and insisted the fellow "save her life."

They are back together again and the wedding is set for April. As the boy's mother I'd like your opinion. — J. D.

DEAR J. D. — That son of yours should quit when he is ahead. A marriage based on emotional blackmail cannot succeed.

I predict he'll be getting the ring back at some point between now and April. If he's smart he'll return it to the jeweler and get whatever he can for it.

Trade Minister Sharp Rejects British Argument Anti-Dumping Law to Blame

LONDON (CP) — Canadian Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp rejected today the British government's argument that anti-dumping law is to blame for Britain's export problems in the Canadian market.

He bluntly suggested that more of the blame lies with the failure of British exporters to exploit their preferential position in Canada and to keep up with "dynamic changes" in the Canadian market.

"Canada is a highly competitive market . . . The job is up to you," he said in a luncheon speech to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce of Britain.

"This is the time for an improvement in the attitude of British exporters to the Canadian market," said the Canadian trade chief in discussing a growing trade imbalance between the two countries in favor of Canada.

Asked whether Canada may change anti-dumping laws that the British have criticized, Sharp said, "We are looking very seriously at complaints that have been made." He said, however, he did not believe laws were the cause of the imbalance.

Other countries operating under the same laws were doing better than Britain on the Canadian market where British goods traditionally enjoy a preference and a good reputation.

The minister — accompanied by High Commissioner Lionel Cherrier — spoke at a press conference after a one - hour meeting with British Trade Minister Edward Heath.

WOULD LIKE INCREASE

Asked why he came here rather than a British minister going to Canada, Sharp said Canada wanted to show it would be happy to see an increase in British trade — a development that would be of mutual interest. He believed that Heath agrees British exporters should make a better effort.

The trade imbalance now is running at about two-to-one in favor of Canada which in 1963 exported $2,600,000,000 ($1,105,500,000) worth of goods to Britain compared with imports of $1,370,000,000 ($577,500,000.)

Elaborating on why British firms have difficulty in Canada, Sharp stressed the proximity of United States suppliers and emphasized the need of advertising of consumer goods.

The seller had to be "on the spot, do a lot of advertising and do all the things being done to sell by Canadian and American firms."

An obvious sector of expansion was in automobiles, where the British enjoyed a 17½-per-cent preference and where their market now was growing after falling off for a time. British small cars were hard hit by North American-built compact cars in recent years.

IMPOSES DUTY

The Canadian anti - dumping law imposes an extra customs duty on imports competitive with Canadian production are sold in Canada at prices lower than in their country or origin. It was strongly criticized by Prime Minister Douglas-Home on his recent visit to Ottawa.

Mr. Sharp promised in his speech Canada will "remove any discrimination if such exists. You will continue to enjoy a tariff preference against your foreign competitors. What more can we be expected to do?"

He said the effects on British sales of the anti-dumping laws "appear on examination to be marginal."

Two other factors had been at work, he said, which failed to exploit our preferential market" and changes in the Canadian market. "British exporters had not fully adjusted or responded.

Mr. Sharp gave other factors: The replacement of British imports by Canadian output of new industries, increased power plants and structural steel, and the failure of some British producers to keep pace with new consumer products and changing tastes.

IN NEED OF PATTERN

He said the two-to-one advantage for Canada last year in Canadian-British trade was part of a normal pattern of multilateral world trading countries. It had happened before in other post-war years.

"You will have gathered that I have not been impressed by some of the oversimplified comments made recently about the state of trade between our two countries.

"I fear, too, that some of the talk may have served to impede rather than to speed recovery, and that is why I am speaking so plainly.

Mr. Sharp said he is concerned that there should be no misunderstanding about Canada's anti-dumping laws. They were "based on the concept that Canadian producers should not have their position unfairly undermined by the sale of goods in Canada at dumping prices."

The Canadian law was less stringent than provisions of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — GATT — since it could be used only to protect established Canadian industry and not to prevent establishment of new industry.

It was necessary to protect against "the kind of substantial and predatory dumping which could originate virtually overnight from the massive production facilities of the United States.

Thus all exporters to Canada — "and not least British exporters"—profited from this protection.

Labor Election Win Could Mean Early Meet of P. M.'s

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prospects of an early conference of Commonwealth prime ministers may be enhanced if Britain's Labor party wins the next election.

All the indications are that Harold Wilson, once installed as prime minister, would make the summoning of a Commonwealth summit one of his early objectives.

A possible topic for such a meeting, Labor sources feel, would be the constitutional crisis that seems to be looming in Southern Rhodesia.

Until recently, the Labor stand had seemed to be enthusiastic than that of Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservative administration, which appeared lukewarm to the idea. Latest signs in Whitehall are that the idea of a Commonwealth conference is beginning to be more favorably viewed by the government.

The difference in emphasis may merely reflect the natural gap between a party in opposition and a government up to its administrative ears in pressing day-to-day problems, but the shading of view seems real enough.

In fact, Wilson seems to be pushing the Commonwealth angle harder than the party was at the starting signal for an election campaign preceding the nation-wide vote expected in June or October.

Apart from his seeming willingness to bring the difficult Southern Rhodesia issue before a Commonwealth forum, Wilson has also made clear he would take a strong new emphasis on Commonwealth trade.

This is somewhat surprising. As a trained economist, Wilson is undoubtedly aware that a considerable section of official opinion in London remains cynical about the potentialities of the Commonwealth trade expansion.

With the best will in the world, it is difficult to see that the idea of a Commonwealth, granted its geographical dispersion and diversity of outlook, just isn't particularly fruitful economic unit.

In beating the economic drum for the Commonwealth, Wilson appears to be going some way toward joining the ranks of the dyed-in-the-wool empire boosters such as Lord Beaverbrook.

A possible explanation is that Wilson is really more interested in political dividends than in trade aspects. One expert on party affairs suggested the idea that Labor is looking increasingly for issues on which it can seem to be the "patriotic" party, rather than be constantly accused of taking the foreigner's side against the native-born in matters such as racial discrimination.

The Commonwealth, it is argued, is a safe theme on which to take a positive stand.

Asking the Commonwealth to "solve" Southern Rhodesia's seemingly hopeless deadlock, however, hardly seems a likely course. Countries with no strong feelings on the subject, such as Canada, would hardly relish being embroiled in a dead-end dispute.

And African Commonwealth members such as Ghana and Tanganyika would obviously throw all their weight behind the African majority in Southern Rhodesia, tilting the scales against the small white minority.

MISSILE HITS TARGET

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A 5,800-mile strike into the South Atlantic marked the Titan II missile's 10th straight success. The air force reported that the most powerful missile in the U.S. military arsenal achieved all flight objectives in Wednesday's launching.

TRANSPORT MINISTER Haskett pays personal tribute to executive service of Mrs. R. N. Broad, as Clarke Rollins, MLA (right) 'and new East Hastings P.C. association president Charles Keeble, Belleville, join in. Mrs. Broad has been on the executive since 1947.

Mrs. R. N. Broad Steps Down as PC President

MADOC (Staff) — After nearly 20 years of boosting and building her organization, Mrs. R. N. Broad stepped down last night from the helm of the East Hastings Conservative Association.

Mrs. Broad, president of the association for the past two years, has been its executive plug since 1947.

Her refusal to stand for yet another term — she turned aside yet another nomination from the floor — was the signal for accolades on Cabinet, Legislative membership and local party levels last night.

Transport Minister Haskett, guest speaker at last night's annual meeting of the association, complimented her for "playing a noble part" in riding Conservative affairs.

The ministerial sentiment was echoed by Clarke Rollins, the constituency's MLA, and local officers and delegates.

Mrs. Broad left some sound advice with the membership she nurtured through the years. She reminded the assembly at the Masonic Hall here of the potential political influence of Canadian women.

"The women now have 50 per cent of the vote," she said. "If they don't have an active voice in the government of our country it will be our own fault. We have been given that opportunity."

Mrs. Broad is succeeded as president by Charles Keeble of Belleville.

Other members of the new executive are: Mrs. Bertha Aitkins, Thurlow, associate president; Verne McMurray, Gilmour, 1st vice-president; Kent Gardiner, Tweed, 2nd vice; Bruce White, Madoc, treasurer; Bill Marsh, Tweed, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Vivian, Shannonville, associate secretary.

LEGISLATURE TEETH IN LAW

While sharper teeth have been given the law permitting compulsory police checks, his officials are "interested large ly" in voluntary safety checks Mr. Haskett stated.

The Motor Vehicle Claims Act, which replaced the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund 18 months ago, so far has paid out $5,700,000 in claims.

One aspect of this was that "the people of Ontario enjoy the greatest possible protection anywhere on the continent against the uninsured driver."

This automobile insurance still isn't compulsory, under present regulations and penalties, some 97.7 motorists are insured.

This, claimed the Minister, "compares very well" with other provinces where automobile insurance is compulsory.

The statistics of his own department were only part of a complex as Mr. Haskett emphasized Ontario "is a land of Empire proportions."

The biggest figure quoted was the last $1,300,000,000 budgetary estimate.

"Ontario is a big province and the government of Ontario is big business, and running that big business calls for leadership of a high order," he said.

"In all frankness, the people of government who are going to handle that much of the people's money and business have got to be a government that is sound and responsible."

EDUCATION FIRST BUSINESS

"That must have been what was in the minds of the people last September (during the provincial election)," he said.

Education swallowed $452,000,000 of that same budget.

However education as the first business of Ontario. It is tremendously expensive, but we've got to have it if we are to have a place in the sun. Ontario is going to remain in the van."

Adding local color, Mr. Haskett touted provincial projects that would prove a boon to, Hastings County tourist trade.

Highways, game and fish conservation were being progressively pushed in the district.

"These things are all quietly going ahead, but they make a great contribution to the wealth and prosperity of the people here.

"Travel through these parts is going to increase tremendously in the years ahead and this part of the province is going to profit by it."

Transport Minister Haskett Outlines Progress of Dept. At PC Meeting at Madoc

MADOC (Staff) — Ontario residents are marking up some space-age statistics on four wheels, Transport Minister Haskett revealed last night.

So astronomical is the total mileage of the province's motorists that only interplanetary comparisons can emphasize it.

"Last year, for example, the 2,500,000 registered vehicle owners travelled 20 billion miles in Ontario," said Mr. Haskett.

"That's equal to a trip to the moon and back every 13 minutes—day and night for a whole year," he told the annual meeting of East Hastings Conservatives here.

Keeping pace of the travelling throng is an unceasing challenge to the province's road planners.

"You can't get ahead of it. We keep building highways and highways, and they seem to be crowded before we can get them built," he added.

However, the problem also has its immediately nastier side.

Last year, car accidents in Ontario marked up $49,000,000 damage and left 47,000 persons injured.

We are concerned with driving—safe driving. We are concerned with the safety of vehicles," said the minister.

SHARPER TEETH IN LAW

While sharper teeth have been given the law permitting compulsory police checks, his officials are "interested large ly" in voluntary safety checks Mr. Haskett stated.

The Motor Vehicle Claims Act, which replaced the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund 18 months ago, so far has paid out $5,700,000 in claims.

Application Made for New Bank in Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Laurentide Financial Corporation of Vancouver has submitted an application to Parliament for a charter to form the Laurentide Bank of Canada, President Peter Paul Saunders said Wednesday.

Mr. Saunders said that if Laurentide's application is approved the bank will have an authorized capital of at least $10,000,000. The company's assets at present are more than $300,000,000.

This is the third announcement of a new bank to be established in Canada. The others are the proposed Bank of B.C. announced by Premier W. A. C. Bennett of B.C. and the Bank of Western Canada proposed by former Bank of Canada governor James E. Coyne.

Mr. Saunders said a notice of intention of the new bank will appear in Friday's Canada Gazette.

At present Laurentide offers diversified financial services through more than 200 branch offices located in Canada, the United Kingdom, the United States, The Bahamas and also France.

"If our application is accepted the bank will be national in character with its head office in Vancouver," said Mr. Saunders.

He said the corporation had been preparing for the move since 1960.

Drug Withdrawn in U. S. Still Sold in Nova Scotia

Legislature Told Wednesday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Health Minister Donahoe told the Nova Scotia legislature Wednesday a drug which has been withdrawn from the United States market is still being sold in Nova Scotia.

The drug called Farnate or tranylcypromine and which is used extensively in the treatment of mental depression, was withdrawn from the U.S. market after 25 persons who used it died from strokes, the health minister said.

Mr. Donahoe said he has had no report on what action would be taken with regard to withdrawing the drug from the province.

Other legislatures sitting Wednesday were those of Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Prince Edward Island — Robert Campbell (L—1st Prince) said he was opposed to a bill that would ban the use of pop top lifters containing sodium arsenate.

"At present we haven't anything on the market to take its place," he said.

L'ADERS CLASH

New Brunswick — Premier Robichaud and Opposition Leader C. B. Sherwood clashed when a motion asking for all correspondence, reports and documents dealing with the sale of power from Hamilton Falls in Labrador was defeated in a voice vote.

Quebec — After making five amendments, the legislative council passed the government's education bill establishing an education department by a vote of 15-3.

Ontario — Donald MacDonald (L—York West) memorials Party, proposed that brewers and distillers should put $1 into an alcoholic addition fund for every $1 they spend on advertising their products.

Manitoba — Gurney Evans, Industry Minister, said a new government program of on-the-job training is being developed.

SUGGESTS CHANGE

Saskatchewan — Allan Guy (L — Athabasca) said government programs in northern Saskatchewan have failed to bring about development and suggested the government allow private enterprise a greater part in the program.

Alberta — Premier Manning said plans for a provincial power office which would be available under contract to municipalities "could be switched without difficulty" if the RCMP started a similar force.

One of Most Famous, Bravest Of Britain's Second World War Secret Agents Dies

PARIS (Reuters) — Wing-Cmdr. Forest Yeo Thomas, 62, one of the most famous and bravest of Britain's Second World War secret agents, died at his home Tuesday, it was announced Wednesday.

Under the code name White Rabbit he helped organize the French resistance. He was parachuted into Nazi-held France three times before he was arrested by the Gestapo, tortured and condemned to death. He refused to give his captors any information.

Yeo Thomas held the George Cross and the Military Cross and was made a knight of the French Legion of Honor.

The citation for the George Cross said "He endured brutal treatment and torture without flinching and preserved the most amazing fortitude and devotion to duty through his service abroad during which he was under constant threat of death."

On a clandestine visit to occupied Paris in December 1943 he was betrayed and seized by the Gestapo when about to meet a fellow agent at a Paris subway station.

BEATEN FOR DAYS

For four days he was continually beaten, whipped, kicked and held by Gestapo interrogators in ice-cold water with arms and legs chained. Nonetheless he went on for two months. He twice attempted to escape.

For three weeks he was confined in darkness in an underground cell.

Recounting his experiences after the war, he said: "It was the only time I felt down-hearted. After four days I felt better and began singing songs including Turpentine.

"The Germans loathed that and the guards would open the door to hit me with a rifle butt. But it gave me a glimpse of light."

After four months in solitary confinement at Fresnes Yeo Thomas was sent to Buchenwald death camp in Germany as a "dangerous terrorist to be exterminated."

He "died" there in October 1944 with the connivance of a German overseer on whose behalf he later agreed to testify at the Buchenwald war crimes trials. He acquired the identity of a Frenchman named Chequet.

Then he was sent to a Jewish extermination camp at Rehmsdorf were out of 7,500 prisoners only 25 survived. His job was to carry the corpses out to a pile where he extracted the victims' gold teeth.

Yeo Thomas and some 20 others buried in the woods while being made to carry corpses. Yeo were shot and Yeo Thomas and the others headed for the Allied lines.

The Briton became delirious with lack of food and exhaustion, and had to be carried to the American lines by a party of Frenchmen who refused to leave him.

For some time before the war and after it Yeo Thomas was a director of Molyneux, the Paris dressmakers. He was representative of the Federation of British Industries in Paris since 1950.

Caouette's Party Speakers Sounding More and More Like Quebec Separatists

OTTAWA (CP) — The current throne speech debate in the Commons is pointing up a rapid transformation in the political thinking of Real Caouette's Ralliement Creditiste.

Creditiste speakers are sounding more and more like Quebec separatists. Day after day, they are warning that anti-"radical" changes are made in Ottawa Quebec will break away from Confederation.

At the same time, the Creditistes are gradually moving away from Social Credit economic theories on the "creation of capital" and stressing social reforms as their main goal.

Mr. Caouette first began talking about a possible alliance between the Ralliement and the separatist movement last August, and his group's drift toward separatism began picking up speed amonth ago.

A private meeting of 400 Creditiste delegates in Montreal Jan. 25-26 passed a resolution favoring the formation of a provincial Creditiste party and a separatist program in two years unless four key changes were made in the constitution of Canada in the meantime.

CALL FOR CONTROL

The Creditistes called for "absolute control" by the Quebec government over currency, trade, immigration and all direct and indirect taxes collected in the province.

Many political observers commented that if all four changes were made, Quebec would be practically independent in any case.

Mr. Caouette told a press conference after the Montreal meeting:

"That's the ultimatum. If we don't get that, we're definite. Bang! It's all over. We get out

Saskatchewan and Manitoba have shown interest in such a force, he said, but they have conferred with the RCMP and the minister of justice about it.

"All three provinces are interested because of the training programs, facilities and prestige of the RCMP," added the Premier.

British Columbia — Alfred Macfarlane (L — Oak Bay) charged that money British Columbia will receive under the Columbia River Treaty will be used to finance construction of the northern Peace River power project.

Premier Bennett replied that he was not prepared to say that "the best use . . . there is for better use than hydro."

Labor Party Speakers Sounding More and More Like Quebec Separatists

OTTAWA (CP) — The current throne speech debate in the Commons is pointing up a rapid transformation in the political thinking of Real Caouette's Ralliement Creditiste.

Creditiste speakers are sounding more and more like Quebec separatists. Day after day, they are warning that anti-"radical" changes are made in Ottawa Quebec will break away from Confederation."

The Rouyn, Que., car dealer followed the same line in the Commons Friday. He said Quebec should get 100 per cent of all direct taxes levied in the province and criticized Premier Jean Lesage for not going as far.

"We . . . shall not be a party to the enslavement of Quebec by the central authority," he said.

In a Commons speech Monday, Creditiste House Leader Gilbert Grenier went further. He said the present federal-provincial relationship "can no longer exist."

SEES DISCRIMINATION

Most federal laws discriminated against Quebec and the province needed "self - government." He called for "two inward separate states with equal powers."

Federal powers should be limited to defence, external affairs, the post office and a few other shared services, he said.

"Let us discuss and find a solution as soon as possible before we are forced to accept one that we dislike."

Gerard Gauthier (Beauce) continued the theme, calling for radical and daring constitutional reforms. "Or we will be the Negroes of America," he said.

Gilbert Rondeau (Shefford) said Tuesday that "a national divorce" threatens Confederation.

"The union of the two nations in 1867 is on the verge of collapse . . . It is now time for action and for achievements before 1967, otherwise Canada will bring about its own downfall."

BLAMES ECONOMICS

Raymond Langlois (Megantic) said Wednesday that the strain on national unity is primarily caused by economic factors. Rural Quebec was a declining area and the federal government was doing nothing to correct the situation.

Quebec MPs speaking to other parties have accused the Creditistes of extremism, dangerous irresponsibility and demagoguery. They generally agreed that the great majority of Quebec residents oppose separatism.

Even the Creditistes' grassroots supporters oppose separatism.

A poll of 5,000 party members across Quebec was taken last fall by the Creditistes executive. To the question, "Should the provincial Creditiste party be completely separatist?" 65 per cent replied no, 34 per cent yes and 1 per cent were undecided.

Saint John Boy Breaking In Skates With Artificial Leg

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—A determined nine-year-old Saint John boy is breaking in a new hockey outfit this winter, at six a good many other youngsters his age.

But Harold Roberts exhibits an extra measure of courage in playing such rough-and-tumble sports as hockey. He has an artificial leg.

The plucky lad, who says he isn't worried about the future despite his handicap, lost his left leg below the knee two years ago in a train mishap.

Then seven years old, he dragged himself almost two blocks to the home of a practical nurse, mother of a playmate, after he tried to jump on a moving train near his home.

His spirit made a deep impression on the people of Saint John and they established a fund to help pay for his education.

Fitted with an artificial leg at the local veterans' hospital, Harold took only a short time to become accustomed to it before he was out romping, climbing trees and riding a bicycle.

In the winter it was skating and other activities that brought the boy to the attention of officials of War Amputations of Canada When their annual convention was held here last September. Harold was chosen to symbolize the organization's efforts to help civilians.

The only worry Harold confesses now is how to get into a hockey league for regular play.

Ten Rules of Boating Safety Keep Owners Out of Trouble

By JACK FAWKES

PICTON (Staff) — With the nearly zero weather we are getting here in Picton—plus a foot of ice and snow on the Bay of Quinte—it hardly seems the time to start talking of boating, but for all of the people in Canada, who are busy learning the ins and outs of boating at the hundreds of Power Squadron courses offered, this might be the time to do some brushing up on the course.

A review of "Safety Afloat" might be in order at this time. I was talking to a boater only this morning who wanted a boat but also wanted diesel engines, so he was horrified at the thought of an explosion which had happened in gasoline-powered boats.

While we cannot but agree with our friend that there have been explosions from gas fumes, still, if the ten rules of boating safety are followed when re-fuelling, much of this danger will be eliminated.

The ten rules for re-fuelling are sensible, and must be followed. These are not laws, but are common sense, ;

Take portable tanks ashore (this one is disregarded hundreds of times each season)—no smoking—boat securely moored—all hatches and doors closed—no electrical switches of any kind turned on—extinguish all open flames—all passengers ashore—hold nozzle firmly against filler pipe, don't overfill the tanks—if you do wipe up spillage immediately.

It is much safer to take a little less gas and avoid the chance of overfilling a tank.

Then—ventilate — ventilate —ventilate—make sure that all fumes and traces of fumes have left before starting engines. Remember gasoline fumes always go down, and sometimes it is necessary to ventilate for as high as thirty minutes, before it is safe to leave the dock.

As on any highway, safety on the water depends on knowledge and observance of the rules, and above all, care, courtesy and common sense, in that order.

In our next lesson we will study the rules of procedure on "man overboard," a drill that every person who operates a boat should know and practise. You never know when this knowledge will save a life.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Belleville's quartet of minor hockey representatives in the recent Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns with Kingston did not bring the city any first-round laurel wreaths but it did prove the youngsters were fine representatives of the city.

The youngsters, representing juvenile, midget, bantam and pewee classifications although beaten by better teams on the two-games goals-to-count series, played hockey "as it should be played."

They played like the fine young sportsmen they are, going out there full of desire and spirit and the fact they did not come through with victories left no blots on their hockey escutcheons.

Some of the youngsters, particularly the gallant little pewees, took the defeat to heart. They went to Kingston with a goal lead but failed to hold it and came out on the short end of the round score. They played their hearts out, and I'm told there were tears in some of the young fellows' eyes after the final whistle.

What was prominent in the series was the clean, sportsmanlike manner in which all teams conducted themselves, both on and off the ice. And that goes for coaches, managers and other officials connected with the clubs. They were just as much a credit to their young proteges as the youngsters were to them.

If you want any further evidence look at the summaries of the games.

Penalties were scarcer than the proverbial hen's molars. The scanty few called were of the ball-run variety, those things that always happen yet are not of a deliberate nature.

And that leaves a pleasant taste in the mouths of us who are accustomed to reading of brawls, battles, referee-belting, and other unsportsmanlike actions that too often clutter up accounts of hockey games.

Parents, club officials and the city, too, for that matter, can well be proud of these youngsters who although defeated, took their setbacks with exceptional good grace and proved themselves a credit to their clubs, themselves, and all associated with them.

It is too bad, perhaps, that more people do not avail themselves of the opportunity to see these youngsters in hockey action. They take their popular winter sport as seriously as Dad takes his income tax return. In the main they play the game for the game's sake with victory the target and defeat not torn apart by alibis.

Some of them provide problems for coaches but these are greatly in the minority and any youngster who shows signs of poor sportsmanship, stick-wielding or deliberate intention to win at any cost, usually finds himself relegated to the spectator benches.

I happened to be "around" the other morning when the peewees all-stars were presented with jackets by their sponsor, Mr. Walter MacCormack. There was pleasure, pride and appreciation in the shining eyes of the boys as they modestly received the crested gifts. And they were effusive with their thanks.

"The boys deserved them," Mr. MacCormack told me." It was a pleasure to sponsor them and help them out."

Coach Lionel Botly and assistant coach Paul Wall, echoed their sentiments as did manager Clare Paxman. And it was a proud galaxy of young puckchasers who boarded the bus later to do battle with their Kingston counterparts.

They met with defeat, as was noted, but it was an appreciative quartet of team officials who said: "The boys gave their best. Who could ask for more. We are proud of them."

Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge, who turned in his third straight shutout against Toronto and sixth of the season as the Canadiens blanked the Maple Leafs 1-0.

Wonder, what Toronto would give up for Charlie Hodge?

The Maple Leafs traded away five players to acquire Andy Bathgate and Don McKenney from New York and they might be persuaded to part with several more valuables for Hodge.

Although the Leafs don't urgently need a goaltender, the fact that durable Charlie would be removed from the Montreal Canadiens nets could justify such a deal.

Hodge has been Toronto's nemesis this season and if the downfall of the Leafs in the second half of the National Hockey League schedule could be blamed on one player it would be little Charlie. Scouts are fetched, but he's been that good.

Hodge shutout the Leafs on 29 saves in the only NHL game played Wednesday night as the Canadiens moved into sole possession of first place with a 1-0 victory on Bernie Geoffrion's second-period goal.

BLANKS LEAFS AGAIN

It marked the third straight game that the economy-size netminder has blanked the Leafs and the fourth time in five games. The Leafs haven't beat him since Jan. 29—or 317 minutes and 55 seconds ago, to be exact.

He couldn't have made it, however, without the help of the Leafs, who missed open nets, shot wide and bounced pucks off the goalposts three times to keep the scoring drought intact. Hodge admitted as much in the dressing room.

"I'm lucky too," he conceded.

Coach Toe Blake, whose team now is two points in front of Chicago and still holds a game in hand, was elated: "It was a hell of a game."

But Geoffrion, whose 17th goal of the season (despite missing 15 games with injuries) turned out to be his eighth winning marker of the campaign, was pale and morose. A severe throat injury suffered in January and influenza was bothering him.

"I don't feel very good," said the Bomber, taken out momentarily in the second period when Blake feared he'd faint with nausea.

CAN'T HIT TARGET

Geoffrion's tally spiked an uprising by the Leafs, who were badly outplayed in the first period but came on with a rush early in the second, just missing when both Ron Stewart and George Armstrong hit the post —Armstrong for the second time.

Jean Beliveau set up the goal, passing out from behind the net. It was the only game of 41 shots that beleaguered Leaf goalie Johnny Bower missed.

Leaf coach Punch Imlach, who put Bathgate on a line with Billy Harris and Eddie Shack in a desperation move to score in the third period just shrugged: "That's life."

The Canadiens may have to surrender a share of the top spot tonight. Montreal and Toronto are idle while the Hawks host the red-hot Detroit Red Wings and New York visits Boston.

BC Rink Win Away From Title

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP)—Four confident housewives from Kimberley, B.C., needed only one victory in their two remaining matches today to win their second Canadian women's curling championship in three years.

Manitoba, one of three rinks with an outside chance of catching Ina Hansen's unbeaten B.C. crew, faced the leaders in the day's first round in a match that could sew up the title then and there.

If Myrtle McGregor's Carmen foursome succeeded in snapping B.C.'s seven - game winning streak, Mrs. Hansen still had a chance to wrap it up against New Brunswick in the windup of the round-robin competition later.

The other rinks with a faint hope of forcing a playoff Friday by trying B.C. for first place were Alberta and Nova Scotia, whose 5-3 won - lost records matched Manitoba's.

Well out of the running with 2-6 records were New Brunswick, Ontario and Saskatchewan. Prince Edward Island and Quebec had two victories to show for seven starts while Newfoundland was winless.

RUNS INTO FIGHT

Mrs. Hansen, with vice-skip Ada Calles, second Isabel Leith and lead May Shaw, ran into her first real competition of the week Thursday. After doubling the P.E.I. rink 13-4, she needed three in the last end to nip Saskatchewan 9-7 and a timely double takeout to subdue Alberta 8-4.

Myrs Snow's Halifax quartet, bouncing back gamely after two defeats in its first three matches matched the leaders by defeating New Brunswick 6-5, Newfoundland 8-6 and Quebec 13-7.

Manitoba, the only third triple winner, did it more comfortably. The McGregor rink thumped Ontario 10-5, Prince Edward Island 12-4 and New Brunswick 10-8.

Mickey Down's Dawson Creek, B.C., rink, which represents Alberta, held its share of second place by bombing Saskatchewan 15-3 and topping New Brunswick 10-6 before losing to

Thinks Major Leagues Ready For Negro Manager

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jackie Robinson thinks major league baseball may be ready for a Negro manager.

"This talk about white players not listening to a Negro manager is a lot of bunk," the former Brooklyn Dodgers' star said Wednesday.

"When I was on the Dodgers, we helped each other," he said. "Everyone wants to play on a winning team and to make as much as possible out of the game."

Robinson is in Baltimore to attend a convention of the National Council of Churches. He is the newly-elected president of the United Churchmen, a unit of the council.

"I have never been offered a job as a major league coach or manager, and I do not expect to return to baseball," Robinson added in speaking of the Baltimore Sports Reporters Association.

Robinson, the first Negro to play major league baseball, conceded that the time was not right for a Negro manager when he retired as a player in 1957. But he ticked off the names of players who might be considered managerial prospects now—Elston Howard, Junior Gilliam, Bill White, Ernie Banks and others.

As for himself, Robinson said he wouldn't consider a coaching position. He indicated he had a feeler for some sort of job with the Houston Colts a couple of seasons back," but "it wasn't concrete — they didn't follow through."

Bulldogs Beaten By Maroons 7-2

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons snapped a three-game winless string with a 5-2 International Hockey League victory over Windsor Bulldogs Wednesday, renewing a bid for the fourth and final playoff spot.

Bob Regis sparked the Maroons' drive with a goal and two assists. Joe Malo, Bob Seymour, Bill Degurse and Frank St. Marseille got the other goals.

Rich Brown and Jack Costello were the only Bulldogs to beat Maroon goalie Al Bennett, who turned aside 25 shots. Wayne Rutledge in the Windsor nets stopped 29.

The win moved Chatham to within nine points of fourth-place Windsor.

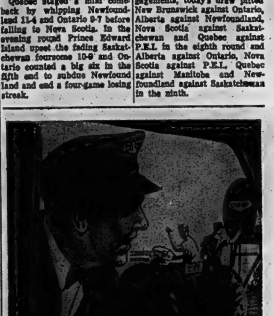
Quebec staged a mild comeback by whipping Newfoundland 11-4 and Ontario 9-7 before falling to Nova Scotia. In the evening round Prince Edward Island upset the fading Saskatchewan foursome 10-9 and Ontario counted a big six in the fifth end to subdue Newfoundland and end a four-game losing streak.

Apart from B.C.'s closing engagements, today's three pitted New Brunswick against Ontario, Alberta against Newfoundland, Nova Scotia against Saskatchewan and Quebec against P.E.I. in the eighth round and Alberta against Ontario, Nova Scotia against P.E.I., Quebec against Manitoba and Newfoundland against Saskatchewan in the ninth.

Napanee Jrs. Blank Trenton

Napanee Red Wings blanked Trenton 7-0 in Trenton last night to move within one game of a spot in the OHA Eastern Junior "C" group finals.



Red Wings lead the three-of-five series two games to none and the next game is scheduled for Napanee on Monday night.

Picton Marchants, who lead Gananoque 2-0 in the other half of the semi-finals, play host to the Islanders in Picton tonight at 8.30.

Napanee and Picton, finishing one-two in league standings, can continue their battle in group finals with one more semi-final win apiece.

Liston, Fight Cleared By Commission

Clay Almost Quit

By MURRAY ROSE

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Visions of million-dollar purses danced in Cassius Clay's head today as he looked ahead to a bright fistic future and more chances to upset the alleged experts.

The newly - crowned heavyweight champion has an army hitch in view and possibly title fights with the dishonored and defeated Sonny Liston, Doug Jones, Eddie Machen and Floyd Patterson, among others.

Despite his all-conquering record and his conquest of the Big Bear on a seventh-round technical knockout Tuesday, the chances are that nimble Cassius wouldn't rate better than even money with any of them. He was a 7-to-1 long shot against Liston.

Thus there were possibilities of huge live gates as well as multi - million - dollar closed-circuit telecasts for his future fights.

These depend, of course, on his service status. Bill Faversham, the manager of record for the 11-man Kentucky syndicate, businessmen that controls Clay, explained the situation:

IS DEFERRED

"The selective service people deferred Cassius until after the fight and until he has sufficient time to put his affairs in order," he said. "After he takes a vacation, he and I will sit down and talk about whether it would be advisable to go into the reserves and serve six months with publicity service or go into the army for two years."

In either case, Clay's title would be put on the ice for him until his return.

Meanwhile Liston, his injured left arm in a sling, prepared to leave for his home in Denver.

The 30-year-old ex-champion and the fight itself were cleared by the Miami Beach boxing commission Wednesday.

Eight doctors, including Dr. Lester Rasnin, a prominent orthopedic specialist, said Liston had suffered a torn muscle in his left shoulder and would not have been able to defend himself if he had continued after the sixth round.

NOTHING'S WRONG

Morris Klein, chairman of the commission, said that in view of the report the commissioners were satisfied there was "no wrong doing" and advised the promoters that Liston's $700,000 gate purse could be released.

"The people got a good run for their money and a good fight," he said.

He said the commission would turn over the medical reports as requested by Richard Gerstein, state attorney in Dade County.

Gerstein said he had no complaints and no evidence that the fight was not completely regular but wanted the reports studied by official doctors to determine if there was any basis for action by his office.

Liston, wearing dark glasses to cover puffed eyes and the cut under his left eye, said he suffered his injury in the first round.

"I felt something snap when I missed a punch," he said. "From the first round on I fought with one hand. When I threw my left the whole glove felt like it was full of water. When I raised my arm it felt like I had lead in my glove.

MADE MISTAKE

"I made a mistake in the first round. I threw too many wild punches. I shouldn't have gone out there and thrown everything in the first round. I was talkathons, at his press conference.

He disclosed he wanted to quit before the fifth round because something was in his eyes. It caused him to blink through most of the round.

"You can't tell me they (Liston's group) didn't try something," said Clay. "It burned my eyes and I couldn't see. I told Angie (trainer Angelo Dundee) to cut off my gloves.

"I didn't want to go out there just to get knocked out. I'd rather quit at the end of the fourth than have them say I made some excuse when I lost. I think he (Liston) had some liniment or grease on his gloves."

But Clay said Dundee refused to let him quit.

Dundee said Cassius' eye trouble probably was caused by dirt on the gloves.

"They wouldn't stoop to such a thing," said the trusting trainer.

'No-Stars' Edge Firemen

A crowd of 500 watched the Kingston CKWS "No-Stars" score four goals in a row to edge the, Belleville Fire Department 7-6 in a charity hockey game at Memorial Arena last night.

Proceeds from the game were divided between the "No-Stars" Operation Pennies and the Fire Department's project, a proposed youth centre in Belleville.

Clowning their way through most of the evening, the "No-Stars" finally came to life in the game's last ten minutes to pull out the narrow victory.

The clubs played to a 2-2 draw to the opening heat and the fire-fighters triggered three without a reply in the middle frame for a 5-2 lead.

In the third, Udall got one for Kingston and Christopher regained Belleville's three-goal lead at 2.48.

A rarely-called penalty shot at 9.30 ignited the "No-Stars" rally. Playing coach (?) Max Jackson, visiting the Belleville arena for the first time in five years, took the free shot and somehow managed to park the puck behind goalie Glen Emerson.

The Stars apparently felt that if Jackson could score, so could everyone else. Chief-clown Gerry Tinlin made it 6-5 at 13.30. Acland tied it at 15.45 and Watts scored the winning goal on a solo effort with just 45 seconds left in the game.

Back in the opening period, Pat Barrett and Fred Smith gave the Firemen a 2-0 lead, each assisting on the other's goal. Steve Watts got that pair back for Kingston before the period's end.

Lyle Wannamaker, at 1.00, aided by Smith, Harry Danford and on a solo effort at 14.33, and George Woodhouse, helped by Stan Fryke at 19.50 opened up the 5-3 lead in the second. Fapke also had an assist on Reg Christopher's goal in the third, but that was it for the Stu Muirhead-coached Firemen.

There were six penalties called for such "nine" as "piling on," "spearing the referee," "tripping a cripple" and "raising the puck."

Junior "B" players Jim Rutherford and Gerry Jones handled the officiating duties.

The teams:

Kingston "No-Stars" — L. Lawson, B. Thompson, K. McIlroy, V. Phillips, D. Sparks, D. Acland, S. Watts, C. Udall, L. Sheppard, J. Hofstetter, G. Tinlin and C. Davies.

Belleville Fire Dept. — G. Emerson, G. Woodhouse, P. Barrett, R. Diamond, S. Fapke, L. Wannamaker, B. Lake, H. Danford, R. Christopher, B. Hackett, G. Parks, G. Miller.

The Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jean Beliveau hasn't lost sight of the $1,000 pot of gold at the end of the National Hockey League rainbow.

The towering Montreal Canadiens centre hasn't conceded anything to Chicago's Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull—the forerunners in the race for the NHL scoring title and its big cash prize. He's staying within passing range.

Beliveau picked up an assist Wednesday night — setting up Bernie Geoffrion's goal in Montreal's 1-0 win over Toronto—to move within five points of Mikita and two behind Hull. It was his 47th assist, tops in the league.

Mikita, whose team was idle, has 75 points and Hull 72 while Beliveau remains in contention at 70. Big Jean is idle tonight while the Chicago stars play, but the Canadiens sparkplug will still hold two games in hand.

The leaders:

Hagerman had 19 goals and 17 points for 36 points and Muirhead, although playing only 13 of his club's 24 games, scored 18 goals and assisted on 18 more. Bob Boyle was next in line with 28 points, gathered in 14 games. Brother Bill and Hagerman both played in 22 games.

Ted Rowland was the top scoring defenceman, with 14 points, and topped the club in penalty minutes with 85, three more than Ed Mahon.

Bob Moon, regular goalie, had a 3.20 goals-against average in 20 games.

The team as a whole won seven games, tied two and lost 15 for 16 points, scoring 101 goals and allowing 122.

BEATS OWN RECORD

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Vladimir Berlisov, 25-year-old Russian weight lifter, improved his own world record for the middle-heavyweight snatch with a lift of 322½ pounds Wednesday. This was 4½ pounds better than his old record.

B's Meet Petes In Semi-Finals

An OHA sub-committee meeting late yesterday afternoon has switched the Eastern Junior "B" Hockey league playoff picture back to its original form.

The committee stepped in and ruled that Kingston and Peterborough interlocking games with the Toronto Metro league teams should do count in the standings.

As a result, Kingston finishes first, Peterborough second and Belleville third.

Kingston draws a bye into the group finals and Peterborough must now beat Belleville in the semi-finals, the length of the series to be decided.

The series will open in Peterborough on Monday night, with the second back here on Friday, March 6. Remaining dates have not been announced.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

Chasing an opponent behind his net is risky enough when aides are even. It's even more dangerous when you're short-handed. Yet you'll see rookies try it and get tricked by an old veteran.

Often a youngster, in his eagerness to check the puck carrier will dart in at full speed at the man with the puck behind the net. The latter is waiting for his own players to get in position.

Or he may have the puck just to one side of the net. When the youngster darts in, all it takes is a shake of the head to get by him. Or one simple little pass.

When a wily veteran gets somebody who is a little green and likes to take big runs at him, the veteran will use his bag of tricks to full advantage.

For instance, the veteran will even set himself up for a body check when the youngster comes at him with what will give with him. Or he gets a piece of him and takes him down with him.

That makes the youngster's side one man shorter yet, so when they move in, they have a little more room to throw the puck around.

Again, when the youngster goes in behind the net while he's helping kill a penalty, he's using up a lot of energy.

Usually the puck has been iced by the defending side. So when he goes in front the blue line to the net, that's 60 feet. Because he uses a step behind the puck carrier who passed it ahead, he's got 60 feet more to go to get back in the play.

The smart way is to dart in after the puck carrier but slow up when you get within six or eight feet of him, try to anticipate his moves. This will get him thinking and he may hesitate or make the wrong play and your effort will pay off.

Germans Eye 2nd Gold Medal

DORTMUND (CP-AP)—West Germany seeks its second gold medal at the 1964 world figure skating championships tonight when Wolfgang Schnelldorfer tries to wrap up the men's singles crown.

The 20-year-old Munich student, who captured the Olympic title earlier this month at Innsbruck, carries a substantial lead from the compulsory figures into the free skating finals.

The figures count for 60 per cent of the title, while tonight's event makes up the remainder.

West Germany won the first gold medal of the competition Wednesday when Marika Kilius and Hans-Juergen Baeumler defeated their Soviet rivals for the pairs crown by a spectacular performance.

It was the second world title for the veteran German couple but they lost the Olympic title this month to Mudmilla Belousova and Oleg Protopopov of the Soviet Union, who placed second here.

CANADIANS THIRD

Third were the Canadian pair of Debbie Wilkes, 17, of Hamilton, Ont., and Guy Revell, 22, of Newmarket, Ont., who also finished third in the Olympics.

Earlier, Czechoslovakia's Eva and Pavel Roman moved toward their third straight ice dance championship with a unanimous victory in the compulsory ice dancing event which counts 60 per cent toward the title.

British dance champions Janet Sexbridge and David Hickinbottom and Canadian champions Paulette Doan and Ken Ormsby of Toronto were second and third, respectively, after the compulsory dances, but were rated only a slender chance to overhaul the Czech pair.

Carole Forrest and Kevin Letchbridge of Toronto were seventh. Marilyn Crawford and Blair Armitage of Ottawa were not among the top 10.

The two Canadians entered in the men's singles event were well back. Donal Knight of Dundas, Ont., was 10th and Dr. Charles Snelling of Welland, 13th.

Rangers Bow To St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minneapolis scored twice in the empty St. Paul goal during the final 30 seconds Wednesday to defeat the Rangers 4-1 in a Central Professional Hockey League game.

St. Paul trailed 3-1 and pulled goalie Marcel Pelletier with 47 seconds left in an effort to tie the score. The strategy backfired when J.-P. Parise and Moe Bartol scored successive goals for the Bruins.

BCI Seniors Win Opener

By DOUG BELLWOOD

BCI seniors came up with an important 57-51 victory over Moira in the first of two home and home games, with total points counting for the COSSA Quinte championship.

Moira took a slim 15-11 lead over BCI in the first quarter, on the superb shooting and rebounding of Bob Dunsmore.

At the end of the first half the game was all tied up at 22 all. Both teams played a careful game as close checking was predominant.

In the third quarter BCI took over in the scoring race with a 42-32 lead.

The final eight minutes was a real thriller as Moira cut down the BCI margin. Bob Dunsmore of Moira and Robert Williams of BCI had a terrific night as they both sank 17 points. Rick Graham of Moira and Murray Swan of BCI had an excellent night on the scoreboard, both getting 16 points.

MOIRA — Dunsmore 17, Graham 16, Pugh 6, Jury 6, Glen 4, McKibbon 2.

BCI — Williams 17, Swan 16, Adams 11, Anderson 8, Chick 3, Burley 2.

Plans To Be Perfect Gentleman

'Proved Point, Now Quit Talking'-Clay

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — One moment he is a raving, ranting maniac — stomping back and forth with a cane, his eyes glassy, his mouth pouring out words like water spilling over a broken dike.

The next moment he is a reluctant dragon, quiet and subdued, almost, speaking in tones hardly audible 10 feet away.

"I don't like to fight," he says. "I don't like to hurt people. I don't like to get hit. It do it just to make a living. I may retire."

The words have hardly left his lips when he bristles like a fighting cock and snaps:

"I can whip any man in the world. I'll fight two a night just to prove I'm right."

Thirty - six hours after he had left the fearsome, apparently unbeatable Sonny Liston a bleeding, battered hulk slumped in defeat on the corner stool, Clay continued to be an enigma.

Is he a charlatan and a hoax?

Or is he, as he so proudly claims himself, the boxing wizard of the age?

Is he an obnoxious, blabbering loudmouth, whistling past the grave yard to mask his own inadequacies? Or is he the golden boy, the hero on a white charger?

Cassius seems determined never to let anyone—not even his closest associates—know.

There is a faint suspicion that all of this is a big game to the handsome, 22-year-old descendant of a Kentucky runaway slave. He seems to get a puckish, even fiendish delight out of confounding the world.

"He is a terrific kid," says Clay's trainer, Angelo Dundee. "A perfect athlete, easy to handle, but no one really knows him. In public, he is loud and brash, but it's all an act. In private, he is a very serious, studious youngster.

"You wouldn't believe it, but he likes to read books. He will listen to music, good music, by the hour. He thinks a lot and he worries a lot about the welfare of his race and the start of the world."

On Tuesday at the pro-zoom weigh-in prior to his 15-round championship he left 300 onlookers in a state of near shock.

WAS LIKE MADMAN

While his retinue of odd friends carried banners and screamed slogans, Cassius stormed over the stage like a madman. He banged his walking stick against the wooden floor. He bellowed insults and brandished a fist at his opponent.

He repeated over and over: "I am the king. I am the greatest. I can whip any man in the world. I float like a butterfly, sting like a bee, rumble, man, rumble."

It was a scary incident. Clay's eyes looked wild and almost dopey. Veins stuck out on his neck. He appeared to rant hysterically.

Calloused sports writers, witnesses to the unsettling scene, were awestruck. They whispered their alarm. This man isn't right, they said. He shouldn't be allowed in the ring.

The Miami Beach Boxing Commission fined him $2,500. The commission doctor reported ominously: "This boy is scared to death. He is emotionally unstable. He is burning away his energy at an alarming rate."

PULSE RAN AWAY

The doctor counted Cassius' pulse and found it a runaway 120, compared with a normal 54. This was a further sign of freezing fear, he said.

But two hours before fight time, his pulse was a sound 64. He showed absolutely no sign of fear as he toyed with the mighty Liston and finally slashed the champion into submission.

"It was just a game," Clay acknowledged later, in chiding the newspapermen. "You were too blind to see it."

On the day after the fight Cassius showed up for a scheduled post-bout interview. He wore a conservative brown tweed jacket and slacks. He carried no banners. His vocal entourage did not accompany him.

When he faced the reporters, his voice was low and modulated, so controlled that many of the men in the room couldn't hear his answers, even with the help of a microphone.

"I have proved my point, and now I have quit talking," Cassius said. "I am champion. I don't have to talk bold any more. I plan to be a perfect gentleman."

The press corps, weary at trying to keep pace with his antics, kept their fingers crossed.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

On The Dotted Line!

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandy Koufax, Mickey Mantle and Rocky Colavito are among about 100 players, many in the super-star category, remaining to be signed by major league baseball clubs before the ledgers on the annual ritual are closed.

Only about a week is left before the official spring training reporting date falls due for all players, but San Francisco Giants, Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Angels—and possibly the secretive Houston Colts — are the only teams with all their hands ready to play ball.

The Colts do not reveal how many of their players are signed, or unsigned, until March 1. They are the only club with such a policy. All other respondent to an Associated Press survey which today showed 95 players not signed.

Koufax, the sco left-hander of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, is the No. 1 item on the lengthy list. But he's only one of three key Dodgers still not signed. Shortstop Maury Wills and outfielder Frank Howard also are not yet under contract.

DRYSDALE SIGNS

Pitcher Don Drysdale signed Wednesday for a raise of $25,000, which puts him in the $70,000 class, a team spokesman said.

Mantle may be set to sign today at a press conference called by the Yankees, who Wednesday brought catcher Elston Howard into the fold. The American League's most valuable player signed for an estimated $60,000. Mantle, probably up for $100,000 is one of nine unsigned Yankees.

St. Louis Cardinals, who still have 10 to sign, eased their problem somewhat by signing shortstop Dick Groat for around $45,000.

Colavito, acquired from Detroit in a trade, is one of 13 Kansas City A's remaining to be signed. The only other slug with that large a numerical headache is Washington.

St. Louis has the most unsigned in the National League, followed by Philadelphia with nine.

The Giants completed their roster with the signing Wednesday of pitcher Juan Marichal. The right-hander received a reported $40,000, a raise of $15,000.

Gentleman's Club in N.Y. Toured for TV Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Chronicle, usually the relief show for CBS Reports once a month, is most often a delightful oasis of network television. It is a spot that gives the viewer a chance to enjoy a small view, an amusing situation or an interesting group.

Wednesday night's half hour show was no exception—an informal tour of a famous gentleman's club in New York City called The Players, founded 70 years ago by the great actor Edwin Booth and with an illustrious membership of artists, writers and, of course, actors.

We wandered past paintings by Sargent, looked at a skull Booth used in Hamlet and a dagger John Barrymore carried later in his version of the same role.

But the most engaging portion was a session in the club's famous Cornercafe in the venerable club, of course. And it sold me.

Friday Night's CBS Twilight Zone episode called An Occurence at Owl Creek Bridge is a short French film which has won a Cannes film festival award and is nominated for an Oscar. Rod Serling purchased rights to broadcast the film, based on an Ambrose Bierce story, the first time his series has purchased outside sources for completed material.

Recommended Tonight: Suspense Theatre, NBC, 10-11 EST—Kathy Crosby and Cornel Wilde in Doesn't Anyone know who I am?" about an amnesia victim.

Marshall Retains A.L. Lead

CLEVELAND (AP) — Willie Marshall of Providence Reds scored five points last night as three of them in a game against Rochester Americans, to maintain the lead in the American Hockey League scoring race.

The 32-year-old centre had tallied 68 points in games through Sunday to hold a two-point edge over Fred Glover, playing coach of Cleveland Barons.

Three players are tied for third at 63 points — Gerry Ehman and Bronco Horvath of Rochester and Cleland Mortson of Quebec Aces.

Yves Locas of Pittsburgh Hornets still leads in goals scored with 34, although he has failed to score since Feb. 9. Mike Nykoluk of Hershey Bears assisted on four goals during the week to boost his league - leading assist total to 52.

A tight race is developing for goaltending honors, with Roger Crozier of Pittsburgh, the leader, having yielded 20 goals in his last four games. Crozier has allowed an average of 2.57 goals per game to hold a narrow lead over Lorne Worsley of Quebec Aces and Les Binkley of Cleveland. Worsley, whose four assists tops the list, has a 2.72 average and Binkley 2.73.

Manchester Whips Lisbon

CP from AP-Reuters

MANCHESTER — Manchester United defeated Sporting Club of Lisbon, Portugal, 4-1 Wednesday in the first leg of a European Cup winners' Soccer Cup quarter-final.

Inside-left Denis Law, former star of Torinto of Italy, scored three of Manchester's goals. The English team led 2-0 at half-time.

The second leg is scheduled for next Wednesday in Lisbon. The winner on goals aggregate after the two games will go into the semi-finals.

It was a scrappy, robust game with both sides missing chances. The Reds had more goals rejected from second half penalties. Bobby Charlton, scored the fourth Manchester goal.

In another game, Glasgow Celtic of Scotland defeated Slovan Bratislava of Czechoslovakia 1-0 in the first leg of their quarter-final at Glasgow.

The teams were tied 0-0 at half-time.

At Belgrade, Inter of Milan beat Partizan of Belgrade 2-0 in their first quarter-final.

No Chance of Memorial Bldg. In P. E. I. Being White Elephant

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Moore, peripatetic Canadian Centennial mayor, made any suggestion that the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building in Charlottetown might be a theatrical white elephant.

If anything, he says, he's afraid too many people will want to attend the summer-long festival of Canadian arts that will open the $5,500,000 centre May 18.

"We're in the curious position of not needing to attract hundreds of thousands," Moore says.

Prince Edward Island has a population of 105,000 including 18,000 in Charlottetown. The annual influx of tourists just about doubles the figures each summer.

"If there's a 25-per-cent rise in the number of tourists, that's it," says Moore. "We don't want to disappoint people."

Some Charlottetown residents have offered to take temporary roomers to aid the people of Stratford, Ont., when the Shakespearean Festival began there, Moore says, but that source of extra accommodation is not yet a sure thing.

BIG ADVANCE SALE

Moore, who is artistic director for the project, took time to summon it during a stopover in Toronto. He was in Charlottetown from October to early December when he left to organize the Spring Thaw revue tours and to direct Julius Caesar in Vancouver.

In Toronto he fulfilled a TV commitment and settled some contractual arrangements for the P.E.I. festival before heading back to Charlottetown.

"We haven't had to publicize the festival very widely," Moore says. "Since it started we've been kept busy answering requests for tickets and information."

The Dominion Drama Festival finals will be the opening event, and Moore says "the interest of the Islanders themselves is evidenced by the fact that in the history of the DDF there have never been so many tickets sold."

Displays of art, architecture, artifacts and books—contemporary and historical — will be part of the summer show. So will a centennial pageant July 15-18 and a special commemorative performance Aug. 1 recalling the first meeting of the Fathers of Confederation in 1864, three years before the Canadian union was forged.

COMEDY AND MUSIC

"To open the centre we have planned to hold a festival which attempts to get together the best Canadian representation in all of the performing arts, high and low brow," Moore says.

"There will be pianist Glenn Gould, Don Messer and his Islanders, the Canadian Opera Company and Best of Spring Thaw, the Barrow-in Trio of Montreal and Wayne and Shuster, The Halifax Neptune Theatre company will present a new Canadian play, John A. Beats the Devil.

"The events going on in Confederation centre are a small part of this summer," Moore adds. "Each island community is having a day of its own. The P.E.I. committee under Omer Ern Bichette is organizing the pageant and activities such as a lobster carnival and military tattoos."

As for the future, Moore says:

"We have three plans for using the centre once this summer is over but we aren't ready to make any announcements yet. There are already about 120 conventions booked, though, for this spring and summer.

"What will happen in the winter? Look at Stratford, it's doing all right without winter performances. Besides, there are travelling attractions that play Charlottetown all winter. And the Canadian Opera Company has longer engagements there than anywhere else outside Toronto."

NATIONAL PROJECT

Another side of the project is the money question, especially the cost of upkeep.

With each provincial government and Ottawa having put up 15 cents per capita to build the centre, each Canadian has a 30-cent investment in it. And while this summer's costs are being shouldered by P.E.I., a fund-raising campaign has been launched to furnish the centre with a collection of Canadiana and subsidize its operations in future.

Canada should have a national shrine and it's my hope that the smallest province should be burdened with its upkeep, says James Stewart, retired chairman of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and campaign finance chairman.

Stewart says some subscriptions have already been received and that he will carry the drive through the initial period. The cost will be about $175,000 a year, with P.E.I.'s government putting up one-quarter of this amount.

Lancers Win Over Warriors

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—University of Windsor Lancers weathered a strong second-half rally by University of Waterloo Warriors Wednesday to post a 79-76 victory in senior intercollegiate basketball action. It was Windsor's 11th straight win of the season.

Trailing 45-34 at the half, the Warriors came on strong in the second half and twice reduced the margin to two points.

The Lancers' strong bench was the big difference in the outcome. Ron Pritchard paced the winners with 18 points, followed by Ed Petry-kowski 17.

Jerry Raphael, top scorer in the league, sparked the Warriors with 33 points.

Second of Fleming Films Has Recovered Its Cost

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sean Connery, who plays secret agent James Bond on the screen, has a theory on why the Ian Fleming hero enjoyed great popularity in England.

He reasons that the English ego, battered by the war and the loss of empire, was salved by the portrayal of a country-man who faced international villains and voluptuous females with equal nonchalance.

Apparently the unwavering Bond continues to rule Britannia. United Artists gleefully reports that the second of the Fleming films, From Russia with Love, has already recovered its $1,850,000 cost in England.

So the North American receipts will be so much gravy, too—to fit Bond's delicate taste for dolcelaise.

No doubt the new film will repeat the success of Dr. No, a surprise hit of 1963. From Russia is the same kind of relentless entertainment, ingeniously gimmicked and outrageously plotted.

PLOT THICK, SICK

This time Agent 007 is sent to Istanbul to accommodate a beauteous secretary at the Russian consulate who will defect only to him. Only she isn't really defecting; she has been duped by a counter - counter-agent who—oh, forget it.

These films are really a throwback to the Saturday matinee serials that were a Hollywood staple for many a year. The formula is simple. Every few minutes, Bond is bottled in a tight or deadly situation. Will he get out? Of course. The only differences between these films and oldtime serials is that you don't have to wait until next Saturday to find out what happens.

The Bond picture has the advantages of modern design. The scenery (Venice, Turkey, the Balkans) is exotic and colorful. The sadism is laid on with a deft touch—death flights of gypsy girls a wide variety of garrottings, judo chops and other lethal devices, including a shoe-tee stiletto with 12-second poison.

And there is sex. A parade of leggy, loungerous beauties appears ready to surrender to Bond, and most do.

Not many actors could pull off such an improbable characterization, but Scotsman Connery manages. He provides the proper touch of virility and daring, leavened with a sizable amount of wit.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER

When a taxpayer who has been allowed the equivalent to married status; that is a total exemption of $4,000, gets married in the taxation year, they are sometimes at a loss as to what exemption they should claim.

If the taxpayer is a person who received the equivalent to married on a parent, and his wife had no income after marriage, then he should claim $1,000 on his wife and $500 for the parent. This plus his own exemption of $1,000 makes a total of $2,350.

Should his wife remain employed after the marriage for the year of marriage, he is allowed to retain the $1,000 exemption for the parent as he did previously. This applies to the year of marriage only. In the following years, should his wife still be employed, he would only be allowed $550 for the parent.

Should his wife earn less than $1,250, he is entitled to some exemption for her. He could claim the difference between the income and $1,250. It is up to the taxpayer to figure out his most advantageous claim.

If the taxpayer is a widower who has been getting an equivalent to married on a child, the same procedure as outlined above will apply. Never guess at your claim for exemptions. If you get correct information before mailing your return, it will save much inconvenience later on and expedite the receipt of your refund. If you live too far from an income tax office to contact them, write to or addressed to the writer in care of the newspaper in which you read the article will bring you correct information.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems please enclose a self-addressed five cent stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin for each question you wish answered.

Question: I have always supported my mother and claimed $1,000 exemption for her. I was married in 1963. Can I claim another $1,000 for my wife?

Answer: The $1,000 you were allowed on your mother was the equivalent to married status. Now that you are married, the claim for your mother can only be $550 as $1,000 will now be allowed for your wife. A taxpayer may only have one $1,000 exemption other than his own.

Question: I was married in January, 1963. My wife was killed in an accident in June. Can I claim any exemption for her.

Answer Yes. Claim $1,000 for her.

Britain May Quit Cyprus Unless UN Gives Help

Resolution Is Likely To Be Submitted Soon

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Diplomatic sources said today that there is some chance the UN Security Council will get a resolution this weekend to provide an international peace force and a mediator for the Cyprus crisis.

These sources expressed belief that the resolution, if it materializes, will eventually be adopted. They predicted that at least nine of the 11-council members would vote for it, the Soviet Union would abstain, and the 11th member—Czechoslovakia—would either abstain or go along with the majority.

The council was under new pressure from Britain, which indicated Thursday it would abandon the job of keeping peace on the turbulent east Mediterranean island if an international force did not take over from British troops soon.

Sir Patrick Dean, the chief British delegate, told the council: "It is neither helpful nor fitting for us to continue to carry out this thankless task if there is no prospect of an international force or steps toward an agreed solution of the problems of the republic."

WOULD CONTRIBUTE

Dean said, however, that Britain would be prepared to contribute to an international force.

Britain normally has a garrison of 2,000 men on Cyprus but has sent 5,000 more at the request of Cypriot President Makarios to enforce the cease-fire that ended the Christmas-time fighting between the Greek Cypriot majority and the Turkish-Cypriot minority.

The council was called another time this afternoon to hear Rauf Denktash, representing the Turkish-Cypriots.

The resolution to authorize the international force and a mediator was reported being prepared by five of the non-permanent members of the council—Bolivia, Brazil, the Ivory Coast, Morocco and Norway—who took the lead after private talks sponsored by UN Secretary-General U Thant ended in deadlock.

It is believed the resolution would:

1. Ask Thant to send an international peace-keeping force to Cyprus for three months, with the countries contributing troops also financing the force.

2. Ask Thant, in consultation with Cyprus, Britain, Greece and Turkey, to name a mediator for the constitutional dispute between the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots.

Canal Tolls Opposed By Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts Thursday called a decision to reimpose tolls on the Welland Canal a backward step and demanded the federal government reconsider its decision.

He said it was deplorable that Ontario was not consulted concerning the transport department's announced decision on the matter Dec. 23 last year.

"Tolls on the Welland Canal virtually affect every province in Canada, and in our opinion will be detrimental particularly to the people of the Western Provinces and many industrial concerns and trade unions in Ontario," he said.

The premier said the effect of the return of tolls in April this year can only weaken the usefulness of inland lakes as an instrument of expanding commerce and growth.

Tolls on the canal were first imposed over Ontario's objections in 1959 and then were stopped by order of Prime Minister Diefenbaker two days before the 1962 election.

WILL BE SAME

The tolls will remain what they were before they were stopped: two cents a great registered ton of vessel, two cents a ton for bulk cargo, and five cents a ton for packaged cargo. They fall short of meeting the canal's operating costs.

Canal users are concerned the tolls will be increased in 1965 to regain the $120,000,000 capital cost of twinning the canal by that time.

In Ottawa, Transport Minister Pickersgill promised Thursday to consider Ontario's new bid to scrap tolls on the canal between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

Told of Premier Robarts' statement, Mr. Pickersgill said:

"Naturally any representation from the government of Ontario on this matter will receive careful and early consideration. However, so far as I am aware, nothing as yet has been received from Premier Robarts by the government.

TO CUT BOARDS

Education Minister Davis announced measures to cut back drastically the number of rural elementary school boards and to provide for the payment of trustees in the province.

The minister introduced a bill in the legislature setting the township as the lowest level of school board administration. Effective Jan. 1, 1965, rural elementary school boards will be

Parkinson Has Devised New Law, Nationalized Firms Go Bankrupt

LONDON (CP) — Northcote Parkinson, the former history professor who titillated the world of finance with his "Parkinson's laws" has formulated a new theory. "All nationalized industries tend to go bankrupt."

His idea is that public ownership does not mean public control. What it really means is government by civil servants, for the Conservatives are almost as bad as the socialists.

Parkinson's newest "laws" were that expenditures rise to meet income and that work expands to fill the time available for its completion.

Parkinson, now a 54-year-old business consultant, in a recent address to the Aims of Industry, a group opposed to nationalization, advised the Conservatives that if they expect to launch an effective opposition to nationalization they had better get their own house in order....they should not offer private monopoly as an alternative to public monopoly, he said.

Pearson Answers Robarts

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has replied with a firm rebuttal to Ontario Premier Robarts' contention that the Canada pension plan is being developed too quickly, thus endangering existing pension and savings arrangements, and subsidizes those who need it least.

In a 1,400-word letter to Mr. Robarts mailed Tuesday and made public here Thursday, Mr. Pearson said it will be impossible to meet all the views of the provinces on all points in the plan.

He said the federal government believes the Canada Pension Plan as revised in January "has a good measure of support," and in the final analysis the federal government has to take responsibility for it.

In Toronto, a spokesman said Premier Robarts would have no comment on the letter.

Mr. Pearson earlier told the Commons he intends to introduce legislation for the plan before the March 31 opening of federal-provincial conference in Quebec City. Government sources here say it is likely Premier Robarts will ask for another round of talks on the pension plan at the Quebec meeting.

The original plan, introduced last session by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, was revised in January after last autumn's federal-provincial conference. Mr. Pearson took over personal direction of it when Miss LaMarsh bangled with Quebec in last September's provincial election.

FELL SHORT

Mr. Roberts wrote to Mr. Pearson Feb. 13 saying the revised plan still fell far short of what Ontario had hoped of it. Mr. Pearson's reply this week was a point-by-point analysis of Mr. Roberts' letter and, for the most part, a firm rebuttal of his arguments.

The two small points, however, the prime minister said the federal government is willing to restudy its position.

One of these was whether rules should be written into law now for the possibility of deferring future increase in contribution rates after the 10 years of operation. The other was whether a retirement test, requested by some provinces, is too formidable an administrative task to undertake.

Principal point in Mr. Pearson's reply was on the question of how rapidly the Canada Pension Plan should be brought to full maturity after its introduction. The federal government wants benefits to reach their full level 10 years after contri-

'Shop-in' Is Potent Weapon In Dispute on Discrimination

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Shopping baskets piled high with unpaid-for groceries are the newest weapon in use by civil rights demonstrators—the "shop-in."

Results: A falloff in business at supermarkets because demonstrators monopolize carts and jam checkout lines, angry shoppers and determined demonstrators.

In the shop-in, demonstrators enter a store, fill shopping carts with groceries, wheel them to the counter, have them checked out—then say they can't pay and leave the sacks and boxes piled in front of clerks.

Members of the Congress of Racial Equality began the tactic last week at supermarkets of Lucky Stores, Incorporated, in San Francisco, at cross-bay Berkeley, and at Palo Alto to the south.

They contend Lucky Stores didn't fulfill an agreement to hire additional Negroes. Lucky flatly denied it, pointed to its Negro employees and said it would have no part of "reverse discrimination."

Robert Feinel, manager of a San Francisco market, reported loss of perishables left in the front of his store was heavy, and confusion and lack of cash caused a decline in business.

French-Canadian War Dead Would Oppose Separatism -- Matheson

OTTAWA (CP)—War veteran John R. Matheson mustered the names of French Canada's war dead in the Commons Thursday and said that they be heard over the voices of separatism.

"These French-Canadians, my brothers, who have given everything they had . . . have got to have a say in this business too. How would they feel about a divided Canada?" he demanded.

The earnest Liberal MP from Ontario's Leeds constituency also rang in excerpts from the Bible, Shakespeare and Sir Wilfrid Laurier—and reminiscences of his boyhood days in Quebec City—in an urgent appeal for national unity.

At the end of his 20-minute speech, during which he skipped from English to French a dozen times, he was given a round of desk-banging applause from all parties.

The speech by the 45-year-old Brockville lawyer, a native of Arundel, Que., was an emotional one of a type rarely heard in the Commons.

A former artillery captain whose legs were crippled in action in Italy, he spoke of the several months he served with Quebec's Royal 22nd Regiment as "one of the greatest satisfactions of my life."

He told of the men of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal taken prisoner at Dieppe, who had refused special chocolate rations which the Germans gave to them but not to their English-speaking comrades.

"What would those veterans, who loved one another more than themselves, think of fracturing and separating Canada?"

"For my part, I cannot conceive of this country in any other form or structure than a Canada consisting also of the French people."

Will Probe Liston-Clay Fight Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee announced Thursday an investigation into whether Sonny Liston's boxing promotion corporation made a deal before Cassius Clay's upset defeat of the world heavyweight champion Tuesday to promote Clay's next fight.

Senator Philip A. Hart, (Dem.-Mich.) said the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee will conduct a "short set of hearings" into a newspaper report of such a deal.

Hart reiterated the statement he made Wednesday that he planned no investigation into the fight itself. But he said he had decided hearings might be held to determine whether a contract was made with Clay prior to the fight, held in Miami Beach, Fla.

Hart quoted a news story in Wednesday's Washington Post which said Gerald (Bill) Cherry, lawyer for Liston's intercontinental Promotions Inc., was saying that "while there was no rematch clause, intercontinental had purchased several rights to promote Clay's next bout by paying him $50,000."

The story quoted Cherry as adding that Liston would be the logical contender "and we have the right to name the challenger, the site and the date."

Cherry, who has offices near Philadelphia, said: "I'll save the senator the time and money for an investigation by confirming, positively, that the story is true."

He added: "We took a gamble. There was nothing illegal with it."

Liberals Weather 2 Votes

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority Liberal government weathered its third and fourth nonconfidence motions of the young parliamentary session Thursday—evading defeat by the slim close test with the help of 11 Social Credit votes.

The Creditistes, who in four attempts managed to get one non-confidence motion accepted, got support only briefly from Democrats in proposing that increased family allowances be tied to rising living costs.

The vote was 222 to 25.

Then, by 134 to 113, the Liberals, 11 Social Credit voters and two New Democrats beat back the Conservative motion that the Diefenbaker era be dated to students 16-18.

Supporting that proposition were 96 Conservatives, 14 NDP and 11 Creditiste.

No further non - confidence motions can be moved in the eight-day throne speech debate due to end Monday.

Liberals are outnumbered 136-129 by the combined opposition of 95 Conservatives, 17 NDP, 16 Creditiste and 11 Social Credit members.

LAST VOTE IS MONDAY

The last vote in this debate would be Monday on the main motion itself. Liberal Gordon Aiken and non-General Vanier for having read the outline of government legislation into the record at the opening of the session Feb. 18.

That might or might not be considered.

Former Conservative health minister Judy LaMarsh Monday said the party line on the move to increase family allowances for students, 16 to 18 years of age, was part of the campaign trail had favored an extension but now is indifferent.

He was accused by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) of hypocrisy in deploring the omission of the present government when his own Conservative administration had done nothing.

Immigration Minister Rene Tremblay said he hopes to introduce again this session a bill to create an Indian claims commission. The draft legislation now is being shown to Indian bands and provinces for comment.

Former transport minister Leon Balcer (PC—Trois-Rivieres) should be asked to submit the Canadian constitution to scrutiny in connection with a move with a new look to meet modern demands.

Lorne Saltsman (L—Halton), a medical doctor, recalled Liberal pledges for student loans and scholarships, fellowships, bursaries allowances to students and a medicare program.

Mr. Saltsman said only 25,000 out of 150,000 people who pay no benefits to nearly 15,000,000 of the population are receiving.

Health Minister LaMarsh told the Commons that the manufacturer of the anti - depressant drugs Parnate, Parstelin and Parstelin S2 had agreed to withdraw from general circulation. The drug was withdrawn earlier in the United States when authorities said a number of persons had died of strokes while using it.

Seek Gambler In Baker Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators got a fleeting look at Bobby Baker's career Thursday as the big-time gambling entrepreneurs Thursday and clamored for more.

U.S. marshals were sent out to look for a missing witness, Edward Levinson, who operates the Fremont Hotel and gambling casino in Las Vegas and who referred to Baker as his "friend in Washington."

Counsel for the Senate rules committee, which is investigating Baker's rapid rise to affluence while holding down an influential Senate job, said Levinson has been being one jump ahead of its subpoena servers.

Blame Brown For Leaving Clamp In Body

3 Recommendations Made by Coroner's Jury

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Kenneth A. Brown was held responsible by a coroner's jury Thursday for leaving a surgical clamp in the body of Patricia Morgan, 22, who died Nov. 4.

Bringing in its verdict at the conclusion of the four-day inquest, the five-man jury found that a "state of disorganization" existed during an Oct. 18 operation on Miss Morgan at Toronto East General Hospital and made three recommendations:

—All hospitals should institute procedures whereby all instruments and materials used in surgical operations are accounted for when the operations are completed. (This was not in effect at East General when the operation took place.)

—Individuals interested should have the right to secure preliminary and final autopsy reports and this right should be clearly outlined in law.

—The Coroners Act should be amended to insure prompt compliance of responsible parties.

FIXES DEATH CAUSE

The jury decided Miss Morgan's death was caused by an acute abdominal obstruction, which in turn was caused by the clamp becoming entangled in the bowels.

"We attribute death to misadventure," the jury said.

The jury found there must have been a difference of opinion in the operating room between Dr. Brown, 45, and Dr. T. Varga, senior resident.

Dr. Varga summoned Dr. Burns Newson, chief of surgery at East General to the operating room, the jury found. Dr. Plewes ordered the operations stopped and his instructions were followed.

Following the inquest, Dr. Morlon Shulman, chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, said:

"The purpose of this inquest was to prevent similar tragedies ever occurring again in this city. I will succeed if it produces two results:

"In the future, I am sure, Toronto hospitals will no longer tolerate the activity of any surgeon who is less than completely competent.

SHOULD HAVE COUNT

"And the need for an instrument count for operations has been shown and this should be universally adopted."

Mr. Ian Sherman who insisted the inquest be called. It was ordered by Attorney-General Yves Casa on the recommendation of a coroner's jury at the hospital Nov. 4 was brought to the attention.

In his instructions to the jury, Coroner Gerald Blanchet

Despite Restrictive Legislation Thomson Has Finger in Aussie TV

LONDON (CP) — Roy Thomson has carved out a small slice in Australian television, it was learned today.

The Canadian newspaper publisher has a shareholding in Swan Television Limited, which has been granted a third licence to operate a TV station in Perth, Australia's fifth city.

Under Australian law, no foreign company is allowed to own more than 15 per cent of the shares in such a station. But at Thomson House in London today the publishing view was that the main thing is that Thomson now is "in" Australian TV, regardless of the conditions.

A Thomson team, consisting of project director and technical men, will leave London within a week or so to advise on the setting up of the station, expected to be in operation about a year from now. It will be the second commercial channel in Perth, a booming city in western Australia.

Swan Television is largely composed of prominent Western Australian businessmen and they will draw largely on advice from the Thomson group with its considerable international experience in the television field.

In other developments today, it was learned that Thomson plans to continue with his bid for The Dominion, a morning newspaper in Wellington, New Zealand, despite opposition from the New Zealand government; and that negotiations are nearing completion for the Thomson group, to run a newspaper in Liberia on behalf of the Liberian government.

Favreau, Hellyer On Hot Seat

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Guy Favreau joined Defence Minister Paul Hellyer in the Commons hot seat Thursday.

The Progressive Conservatives criticized both ministers for their handling of security measures in light of what Gordon Aiken (PC— Parry Sound-Muskoka) described as the arming by subversive elements in Canada for "some type of uprising."

Mr. Hellyer said the government has taken "all appropriate steps so far."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker interjected: "What are they? Pick up the boy scouts."

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) said the life of the Queen, who will visit Canada in October, has been threatened and asked whether Mr. Favreau will instruct his officials to cause a charge to be laid against Queen-be separatist leader Dr. Marcel Chaput.

QUOTES CHAPUT

Mr. Nielsen quoted Dr. Chaput as saying in Toronto Monday: "Some of my own people are ready to let her (the Queen) know, and brutally, that she is no longer welcome in French Canada."

"Are these not words which are clearly intended to disrupt the tranquility of the state and contribute to disorder in Canada?" Mr. Nielsen asked.

Mr. Favreau said Attorney-General Casa of Ontario was "looking into" whether the matter came under federal or provincial jurisdiction.

Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) asked, formerly, the minister of justice must assume some responsibility for the admission of the Queen in Canada."

"It may be that the group over there (Liberals) has no respect for the Crown in Great Britain or the Crown in Canada, but we on this side have respect for it," Mr. Woolliams said. "It may be that they have no respect for the rule of law or for the constitution of the country."

Mr. Favreau said he would be out of order if he replied.

QUEEN INVITED

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Queen had been invited to Canada by the Canadian government. He then asked:

"Has the minister of justice,

Plans are continuing for the mid-March Jamboree when the "Swingin S's" will play host to entertaining a square dance group from Toronto's Park (RCAF Station, Trenton).

Two Motorists Injured in Head-on Crash

Two motorists were injured in a head-on crash at the two-lane junction of Highway 401 north of Marysville, last night.

The scene of numerous mishaps when the two-lane stretch was opened last fall, last night's accident was the second at the same junction in six days.

Admitted to Belleville General Hospital was Jack Szale, a 42-year-old Montreal consultant.

Police say Szale was westbound when he entered the wrong lane at the Marysville junction, where the highway broadens into four lanes. He collided with an automobile driven by Earl Christenson, 37-year-old Oshawa chartered accountant.

Christenson was released from hospital after treatment for bruises.

Szale was charged with careless driving.

Investigating officer was OPP Constable Glen Hissenbuttel of Belleville who investigated the last mishap at the spot February 21.

Fine Reduced After Motorist Has Explanation

A Belleville motorist who mistook a policeman's "don't-do-that" signal for a "don't-bother-with-it" wave of the arm was fined $1 today for rush hour parking.

The ticket imposed a $4 fine. If paid on the spot, however, by taking it to court to explain the circumstances J. Graham Brown had to pay $7.50 costs.

Magistrate Baker reduced the fine after Mr. Brown told him he had been resident in Belleville only since last November.

When he parked in the rush-hour route outside the Bridge Street East liquor store last Saturday a police officer on the opposite sidewalk gestured to him.

"I was going through my pockets for a nickel and the constable waved at me."

Since it was Saturday, except the motorist "I thought he was explaining I need't bother fumbling anymore. I went into the liquor store and when I came back there was a ticket on my car."

"I'll fine you $1," said Magistrate Phillip Baker. "that's the best I can do."

However, Mr. Brown said the officer should have taken further action by crossing the road and giving him a verbal warning. The officer, he felt, should be asked for an explanation.

"He can't drop everything he's doing and come over and tell you to park in a no parking area," retorted the magistrate. "I have no intention of asking him."

Would Update Movie, Print New Brochure

Updating of the Authority movie "Miss Molly Valley" and printing of a small brochure for the Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater Conservation Area have been suggested as current year projects to the Authority Education Extension Advisory Board.

Authority Field Officer John E. King has pointed out that the Authority movie is now ten years old and shows very few of the activities and achievements of the Authority.

For instance, there is no mention of the Authority's three conservation areas at O'Hara Mills, Price's, at Actinolite, and the Col. Vanderwater area at Thomasburg.

The field officer felt that publication of a small brochure on the Vanderwater area would be of considerable assistance in publicizing the Authority and the camp sites available.

Johnson Gives Full Support Of Civil Rights

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Lyndon B. Johnson says that "full participation in our society can no longer be reserved to men of one color."

He spoke out for civil rights Thursday in a significant southern setting, a $100-a-plate Democratic party fund-raising dinner in Miami Beach, Fla.

"This administration believes the constitution applies to the citizens of every religion, every region, and every race," he said.

"We intend to press forward with legislation, with education, and with action, until we have eliminated the last barrier of intolerance. For as long as freedom is denied to some, the liberty of all is in danger."

While Johnson was in Florida, the house - passed civil rights bill awaited debate in the Senate at Washington, probably starting next Wednesday.

This is expected to develop quickly into a southern filibuster.

Driver Loses Licence to Drive, Fined $150

A 20-year-old Belleville man had his driver's licence suspended for two years and was fined $150 for dangerous driving by Magistrate Phillip Baker this morning.

The magistrate told Carl Bradley he was taking away his licence until the youth "got a little more maturity and got the responsibilities that go with being able to handle a vehicle."

In addition Bradley had spent four days in jail on the magistrate's order - - while police searched his driver's record.

He was arrested after an 80-mile-an-hour night chase last Friday during, which he tried to shake police by abusing his car lights.

"About the only thing I can say for you," Magistrate Baker told him bluntly, "is that you're fortunate there was no accident or property damage."

Laid under the Criminal Code, the driver's conviction now theoretically gives him a criminal record.

"The type of drivjug exhibited by you is the kind of thing this particular section of the Criminal Code, is designed to prevent," added the magistrate.

Earlier this week Magistrate Baker imposed a two-year suspension and $250 fine against another Belleville youth charged with the same offence.

Police are presently launching of an all-out drive by police against reckless driving on city streets.

Winter Giving City Break in Snow Renewal

Old Man Winter is giving the city a break this year insofar as winter control — snow removal and sanding is concerned.

From January 1st to Feb. 13th the city public works department has spent $7,400 for this work compared with $13,200 for the same period in 1963.

However, the normal winter control budget for a full calendar year is set at just under $44,000. This amount is budgeted each year for snowplowing of streets and sidewalks, snow removal from the downtown areas, and sanding costs.

Last snow removal costs ran about $45,400, although costs of purchasing some anew items was included in this amount. City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said policy was to estimate winter control costs over a number of years with sufficient money being allocated to take care of years when there is ab ove - average amounts of snowfall.

"It would be impossible to try and pick the years when snowfalls might be expected and budget each year accordingly," he said.

Victim Died In Kerosene Fire Says Witness

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Kenneth Witherow, 24, of West Lorne, facing a non-capital murder charge in the Nov. 3 fire death of 65-year-old Frank Welch, was quoted in court here Thursday as saying he was paid "for every job he pulled."

Witherow allegedly set the fire in an apartment building in West Lorne, about 20 miles southwest of here, in which Mr. Welch died.

Harry Robbins, 14, also of West Lorne, said he was with Witherow Nov. 2 and 3. "Kenneth Witherow said for every job he pulled he gets $500 and he gets a partner, he gets $500 too," the boy said.

He also testified Witherow told him: "I can blow up the Erie Flooring (a West Lorne company) with dynamite or I can burn it down with fuel oil."

Blood Donor To Be Honored By Red Cross

TRENTON — An illuminated scroll is being struck off and will be presented to Mrs. Grenville Illey, 151 Sidney St. in recognition of her 20 donations to the Trenton Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic. The scroll will be given to Mrs. Illey at next Monday night's clinic in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Last December, the Trenton clinic filled its quota, set by the Ontario Red Cross, for the first time in the town's history. Workers hope to equal or top this record on March 2. The spring clinic has been called a little early because of the urgent need for blood and those who donated in December are perfectly safe, medically speaking to donate again on Monday. Mrs. G. Williamson and Mrs. E. T. Stewart are in charge of the appeal.

Any adult in Trenton said today that, contrary to "rumors," no charge for blood is made by the patient. Each adult, under 65 and who has not had hepatitis, is eligible to donate blood.

Storm Sewer Work to Start Next Week

TRENTON — Spring is definitely in the air. Work on the installation of a storm sewer along the west side of Sidney St. will be resumed next week. The installation work was curtailed last December, when frost set in.

Operators will start within 300 feet of the CNR subway and will be continued to the top of the hill in the vicinity of the Flight Equipment plant. The Bayne Construction Company of Toronto has the contract for the work but Carrs of Trenton will be carrying out the actual operation. Carrs will also install sanitary sewer laterals and water connections to the unserviced homes on Sidney Street. Right of way will not be disrupted during these operations.

However, in June, Rayners will start to tear up the street to prepare for the laying of a 66 foot road allowance, and traffic will be re-routed.

Work on Dundas Street East from Campbell Street to the bottom of Gilmour Hill will be commenced by Rayner as soon as the frost is out of the grounds. Curbs and sidewalks will be lifted and the street widened to 40 feet between curbs.

This spring, Rayner will resume work on the widening and reconstruction of Dufferin Ave. A 16-inch water main will be installed from Wragge Street to Henry Street, and storm sanitary and storm sewer work remains to be done.

Some time along the west side of the street will be cut and other trees planted further back from the curb. A boulevard will be installed.

This spring, too, Rayner will widen Sidney Street between King Street and Dundas Street West. The CNR tracks were moved over to make room by way for the widening to 40 feet. Curbs were also to be re-located. A sidewalk and curbs are to be installed on the street.

COSTS ARE DOWN

The weatherman was more than kind to the public works' department last year and the latest figures on snow removal costs for 1963 show the office of town engineer Eric Alderson how that more than $8,000 was saved on operations which started in November and ended Dec. 31. In 1962, snow removal costs for the town were $34,000.

TEACH SAFETY

Since the inception of Ontario's hunter safety training program in 1957, some 66,000 new hunters have taken the course.

Gary McPherson and Larry Thompson were two of the two dozen Beatle fans who invested in rag-mop wigs in Trenton yesterday afternoon. Six dozen wigs, brought in by a local merchant, sold almost in the twinkling of an eye. One adult was seen wearing a wig as he sipped a soda in a local restaurant.

Legion Beatles Perform At Banquet for Ladies

TRENTON — The Beatles have returned to Liverpool — but their memory lingers on.

Wednesday night at the Trenton Legion Hall, four members of Branch One-Ten, Ken Craddock, Bob Wright, Ken Wannamaker and George Mountenay, donned rag-mop wigs, borrowed guitars and a set of drums and put on a passable imitation of the English foursome. Admitting that they were more like Bedbugs than Beatles, the boys were such a success that other Legionnaires, armed with wooden rifles (what with the defence department up in the air about the F.L.Q. there ain't a real honest-to-goodness shootin' iron left in town) kept the ladies at bay, although nobody, but nobody could stop them from squealing.

The special performance was all a part of the annual Legion Ladies' Night at which the men of the branch cook and serve a banquet for the members of the ladies' auxiliary. This was the 12th annual banquet for the ladies, who, the men admit, are the "backbone" of Branch 110.

Delighted with the pampering, the ladies presented a cheque for $1,000 to branch vice-president Victor Burtt, who accepted it on behalf of 1964 president Horace Ketcheson. The cheque was presented by the Ladies' Auxiliary president, Mrs. Jean Lawson and the money will be put towards the branch's building bond redemption fund.

PINS PRESENTED

Mrs. Lawson presented the past president's pin and medal to Mrs. Jean Wright and Mrs. Wright presented pins to the members of her last year's executive, Mrs. Lawson, Mrs. Louella Hyatt, Mrs. Audrey McFarland, Mrs. Sylvia Wright, Mrs. Alma Goff, Mrs. Theresa McMurter, Mrs. Marie Harvey, Mrs. Muriel Turland, Mrs. Margaret Weese, Mrs. Ruth Clark, Mrs. Ruth Carter and Mrs. Pauline Baker. The pin, fashioned of brilliant, displays the Legion ladies' crest.

Zone Commander Lavina Bateman presented a pin, also playing the men's crest, to Miss Hazel Farley, in recognition of 10 years' service given the branch. Miss Farley provided the head table centrepiece of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

Rotarians Start Drive for Funds To Assist Work

TRENTON — Trenton Rotarians have launched their drive for funds to assist in their work with crippled children. Letters were mailed out this week.

The Ontario Society for Crippled Children was started 42 years ago and today there are 15 local treatment centres throughout the province, helping some 16,000 children.

The society supplies medical attention, nursing care, corrective braces, wheel chairs and a host of other services.

Times without number, the local Rotary club has assisted crippled children from this area in a special way and made it possible for them to receive attention, whether locally or at a larger centre.

PASS $1,000 MARK

The Trenton March of Dimes campaign has passed the $1,000 mark, and with many collection boxes to be handed in, Elmer Bonter, campaign chairman, said today that it looked as if this year's results should equal or surpass last year's total. Mr. Bonter said that heads of industry and local businessmen had yet to be canvassed.

In Middleton Park, where Mrs. James Stockdale was the chief Marching Mother, $338.07 was collected. A house-to-house canvass at Batawa netted $100.

"We don't have any set objective," said Mr. Bonter, "but I'm hoping we realize $2,000 this year."

AID WIND VICTIMS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A shipment of food, clothing, medicine and agricultural tools said to be worth $5,000,000 has arrived from Czechoslovakia to aid Cuban victims of hurricane Flora, Havana radio said. The hurricane lashed the southern end of the Cuban peninsula for more than four days last October, causing more than 1,000 deaths.

Five Accused Resign Before Inquiry Begins

NEW YORK (AP) — The five firemen accused of answering the siren calls of shady ladies in a fire house resigned Thursday.

The resignations were announced as a departmental trial was set to begin for a veteran fire captain and four men of engine company 35 in east Harlem. The department charges against them were dropped.

They had been charged with dallying away the hours between alarms at the fire house with immoral women and pornographic movies.

The entertainment attracted the attention of a department brass after one fireman took a swing at a lieutenant.

Investigation resulted in charges against Capt. Joseph J. Sosa, 45, a decorated veteran of 22 years, and four men with an average service of four years each.

All except one had been accused of immoral acts with three unnamed women, described as "for all intents and purposes, streetwalkers," in the engine company quarters. William Allen was accused of "fondling and caressing" one of the women and showing pornographic movies.

Quebec Consistent

The Ontario Chamber of Commerce has no intention of boycotting French-Canadian firms which are on the preferred list of the Quebec Economic Expansion Council.

E. T. Asherton, manager of the Ontario Chamber, is authority for that statement. Good.

Sarto Marchand of Montreal, chairman of the Quebec Council, who is said to have made the allegation against the Ontario Chamber, should express his appreciation of the Ontario Chamber's stand and his apologies for his erroneous charge.

As an additional contribution towards the cause of understanding, we call attention to a statement by Quebec authorities which may have been overlooked. It is to the effect that the Quebec government has been following a policy of giving Quebec firms preferred treatment, but when these Quebec firms are unable to supply the required item exactly the same type of preferred treatment has been accorded firms from other Canadian provinces over firms from outside Canada.

It is possible to argue that no preference should be shown Quebec firms, but at least the Quebec government is demonstrating its belief in the entity of the nation and is doing this in a practical and consistent manner. This fact deserves publicity and recognition in English-speaking Canada.

Sloops With Wings

In tales of colonial times, Britain was always sending a couple of sloops or brigs to far off places, with orders to dispose of local pirates and other nuisances. Such tales were usually replete with with the romance of the days of sail, visits to coral islands and other adventurous sidelines.

Against the modern threat posed by Sukarno to Malaysia, the R.A.F. has sent a couple of Javelin jet fighters. Less romantic but more effective than sloops and brigs, these aircraft, one assumes, will spend most of their time parked on airfields. When radar or non-combat air patrols detect Indonesian freight aircraft coming in to drop supplies to the anti-Malaysian rillas fighting in the Malaysian territory of Sarawak, the Javelins will be called out to dispose of the intruders. The fact that the intruders may be escorted by Soviet-built MIG jets may make life interesting, but it won't help the freight aircraft much. The Javelins are armed with Sidewinder missiles able to home and "kill" themselves once they are released, leaving the Javelins free to meet any other problems. If the British jets can get within shooting range of any aircraft liable to be used to drop supplies to jungle guerrillas—that's the end of the story.

There's also the danger of escalation—of the small quarrel becoming a big war. If weapons as effective and as expensive at MIG's and Javelins ever meet in combat over Malaysia.

In sending the Javelins to a trouble spot, Britain is simply maintaining an old tradition. It was much safer, and more fun, in the days of the sloops and brigs.

Why Swear?

Why do people swear?

A psychologist might explain that the man who has sworn has vented his wrath against the society that demands he refrain from swearing. This relaxes the id, satisfies the ego and all that sort of thing.

A professor — from Ottawa, if memory serves us right—recently conducted a survey into swearing in Canada. French-Canadians, he found, generally blaspheme when they swear; English Canadians are generally obscene. But the average French-Canadian is likely to be a devout Catholic. Why would he commit the sin of blasphemy? Precisely because, to him, it represents a sin; the very thing the worst of which he can think. The English-Canadian is obscene because, at heart, he is a Puritan to whom obscenity is much worse than blasphemy.

Still another school of thought maintains that it does not matter what the words are, so long as they will shock somebody. Often this is achieved not so much by the words themselves as by the tone of voice in which they are uttered.

A story in point—

A preacher told some mule-skinners there was no need to swear.

Asked to prove his point, he picked up a whip and cracked it ahead of the mules.

"Come now, you most beautiful of God's creatures," the preacher roared, "step out to help the work of the Lord."

The mules responded. They were used to responding to words spoken in that tone of voice.

Galileo -- Space Scientist

By BRUNO FRIEDMAN in UNESCO Features

Today man sends his messengers to the heavens, but the path was opened 364 years ago, in 1610, when an irascible professor at the University of Padua hurried into the world a discovery which was entitled, in Latin, Messenger from the Stars". This book introduced the telescope as a tool of science and revealed that the first steps had been taken toward acquiring a sufficient knowledge of the heavens to make possible our modern messengers to the skies.

The very ability to plan a skyward flight of rockets, to place satellites, or to send away from the earth a Venus probe or a Mars probe, depends upon the application of the laws of dynamics — the science of the motion of bodies, whose foundations were laid by that same professor at the University of Padua.

With these contributions, Galileo Galilei, as he lives on in his achievements, is as vivid a part of the space age as the men who send aloft the rocketed. Yet he had another great contribution to make to modern science. He was one of the innovators of the scientific method, that systematized approach to knowledge-seeking.

Galileo was one of the very first of modern scientists, one of science's fathers — together with Copernicus, Kepler and Newton.

He was also a most human genius, with all the weaknesses of humans, who made scientific errors which he defended with vigor, who made many of the achievements and intolerant of differences of opinion. He was sarcastic and caustic, the kind of which proves that having genius does not bar one from membership of the human race.

Perhaps it was because of his impatience with others that Galileo made one of his important contribution to science. His innovation was the use of a crisp straightforward style of writing in his day scientific writing grand obscure.

This vigorous, hell-raised man was born on February 15, 1564, at Pisa, the child of a poor Florentine noble. At the age of 17, he entered the University of Pisa to study medicine. While there, he made the first of his important scientific observations. At the Cathedral he noted that one lamp, by the swing of writing; in his day scientific writing grand obscure.

This vigorous, hell-raised man was born on February 15, 1564, at Pisa, the child of a poor Florentine noble. At the age of 17, he entered the University of Pisa to study medicine. While there, he made the first of his important scientific observations. At the Cathedral he noted that one lamp, by the wide swing of a suspended lamp, its swing was always made in a fixed period of time. The principle of the pendulum was first applied to clocks. Galileo used it to design a device to time the human pulse which he called a "pulsilogium".

Later, he switched his studies to mathematics and science, but for lack of money withdrew from the University of Pisa before he obtained his degree. However, he continued his work in science obtained his degree. However, he continued his work in science and in 1589, was appointed a lecturer in mathematics at the same institution. Here he began to perform experiments in dynamics supposedly including the most famous one.

Did he indeed simultaneously drop two balls of different weights from the leaning Tower to prove that they would both strike the ground at the same time, or was this experiment, trying to refute him, who did this? Whichever is the case, Galileo was making a significant point that all bodies in free-fall fall equally rapidly (ignoring the friction of air) and that weight makes no difference at all.

In 1592 he was appointed professor of mathematics at the renowned University of Padua. Here he remained for 18 years, continuing his work in dynamics. Today school children repeat Galileo's simple, epochal experiments, in which he rolled balls down an inclined plane. Such experiments helped to provide him with the first true understanding of the relationship between force and motion.

The conclusions he drew were that it required force to put a body into motion, to slow a moving body down or to cause a moving body to change its direction — ideas completely new in his day. Here he had discovered the Law of Inertia, the first of the three Laws of Motion which Isaac Newton many years later presented to the world.

It is these relationships between force, mass and motion that operate in every activity which involves the movement of bodies, and this obviously includes rocket satellites aloft.

In another aspect of this work, Galileo studied the path of a projectile and showed that it was a parbola. In so doing he made another major contribution to dynamics; this is the principle of the "resultant of forces". It tells how to add up the effects of two or more forces acting simultaneously upon a single body in order to determine the path that the body will follow. In terms of a rocket, one of the two forces is the thrust, the other is the pull of gravity.

His experiments and conclusions on dynamics were published in 1638 in his most valuable written work, "Dialogues on the New Sciences".

And what of Galileo's scientific method? His method was experiment, followed by generalization of the results to form a conclusion. He applied mathematics to his work. All this is the accepted practice in modern science, but in Galileo's day it was revolutionary, for the practice then was to turn to Aristotle rather than to measured experiment as the final authority on a scientific question.

While "A Messenger From The Stars" was published work (1610), revealed his dramatic discoveries with the telescope, Galileo did not invent that instrument. However, he tremendously improved upon it till it could magnify 32 times, and he was the first to use it to spy out the secrets of the mysterious heavens.

With his telescopes, he learned that the moon was not perfectly smooth, as had been believed, but was covered with mountains and craters. He discovered that that mists and in the sky, the Milky Way, was in truth made up of myriads of stars. He crowed that he had discovered new "planets" in the skies, which were, in fact, the moons of Jupiter, never previously known.

The impact of these revelations was tremendous. They showed that the universe was a far greater machine perfectly and curiously had been conceived and struck blows at man's concept of himself on his little earth as the very centre of it.

Later, Galileo made further astronomical discoveries, in addition to studying the sunspots for 18 months and drawing them accurately.

Among the other works of this fascinating man was the invention of the thermometer, which, however, utilized air instead of colored alcohol or mercury.

He also did work in hydrostatics and found the principle of hydrostatic balance. He made important improvements in the microscope, and contributed to the physics of music.

Following the wretched trial of 1633, his fighting vanity played a role as petty as the attacks of the followers of Aristotle and the hostility of Pope Urban VIII. Galileo spent the last years of his life in seclusion at the villa near Florence. Despite his mental activity continued during the years of his retirement, and it was during this period that he wrote his major work, "Dialogues on the New Sciences". He became blind in 1637 and, five years later, he died.

Perhaps the spirit of this High Lama of science passed into the body of another even greater and yet more irascible human, for in the same year, 1642, Isaac Newton was born.

It is an accepted fact that in wartime the birthrate rises in Belleville since the beginning of the present struggle the number of births has climbed year by year. The peak to date was reached in the year just closed with 1,022 births. Some time ago it was indicated that 1,000 births had taken place at the city hospital in the year. This meant that only 16 of the births did not take place at the General Hospital. This is in accord with the tendency today as contrasted with the custom in days past when many births took place in the home.

How many of these 1,022 births are children of permanent residents of Belleville is not known. Of course the parents of a good number of these children are residents in the city or district only for the duration of the war. The excess of births over deaths is 675, but all the deaths were not those of Belleville residents either. However, it is safe to assume that the natural population has increased considerably, though many hundreds of young men and a considerable number of young women are away from home here serving in the armed forces.

Operate For Headache

BBC London Letter

A drastic and very ancient cure for headache which still survives in a few parts of the world is that of surgical operation of trepanning. In the Kisii district of western Kenya for example, reported Charles Hayes in a recent BBC broadcast, the remarkable symbol of a collection of tiny knives and saws could sometimes be seen, which indicated a clan of surgeons who perform the operation — strictly without benefit of law and risking a charge of manslaughter if their patient dies. The idea is that a pain in the head means a bone pressing on the brain, therefore the bone must be cut away. That is what these Kisii bush doctors do, using knowledge which has been handed down for over fifty centuries.

"They use no anaesthetics, just half a gourd of beer to help the patient down," said Hayes. "They leave their operating tools in the bone of the patient until he declares himself cured. Then they come to collect their knives and saws and their fee, which amounts to a goat and some beer. If the patient is not satisfied that the cure is complete, then he does not pay, and the doctor can either go away without the goat and the beer or he can cut away some more bone."

The operation was performed in only four or five places in the world, today, said Hayes — in Papua, where it may have originated, in North Africa around Morocco, in South America and in Kenya."

Contact With TB Germs May Cause Skin Reaction

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I think (and, of course, hope) that we are going to make some new progress against tuberculosis.

Yes, I know that statistics show we have come to a sort of plateau, not losing ground but not gaining any, either.

Yet letters to me reveal increasing interest in TB, and that is a good sign. When people are interested, we progress.

Tuberculosis is in a class by itself: A major disease, very dangerous, yet one which can be conquered if we use what we already know about it. But people need to have explanations for aspects which they do not understand. Here is one letter:

Dear Doctor: My daughter took a TB tst. It showed she had been in contact with the germ. She went to the doctor that evening. He made X-rays. There was no sign of trouble.

Could she possibly be a TB carrier? Do you advise more tests. — Mrs. L. M.

The test your daughter took was the tuberculin, or "skin test." A small amount of special protein material is applied to the skin. If the person has become sensitized — that is, exposed to the tuberculosis germ, a spot of inflammation will appear on the skin. Otherwise, not.

Contact with either dead or life germs can sensitize a person. A positive skin reaction may result without disease contact with live germs. (Having had a BCG immunization is an example of this.) However, the little patch of inflammation on the skin cannot possibly be in contact with a person who has TB.

This does not mean that you have tuberculosis, any more than a person who has one, you may resist the germs, and this applies to TB as well as colds or other diseases.

It is a sign that you'd better check to be sure.

This is exactly what Mrs. L. M's daughter did. She had chest X-rays and got the good news that she did throw off the germs. She doesn't need any more tests at present. However, like anyone else, she does have a periodic chest X-ray at six to 12-month intervals. County and state health departments as well as tuberculosis societies provide facilities for this free of charge or at a greatly reduced cost.

No, she has not become a "carrier." The only person who "carries" TB is one who has active tuberculosis and the live germs are in the sputum.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 48 and several times a day I get mouth ulcers. I have experienced "fogged action." I especially note it around my mouth and nostrils. My teeth are very sensitive to light, smoke, etc., at this time.

I had my glasses checked and my prescription does not need to be changed. Can anything be done about this? Cold sore fever makes my work difficult. — E. I.

An eye tension test (for early glaucoma) and inspection of the interior of the eyes for cataracts or other changes, would be wise. I hesitate to guess what is wrong, but something evidently is, and the time to find out is now, before the trouble gets worse.

• • •

To the Unsigned Reader with Heart Trouble: Maybe you did and maybe you didn't contract syphilis in those wild days; maybe it does not matter now. It doesn't have anything to do with your medical problems. Tell your doctor. He'll give you a blood test. He won't lecture you. What is important to him — and to you — is your health now.

Strictly Personal

Our Language Has Become Big Weapon

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of words, as I was the other day, a letter has arrived on my desk from a reader who objects strenuously to a recent statement in the column: "Those who make a habit of flattery lack the capacity to love."

This woman writes that she has a large capacity to love and also pays compliments freely; she goes on: "I don't mean 'phony' compliments that are trumped up just for the occasion."

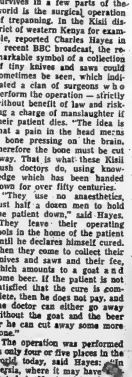
How terribly easy it is to go wrong with words if we fail to use, or understand, them precisely. This person doesn't know the meaning of the word "flattery" — which is precisely a "phony" compliment." Because she likes to say nice things about people, and to people, she believes I was attacking this tendency.

The dictionary carefully distinguishes among "compliment" and "flattery" and "praise." A compliment is "a courteous expression of commendation, whether sincere or pretended." Flattery is "a false or obsequious praise." And adulation is "servile and fulsome flattery."

Why do these distinctions matter? Because unless they are understood, we cannot communicate with one another; when the writer is condemning flattery," the reader thinks he means "compliment."

Consider these four words: peace-lover, peace - monger, pacifist, and appeaser. Which will we apply to those persons or groups working for peace? Each, if not most depends on where we ourselves stand. If we agree with their policies, it will be "peace-lover". If we violently disagree, it will be "appeaser". Some people we call "pacifistic" are not really such; and "peace-monger" is an ironic distortion of "war-monger."

When Confucius was asked by prince what was the first thing to be done in administering a government, the sage made the surprising reply: "What is first necessary is to rectify names." (That is, to define precisely and clearly things by their proper names.)



Asked why this was the first step, Confucius said: "If names are not correct, language is not in accordance with the truth of things. If language be not in accordance, affairs cannot be carried on to success. When affairs cannot be carried on to success, punishments and rewards will not be properly distributed. Interior of the eyes for cataracts or other changes, would be wise. I hesitate to guess what is wrong, but something evidently is, and the time to find out is now, before the trouble gets worse.

Blast Wrecks Stadium Stand At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — An explosion ripped through a concession stand at the Chicago Stadium Thursday 2½ hours before the Chicago - Detroit National Hockey League game, sending one man to hospital. The game went on as scheduled with Chicago winning 4-2.

A spokesman for the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company said company crews detected no gas leaking inside the stand, but that a gas explosion was not definitely ruled out. There was no fire.

The gas company spokesman said the explosion was touched off when a stadium employee walked into the stand and turned on a light switch.

New Zealand Govt. Opposes Sale of Paper

LONDON (CP) — Publication of Thomson's bid Thursday is shocked and surprised to learn that the New Zealand government opposes his bid for control of a newspaper in Wellington, the New Zealand capital.

"I am shocked at the apparent attitude of a free-enterprise government like that of New Zealand in opposing our bid," Thomson told a reporter.

He said he understands the opposition in New Zealand to foreign ownership comes not from public opinion but from the newspapers.

Thomson said he has taken no action to withdraw his bid. He is asking his representatives in New Zealand to try to get the government to put its ruling in writing.

Reports from Wellington said Prime Minister Keith Holyoake had declared his government "strongly opposed" to overseas ownership or domination of New Zealand newspapers.

Thomson started the ball rolling in mid-January by offering pounds £1,650,000 ($4,950,000) in cash for The Dominion, Wellington's only morning paper. The offer was later topped by Rupert Murdoch, youthful proprietor of Australia's Mirror group, and by a New Zealand company.

Holyoake's remarks about foreign ownership apply to Thomson and Murdoch.

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)— Sale of the Albert Lea Tribune to Thomson Newspapers Inc. was announced Thursday by Paul C. Belknap, Tribune publisher.

Parliamentary Notebook

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Maurice Moreau figures Canada can lick the "brain drain" to the United States with some parliamentary action on the income tax laws.

The Liberal MP for York-Scarborough placed a motion on the Commons order paper today which urges the government to exempt post-graduate students an income tax holiday for a period equal to the period at which they studied.

Mr. Moreau, an engineering consultant, says the tax exemption would help keep these people in Canada for the period of their "highest mobility" when they hadn't yet incurred family obligations or become established in business careers in Canada.

His proposal is based on the theory that trained brains are a wasting asset. like the mines. New mines are given three-year tax holidays to get themselves established, so why not do the same for post-graduate students just entering the business world?

"The lack of research opportunities in Canada coupled with of higher income levels in the United States has resulted in a loss of many doctors, scientists, university professors and other experts who are essential to our future growth and prosperity," Mr. Moreau said in an interview.

'WILL EASE SHORTAGE'

"The planned university expansion programs indicate there will be a serious shortage of trained staff in both Canada and the U.S. and this exemption would greatly assist in holding Canadians trained and educated largely at public expense."

He noted that there have been estimates that it costs a university $20,000 to turn one Ph. D. If the Ph. D. is assured two, three or more years of exemption from income tax for the years immediately after graduation, the lure of the bigger salaries in the U.S. wouldn't be so strong.

"The number of people who would receive tax relief for a relatively short period would not be large in relation to the contribution to the economy and society they could make."

Mr. Moreau has already put his idea before the government privately. However, the chances of it winning quick adoption in the Commons appear slim. It is well down on the list of private members' legislation for debate during this session.

Plan Meeting With Malaysia Prime Minister

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Indonesia and The Philippines today agreed to seek an unconditional summit meeting with Malaysia as soon as possible to achieve a peaceful settlement of their dispute.

Filipino President Diosdado Macapagal and Indonesia's President Sukarno announced in a communique their intention to meet Malaysian Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman.

Both Indonesia and The Philippines have opposed Malaysia - backed Malaysian federation made up from the former English colonies of Malaya and Singapore with its Borneo territories of Sarawak and Sabah.

But The Philippines, which has a territorial claim on Sabah, was stopped short of indorsing it all out policy of "confrontation."

Sukarno has threatened to crush the federation which he said was an extension of British imperialism.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Normally, a person has complete ownership of a parcel of real estate, but there are situations where a person (through inheritance, for example) acquires only a fractional ownership of a property. When this is the case, it should be remembered that in real estate, the value of the sum of part ownership may be less than the value of the whole. This is especially true when the ownership share represents a very small part, and should be considered when buying, selling or evaluating holdings for tax purposes.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I know very little about business — my late husband took care of all that — but I understand simple arithmetic, am law abiding, and feel that it is my duty to pay my proper taxes.

I am filing an inheritance tax form, and part of my husband's estate is my home and it is 9 cent share in a commercial property. This property has been assessed at $6,000 and I should pay taxes on my $6,000 share but our accountant says no, and that I prepare to pay taxes on a smaller amount. Can, this be true? — Mrs. M. T. S.

Answer: Your accountant probably is correct. A fractional interest in real estate — especially as small as 10 per cent — will bring less than a proportionate amount if offered in the market. Buyers are reluctant to purchase shares too smallto assure them of control. It is my experience that a 10 per cent interest can only be sold at a rather substantial discount, and discounts of 20 to 30 percent are not unusual.

I recommend that in order accurately to determine the market value of your interest, you have it appraised by a qualified real estate appraiser.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: A family of squatters moved on the next farm and I don't like it. They have a number of kids and no money. They have it in mind to work the farm and the whole family there are out in the fields all day. There are only ten rocky acres that the real owner just rented to them last year because he couldn't find a buyer. Believe me, they will never make a go of this place.

We don't like shiftless folks around here and I told them to move on. They said no. I threatened to throw them off with a shotgun — and will! I have lived around here all my life and figure I have a better right on that ground than they do. I do, don't I? — Mr. J. V. D.

Answer: I wouldn't shotgun down — this isn't a case for vigilantes. In my experience, I would assume that you have the ground in question does not appear to be as strong as is that of your unwelcome neighbors.

There is an old saying, "Possession is nine points of the law," and although mere possession is not a very strong claim, it is generally a valid one, nonetheless, superior to any claim other than that of the actual owner. If you feel that you do have a superior claim, however, by all means use every legal recourse to establish it — not a shotgun.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our house has creaking floors — in the entrance hall and living room. It really makes quite a racket. When guests are leaving, shifting from one foot to the other while waiting for wives to pop up the last morsels of gossip) it sounds like a mass attack of arthritis.

And it really was embarrassing the other night when I tried to enter quietly after a late poker session — the floor eyes squeaks when one walks on it is shocking feet. Isn't there something I can do? — Mr. E. M.

Answer: Creaking floors are annoying. Although more common in older houses, they occur even in new ones. Elimination of the creaking floors is simple, however, as they are almost invariably due to the loosening of nails holding the flooring to the floor beams. If you will recall the flooring in your hall and living room your creaking sound should be eliminated.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: During the depression my parents lost their home through foreclosure. I was just a kid, but I remember all too well their heartbreak — and I have vowed to myself to have a good steady job, am married and have two children of my own.

We really could use a house, and my wife is always after me to buy one, but frankly I can't bring myself to the point of taking the risk of buying and then losing a home. I don't want my kids to suffer the same experience I did. I just don't know what to do. My wife suggested we write you for your opinion. — R. S. F.

Answer: If you purchase a home within the limits of your income and keep up the pay, you should have no fear of losing it.

Except for extraordinary and unforeseen events, the only real cause of foreclosure is the elimination of many to purchase beyond their means. Experience indicates that if total housing costs (mortgage payments, taxes, fuel, utilities, repairs and maintenance, insurance, etc.) do not exceed 25 percent of one's income there should be no problem. Where family size is small and there are no unusual additional expenses, even 30 percent may be considered safe.

noted the jury had much conflicting testimony.

"When that exists it is up to you to decide who is telling the truth," he said.

Crown Counsel John Hoolihan said the hospital "swept under the rug" Miss Morgan's death.

Although he admitted the death should have been reported to the coroner's office, Hospital Administrator Eric R. Willcocks would not agree with the Crown's contention.

Dr. Willcocks agreed with Mr. Hoolihan the public would have more respect for hospitals if it knew such cases would not be hidden. But he had felt at the time it would not be a public service to "destroy the public image of hospitals."

Plan to Move Women's Prison To Cornwall

OTTAWA (C)—Justice Minister Favreau confirmed today that the government has decided to move the federal prison for women from Kingston to Cornwall.

The considerations were "purely objective," he told the Commons.

Mr. Favreau said that the women's prison in Kingston—there since 1835, and the only one in Canada—is unsuited for modern methods of rehabilitation.

He said the Kingston prison houses 120 women, half of them narcotic addicts from British Columbia.

The B.C. women will no longer be sent to the east when the new federal narcotic-treatment centre at Matsqui, B.C., is opened in 1965, Mr. Favreau said.

The new Cornwall institution would be designed for custody of 150 women—one-third from Ontario, one-third from Quebec and the others from the rest of Canada.

Keeping Prices Down in West Germany

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN (AP) — While other Common Market countries suffer from inflation, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard is having unique success in keeping prices down in West Germany with his policy of moderation.

More than two years ago, Erhard warned frequently that all groups would have to limit their demands — show moderation — if postwar prosperity was to continue.

He laid down the general rule that the national growth rate should set the top limit for increases in wages and government spending. Businessmen were to make price increases only if these did not have inflationary effects.

Thanks to the great prestige Erhard built up as economics minister in engineering the miracle of West German economic recovery, he has been able to make his policy prevail.

The giant automobile industry tried to defy him in the spring of 1962 with price increases he considered excessive. Erhard pushed a measure through the cabinet lowering tariffs on cars and trucks imported from other Common Market countries.

The business community, seeing Erhard was ready to talk into action, has shown no willingness to cross him since.

The labor movement has by and large come to accept Erhard's basic argument. With consumer price index rising only 2.8 per cent in 1963, the average worker has the satisfaction of seeing his real wages increasing steadily, though not spectacularly.

As chancellor, Erhard drew up an economy budget of $15,000,000,000 for 1964. This follows his general rule, allowing an increase of six per cent over last year's budget because that is the rate of economic growth expected during 1964.

reduced to about 438 from the existing 1,800.

In urban areas the new legislation will cut back the number of boards to 182 from the present 238; in northern districts the number will drop to about 108 from 233.

Mr. Davis said separate elementary school boards will not be affected.

Similar legislation was introduced to unify high school boards. However, few will be affected since most rural high school boards already are amalgamated into district setups.

WILL BE PAID

The education minister said provision will be made to pay school trustees from $7 to $150 a month, depending on how many students their boards have jurisdiction over.

Boards with 40 to 100 students will be allowed a maximum of $7 a month. Boards with 60,000 or more students will be allowed a maximum of $150 a month a trustee.

However, individual boards can decide not to accept these honorariums, or to accept only part of them.

The honorariums will be included in the school board's budget and will be paid by he municipality. Most of the cost will be covered by the province by way of grants.

Mr. Davis said the number of elementary school board units was being reduced sharply in order to encourage centralized schools, reduce administrative problems and costs, and provide better rural education.

WILL DISTRIBUTE ASSETS

A referee will distribute assets of tiny rural boards that amalgamate into township units. These township units will be encouraged to group together by twos or threes into larger administrative units.

The township units will have five trustees each, with correspondingly larger numbers for the bigger units. Elections will be held this fall to establish the units before the Jan. 1 deadline.

Municipal Affairs Minister Spooner said he would seek broader powers to investigate municipal governments. He said amendments to the Municipal Act would be introduced this session giving the minister increased authority to order judicial investigations of municipal affairs.

A judicial investigation cannot be launched at the present time until a petition from the municipality requests the action.

For instance, when alleged wrong-doings in the Improvement District of White River came to light, the minister asked for an investigation. This could only be undertaken by department employees.

NEEDED PETITION

It was not until a petition was presented by residents of the community that a judicial investigation could be launched, Mr. Spooner said.

A preliminary judicial inquiry into the affairs of White River opened Feb. 10 before Judge J. F. W. Ross of Port Arthur. It lasted one day and was adjourned to April 15.

White River and the district's chairman, Waldo Bracci, hit the headlines during last fall's provincial election campaign when John Wintermeyer, then Ontario Liberal party leader, questioned some of the activities of Mr. Bracci.

The legislation Mr. Spooner would introduce would allow the municipal affairs department to begin legal investigations of its own volition.

The minister also made it clear the department plans to tell municipal auditors to pay more attention to their jobs.

HAS LITTLE HOPE

Mines Minister George Wardrope told the legislature he has little hope for any resurgence in Ontario's forlorn uranium mining industry and that all but one of the province's mines will have closed by the end of the year.

PEC Students Entertained by Signals Band

A 40-piece Military Band under the direction of Captain Charles Adams entertained the student body in two different sessions, of 35 minutes each.

The Royal Canadian Signals Military Band from Kingston supplied toe tapping music, highlighted when Sgt. Orville Wainman sang "What A Fool Am I" from "Stop the World I Wanna Get Off."

Captain Adams who graduated in England with LRAM and ARCM Degrees has done most of his work as director of music in Canada. So versatile is this diminutive captain, that he can readily play any musical instrument in the entire band.

"A Military Band is not a military term," Capt. Adams told The Ontario Intelligencer. "Rather it is a musical term meaning a combination of brass, wood wind and percussion instruments, in other words, it is a Symphony orchestra without the stringed instruments," he added.

The music of the forty-man orchestra filled the large auditorium easily, in fact, had it been staged outside, it is possible the entire town could have enjoyed the excellent musical numbers.

One highlight came when Captain Adams called four men with their instruments to front and centre. He announced that these men would play what he described as "chamber music." What a delightful surprise when, after a few low very soothing musical note, the four men broke into the Barber Shop Version of "When the Saints Come Marching In."

This marks the second annual visit to Picton for this band but Captain Adams explained that this is the only trip they have made into the area bounded by Toronto and Cornwall, and that early in March they are going west as far as London for a playing engagement.

The band which is made up of all NCO's or higher rank, played a total of six numbers in each session. The student body was split into two groups, so that all students could attend.

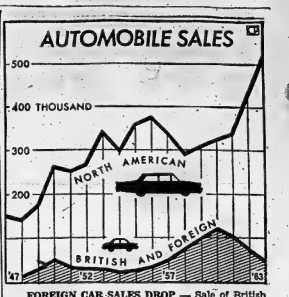
Will Christen First of Three Canadian Subs

LONDON (CP)—The first of three Oberon-class submarines for Canada will be christened and launched at Chatham dockyard Saturday by the wife of a British naval hero.

Using a bottle of Canadian sparkling wine, Lady Miers, wife of retired Rear - Admiral Sir Anthony Miers, will name the sub Ojibwa—after the nation of Indians inhabiting Canada's Lake Superior area.

The Ojibwa will be completed in September, 1965. Two further subs for Canada will be ready by 1968.

The sub was originally intended for the British navy but was taken over by Canada because of the urgent need for modern anti-submarine training in the Canadian navy and the RCAF.



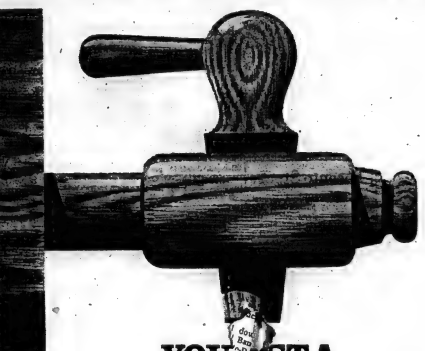
The Ojibwa is an attack submarine with improved detection equipment and is capable of high underwater speeds.

Powered by modern diesels, the 295-foot ship has eight tubes for 21-inch homing torpedoes. It displaces 1,610 tons and carries six officers and 61 men.

The two subsequent Oberon-class subs will be modified for arctic conditions and adapted to contain Canadian communications equipment. Total cost of the three subs is about $16,000,000.

EXTEND POWERS

SALISBURY (Reuters) — A bill to extend the government's Preventive Detention Act for a further five years was given a first reading in the Southern Rhodesian Parliament Friday. The act empowers the governor to detain any person who appears to be concerned in activities potentially dangerous to public safety or public order.



FOREIGN CAR SALES DROP — Sale of British and European cars in Canada dropped to 50,626 in 1963 — down from 75,438 in 1962 and 101,197 in 1961. Sale of North American cars climbed to 506,311 from 427,127 in 1962.

SAYS NOT SPECIFIC

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Roberts has not been specific on this point in his criticism, while some Ontario officials have spoken of a 20-or 40-year period to bring the plan to maturity.

"It would be helpful to know what period you favor," Mr. Pearson told the premier.

The prime minister said the government here favors the 10-year term for reasons of social utility.

"The principal reason why a public pension plan is desirable is that nearly 70 per cent of working Canadians are not covered by existing plans.

"For people who are now middle-aged, most of whom have not had the benefit of existing plans for much, if any, of their working lives, retirement is reasonably security now is possible only if the public plan has a reasonably short maturity period."

If 40 years were spent reaching full maturity of the plan, there would be fewer adjustment problems, but "it would reduce the social utility of the plan."

IS SURPRISED

On another point, Mr. Pearson said he was surprised at Mr. Roberts' allegation that there are gross inequities in the federal plan, and that large subsidies will go to the people who least need them.

"The only subsidies are those that arise from a maturity period of less than a full working-life of 40 years or so. The beneficiaries are middle-aged and older workers; that is, in general, precisely the people who most need the benefits of a public pension plan."

The Canada Pension Plan calls of contributions of two per cent of a person's annual earnings with a maximum payment into the fund of $90 a year for the first 10 years. Maximum benefits then would be $150 a month single, or $225 a month for couples, for retirement at age 70. Pensioners could elect to take a lesser amount at age 65 if they retire then.

The $90 maximum payment is based on a pensionable earnings ceiling of $4,500 a year. This would rise after the first 10 years to match the rising average income of the contributors. The plan would build up a fund nearly $2,500,000,000 available for investment in government securities.

CITES ONE CRITICISM

One of Mr. Roberts' criticisms was according to Mr. Pearson's letter, that among contributors of any given age, those with the highest earnings would get a larger benefit than those with lower earnings.

"I cannot think that you would wish to alter this in the only possible way that would be to have variable ratios of contributions to benefits," Mr. Pearson told the premier.

The prime minister acknowledged there will be some difficulty integrating the Canada Pension Plan with existing pensions plans, such as that provided for federal civil servants. But the difficulty would not be extreme, and detailed information could be provided provincial officials.

"Clearly, since detailed work depends on negotiations with staff associations, it would be inappropriate to furnish a public document at this stage," Mr. Pearson said. "But we will be happy to have provincial officials consult with our officials in any way that is helpful."

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Roberts must have misunderstood part of the plan in suggesting the benefits, but not contributions, will be adjusted according to changes in average earnings once the plan has been established.

CONTRIBUTIONS CHANGE

"Since contributions are a percentage of earnings up to a ceiling which varies with average earnings, the fact is contributions as well as benefits will change with changes in the general level of earnings."

Mr. Roberts had said there should be automatic adjustments to earnings levels for existing old age security benefits —now $75 a month for everyone aged 70 and over—but Mr. Pearson said he did not comprehend the premier's reasoning.

"While obviously adjustments such benefits are required from time to time, I do not see how they could appropriately be made on the same basis as for earnings-related pensions. You are aware, of course, that the recent history of the flat-rate pension is one of fairly frequent adjustments."

Story of Piracy Provides Footnote to History Of University Women Told

Members of the Belleville and District University Women's Club and their guests from the Belleville and Trenton Historical Society heard a fascinating account of "An Obscure and Insignificant Event in the History of Eastern Ontario." The speaker was Prof. G. F. G. Stanley, B.A., M.A., B. Litt., D. Phil., F.R.H.S., F.R.S.C., Dean of Arts and Head of the History Department at R.M.C.

The main character in the "story" told by Dr. Stanley, was Bill Johnson, pirate of the St. Lawrence, one-time blacksmith and merchant in the Kingston area, whose colorful career included episodes of smuggling, spying, piracy and jail-breaking.

The first thirty years of Bill's life were comparatively uneventful, though he was suspected of combining smuggling with freighting. However, the outbreak of the war between Britain and the U.S. in June, 1812, brought trouble to Johnson who had married an American in 1810. In Kingston he was arrested on suspicion of disloyalty to British, released because of insufficient evidence, then arrested and imprisoned, only to escape and flee across the lake in a birchbark canoe with four American soldiers, none of them experienced canoemen.

RESPECTFUL TOWARDS CANADIANS

The attitude of the Canadian authorities and the consequent loss of his possessions made Johnson resentful towards Canadians and especially towards the Kingston district, and so "he placed his services and intimate knowledge of the shoreline in the Eastern provinces at the disposal of the Americans," and for the rest of the war he was employed as a spy. After the war he remained in the U.S.A., in Watertown and later in Clayton (French Creek), which was, said Dr. Stanley, "a smugglers' haven at that time."

In December 1857, the Mackenzie rebellion gave Johnson a new opportunity to harass Canada. He was appointed commodore of the patriot navy in the East, and was involved in a projected attack on Kingston from Hickory Island in February 1838. Undeterred by the failure of this project, Johnson gathered together a small band of adventurers and in a light and fast twenty-eight foot boat propelled by twelve oars, they raided upon Canadian shipping. Highlight of this period of Johnson's life was, perhaps, the daring capture of the Sir Robert Peel, one of the largest and fastest vessels on the lake run in the early 19th century. Johnson, with about twenty men, dressed and painted like Indians, attacked the Sir Robert Peel when it had stopped at the south side of Wolfe Island to take on wood. Though the small band captured the vessel as planned, when they attempted to sail it into the main stream it ran on a shoal and was burned and abandoned in favor of the twelve oar boat.

As a result of this act of piracy substantial rewards were offered for Johnson, both in Canada and in New York State, but no one betrayed him and he managed to evade the authorities and, at the same time, to continue his raiding activities until November 17, 1838, when he was arrested while trying to escape from Ogdensburg after the failure of another attack on Prescott. Again he escaped and it was not until December that he was finally apprehended.

ESCAPES AGAIN

In Albany he was sentenced to one year in jail and fined $250. His daughter, Kate, the Queen of the Thousand Islands" and his pride and joy, was given permission to stay with him and after a few weeks he was allowed out on parole. Within a short time he escaped once more, made his way to Washington, and was pardoned and appointed a light-house keeper.

Johnson spent the last years of his life in Clayton as a tavern keeper and smuggler, and by the 1850's he had become the hero of several novels. His death in 1870 brought to an end a career full of gusto and color, which provided, said Dr. Stanley, "an exciting footnote to the history of Upper Canada."

Dr. Stanley was introduced by Mrs. F. F. Bellfield, and thanked by Mrs. H. U. Graham and by Mrs. J. E. Pugh, president of the University Women's Club.

Mr. G. E. Boyce added his thanks on behalf of the Historical Society..

During the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Bellfield, secretary's address Mrs. J. H. Bateman read a list of suggestions which would be submitted in response to Aid. D. G. Jose' request for Centennial and parks projects.

Distribution of Spring Fair draw tickets was completed and members were reminded that the Spring Fair would be held on May 2nd in St. Michael's auditorium.

Refreshments were served by members of the social committee at the conclusion of the meeting.

IT'S NOT ALWAYS easy for a child to make friends in a new neighborhood or even in a new school when he knows no one in his new class. It will help if you encourage him to invite one or two classmates or youngsters who live nearby to come to your house for after-school refreshments. Do this frequently, and you'll soon find he's on his own, happily.

Congregational Meeting

JOHNSTOWN UNITED

JOHNSTOWN — At the recent congregational meeting of Johnstown United Church the worship service was led by the Reverend A. W. Lougheed, of Trenton, with R. B. Thrasher as pianist .

The report of the session, read by Rod Stickle, showed 47 services had been held during 1963, with 9 baptisms, and an average attendance of 36. There had been three marriages.

Mr. Anson Moore was thanked for making a new name sign for the Johnstown church, and the junior pianists for their services each Sunday. Special thanks were extended Mr. Dick Cooke, Mr. Lew Fox, Mr. Bruce Wood and Mr. Dave Sanson for taking charge of services during the time the pastor Mr. Brien Thrasher was on holiday; Mrs. Jean Fox of Trenton Church choirs for helping with the anniversary services.

STEWARDS' REPORT

The committee of stewards' report was given by Anson Moore. Total receipts for 1963 were $2,035.81; Mr. and M. Fund, $255.90, with a balance of $111.75. The UCW report, given by Mrs. Everett Clapp showed receipts for 1963 to be $1,246.52, made by a rummage sale, bake sale, strawberry and ice cream social, 4 quiltings, the catering to three weddings, and a sale of greeting cards. Eleven meetings were held with an average attendance of 12. Miss Veals, a missionary from Ethiopia, spoke to the UCW on her work there.

The Young People's meeting report was given by Beverley Clapp. Receipts totalled $145.57, with a balance of $27.97. 20 members held a Valentine party, a dance, a Hallowe'en party and a Christmas party. They were represented at various church rallies, and at the YPU camp. Their ball team was also active in 1963.

The Sunday school report was presented by Mrs. Earl Stickle which showed a good year with a bank balance of $69.76. The total enrolment was 33.

OTHER REPORTS

The Mr. and Mrs. Club report, given by Arnold Harry, had a membership of 11 couples, meeting twice a month, except during the summer. They had special speakers and films at the meetings, kite many social activities, and a nice bank balance at the end of the year.

The cradle roll report showed that 11 children were enrolled with Mrs. Arnold Harry in charge.

Messrs. Everett Clapp and James Payette were put on the committee of stewards, and Frank Johnson and Alex Vandervoort as elders. It was moved that the treasurer's report be printed with stencils and passed out before the annual meeting.

A thank-you was extended to Mrs. Alec Vandervoort for editing and typing the 1963 report and to Arnold Meyers for making a poster with the 1963 rulings of each member for the church hall.

Mrs. Vera Greer, audio visual counsellor for the United Church, gave a short talk, after which Mr. Lougheed pronounced the benediction.

Questions Concerning Proper Signature Pop Up

DEAR DORIS — Could you please settle a question? My husband and I were wondering if a married woman's signature should be Mrs. John Doe or if she is able to use Mrs. Sally Ann Doe. Or does the latter belong to widows only? — MR. AND MRS. WONDERING.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR MR. AND MRS. WONDERING — Where a married woman uses "Mrs.", she also uses her husband's first name or initials. On a legal document, she would be expected to sign "Sally Ann Doe" without the "Mrs." If she does sign "Mrs. John Doe", this is usually acceptable. "Mrs. Sally Ann Doe" is not correct for a widow; is only correct in the case of a divorce.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — A girl of 14 years — rather mature — does some baby sitting and is quite reliable. She has been forbidden to go to a certain coffee shop hangout and said she was going to a baby sitting job but was seen at the coffee shop in question.

We do not wish to antagonize this child but she was given a "stay at home for a week" punishment, taken rather nonchalantly in spite of a school dance coming up.

It is the matter of the untruth that bothers a person. Should this be ignored and the usual trust continued? — SLIGHTLY WORRIED.

DEAR SLIGHTLY — Tell me this: Are her friends welcome in her home, or is this her way of socializing?

If she has taken her punishment, the incident is over. The 1-don't-care jaw if she would exchange them for a larger size? — MOTHER OF BIG BOYS.

• • •

DEAR MOTHER — Handled right, you can improve acquaintances with your in-law. Write, sending snapshots of the boys; say how they look forward to meeting this aunt of theirs some time. Say they are growing fast and just can't get into the handsome things she sent; and could she exchange them? — Please not to worry about it if she can't.

Love is the wrong word to use for the way you feel about a man you have known for so short a time and with such a different background.

DEAR DORIS — A few days ago I read the letter sent you about women with high heels ruining someone's floors.

I fully know what that woman feels like. Most of our friends or relations take their shoes off at the door and bring slippers, but there are one or two that don't and as a result my floors are starting to show marks, although our home is just new.

I cannot agree to the solution you gave. One cannot be following the person around with a scatter mat. I firmly believe every woman should know better than to walk on someone's floors with heels and if they don't, I say "tell them." — F. F.

P.S. — Always read your column. You must have an awful lot of patience!

DEAR MRS. F. F. — Not even one scatter mat over that rocker spot? Shouldn't there be some compromise here between one's love of beautiful floors and one's pleasure in offering thorough-going, uncritical hospitality? Perhaps you could offer little soft Japanese slippers at the door. Have any readers solved this one?

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I am bogged down with my problem which is a combination of my mother and money. Last summer I worked and handed my unopened pay envelope to my mother every week. I was allowed to keep my tips for my board and a dentist bill. I managed that and saved enough for my Christmas presents (or so I thought).

But now mother kept borrowing from me, saying she would pay me back before Christmas. Result: I couldn't give any presents.

Now I have been working every Saturday. Mom said I could keep what I earned if I'd forego my allowance. Today when I was paid, Mom immediately asked for it to send to my brother who is at college.

I know he needs it too but — she said she'd pay me back ? ? ? Do I have the right to keep the money I earn? If I have, how can I keep it without getting into bad graces with Mom? — GRADE TWELVE STUDENT.

DEAR STUDENT — Where money is tight, it's tempting for a mother to look wherever she can for help; but you have the right to a kept promise. A serious talk with her about being allowed to keep a fair share of your wages could pave the way for a better deal from now on.

Exhibition of Local Painters On View at Corby Library

At the Corby Public library this week and until March 6th the art students of Muriel Andrews have on exhibition a gallery of paintings in the downstairs lecture room.

Students start by learning what to look for and how to see. In preparation for this second year they learn more color, theory, the balancing of words and cool and warm, working for more precise relationships of one color to another.

This was evident in comparing the first and second year pictures. In still life there were arrangements of objects such as jugs, pottery, glass, vases, driftwood, and an Indian sand-var in different groupings. It was interesting to note how emphasized given the same group of objects by the individual painter and the different translations each made as each interpreted it according to what appeared to the eye of the observer.

Some students had experimented with line-abstract designs and some with more advanced creative styles with a definite emotional feeling.

LOCAL SCENES

Local scenes of the boathouses in the harbor, the ruins of old "another four" plant at Point Anne, the old mill at Lonsdale, outdoor pictures of the Marina and surrounding countryside with weathered barns provided interest for residents in this vicinity.

An oil painting of a winding road besides a lake done in autumn colors showed intellectual character. Still life of vegetables, cabbages, carrots, peppers, yellow "mums growing in earthenware pots gave mood and life to many of the pictures. Starting with the beginners one could see how the skill grew as the student progressed. The exhibition was a credit to the instructor.

CANADIANA '67

Three times a week in the mornings Mrs. Andrew's studio is open to the Canadiana '67 group of painters. There are about ten who are actively working to preserve in paint the articles used in those days, particularly household articles. All articles must be 100 years old and to date such things as spinning wheels, iron pots, an apple peeler, a rocking chair and other things have been offered to the artists. Until the warm weather they are working on still life, but later they hope to get out and capture some of early Belleville and district scenes.

Heads of Rival Factions In Nursing Profession Confront Each Other Here

Mrs. Ruth Le Roux, chairman of the Committee for Advancement of Professional Nurses, and Miss Jennie Weir, president of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, confronted each other here last night.

Mrs. Le Roux and her group have been critical of the manner in which the R.N.A.O. has been operating.

The Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Registered Nurses' Association invited the leaders of the rival groups to act as panellists at the Chapter's regular meeting, held in Education Hall at the hospital here last night.

The program had attracted widespread attention. R.N.A.O. members were present as guests from Guelph, Cobourg, Kingston and Peterborough. The CBC had sought to attend. However, after the meeting started a vote of the members decided that non - members should be excluded.

The Bay of Quinte Chapter had been concerned about certain criticisms levelled at the R.N.A.O., and given publicity in the press, about working conditions of those in the nursing profession and in collective bargaining. Mrs. Le Roux and Miss Weir were asked to answer questions put by members in respect to those three areas of concern.

Participation was spontaneous, and excellent. Out of the preparation for the meeting and the actual meeting the following recommendations were developed by a Registered Nurse here. These recommendations will be discussed and voted upon at our next meeting in March.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

The twentieth century was not very many days old, when a great discovery was announced. "If I were asked," proclaimed one well-known American public figure, "what will be the splendid achievement that men have wrought in wood and iron and brass. I would not go to the ocean cable, the telegraph, the telephone or the phonograph. I would not go among the stars. I would also pass over the labor-saving machines and devices by which the work of the world has been marvelously multiplied. Above and beyond all these, the index finger of the world's progress, in the march of time, would point unerringly to the little child as the one great discovery of the century!"

MIXED BLESSING

This "great discovery" has by now, unfortunately, become a mixed blessing. For long centuries, society had overlooked the humanity of children and made them serve as mere foils for many coercive forms of authority. Today, this emphasis — "the century of the child" — has seen the emancipation of childhood, the reverence of its human, educational and spiritual significance, and in many instances, society has been more generous to children than has any other.

Unfortunately, we have abandoned any semblance of parental authority under pressure of what we have properly called the "cult of child centredness." Our children are now an "central" to our society that we have gone to the foolish extreme of establishing them as the decision-and taste-makers. It is now erroneously believed that in order to provide them early in life with a sense of security, they must be given every opportunity for self-expression and self-esteem help the parent who has a mind of his own! Parents seem to serve only as the lackeys of our "House-Committees" with out a vote on crucial matters.

By placing the child into the centre of our society, we have indeed succeeded in developing new and creative possibilities inherent in the human race. A positive personality has been established whereby we have been enabled to look for and to find a great meaning to our humanity. No doubts about it: when the world of childhood was discovered, it opened up the door to even newer discoveries about the nature of man. Now, we understand better man's need to grow unfettered, a whole life-time through.

ADULT STANDARDS

Yet, unhappily, we have moved ourselves into a new form of slavery by placing our backs too close to a new, man-made wall. Now, families seem never to work at the job of producing adults out of children. In our zeal to sanctify their own private worlds as empires not to be invaded by adult standards of moral responsibility, we are denying our children one of the major benefits of family-life: the achievement of a socialized personality. As a result, young people go into the world with their own private, personal antibiotics as their paramount goals and increasingly refuse to follow a direction which would involve them too deeply in the wider society. These days, as a result, educators have given up trying to fit the child into an adult system. More and more, they are adjusting the adult system to fit the child.

Parents, too, unwilling to appear "square" to their children, and lacking a common language with which to communicate a value-system which emerged from their adult world, tend more and more to act as if they were ashamed of their children: "If we can't beat them, let's join them! If they won't share our way of life, let us, at least, share theirs!"

But such an unlikely game ends in defeat: we woo our children without really winning them.

The great discovery needs to be "re-discovered". Children should never again become the victims of adults, as they were in the many centuries before our century "discovered" them. Yet, it is remembered: children want to remain, and need to be seen, as being no less, but sure-ly no more, than what they are — children!

Ann Landers

Teenager Shows Healthy Attitude Toward Retarded

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Today when I read the letter about the 16-year-old girl who was ashamed of her retarded brother I nearly cried.

I am 18 and have a little 6-year-old brother who is also mentally retarded. He is the most loveable little kid I know. Everyone in our family showers him with affection and he returns it by the ton.

ANN LANDERS

You are right, Ann, when you say it is the responsibility of the parents to educate the other members of the family, but they must first be educated themselves, and not all parents are. I was glad when you told them to write to the National Association For Mental Retardation for literature, because that's exactly what my folks did.

I have presented numerous reports on this subject at school and have taught my classmates a lot. Mental retardation, like epilepsy and other brain disorders, is just now emerging from the dark ages of ignorance. The only weapon against ignorance is education. Thank you for helping, Ann. — NOT ASHAMED.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The letter from the man who signed himself "Mere Male" should be reproduced and handed to every young groom — along with his marriage certificate. In my opinion, it's the classic example of what ails the American husband.

This man wrote you a pathetic letter saying he didn't want much out of life, just a few small considerations — like getting the newspaper in readable condition. He complained that by the time the rest of the family got through with the paper it wasn't fit to wrap garbage in.

You — a newspaperwoman to the end — ignored the central problem and suggested a second subscription.

Don't you see this is precisely what is wrong with the American home? The females run everything. The father - husband is supposed to pay the bills, keep the gas tank filled and his trap shut. I am sure you know all this Ann Landers — why don't you live up to your responsibility and say it? — ANOTHER MERE MALE

DEAR ANN ONE — You are right and I apologize. But I've said it so many times I didn't want to be a bore. In my first book, "Since You Ask Me," there's a chapter called, "Father Or Cash Register." I said it for 10 pages.

In the Landers column I repeatedly point out what the male's position in the family should be.

Unfortunately, many men want to be dominated and pushed around and these males invariably find a woman who is happy to oblige.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I a mstill burning over the letter from "New Wrinkle" — the cat who was sure the girl who wore the same dress to work on Friday that she wore on Thursday did not own a second dress for Saturday night. The column was the day's principal topic of discussion around the office.

As a protest against such cheap gossip I have worn the same dress to work every day this week. Nobody noticed until today. Friday. This morning three people kidded me because I am wearing the same dress today that I had on yesterday. So, Ann, it seems the only point that got through their wooden heads is to check Friday's dress against Thursday's.

My tip to you girls who may be sitting up all night with a sick friend (or a well one, for that matter) is never on Thursday. — IN THE KNOW.

DEAR IN — You should have ended the last sentence afte rthe word never.

•

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

In business as well as social life, you're often judged as much by your poise as by your charm and appearance. How do you rate in the following situations:

1. Do you greet people with assurance, acknowledge introductions graciously and know when to extend a hand and when not to?

2. Can you sit and stand quietly and gracefully without fidgeting?

3. Do you politely pay attention when others are speaking?

4. Are you careful to hide your irritation when someone says or does something that annoys you?

5. When others display bad manners, do you manage to overlook it?

6. If you should happen to spill or drop something on your hostess' new rug, can you weather such a personal social storm without getting flustered?

7. Do you speak in a pleasant voice, without shouting, becoming shrill or using unattractive slanguage?

8. When someone compliments you, do you acknowledge it graciously instead of making a big to-do about it?

9. Do you remain calm and clear - headed when faced with a crisis or what you might consider a setback?

10. Do you manage to keep cool and detached when others get involved in a heated discussion?

Try Coin-Operated Laundry To Meet Respectable Girl

VANCOUVER (CP)—So you want to meet a young, respectable and single girl. Try a coin-operated laundry.

Mind you, your advances might result in a faceful of wet underthings. But sharing domestic chores seems to create a bond between strangers. And it's difficult for a girl to refuse conversational overtures and walk out when her laundry has two rinses and a spin to go.

This tip is one that emerged from a survey conducted by the Vancouver Sun among 30 unmarried women in the city's residential west end. It wanted to know how boy meets girl in an apartment district.

Questioning of girls between 18 and 30 living in the apartments turned up a basic conclusion that an introduction is usually required, although in some circumstances a cocktail lounge waiter could perform this function.

One of the questions asked was:

"You're walking along Robson Street or walking for a bus. A respectable - looking young man walks up to you, introduces himself, says he's anxious to meet you and asks you to join him for a cup of coffee. Do you accept?"

Thirty girls said no, eight said yes, one said maybe.

Next question:

"You and your roommate are in a lounge. The waiter comes over and announces that two decent-looking fellows three tables over want to join you. Do you accept?"

Yes, said 26 girls; no, said 12, and the uncertain miss gave another maybe.

One girl explained that "girls will do all sorts of things with a roommate along that they wouldn't dream of doing on their own."

Where did the girls meet the last man in their life who seemed promising, interesting or attractive?

Seven said house parties, three blind dates and three public dances. The remainder gave a variety of replies. One said she was applying makeup at an amateur theatre.

The questioners came up with the laundry plot while analysing the answers to the last question. They also suggest apartment block swimming pools are good places to meet a respectable man, as well as hobby clubs, church groups, night school courses and week end YMCA dances.

Home and School News

QUEEN VICTORIA

The February meeting of the Queen Victoria Home and School Association was held recently and featured a skit on dating which starred Mrs. Dwight as mother and Mrs. Welch as father. At the conclusion of this, round table discussions were held by the members. Refreshments were served at this time and the social committee was organized.

ADULT STANDARDS

Previous to the skit, Principal H. R. Frink gave a most revealing talk on the cost of education today. The audience was surprised to hear that in 1931 $1.40 out of every million dollars of the national income was spent on education. Today only $1.11 is spent.

British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan all spend more per pupil per year than Ontario, and two other provinces have a higher percentage of university trained teachers than Ontario. There are two other provinces also that have fewer dropouts in the 14-to-19-year old group than Ontario.

It costs Ontario an average of $275 a year to educate one child. Belleville's costs are 20 percent lower and its classrooms are slightly more crowded than the provincial average.

Through this interesting talk it was demonstrated that although the costs of education are rising, this is due to the rapidly increasing number of pupils and schools rather than an increase in the cost per child.

Teen-Age Canada

It's "Science Fair" Time Across Canada

By JACK HUTTON

Eighteen-year-old Beverly Davies was intrigued one year ago by ideas she saw in her father's art studio at Belleville, Ont., so intrigued enough to build her own electric test kits.

Seventeen-year-old Andrew Hamilton of Winnipeg, Man., was working about that same time on an exhibit to show several aspects of the evolution of butterflies.

The two had never met before. But their ideas won them a trip last summer to the International Youth Science Fortnight in London, England.

The annual search is on again for two more talented young Canadians to represent us in the overseas project sponsored by Prince Philip. It's "science fair" time across Canada.

The science fair movement which owes its birth to Winnipeg didn't exist in Canada several years ago.

Today regional science fairs are discovering an unbelievable number of young Canadians interested in everything from the heat of fusion, bacteria in the air, exploring the brain of a fish to anything else you can name.

I talked this week with P. C. LeSeelleur, the Ottawa - based secretary and co-ordinator of the Canadian Science Fairs Council who is looking forward to the third national science fair April 24 and 25 at the University of Montreal.

"We're looking forward with enthusiasm to the results of our 24 regional fairs," he said. "Each year many applicants amaze us with the depth of their knowledge."

Just a few of the fair dates: Victoria, B.C., March 28 to April 4; Edmonton, Alta., April 11; Winnipeg, Man., April 2 and 3; St. Catharines, Ont., April 2, 3 and 4; then Toronto, March 30 to April 4; MNorth Bat, Ont., March 30; Sherbrooke, Que., April 7.

How do you fit into the picture? Is it still possible for any secondary school student (Grade 9 is the minimum) to apply for the judging and the eventual awards?

The deadline for entries is approaching quickly. Your local science teacher is the best guide, but if your area has no science fair, you have a slim chance of being accepted by the special admission committee.

Mr. LeSeelleur and others connected with science fairs hope no student will figure that only senior students can win the prizes. Carol Blane, a Grade 9 student from Verdun, Que., was top girl in 1961.

SCIENCE FICTION

How are the exhibits judged? Each project should show "original research, or be a demonstration of a biological, chemical, physical, mathematical or technical principle, a laboratory of other procedure, an industrial development or an orderly collection of anything in the broad concept of pure or applied science."

Ideas demonstrated at last year's national science fair read like a page from science fiction — one exhibit puzzling over why lobsters turn from green to red when boiled, another which speculated on masses in space.

I'll admit right now I've had to ask the author of each science fair exhibit I've seen what it was all about. And the same applies to most spectators.

The 1964 version of our annual science fair sweepstakes is about to get under way. Good luck if you're an exhibitor. The rest of us will watch with excitement from the sidelines.

CHRISTMAS GIFT

Every so often a columnist receives a letter which makes everything seem worth while. I feel that way about letter from Mrs. J. N. of Halifax, N.S., who says her two sons would be embarrassed if she identified her last name.

"Just before Christmas," she writes, "you wrote a column suggesting that building a bird feeder station would be a good Christmas present and might also be the beginning of an interesting hobby.

"I'm writing to tell you how that one story affected our family. I read it with interest but had forgotten all about it until Christmas morning when our two sons, 11 and 14 years old, gave me one they'd built with your plans.

"It was wobbly and crude-looking, but that hasn't bothered either the birds or us. We put it up in the back yard where we can see it at breakfast, and I can't count the hours of enjoyment we've had watching our visitors.

"The boys were very upset when a red cardinal didn't show up for days after a cold spell, and we all celebrated when he returned safe and well. We've even given names to the sparrows.

"Your idea was one of those fine projects that involve everyone in a family, giving us a chance to become closer through sharing an interest. So here's one mother thanking you."

Indian Has Worn Out Six Bicycles

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mishreelal Jaiswal, who has worn out six bicycles in the cause of non - violence, is writing his memoirs from the Sikh temple here.

After 12 years and 189,000 miles—54,000 by plane and boat —the former school inspector from Bihar province, India, has completed his self-imposed task of bicycling through the world urging peace.

Soon he hopes to return to his wife and two children in India. He has spent only nine months there in the last 12 years.

His experiences, he says, included being kidnapped between Uganda and the Sudan by six naked Amazon-like women.

"I'm a confirmed vegetarian. It was an ordeal:

"I sleep under a tree; they come and arrest me and my bicycle. They take me to their village, with grass huts—poor—and they offer me meat. When I don't eat, they beat me until I bleed. The queen beat me also. Finally, after a few days, they let me go."

Mihreelal says Soviet Premier Khrushchev was curious to know why he was conducting his peace campaign by bicycle.

"I tell him if I go in a motor car, I cannot meet people. On a bicycle, I speak to everyone. I have millions of friends in every country. I talk to all of them about peace.

"I have been more than successful in my efforts, I think."

Two Provincial Govts. Accused of Mishandling Finances During Sittings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two provincial governments were accused Thursday of mishandling finances.

Dr. Lorne Bonnell (L—4th Kings) said the Prince Edward Island government was guilty of "serious deficit financing." The debt of the province had doubled in the last four years and what had accumulated "from Confederation to 1958," he said.

His criticism resulted in a vote of non-confidence, which was defeated 16-11 on party lines.

In the Manitoba legislature, Liberal Opposition Leader Gil Molgat accused Premier Duff Roblin of "juggling" figures in the provincial budget.

Claiming that Manitoba now has the highest per capita debt of any of the provinces, the opposition leader said the government's budget should "expose in plain terms" the true position of the finances.

REPORT SHOWS DEFICIT

The Canadian Tax Foundation's report shows a "very substantial deficit in every year in spite of the government claims of surpluses every year," he said.

Discussion in the seven other sitting legislatures ranged over a variety of other matters:

Nova Scotia—Liberal House Leader Gerald M. Nicholson introduced a resolution urging additional grounds for divorce in Nova Scotia and an immediate federal inquiry into divorce matters.

New Brunswick—The opposition served notice it would ask Premier Louis J. Robichaud to intervene personally in the fiveyear dispute with Irving Refinery Limited's Saint John oil refinery.

TRIMMED SPENDING

Quebec—Premier Lesage said he was forced to trim $250,000,000 off the budgets of government departments for the coming fiscal year. Without the cuts, he said, he would have been forced to double provincial income taxes.

Ontario—Premier John Robarts demanded that the federal government keep the Welland Canal toll-free.

Saskatchewan—Karl Klein (L — Bengough-Milestone) said family feuds are growing out of Saskatchewan's confusion of time zones.

Alberta—Agriculture Minister Harry Strom said the Alberta government is on guard against any move to set up a board which could dictate how prairie water is to be used.

Politics and Fluoridation Don't Mix Committee Told

OTTAWA (CP) —Politics and water fluoridation don't mix, a committee of senators and members of Parliament was told Thursday.

Dr. Frederick J. Stare, head of the nutrition department of Harvard University's School of Public Health, told over 30 MPs and senators, including Health Minister Lalonde and Defence Minister Hellyer, that communities should never decide whether or not to fluoridate by a referendum.

"I've never heard of referendums being held to decide whether a town should put fluoride in its milk or chlorinate its water. Like these matters, fluoridation is technical, and a person requires a certain amount of specialized knowledge to understand its benefits," Dr. Stare said.

"The question, in any given community, should be decided upon by a board of public health experts who would hear evidence and become thoroughly informed about the subject.

"It is highly unfortunate that fluoridation frequently becomes a hot political issue."

Dr. Stare, a frequent spokesman for fluoridation in the United States, spoke to the special committee on health at the invitation of the Health League of Canada.

The committee, a voluntary group of senators and MPs who meet privately, discusses public health problems in Canada, was holding its first meeting of the session.

The U.S. doctor said recent developments in fluoride research pointed to a fact that, in addition to preventing 60 or 70 per cent of tooth decay, fluoride might strengthen bones against fractures and porosity in old age.

The time may not be far off when there will be good evidence to indicate that the older person will have more to gain from fluoridation than the child.

"Not only will he have better teeth but he will also be able to secure better nutrition in his old age, but he may also have strengthened, less osteoporosis (porous bones) and will be less likely to fracture them and be have an accidental fall."

Dr. Stare said any question that has been suggested that adding sodium fluoride could be answered with the assertion: "Fluoridation is safe — absolutely safe."

There was no reliable evidence to suggest that the addition of fluoride to drinking water caused harm of any kind to any individual, any state of health, any age, or either sex, he told the committee.

County Court Judge Rules Novel 'Fanny Hill' About London Prostitute Obscene

TORONTO (CP) — County Court Judge Everett L. Weaver ruled Thursday that the 18th-century novel Fanny Hill, about a London prostitute, is obscene under terms of the Criminal Code.

He said in a written judgment that the book, by John Cleland and sub-titled Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure, emphasizes sex for a base purpose and offends against contemporary standards of decency in the community.

Judge Weaver ordered the Ontario attorney-general's department to dispose of 2,000 copies of the novel seized from Toronto bookstores last January by police.

"This book details the life and sexual practices of a woman in prostitution," said the judge. "I cannot think of anything more justly entitled to be called pornographic than pornography itself. . . .

"Jollity in its presentation does not purge it of its pornographic taint."

CRITICS DEFEND IT

His well-known literary critics had defended the novel in a hearing before the judge as having literary merit. Both Prof Robertson Davies, master of Massey College at the University of Toronto, and Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night and a former university lecturer in English literature, argued the book was not pornographic.

Judge Weaver claimed he had the daily opportunity of gauging the standards of decency which prevail in the community while acting as a member of the York County court.

"I would find that a very substantial and responsible segment of the community is unwilling to accept a book which glorifies prostitution and details various kinds of perversion of sex," he said.

He said the law allowed him to find that there was undue exploitation of sex in the book, even though the work might have literary and artistic value in the opinion of expert witnesses.

Prof. Davies and Mr. Edinborough had testified that the book exhibited a lively and accomplished style of mid - 18th century literature and reflected an accurate picture of the times allowing the flexible sexual morality of those days.

They praised the book for its humor.

NEW YORK (CP-AP) — The New York Supreme Court's appellate division has banned the sale of the book Fanny Hill in New York State, declaring the racy, fictional memoirs of the 18th-century prostitute obscene.

The majority decision of the bench Thursday said: "This book is essentially an uninterrupted series of minutely described descriptions of sexual adventures—many of them abnormal and involving acts of perversion—and nothing else."

We conclude that it is obscene and an injunction should be granted."

The ruling reversed a decision by State Supreme Court Judge Arthur G. Klein who held that the book, while it would "arouse prurient Little Red Riding Hood as a popular bedroom story," was not obscene and its sale should be permitted.

Fanny Hill, titled Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure but more commonly known by the heroine's name, was written by John Cleland in England in 1748.

GIVE MAJORITY VIEW

The majority added: Nor is this book less obscene by reason of it having been cell written or in the absence of patently offensive words.

"Despite these redeeming features—and this book needs more for its ultimate redemption—we conclude that it is obscene. If the laws governing such material are to have any meaning at all, this book must fall within their proscriptions."

District attorneys of all five of New York City's boroughs sought suppression of the book.

The ruling upheld Justice Bernard Botein and Charles D. Breitel.

They said: "A reading of the book establishes that reasonable men could disagree as to whether it has redeeming social value rendering unconstitutional its suppression. A reading of the record establishes that reasonable men of distinction in the field of literature and scholarship find redeeming social value in the book."

CUBA SEEKS FERTILIZER

TORONTO (CP) — Cuba is seeking large quantities of chemical fertilizers from Canada, it was learned Thursday. The fertilizers are needed, it was believed, because a hurricane last fall destroyed wide areas of the island's topsoil.

G. D. Mungall, general manager of Canada Packers Ltd., said he thought Cuba wanted more than 100,000 tons of fertilizer valued at $60 to $80 a ton.

Jerry Potts Was Rival to Davy Crockett

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Who was Jerry Potts? The Panther Woman? Spotted Killer? Kyi-yo-Kosee?

Those are names to conjure up some of the romance and adventure of Canadian history.

Gentenial Commissioner John Fisher complains that one serious fault of Canadians is they know too little about the history of their country.

This is where Jerry Potts comes in.

"Every Canadian knows about Davy Crockett and Geronimo," Mr. Fisher told the Etobicoke Historical Society in Toronto Thursday.

"But if you mention Jerry Potts, blank stares will ensue."

Jerry Potts, according to a Canadian encyclopedia, was a colorful rival for any Davy Crockett.

He was born of a Blood Indian woman named Crooked Back and an American fur trader about 1840 and became a noted wrestler, hunter, guide, and interpreter for the Northwest Mounted Police.

His father was shot about the time he was born, and he was known as Kyi-Yo-Kosee, or Bear Child.

KNEW PRAIRIES

Potts had what the history books call an unusual degree of direction and a vast knowledge of the Prairies.

Among his accomplishments: He selected the site of Fort Macleod in southern Alberta, he arranged peace pacts between the Blackfoot Indians, and he assisted in the first arrests of American whisky traders who were robbing the Prairie tribes.

His life was pretty colorful in other ways, too. His first wife was Mary, a Crown Indian. Then his wife was Kate, order, Panther Woman and Spotted Killer, daughters of the Piegan Indian chief, Harry Shield.

And finally, Long Time Lying Down, daughter of the Blood Indian chief, One Spot.

"It has been said that time colors history," Mr. Fisher said.

"It may be so . . . we have a rather large number of color blind students in our high schools today."

Sir Alex Douglas-Home To Pay Visit to Nigeria

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A new concept of Commonwealth ties behind the one-sentence announcement that Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home is to visit Nigeria.

Sir Alec is to go to Lagos for like March 1962) will be his old friend, Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, and a discussion between the two rich northern nations of the world can help the "poor south," especially in a Commonwealth context.

The idea is close to Sir Alec's heart. Simplified, the Conservative view is that the East-West cold war is no longer the first concern of international politics now that the Soviet Union is reconciled to nuclear stalemate. So the new task for the West is to close the "north-south" gap. The developed countries must see how they can assist the younger nations of Africa and Asia, not only in industrial and economic affairs but also in ensuring their stability.

SECURITY NEEDED

Sir Alec is understood to feel that events in Zanzibar, Tanganyika and Ghana, which recently was restored by British forces after local mutinies, show that the Commonwealth does not adequately need some means of guaranteeing their own internal security.

Trained police and military units are a cardinal requirement. This is why Britain is advocating to the East African territories the establishment of military academies, to be probably staffed by British soldiers.

Sir Alec also stresses the need for economic help.

He alluded to the "north-south" aid problem in his Feb. 11 Toronto speech to the Empire Club. He said that the division of world broadly coincided with the division of color, and; therefore. "in these economic discussions there lurks the danger of a racial division of the world on

Children Rely on Welfare Agencies to Care for Parents Senate Committee Is Told

OTTAWA (CP) — An increasing number of young Canadians are relying on the state and voluntary welfare agencies to look after aged parents without adequate financial resources, the Senate committee on aging was told Thursday.

Dr. C. J. MacDonald, secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the United Church of Canada, decried this growing trend as the committee resumed studies initiated at the last session of Parliament on problems presented by Canada's aging population.

Dr. MacDonald said that if children do not agree voluntarily to take care of aging parents there is no way to force them to do it. Many took the position that if the state or a welfare agency would do it they would not.

"We haven't got an answer to that problem," Mrs. J. L. Halpenny, MP, assisted on the church's board of Christian education, told Senator David Croll (Lib-Cardinal, Committee chairman.

Rev. J. R. Hord, secretary of the church's board of evangelism and social services, said there is no excuse for children incarcerating their aged parents in homes and never visiting them.

MANY EASY PREY

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario) said many aged parents are easy prey for relatives and friends. He knew of cases where widows were persuaded to turn over to children money left to them by their husbands in exchange for inadequate care.

Mrs. Halpenny said the church is concerned that many people do not take out even good legal advice to prevent this sort of thing happening She said there are counselled programs or community assistance for aged persons should include the provision of legal counselling.

However, Dr. C. A. Roberts, chairman of the National Scientific Planning Committee of the Canadian Mental Health Association, said his experience does not suggest that children do not want to care for their parents. There was little evidence that this was taking place, he said.

Deadline Set For Submitting Views on Trade

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — An April 15 deadline was set Thursday for industries and other groups to submit their views on the approaching "Kennedy round" of international tariff-cutting negotiations.

Canada's veteran trade negotiator, Hector McKinnon, expressed confidence that this country will be ready for the scheduled May 4 start of negotiations at Geneva under GATT —the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Mr. McKinnon, called out of retirement at the age of 73, is acting chairman of the tariff committee which will hear industry submissions and help prepare the groundwork for Canada's negotiators in Geneva. The chairman, External Affairs Undersecretary Norman Robertson, is recovering from a recent lung operation.

Mr. McKinnon told a press conference the impending negotiations will probably be the most important since the Second World War, and indicated he expected a record volume of briefs and submissions from industry.

INFORMATION ASKED

The government is asking industries or associations to provide, in confidence, information on their production, employment, exports and imports, and any plans for expanding production or introducing new products.

Companies hoping to win new tariff concessions in other countries are asked to spell out what tariff reductions they want Canada's negotiators to seek. Those who might be affected by cuts in the Canadian tariff are asked to state what reductions Canada might offer and what existing tariff protection they feel should not be removed.

Mr. McKinnon said the committee expects to hear the views of "at least several hundred firms."

He said that while the Geneva meeting will open on schedule May 4, it was "the 864 question" whether actual negotiations would start then.

He said negotiations likely will stretch over- at least a year, and Canada would have "a good opportunity" to prepare its position.

BIG CUTS PROPOSED

The United States has proposed tariff cuts of up to 50 per cent — "linear" reductions affecting almost all of a country's import items.

Current GATT discussions centre on the problem of how many products could be exempted from a linear cut and the issue of tariff "disparities" in cases where there is a high tariff on a product and another has a low tariff.

Canada is known as a concession in that it won't be expected to make a cross-the-board cut on all its tariffs. But it will be committed to giving other countries tariff concessions matching the value of tariff cuts they make.

Mr. McKinnon said Canada will have to pick and choose which of its import duties are to be cut.

One of Canada's goals in the negotiations is a substantial reduction in European agricultural barriers to agricultural products.

Mr. McKinnon said in the past have provided little progress in this field.

Officials indicated that both Canada and the United States will insist that industrial tariff cuts will not be made unless substantial progress is made in reducing barriers to agricultural products.

Expect Bridge From Kingston To New York

KINGSTON (CP) — Douglas Parker, chairman of the Jefferson County, N.Y., board of supervisors, said Thursday he believes an international bridge across the St. awrence River between Kingston and Cape Vincent, N.Y., will be under construction in five years.

The bridge would link Ontario Highway 401 and New York State Expressway 81, he said at a dinner sponsored by the Kingston, Ont., bridge committee and attended by 40 northern New York officials.

Mayor Cerow of Clayton, N.Y., said the Jefferson County board of supervisors is ready to ask the United States government for permission to build the bridge, but will need the numerous Canadian officials seek a similar authority from Ottawa.

Canadian Working on Plane Making Straight-up Takeoff

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadair Limited hopes to have a small, multi-purpose transport plane making straight-up takeoffs by the summer of 1965—soon enough, it is hoped, to get into world markets ahead of competitors.

The aircraft is the CL-84, a VTOL — vertical takeoff and landing—plane being developed at a $10,000,000 cost.

Conceived eight years ago, the development program now is marched ahead by a wood - and - cardboard mockup has been put together and teams of Canadian and United States military experts are paying visits.

To take off vertically, the CL-84's wings are tilted to a vertical position so that its two engines, each driving propellers by twin turboprop engines, bite into the air like the rotor of a helicopter.

The little transport is like a helicopter in this respect but is designed to move faster and handle more easily in flight, after its wings have been locked back in the horizontal position.

Frederick Phillips, in charge of CL-84 production at Canadair, says there is keen military interest in the plane because of its potential uses in spots where conventional aircraft, and even helicopters don't fill the bill.

The CL-84 would have a forward speed of 400 knots.

As laid out now, it has beech seats for 12 fully - equipped soldiers but larger models could come later.

Canada's department of defence production demonstrated council confidence in the idea last year to underwrite three-quarters of the $10,000,000 development cost.

Both British and French manufacturers have produced VTOL and fighter planes, but no transport models have been made yet.

Mr. Phillips predicted civilian use of VTOL transports is a long way off.

"I don't see how an airplane like this can be made economically worthwhile for a civil operator in the foreseeable future."

Physical, Moral, Mental Fitness Aim of Y.M.C.A. Annual Dinner Meet Told

Y President Misses Meet

Called to England on business, YMCA president Bruce MacKenzie missed this year's annual meeting. He was represented at the meeting by vice-president W. S. Wills, who read a short presidential report and by Mrs. MacKenzie, who accepted a presentation intended for her husband. A full president's report, as written by Mr. MacKenzie, appears elsewhere in this issue.

"Canadians need more backbone where most people carry a wishbone," Belleville Y.M.C.A. members were told last night. Speaking at the Belleville Y's annual dinner meeting, National Y.M.C.A. Secretary for Physical Education J. Wesley McVicar told his audience that physical fitness is the foundation of moral and mental fitness, and that the purpose of the Y.M.C.A. is to develop all three.

Speaking earlier in the evening, local General Secretary D. G. Diamantides outlined the development of the "Y" in Belleville from 1902 to the present, and made some predictions for the future.

"Nearly half the members of the 'Y' now are women and girls," he said, and he predicted a change in the composition of the board of directors, to reflect the proportion. "Young members of the 'Y' will be encouraged in the future, he said, "to approach the board of directors and its committees directly with their needs." "Already accelerated during the past year, the Y's leadership training program will be stepped up again," he said, "to keep pace with the demand for more leaders. Co-educational activities will be emphasized."

Because of the shortage of space and lack of a gymnasium in the new building, Mr. Diamantides said, and because the new building is off-centre in the city, programs of the Y.M.C.A. will be expanded outside the building. First phase of this expansion program is already in operation in West Hill, he said, where Graham Geldart is conducting classes for pre-teen-agers in Prince Charles School.

Five Members Of Y Honored By Directors

Leaders' Fellowship awards were presented last night during the annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A., to five supporters of the organization. Presentations were made by Gerald B. Hyde. Ross F. Allan, a teacher at Belleville Collegiate Institute, received the award for his work as advisor to the boys' Hi-Y Club. Mrs. C. S. Lowther was honored for her seven years of work on the physical education committee. Linton D. Reid, vice-principal of Moira Secondary School, was honored for his nine years of work as a 'Y' director. Charles Wilson, president of Wilson Concrete Products, was honored for outstanding work on the 'Y' building committee. Vernon Welt, an active participating member of the 'Y' for 43 years and a charter member of the Y's Men's Club, received a standing ovation as he accepted his award for continuous service.

After the presentations, president of the Y's Men's Club, D. Trumble, presented a cheque from the club, for $1,000, to the Y.M.C.A. "The cheque," he said, "was the first instalment of the second $5,000 pledged by the Y's Men to the Y.M.C.A. building program."

EXTENSION PROGRAMS

The year 1964 will be double barrelled, expansion-wise, as the Y.M.C.A. moves into new areas of influence in the city. While the new building is nearing completion in the eastern section, the Prince Charles Elementary School on the West Hill has been the site of an extension program for 9 to 12 year old boys and girls. The youngsters have a gym program at the school once a week and attend the 'Y' for swimming on alternate Saturdays. The program was planned, arranged with the School Board, organized and promoted in the latter months of 1962, and then officially introduced into operation in January of 1964. This is a worthwhile program of equally as high calibre as that offered in the 'Y' building and caters to children who would otherwise not be reached. It makes good use of the taxpayers money by using facilities which would be idle but for which the Y.M.C.A. pays a nominal fee. The West Hill Extension program is a pilot project for the months of January through May and if it is successful and wanted the 'Y' plans to continue in the Fall and possibly to expand into other areas as well.

Modern look of the new Family YMCA now under construction. Completion expected in late spring.

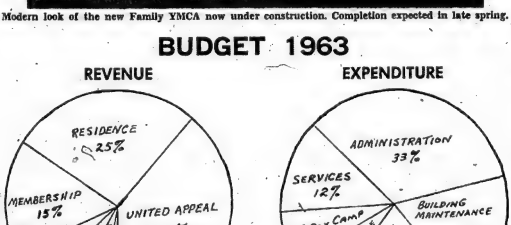
GENERAL PROGRAM



Apart from the usual gym and swim programs that are the Y.M.C.A. worldwide; there are a number of special interest activities organized and operated within and without the local Association. Programs are of various natures and are planned to meet specific needs of individuals of both sexes and of almost every age. Purpose groups in club form are active for boys, girls, young adults and men and women. These are aimed at the three fold development of the whole person: body, mind, and spirit. The physical fitness groups meet for fulfilling needs in specific areas but they also provide the basis for developing the well proportioned individual; socially, emotionally, mentally, and spiritually.

The variety of activities develops the potential leadership qualities in those of this community who will be tomorrow's leaders. The training of leaders is one of the Y.M.C.A.'s most important functions.

The 'Y' has a program that can fit every need — inquire and participate. Enjoy the facilities individually and as a family at the Belleville Family Y.M.C.A. Help yourself to healthful living and to the enjoyment of a full life.

For those who are interested, program statistics for 1963 may be obtained at the Y.M.C.A.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE . . .

Bruce G. MacKenzie
President Y.M.C.A.

During the year 1963, the Belleville Family Y.M.C.A. handled:-

1954 Different Members.
179 Different classes and groups.
57,376 Number of attendances.

Due to the remarkably fine job being done by the professional staff, Belleville had one of the lowest operating cost per member of any Y.M.C.A. in Canada, at $30.00 per youth member. The Belleville United Appeal has enabled fees for children and youths to be held to an average of only $12.00 per member, which is less than a weekly admission to a show. If our youth are to continue to have these same opportunities as most other important cities of Canada, it is important that we all give our United Appeal strong support.

Your Y.M.C.A. Board have recognized that even this low membership fee can be difficult for large families, and in 1963, an instalment plan was introduced. The whole family — father, mother, and all the children — can now belong for less than $1.00 a week. Of course, free admissions continue for any child whose family cannot afford a membership. If any reader of this report has never enjoyed any of the many Y.M.C.A. activities, he is invited now to drop into the "Y" for details and programs.

Ways and means of taking the Y.M.C.A. Club Social and Gymnasium activities to the north and west end of the City have been started with the initial program at the Prince Charles School. A possible system to bring children from these areas by bus at a convenient time is now under study.

Your new building is now well underway to provide Belleville with supervised swimming instructions and classes in a pool 25' by 60', to be completed by this spring. The property also provides 4 acres of ground for outdoor activity for a large part of the year. The year 1964 now brings us into a new era of Belleville community activity and recreational opportunity, made possible by a great deal of hard work and support by the people of Belleville themselves.

These things and many others make up your Belleville Family Y.M.C.A. For the day to day operations more than 100 Belleville citizens work on committees and your board of directors to organize and control the various activities. On behalf of the citizens and youth of Belleville, I want to extend to these people our sincerest appreciation.

A point that is not very well known is that the Belleville "Y" is strictly a local organization which applies each and every year to a National Council of Y.M.C.A.'s for permission to use the name and participate in this great international fellowship. It is yours to enjoy. I think everyone will agree that there is little point in expanding our city and our industry if we do not expand opportunities to build character and leadership in our youth to run these expansions in the future. I sincerely hope that every citizen and particularly parents will avail themselves of this fine opportunity to serve our youth, helping to make Belleville a better place to live and to work.

BRUCE G. MACKENZIE

INFORMAL ADULT EDUCATION

A series of Informal Adult Education Courses "Learning for Fun" has been added to the Y's adult program in the Spring which met with very good success. 161 adults, men and women, took advantage of this new program that consisted of courses in Leadership Training, Millinery, Sewing, Conversational French, Charm, Children's Arts and Crafts, and Investments.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: I understand that the new airport is now open in Toronto. Could you tell me how to get there, and something about this new airport? — N. L. M., Belleville.

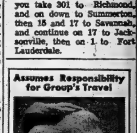
ANSWER: Toronto's International Airport's $34,000,000 terminal was opened to traffic Jan. 11. The new terminal is south of the Malton Airport. Follow Highway 401 until you come to Malton interchange and you will see it from the highway. Just follow the signs from there. It is considered one of the most modern air terminals in the world. It has one of the largest indoor parking facilities in Canada, a dining lounge and cocktail bar, a small hotel, and some of the finest works of Canadian and European artists and sculptors.

QUESTION: I am interested in attending the "Farmers Week," sponsored by the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph. Could you tell me its date and the best way to get there? — A. S., Carrying Place.

ANSWER: This event is Feb. 24-28. The fastest way to get to Guelph is to take 401 Highway to Morriston, and then north on Highway 6 to Guelph. It is about an hour and ten miles south of Guelph.

QUESTION: I missed the "Ice-capades" in Toronto and wondered if they were still in Ontario and at what city. — Miss G. B., Bellville.

ANSWER: They will be in Kitchener Feb. 23-March 1. At the Memorial Arena nightly 8 p.m., Saturday 1 p.m., 5 p.m., 9 p.m., Sunday 2:30 p.m.



QUESTION: Could you please tell us what date the O'Keefe Jumping Meet will take place at Fort William, and the best way to drive there? — T. A., Trenton.

ANSWER: The O'Keefe Jumping Meet will be held Feb. 22-23. The best way to get there is to take 401 to Highway 400, north on 400 to Barrie and on to Waubashene, then 103 to Footes' Bay, 69 to Sudbury and 17 to Sault Ste. Marie and Fort William. The Meet is to be held at the Fort William Ski Club. This is a long drive — about 1,000 miles — but the roads are not too bad at this time of year. They are continually plowed and sanded.

QUESTION: We are driving to Fort Lauderdale and would like the fastest route down, and other information you have pertaining to this trip. — A. L. S., Nepanee.

ANSWER: If you are not a member of the OML, we would suggest that you get the proper maps, such as the Northeastern, Southeastern and Florida, and follow these directions. Take 401 to Ivy Lea Bridge, then on to Watertown via Route 12 and 180, then on 81 to Syracuse. From Syracuse on 81 and 11 to Binghampton , and 81 again to Allentown, and then on 22 to Harrisburg and on to Baltimore. From there, you take 301 to Richmond, and on down to Summerton, then 15 and 17 to Savannah, and continue on 17 to Jacksonville, then on 1 to Fort Lauderdale.

Assumes Responsibility for Group's Travel

DEWAR SCOTT

Quickly grabbing the reins of his new office, Mr. Scott had most decided views about travel. "Our Lodge's funds are hard to come by" he said, "and I intend to stretch them to the last cent. With Canadian National's Group Travel Plans, Take ON's Party Fares, for example, for smaller groups of 10 or more, I can save this Lodge 10% to 20% over and above the big savings on Red 'Bargain' and White 'Economy' Days. And, for larger groups, I'm going to use ON's Charter Coach Plan. Think of it. We can enjoy a coach exclusively for the entire trip at a rock-bottom price. 60 Lodge members, travelling in their 'own' coach, can save as much as 33⅓. We've got ourselves a real bargain. We can even charter our 'own' sleeper for overnight trips. It keeps the group together — and solvent! See why I was elected Travel Officer!"

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"The report in the newspapers the other day that the shortest heavyweight championship fight on record was a one-minute two-seconds affair scored by Tommy Burns over Jem Roach, March 17, 1906, is not correct," said the voice on the telephone.

"The shortest fight," the voice claimed, "took eleven seconds and was scored by Georges Carpentier over Britain's Joe Beckett at the Olympia in London. I was there."

Sorry, sir. You are correct on the time of the Carpentier-Beckett fight, but this was not a world heavyweight championship affair. It was for the British light heavyweight title.

Carpentier, the French Orchid, fought in only one world heavyweight title fight. That was the "Battle of the Century" in 1921, when Jack Dempsey put the handsome Frenchman away in the fourth round at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City.

The almost-dainty Frenchman came to the United States in 1920 after winning the European light-heavy title and was matched with King Levinsky. He knocked the "Kingfish" out in four rounds in Jersey City and won the world light-heavy crown.

He became the darling of American fans especially the dimmest side who clamored for a heavyweight fight between Dempsey and Carpentier.

After his defeat by Dempsey, Carpentier went back to his beloved France still the world light-heavy champion. But he lost this crown on September 22, 1922, when he was knocked out by the Senegalese Battling Siki in the sixth round in Paris.

But it is a far cry from the modern "tainted" upset brawls called heavyweight championships with millions in purses to the marathon battles fought before the turn of the century.

Imagine sitting over seven hours in front of the television set waiting for a couple of bruisers to settle a spot of fisticuffing. The teen-age drink-sippers or fag-smokers would be senior citizens by the time the last commercial grated on your ears.

The longest fight with gloves went 110 rounds and took seven hours 19 minutes. It was fought in New Orleans, April 6, 1893, between Andy Bowen and Jack Burke. The referee called it "no contest" when the fighters refused to continue.

In the good old bare-knuckle days when the boys wore their hair parted in the middle with that greasy kid stuff and walrus moustaches tickled milady's fancy, the boys stood toe-to-toe and slugged it out without benefit of hand-softening detergents or lotions.

One afternoon on a misty English moor, Mike Madden and Bill Hays fought 185 rounds for five hours of mild-and-bitter and a ten-quid sidebet. This was back in 1849 and the fight lasted six hours and three minutes.

They had their gimmicks and gamblers back in those days. But things were done in the open not behind closed doors by syndicates, commissions and whatnot.

Back in 1787 a bloke named Tom Jackling, who had cleaned a lot of English clocks, bet $30,000 he could whip the Irish champion, one Mike O'Ryan. The "harp" and Jackling in a bad way after 29 minutes of knuckle-dusting and his seconds blasted "foul."

The referee, said to be a retired English highwayman, allowed the foul and himself got into the argument prolonging it to the point where his English buddy recovered. Ten minutes later he knocked the Irisher colder than a Dublin mackerel.

In 1789 Jackling made $75,000 by beating Isaac Perrins, the "Brum Giant" in 63 rounds which took 80 minutes. (A knockdown, or fall-down was called a round. It could take four minutes or two seconds.)

Before the fight Jackling went around the ring and bet $25,000 on himself. Gamblers surrounded him and promised him a percentage of their winnings. Afterwards a gambler, Bullock, who made $50,000, gave him $5,000. Jackling took a "gate present" of $6,500. He collected $40,000 from his gambler backers. The battle ranked as the greatest betting affair in English history.

Jackling had $200,000 by this time. A year later he was broke. He drifted into obscurity and was never heard of again.

Blues Pass Up National Puck Championship

TORONTO (CP) — University of Toronto Blues, senior intercollegiate hockey champions, have decided not to participate in the national finals in Kingston next month because it will be too close to final exams.

Winners from the Maritimes, Western Canada and the Ontario-St. Lawrence Intercollegiate Athletic Unions are scheduled to play for the national title March 13-14. All have agreed to attend.

ANOTHER WINNER

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Veteran jockey Johnny Longden won the sixth race at Santa Anita Thursday—his 2000th victory here and the 5,781st of his long career. The 57-year-old Longden, who started racing in 1927, rode Miss Twist.

Rangers Thump Bruins ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Hawks Cool Wings, Regain Top Half

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

They say the trick to scoring in the National Hockey League is in getting off that shot with a minimum of fuss and preparation.

Give a goaltender an unimpeded line of vision and a chance to set himself and he'll anticipate you right out of the league.

It's the sneaky ones that give him trouble.

But a couple of fellows can count 'em on sheer velocity in their shooting and one of them is Bobby Hull, the blonde kid with all the ripply muscles and Grecian profile.

He scored his 37th goal of the season on one such typical effort Thursday night and his Chicago Black Hawks bounded back into a share of first place in the standings with a 4-2 win over Detroit Red Wings, a club on a hot streak up to that point.

HOWELL HURTS BRUINS

New York's Harry Howell, never known as a wizard on the attack, meanwhile scored once and helped set up two goals, powering the Rangers to a 4-2 win over Boston Bruins in a game between two clubs headed nowhere.

The Black Hawks, performing before a hometown crowd of 14,683, swung into a 75-point tie with Montreal Canadiens at the head of the standings by beating a club that had won seven and tied one in the previous nine games.

But the Canadiens have 11 games to go to Chicago's nine. They tangle twice more the first meeting Sunday night in Chicago and the second one, March 14 in Montreal.

Ron Murphy, defenceman Pierre Pilote and Chico Maki were the Chicago goal-getters along with Hull while Larry Jeffrey and Norm Ullman found the mark for the fourth-place Red Wings.

SCORING SHOT SIZZLES

Hull simply overpowered Terry Sawchuk to score with a 50-footer. Sawchuk saw it all the way but the puck streaked over his shoulder before he could react.

Only a handful of performers can get them that way, perhaps Montreal's Bobby Rousseau and Jean Beliveau most notably among them apart from Bobby.

Only a big finishing kick would carry Hull even close to the 50-goal record he shares with Bernie Geoffrion and Rocket Richard.

They were talking in terms of a 60-goal season for Hull some time back. He was always considered a slow starter. But he pushed off big this season, giving rise to heady speculation.

His production fell off this month for some reason and now he needs 13 goals in nine games to reach 50.

PENALTIES HURT BRUINS

Before 10,241 fans in Boston, Howell and Rod Gilbert both scored for New York while the Bruins were two men short because of penalties and the Rangers got an insurance goal when Bob Nevin, a principal in the Toronto trade.

Earl Ingarfield was the other New York scorer.

Defencemen Teddy Green and Leo Boivin counted for Boston. Green clicked on a power-play. But he was one of the two Boston players in the box when Howell and Gilbert scored.

The schedule resumes Saturday night with New York at Montreal, Chicago at Toronto and Detroit at Boston. Sunday night, apart from the Chicago-Montreal game, it's Toronto at Boston and Detroit at New York.

Top Catch A 64-Pounder
'Muskie Pair' Sweeps Awards

NEW YORK (CP) — The husband-and-wife fishing team of Leonard and Betty Hartman of Ogdensburg, N.Y., trying to crack the world's muskellunge record, won most prizes in Field and Stream's 1963 contest for muskies, but still didn't reach their goal.

They have been trying for several years to beat the muskie record of 67 pounds 15 ounces set by Arthur Lawton of Delmar, N.Y., in 1956 in the Thousand Islands area of the St. Lawrence River.

The March issue of the authoritative outdoor magazine, announcing results of its fresh water contest, shows that the Hartmans, now winter-fishing in Florida, cleaned up in the open and fly-casting divisions, fishing on the United States side of the St. Lawrence River, topped by a 64¼-pounder. In 1962 Leonard got four fish into the rankings, the largest 65 pounds.

In 1963 Betty landed two lunkers in the open class—the 64¼-pound winner caught on unrestricted line and Len's Musky-Bug and a 44-pound 15-ounce caught on eight-pound test line and Leo's Lure. Leonard caught two—45¾ pounds on six-pound test line and Len's Musky-Bug and 42 pounds three ounces on four-pound test line and Len's Lure. Len also produced the top muskie by fly-fishing—38½ pounds on a Fly Mouse.

Ontario waters yielded one award as Eugene C. Eggert of St. Paul, Minn., caught a 31-pound six-ounce muskie in Manitou Lake in the Nipissing district on 12-pound test line and a bucktail spinner.

The Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull banged in another goal Thursday night.

But he needs to put on a real whirlwind finish to get anywhere close to the National Hockey League's 50-goal record he shares with Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard.

The goal was Hull's 37th of the season and his Chicago Black Hawks have but nine more games to play in the schedule.

Hull's teammate Stan Mikita failed to score a point but still leads the point-collectors with 75, two points ahead of Hull.

Womens Curling Championship
BC Rink Wins Crown Second Time

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP) — Despite an anticlimactic last-round defeat, Ina Hansen's Kimberley, B.C., rink reigned today for the second time in three years as Canadian women's curling champions.

With the title safely locked away as a result of a 13-6 victory over Manitoba earlier in the day, the new champions lost their ninth - round match 11-7 Thursday to New Brunswick, the only province ever to finish in front of the Hansen quartet in three appearances in the competition.

Still to be resolved today was a second-place tie between Alberta and Nova Scotia, scheduled to meet in a playoff after both finished the round-robin competition with six victories and three defeats, two games ahead British Columbia's winning 8-1 mark.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Ontario were next with five victories in nine starts, followed by New Brunswick and Quebec at 4-5, Prince Edward Island managed two victories and Newfoundland was winless.

After Thursday's play, the Dominion Diamond D Trophy was presented to the winning rink by Ab Mellor, public relations director of Dominion Stores Limited.

Alberta and Nova Scotia both lost chances to win second place without a playoff by splitting their games Thursday. Mickey Down of Dawson Creek, B.C., whose district is affiliated with the Alberta Curling Association, defeated Newfoundland 9-6 but lost to Ontario 8-6. Rene Snow's Halifax foursome was beaten 10-8 by Saskatchewan but came from behind to nip Prince Edward Island 13-8.

Ontario stopped New Brunswick 10-6 and Quebec shaded P.E.I. 9-8 in other eighth-round games. In the ninth round Saskatchewan walloped Newfoundland 12-4 and Quebec tripped Manitoba 8-6, costing Myrle McGregor's highly-regarded Carman rink a share of second place.

Experts Rate Clay 'Crude Amateur'

Got Breaks, Handling

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Everybody knows Cassius Clay can talk. The question is, can he fight.

Even though he is heavyweight champion of the world, surprise conqueror of the formidable Sonny Liston, there still is widespread reluctance to rate him the true king of the fight-ers.

Liston himself holds the Louisville youngster in contempt. The former champion says he lost to Clay last Tuesday only because he wrenched his shoulder in the first round and couldn't go on after the sixth.

"He's a dancer—a foot racer," Liston said ducking off Cassius after their bout. "Floyd Patterson was better." Liston twice demolished Patterson in the first round.

Many ring observers consider the good - looking, 22-year-old former Olympic champion still a crude amateur who has gained his present high station on an astounding combination of expert managerial handling, good breaks and impudence.

SAY LISTON IS BETTER

They say Liston would hammer him into senselessness if he had two good arms.

Others tag Clay a modern wizard, blessed with exceptionally fast hands and feet, a head, lightning reflexes and enough confidence to stock an army.

Pay your money and take your choice but you still wind up with the fact that Clay has not yet convincingly proved, in the tradition of Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano, that he can lick anybody of unlimited size.

A repeat, unsullied victory over the powerful Liston can bring him closer to this distinction, but even then there probably would be some to contend that he won over a weary old man.

Clay's record shows 20 victories, 15 by knockouts, since he put his Olympic gold medal in the trophy case and turned professional in October, 1960.

But you have to make reservations when you consider how the mark was achieved. The man Louisville syndicate which assumed Clay's management and the wily trainer Angelo Dundee, did a masterful job in nursing their product to this summit - million - dollar shot at the championship.

They fed him a succession of easy opponents, not set-ups entirely but men they knew Cassius could lick. In many cases, they were reputable fighters going downhill.

Even then, there were some close shaves.

O'Hara Runs Second Fastest Indoor Mile

Crothers, Kidd Brilliant In Garden Meet

By JIM PRACOCK

NEW YORK (CP) — The track and field crowds at Madison Square Garden whoop it up every time Tom O'Hara, Bill Crothers or Bruce Kidd is introduced—and no wonder.

The three athletes gave the 13,000 at the Garden for Thursday's Knights of Columbus indoor games some real runs for their money.

O'Hara, the 21-year-old, 130-pound Loyola College senior from Chicago, ran the second fastest indoor mile in history and en route set a world indoor record for the metric mile.

Crothers, 23-year-old Toronto pharmacist who runs for the East York Track Club, raced away with an easy triumph in the 600-yard run, then came back with a sensational final quarter-mile anchor leg which sent brought his East York team from 20 yards behind to victory in the club mile relay.

Kidd, 20-year-old University of Toronto student who also runs for East York, spurted ahead in the last 1¼ laps of the 22-lap two-mile race to beat Australian Ron Clarke by two yards.

OTHERS ANTI-CLIMACTIC

The high jump, where John Thomas of Boston won by clearing seven feet, one inch; the pole vault, won by John Uelses with a jump of 16 feet one-quarter inch, and Gary Gubner's shot put victory with a heave of 62 feet 9¼ inches were anticlimactic.

O'Hara was timed in three minutes, 58.5 seconds in the mile—less than two seconds off the world indoor record he set two weeks ago when he was timed in 3:56.6.

Official times caught him in 2:43.6 at the 1,500-metre mark, a full three seconds under the listed indoor mark set by Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi, who ran 3:46.6 en route to his 4:01.8 victory in this same meet in 1961.

Ervas Leps of Toronto, finished second, running his best indoor mile in 4:03.6. Leps was more than 30 yards behind at the finish, but his time was far better than his 4:08.6 posted as he won the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union title here last Saturday.

Dave Bailey, 19-year-old Tucson high school senior making his first indoor mile start, was fourth in 4:12.7.

WINS BY 10 YARDS

Crothers, winner at distances of 300, 600, 880 and 1,000 yards in earlier indoor yards this winter, won by 10 yards in 1:09.7 in the Casey 600—four-tenths of a second off the listed world record. He stayed behind the other three men in the race until the last two laps, then pulled away with ease.

The strong Toronto runner was much more sensational in pacing his East York relay team to its victory over three others in the club mile relay.

Dave McClure, George Shepherd—who finished fourth in the 1,000-yard run—and Don McCarter, running in that order, had fallen 20 yards behind by the time Crothers got the baton for the last quarter mile.

Crothers streaked away, covered the distance in 47.2 seconds and hit the tape four-tenths of a second ahead of the New York Pioneer club's anchor man.

Kidd, his arms flapping and occasionally his left cha, a clutching at his jersey, turned on the steam in the last two laps of the two-mile run to overtake Clarke and then hold him off to the finish.

He was timed in 8:39, matching the Garden record he had set previously. Clarke, world-record holder for the three-mile indoor run and the six-mile and 10,000-metre outdoor distances, was timed in 8:39.2.

Clarke had led almost from the start until the last two laps.

Moira Girls Whip Trenton

By DEE DORAN

Moira's junior girls captured the Bay of Quinte OSSAA basketball title by defeating Trenton 33-15 at Moira yesterday.

The Moira girls took the lead early in the first quarter scoring 11 points to Trenton's 4. Both teams added 7 points in the second quarter making the half time score 18-15. In the next eight minutes Moira hooped 7 points to 1 for T.H.S. Moira again tallied 7 points in the last quarter to 3 for Trenton.

The game, on the whole, was well played with numerous jump balls and fouls. However, Sally Brillinger of Trenton was the only player to be fouled out. The forwards of both teams seemed to have some trouble in putting the ball through the basket. Credit again goes to Moira's guard line whose quick and interceptions kept the Trenton score at a minimum.

The high scorers of the game were Ann Thompson of Moira with 14 points, Linda Wasson maker of Trenton with 12 and Diane Schroeder with 9 points.

Moira — Neill 3, Schroeder 9, Ann Thompson 14, J. Thompson 3, McConnell, Janitch, Dunning, Watson, Lovering, Mesdes, Barnard, Baldwin.

Trenton — Griffiths 3, Wannamaker 12, Millar, James 1, Joffery, A. Filion, Garvie, C. Filion, Stockwell, Palidwar, Brillinger.

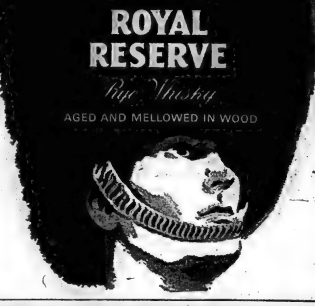
YCAHA SUSPENDED

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Manuel Yczza drew a five-day suspension Thursday which will cost him mounts in two $100,000-added races — Saturday's Santa Anita Derby and the Flamingo March 3 at Hialeah Park. Santa Anita stewards took down the fiery little Panamanian Feb. 29 to March 5 inclusive, ruling Yczza was guilty of careless riding on Upper Half in the San Marino Handicap Wednesday.

WE'RE NOT THROUGH YET!

Although it has been published in some of the area newspapers that the Stirling "Flames" have been disqualified from further play in the Trent Valley Hockey League, we have secured permission from the League Executive to finish our schedule. Our coach, Bill Blakely, has resumed his duties and the team has shown its desire to try again, harder than ever.



A team with little support not only loses games, but also loses heart. This seems to have been our position this year but we are still willing to try!

Even at this late date we are re-organizing in order to present a team with the fighting spirit usually found in Stirling; but we ask that the "good sports" of the area give us a chance. With a little encouragement, we think that we can make our sponsors and our town proud of us — Perhaps not this season, but in those to follow.

To those who have helped us, we say a sincere "Thank you". To those who have not, we say "we're trying. Please give us a chance".

Sacos Win, Horlocks Belch Tie

SACO chalked up their second win in a row, whipping Ter-Hae Daubers 9-2, in Quinte Hockey League semi-finals last night.

In the other half of the semi-finals, Horlock Electric battled Belch Construction to a 2-2 deadlock. Belch's lead the best-of-five series one game to none with one tie.

Third games in both series are slated for next Thursday night.

Belch's led 1-0 after one period and 2-1 after two last night but Horlocks earned the tie with the only goal of the third period, seconds before the end.

Bill Hill and Rob Burrows scored for Horlocks. R. Poste getting the only assist. W. Boulter and Larry Westfall tailied the Belch goals. G. Webb, D. Wood and B. Boulter getting assists.

SACO moved ahead of Ter-Haar 2-0 in the first period and it was 4-2 going into the third when the winners triggered five in a row.

H. Reid fired two SACO goals with singletons going to D. Lucas, D. Ray, L. Potter, D. Knapton, R. Porteous, G. Crabbe and J. Calnan. Crabbe earned three assists, Porteous two, G. Gilby, Reid, Potter, Calnan and Knapton one apiece.

H. Pointer and B. Pointer were the Daubers scorers. B. Jeffery and H. Pointer also drew assists.

SACO drew eight penalties compared to one for the losers. The winners' D. Lucas had a misconduct late in the game.

North Shore Hockey

Stinson Construction and Wellington moved to within one victory of a place in the Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League finals in Wellington last night.

Wellington scored a tight 5-4 overtime victory over Consecon and Stinson's clipped Melville Shorelmers 9-2. The winners' lead the 3-of-5 semi-finals two games to none.

The Consecon crew held Wellington on even terms all the way. It was 1-1, 2-2 and 4-4 by periods before Eldon Carson scored Wellington's winning goal at 3.08 of the ten-minute heat. Joe Scott, who set up the goal, got two markers himself and two assists. Gary Pyke got one goal and two assists and Norm Hodgson also scored.

Lionel Adair was tops for Consecon with a goal and two assists. Doug Wilson, Ron Kelly, and Jack Wannamaker were the other marksmen. The losers had two misconducts among the game's nine penalties.

Stinson Construction settled for a 2-2 sawoff in the first frame before scoring three in the second and four in the third without a reply from Melville.

Royce Doxtator sparked the Stinson attack with a brace of goals and assists on two others. Keith Dickey also scored twice and helped on one. Billy Genereaux, Gary Genereaux and John Emerson each collected a goal and assist with Paul Stinson and Arnold Weatherall getting the other goals.

Roger Flake and Wayne Cruickshank were the Melville marksmen.

Next games in both series are scheduled for Tuesday night.

Crush Flyers 12-2, Habs Beaten
Marlies Clinch Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros have clinched a first place finish in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Thursday the Marlboros crushed Hamilton Red Wings 12-2 to push their total to 79 points with three games left on the schedule. Meanwhile Montreal, who were dumped 7-4 by Oshawa Generals, have 71 points with only three games remaining.

The only other scheduled league game saw Peterborough Petes grab a share of fourth place by downing the third-place St. Catharines Black Hawks 3-1. By virtue of the win, Petes moved into a tie with the idle Niagara Falls Flyers.

Nick Harbaruk carried the Marlboros to victory with a six-point output, including three goals. Paul Laurent, Andre Champagne and Ron Ellis counted two goals each. Pete Sienkowski, Brian Watson and Grant Moore had the others. John DeDiana and Pete Ververgaert replied for the Red Wings.

Ron Buchanan, who ranks behind Montreal's 28-goal scorer Yvan Cournoyer in that department, paced the Generals with a goal and four assists. It pushed his total for the season to 49 goals.

Other Oshawa marksmen were Bill Little and George Vall with two goals each and Danny O'Shea and Wayne Cashman with one apiece. Jacques Lemaire, Don Young, Christian Bordeleau and Leo Thiffault scored for Montreal.

Peterborough got a goal in each period—from Bob Jamison, Mickey Redmond and Jim Paterson—with the final goal going into an empty net. Brian McDonald scored for the loser.

Knights Bow To Wings, Braves Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Omaha Knights, with a 17-point lead in the Central Professional Hockey League standings, can afford to relax once in awhile. Thursday night they dropped their guard and lost a 4-2 decision to the tail-end Cincinnati Wings.

In the only other scheduled outing, St. Louis Braves opened up a four-point edge over the third-place St. Paul Rangers by shading them 3-4.

Jim Peters and Nick Libbett, a pair of rookies sent up from Hamilton Red Wings in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, figured in the scoring as the Wings upset Omaha. Peters counted his first goal in professional hockey and Libbet had an assist.

Taylor Tells Jockey Club

Off-Track Betting A Problem

TORONTO (CP)—E. P. Taylor, chairman of the board of the Jockey Club Limited, said Thursday legalized offtrack betting on horse races would not necessarily eliminate illegal bookmaking.

"It is a very perplexing subject," he told the annual meeting of the club. "Very frankly we don't know ourselves how much illegal betting would be converted into legal betting."

Later, during a discussion, he said "no one should assume off-track betting is going to help racing."

Taylor said there is no law preventing racing associations from instituting offtrack betting so long as all money is paid into pools and race tracks, with a percentage being divided between the track and the government.

"I am not in any way saying the directors of the Jockey Club are in favor of offtrack betting," he added.

SUGGEST TESTS

He said a suggestion has been that, with the approval of the authorities, a number of tests should be made in Ontario cities at times when no racing is being conducted in those cities and where it is known that large - scale illegal betting is in existence.

Referring to the effect offtrack betting might have on the net revenues of tracks, Taylor said:

"Our revenues from admissions and concessions are most important. In fact they not only cover the interest on our funded debt, the income taxes we pay, and profits attributed to shareholders, but also make a contribution to purses and other expenses.

"The revenue from parimutuel wagering is in itself insufficient to pay the purses and the other operating expenses of our tracks."

He said the racing game needs more revenue to improve its calibre.

Offtrack betting, he noted, is legal in many countries including Britain and France. In Britain it had seriously reduced track attendance.

"Careful consideration now is being given to require all offtrack licences (in Britain) to make a much larger contribution to the race courses than heretofore," he said.

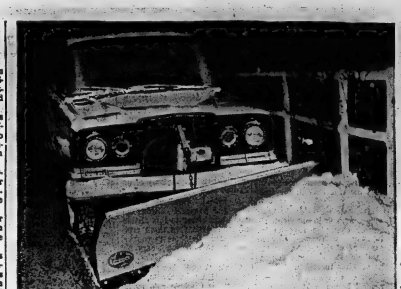
"To the best of my knowledge, booking either legal or illegal does not exist in France. And the calibre of racing there is the finest in Europe."

In the United States, Taylor added, bets of any kind on sporting events except at race tracks is illegal.

"Nevertheless, bookmakers do exist and are reputed to handle vast sums not only on races but on other sports . . . and in the process make no financial contribution to the organizations which stage such sports, nor to the horse owners, other performers and the taxation authorities."

For the year ended Nov. 30, 1963, the Jockey Club had net profit of 1,384,764 compared with net profit of 1,172,619 the previous year. The company had gross income of $16,600,402 compared with $14,853,483.

RANKS SECOND



Sweden had 2,142,900 telephones at the end of the 1962-63 fiscal year, ranking second in telephones density after the U.S.

Score Five In Overtime

Picton Ousts Gananoque

By JACK FAWKES

PICTON (Staff) — In a real weird game, the Picton Juniors fired five goals in the ten minute overtime period, to drop the Gananoque Islanders by an 8-3 score here last night.

The win knocks the Islanders out of the league for the season. Picton won the best of five playdowns, three games to none. Picton now goes against the winner of the Trenton-Napanee playdowns in a best of seven for the league championship.

Picton fired the only goal of the first period when Harold Haddock tipped in passes from Larry Lemcke and Bill Hopkins at the 15.40 mark to give them a 1-0 edge.

Facing elimination the Islanders were all over the Picton team in the second period. They outshot Picton by a 14-5 margin and only sensational work on the part of Larry Holmes in the Picton nets kept the visitors from scoring. There was such tight fore and back checking in the second period, that neither team could get a puck into the nets.

In the third period, the Islanders came to life. Stan Parker took passes from Doug Higgins and Murray Rowntree and fired the tying goal at the 1.05 mark. At the 2.44 mark, Rowntree batted home a Keith Eckert pass and it was 2-1 for the Islanders.

Picton came back and tied it up with Rory McDonald firing his first of two at the 3.17 mark, after taking a perfect pass from Wayne McConnell. The local went ahead when Bill Hopkins fired his first of two at the 6.51 mark, with Gary Hesnell and Haddock getting assists.

Gananoque tied it at 2-2 at the 13.47 mark of the last period with Doug Higgins firing an unassisted shot that caught the right hand corner behind Holmes to pave the way for the overtime session.

Picton ran roughshod over the visitors in the overtime period. George Salisbury broke the deadlock with his first of two (both in overtime) goals with assists going to his linemates, McDonald and McConnell. This line accounted for five of the teams eight goals and in all had five assists. McConnell himself was credited with four assists.

About two minutes apart, the two overtime goals were scored. McDonald from Haddock and McConnell; Hopkins from Hesnell and Bob Brown; Salisbury from McDonald and McConnell and McConnell from Salisbury and Lemcke.

In a complete reversal of his calling on Tuesday night Bill Hurst of Belleville called as good a game as anyone could wish. He was on top of the play at all times. There were only eight minor penalties called, with Picton taking the short end with three.

Yield World-Record Arctic Char

Canadian Waters Produce 51 Prize Fish

NEW YORK (CP)—The Tree River in the Northwest Territories is a hot spot for arctic char, a fish sometimes described as a cross between trout and salmon, and the char are growing bigger and bigger.

The March issue of Field and Stream, authoritative outdoor magazine records the biggest yet in announcing results of its 1963 fresh-water fishing contest. Fifty - one award - winning fish were caught in Canadian lakes, rivers and streams.

William Murphy of Sioux Narrows, Ont., in the Kenora-Rainy River district, landed the whopping char — 37 pounds four ounces. In the open-fishing unrestricted ling class, he caught the world record - breaker on a Seadevle lure.

In 1962 a 24 - pounder was lifted from the Tree, which flows into Coronation Gulf northeast of Great Bear Lake, displacing the old mark of 19 pounds 15 ounces, set in Quebec's Finger Lake in 1959. The record didn't last long.

No other records were set, but there was keen competition in search of a record brook trout.

GIVES UP HONORS

Northern Quebec, which has dominated brook-trout fishing in recent years, relinquished some honors to Ontario and Labrador. None of the speckled threat-ened the record of 14½ pounds, set in northwestern Ontario's Nipigon River in 1916.

The Broadback River in the Chibougamau mining district 300 miles north of Montreal swept the fly - casting division. Donal C. O'Brien of New Canaan, Conn., caught the largest, 10 pounds 8¼ ounces.

In the open brook trout, Stan J. Bourdon of Detroit caught a 10½-pounder in Poole Lake in the Chapleau district of Northern Ontario on a six-pound test line and an Abu lure. Alfred J. Luciano of Whippany, N.J., landed a nine-pound 1-ounce at Shabogamo, Labrador, on four-pound test and a spinner.

The smallmouth bass record of 11 pounds 15 ounces, established in Kentucky in 1955, wasn't in danger. However, Canadian water placed second and third in fly-fishing. Guy C. Brown of Hudson Q. hooked a 4½-pounder in Eaglesnest Lake in Manitoba and H. E. Brunet of Montreal caught a four-pound 11½-ouncer in the St. Maurice River in Quebec. The biggest in the open-eight pounds six ounces—was taken at Dale Hollow Lake, Tenn.

Manitoba produced the top northern pike in the open and fly-casting. In the open, Helmut Klug of Winnipeg, using salted minnow, landed a 38¾-pound pike at Tie Creek and Tom McNally of Glenview, Ill., boated a 19-pounder, fly-fishing in the Winnipeg River.

YIELDS BIG RAINBOW

Ontario waters shared honors with New York State in the open rainbow trout — eastern division. Using a 12-pound test line and a work, A. J. Demaris of Angus, Ont., caught a 15-pound 11-ounce trout in the Notawasaga River, flowing into Georgian Bay. The fish was matched by one caught at Naples Creek, N.Y.

The Nottawasaga also produced the biggest pickerel caught in Canada—14 pounds 13¾ inches, landed by Robert A. Wilson of Midland, Ont., but a long way off the record of 25 pounds established in Tennessee in 1960. The biggest in North America in 1963 was 19¾ pounds caught at Bateville, Ark.

The Kisplox River which flows into the Skeena at Hazleton, B.C., swept the fly-fishing for steelhead — rainbow trout that migrate to salt water. First place went to Cecil V. Gray of Lazarade, Ore., with a 26¼-pounder caught on a home-tied bucktail.

Other winners from Canadian waters included a 52-pound lake trout caught by E. K. Beeman of Dayton, Kan., in Great Lake, Man., and a 51-pound 10-ounce chinook salmon caught by Jack M. Keller of North Hollywood, Calif., in the Campbell River on Vancouver Island.

The biggest Atlantic salmon reported was a 45 - pounder C. W. Englehard of Far Hills, N.J., caught on a silver grey fly in Quebec's Grand Cascapedix River.

Petra 3rd In 2 Figures

DORTMUND (CP-AP)—West Germany, the host country, has won its second gold medal in the figure skating world championships, but men's singles champion Manfred Schnelldorfer had to share Thursday's honor with an 18-year-old American.

While Schnelldorfer was adding the world title to his Olympic crown, Tommy Litz of Hershey, Pa., was winning the free-style section of the men's competition with a spectacular performance.

Schnelldorfer, a 20 - year - old Munich student, used the same routine that won him the Olympic crown at Innsbruck, Austria, earlier this month. He built commanding lead in the compulsory figures, which count 50 per cent towards the title, then coasted in with only a steady but colorless free-skating program.

The German champion was placed first on the cards of eight judges and had 10 ordinals to Litz's seven.

Alain Calmat of France, a 23-year - old University of Paris medical student, was second with 23 ordinals and 2,180 points.

Ozo Dijkstra took the lead earlier Thursday in the women's figure skating with top of the six compulsory figures skated. Regine Heitzer of Austria and Petra Burka of Canada finished second and third behind Miss Dijkstra in the Olympics, who were ranked one and three after the two figures.

Miss Dijkstra scored 347.5 points with five of the judges placing Miss Heitzer had 332.8 points and Miss Burka 303.6.

Two of the favorite skaters finished well down. Former Canadian champion Wendy Griner of Toronto was ninth place and Shirra Kenworthy of Vancouver and Albertina Noyes of the U.S. were 10th in a tie for Donald Knight, 18, of Dundas, Ont., made the best Canadian showing in the men's singles, placing 10th, with Dr. Charles Snelling of Welland, who ended a four-year retirement by winning his sixth Canadian championship this year, placed 13th in the men's singles.

Knight scored 2,062.6 points and had 79 ordinals while Dr. Snelling had 2,004.3 points and 106.0 ordinals.

Sunday School Lesson

Man Too Busy to Live

In his book There's No Place Like Home, James Lee Ellenwood tells about a bitterly cold winter evening during his child hood. The family was gathered together around the old-fashioned stove in the one warm room of the house. His father, who rose early to do the chores, retired before the rest of the family. It was his custom before retiring to kneel down by the side of his bed to say his prayers. On this particular evening, the bedroom was so cold, so his father, dressed in an old - fashioned night-shirt, came back into the warm room, knelt down by a chair and prayed. This memory from his childhood helped to fasten the importance of prayer in Mr. Ellenwood's mind.

Today in the average household there is so little opportunity for all the members of the family to be together, except perhaps at mealtime. Even then there is so little time to pray. The family is at the mercy of what might be called centrifugal social forces that impel the members of the family to stay in one room. Thee are so many competing interests, travel is so easy, and the average family scatters as soon as the meal is over to rush off to different points. With the increase in mobility, families move from one place to another, so that often there is not the sense of being rooted in community life.

Published by Charles Scriber's Sons.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 1: "Mary, Martha, And Lazarus." (Luke 10:38-42; John 11: 1 through 12:11.

WHERE HEARTS ARE FED

Yet it is still true the home is the place where hearts are fed. Someone has said; "Home is where our stomachs receive three meals a day and our hearts a thousand." Many people do not eat all three meals at home anymore, but home is still the place to which we turn for rest, and where we bring our bruised hearts and egos to find the healing balm of love.

There was such a home to which Jesus frequently turned. It was the home in Bethany of Mary, Martha and Lazarus. The Bible tells us that Jesus loved Martha and her sister and her brother Lazarus (John 11:5). Perhaps here Jesus found love and understanding He did not find even in His own home from His own kinfolk (John 7:1-5). Here Jesus' heart was fed as He turned from a demanding and critical world to find acceptance and understanding.

CHOSE BETTER PART

On one of His visits Jesus talk talked with Mary who listened to Him with intense interest. It was nearing mealtime, and Martha, irritated that her sister was not helping, complained to Jesus of Mary's lack of cooperation. Jesus gently chided, her and defended Mary by saying that Mary had chosen the better part (Luke 10:42). The need for food could be met later. Mary was taking time for the conversation she so much needed at the time.

It is easy to get so busy with the routine tasks of life that we fail to give attention to other matters of extreme importance. Many a parent is too busy to listen to his children when they need to talk with him. Many a husband or wife gets so busy earning a living there is little time left to enjoy the deeper things of life. Routine tasks must be done, but sometimes it is important to take time for conversation and companionship.

The man who is too busy for his family is too busy. The wise man takes time to be with his loved ones, to think, to pray. He does not get so self-centred or busy, he fails to take time to develop friendship and love with those about him.

DEATH INTRUDES

There came the day when the family in Bethany, like every family, experienced the intrusion of death. No other crisis, except the tragedy of divorce, so disrupts family life. The heart is broken when a loved one is taken. Lazarus' death left Mary stunned. She sat mourning in the house (John 11:20). In this case, it was Martha who played the more commendable role. She sent for Jesus. When she had word of His coming Martha went out to meet Him. Her reward was to hear the great words of assurance from Jesus, "I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die" (John 11:25-25).

Without religious faith a family lacks life's highest gift. It is faith in God that lifts life above the level of mundane existence. It is faith in God that set comforts the heart, and enables one to see beyond the vacant chair to the hope of reunion in a fairer world. As He called for Lazarus, Jesus calls forth our faith that we may see beyond the grave to the hope of eternal life.

Policy Secretary to Pearson, Tom Kent, Key Figure in New Organization of Govt.

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Tom Kent, policy secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, is the key figure in an intriguing Pearson experiment in government organization.

The tall, 43-year-old former newspaper editor acts, in effect, as Mr. Pearson's chief of staff. He has a finger on the policy pulse of virtually every major area of federal government and is also assigned the task of keeping the prime minister in touch with policy development.

His job grew out of a feeling that the range and complexity of government problems and activities make more demands on the prime minister's time than one man can meet.

What seemed to be needed was somebody to ease the prime minister's thinking into the committee rooms and ministerial discussions where final touches were being put on policy.

At the same time, the prime minister could be kept abreast of policy shaping up in the 22 government departments.

Mr. Kent is the man entrusted with both these tasks.

FILLS MODERN NEED

His job reflects the increased role a prime minister plays in the co-ordination, direction and leadership of government. Similar posts have developed in British and Canadian politics where the chief executives found a need for a chief of staff.

Mr. Pearson has never described by Mr. Pearson at a recent press conference outlining the new cabinet reorganization and co-ordination of government departments in this office.

"Mr. Tom Kent, policy secretary to the prime minister, will be the principal committee man of prime minister in this co-ordination (of government policies through the cabinet committee system) and in the direction of federal - provincial liaison arrangements."

That was the first public acknowledgment that Mr. Kent, who had been called co-ordinator of programming until then, is Mr. Pearson's top aide on policy.

Originally appointed last May at $20,000 a year, he is becoming a permanent channel through which the prime minister exercises his leadership.

FINGER ON PULSE

With the cabinet operating through nine committees, Mr. Kent's sensitive finger is directly on their pulse. Mr. Pearson is chairman of two of the committees—defence and external affairs, and federal-provincial relations.

Newspaper men gossip about Mr. Kent as the most powerful man in Ottawa, next to the prime minister. But those who know him say he abhors any such suggestion.

"To essentially an extra motor that comes into operation when needed," he says.

He has a six-foot-three, Mr. Kent's bearing and manner reflect brain power rather than horsepower.

Conservative party Leader John Diefenbaker, then prime minister, in a 1962 Commons debate referred to Mr. Kent, then a member of Mr. Pearson's staff, as "the leader of the leader."

Mr. Pearson retorted across the floor with a reference to John Fisher, Mr. Diefenbaker's executive assistant: "Body by Fisher."

Replied Mr. Diefenbaker; "May I say that body by Fisher is a great deal better than brains by Kent."

OXFORD PRODUCT

Mr. Kent has an almost boyish enthusiasm and enjoyment in whatever he is talking about. He gestures with a curved-stem pipe that he lights occasionally.

He looks from behind shell-rimmed glasses perched on a straight, sharp nose. Black, sport-cut hair emphasizes a high, wide, ready smile saves him from aloofness.

A noticeably English accent testifies to his birth in Stafford, England, and his years at Oxford University where he graduated in philosophy, politics and economics. This was followed by a period with the Manchester Guardian and the London Economist, where he was a strong critic of the Labor government.

He came to Canada in 1954 as editor of the Winnipeg Free Press and became a Canadian citizen in 1959.

His connection with Mr. Pearson dates from his Free Press days when editorially The Free Press strongly backed Mr. Pearson's efforts as external affairs minister to interpose the UN between the contending forces during the Suez crisis.

In the rebuilding of the Liberal party through almost six years out of office, Mr. Kent played a growing role, putting into words many of the planks of the party's platforms.

He shuns the limelight although his relations with the press remain friendly. He emerged briefly into the public eye during the 1963 federal election when he ran in Burnaby-Coquitlam against New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas, losing by almost 9,000 votes but, as the Liberals like to say, increasing the Liberal vote 75 per cent.

One reason for his desire to stay in the background is the delicate nature of his liaison between Mr. Pearson and the ministers.

His influence in both directions is indirect, in finding politically-possible solutions to difficult problems—preferably before they become public issues —and in co-operating with ministers and top civil servants in bringing about a change in direction of policy.

DAILY MEETINGS

Mr. Kent has sometimes been compared to Sherman Adams, the former New Hampshire governor who was President Eisenhower's chief of staff at the White House. In a sense it is a good comparison except that Mr. Kent wields no independent executive power.

The executive end of the prime minister's office is Privy Council Secretary Gordon Robertson who sits on the basis of cabinet and prime ministerial decisions.

Mr. Kent and Mr. Robertson together see the prime minister daily so that all three will know what areas each is working. The arrangement also relieves Mr. Robertson, as a civil servant, of having to take account of political matters.

Examples of Mr. Kent's work are not generally known because they occur behind the scenes.

STILL EXPERIMENT

Nevertheless observers here are convinced he contributed to two policy changes that did get before the public. One was in the changes made after Finance Minister Gordon's 1963 budget, and the other the alterations in the federal government's contributory portable pension proposals after talks with the provinces.

A trouble-shooter in such circumstances is a particularly difficult position. It's a type of internal diplomacy which still is in the experimental stage with the current administration.

However, by remaining in the background, by disowning any of the talents credited to him by outsiders and by maintaining the confidence and trust of the ministers and the prime minister, Mr. Kent has developed the experiment in almost nine months to a degree of permanency.

First Professional Eskimo Barbers in Canada Taking Their Training in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The North may never be the same after Charlie Cookie, Tommy Johannes and David Uknuknuk get back. But its inhabitants will probably look a little fancier.

Charlie, Tommy and David are three young Eskimos taking a barbering course in Ottawa. Later this year they'll head back to the far north armed with scissors, clippers, hair tonic and shampoo.

The federal department of northern affairs, which is sponsoring their training, says they will be the first professional Eskimo barbers in Canada.

How will the Eskimos react to barber shops?

"Well, most of the old people still cut their own hair but lots of the young fellows like to get a brush cut," says 25-year-old Tommy who will return to Fort Chimo on Ungava Bay 900 miles north of Montreal.

"I can cut my brother's hair, anyway," says Charlie, 16, from Great Whale River on Hudson Bay 900 miles north of Toronto.

David, 23, who comes from north of the Arctic Circle in Baffin Island, has the most optimistic view:

"Maybe business will be slow for a while but I'll get customers. They've got nowhere else to go."

Council Accepts International Cyprus Force

Greece Warns Turkey Not to Intervene

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — UN Security Council members made ready a call for an international peace force for embattled Cyprus today as Greece warned Turkey that military intervention would mean war.

Five non - permanent members of the 11-nation council planned to submit the peace force plea to UN officials so it can be put before a council meeting Monday in an effort to settle the growing crisis.

The resolution of Bolivia, Brazil, Morocco, Norway and the Ivory Coast also calls for a mediator to attack the heart of the emergency — the bitter communal strife among Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots that has heightened tension between their mother countries.

Informants in Athens said Friday that the Greek government has put its military forces on a tightened alert and warned of emergency — the bitter communal strife among Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots that has heightened tension between their mother countries.

Informants in Athens said Friday that the Greek government has put its military forces on a tightened alert and warned of retaliation if Turkey carries out a threat to invade the east Mediterranean island to protect the lives and rights of the Turkish-Cypriot minority.

Government sources said Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos called in Turkish Ambassador Nedim Ilkin during the day to relay the warning that Greece would oppose unilateral armed action that would endanger Greek-Cypriot lives.

WARNING IS 'FRIENDLY'

Costopoulos' words constituted "a friendly warning, not a threat," the sources said, but added that Greece was taking no chances of being caught off guard and had alerted its troops to an advanced state of readiness.

Premier George Papandreou also suggested that Turkish military intervention would mean war when he said Friday, "if Turkey enters the door of the insane asylum, Greece will be forced to follow suit."

In Ankara, Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu summoned his top assistants and foreign policy advisers as well as ambassadors Raymond Hare of the United States and Sir Dennis Allen of Britain met to discuss the Mediterranean crisis.

Informed sources said Inonu held fast to his position that Turkey would not hesitate to intervene to protect her rights on Cyprus. The 1960 treaty granting Cyprus independence from Britain gives Turkey, Greece and Britain the right to intervene to preserve the status quo on the island.

Inonu's chief aide, Kemal Satir, said Turkey did not expect much from Security Council peacemaking efforts and the Ankara government would not be bound by an council resolu-

NICOSIA (Reuters) — This island was quiet but tense today as word was awaited on United Nations efforts to find a solution to the nine-week old crisis.

Acting British High Commissioner Harold Pickard Friday called on Cypriot President Makarios to express his "deep concern" at the 2nd passport report that British intelligence allegedly planned to assassinate the archbishop.

A British spokesman said Makarios assured Pickard that the president placed no credence in the report.

British troops have watched over an uneasy truce between the Greek-Cypriot majority and the Turkish - Cypriot minority since fierce fighting broke out when fighting broke out anew.

A move this week by President Makarios to boost the island's security force from 5,000 to 8,000 was blasted by the Turkish-Cypriot leader, Vice-President Fazil Kutchuk.

Recruiting for the forces which Kutchuk said was an attempt to "legalize in appearance the acts of murder, arson and looting against the Turkish community that have been going on since December" started Friday and about 100 young men lined up to sign forms.

The Turkish-Cypriots, a minority one-fifth of the island's 500,000 persons, feared the force was an attempt to disarm their followers.

Princess Alexandra, Queen's Cousin, Gives Birth to a Son

LONDON (Reuters)—Princess Alexandra, Queen Elizabeth's cousin, gave birth to a son today.

The princess and her son are both well, doctors said. The baby was born at 12:15 p.m.

Angus Ogilvy, Princess Alexandra's businessman husband, telephoned the news to Queen Elizabeth. He took flowers into his wife after the birth.

Princess Marina, the Dowager Duchess of Kent, who is Princess Alexandra's mother, was in the house when the baby was born.

The baby boy, in common with other top year duty boys will have his official birthday only once every four years, was born in a private room on first floor of Thatched House Lodge overlooking the garden. The house itself is on a hilltop in Richmond Park.

With doctors present at the birth, other members of his household, Ogilvy toasted the arrival of his son with champagne.

Cables were sent to Ogilvy's parents, the Earl and Countess of Airlie, who are sailing today from Cape Town for England.

He also sent messages to Princess Alexandra's two brothers, the Duke of Kent and Prince Michael, serving with their regiments — the Royal Scots Greys and 11th Hussars respectively—in West Germany, and also to other members of the Royal Family and his own family.

Pearson Looks for Experts

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson is looking at a long list of ex-politicians as possible experts on election expenses to conduct an inquiry aimed at limiting spending by the parties on their campaigns.

Mr. Pearson told the Commons early this week that the parties are at odds of murder, arson and looting against the Turkish community that have been going on since December" started Friday and about 100 young men lined up to sign forms.

The Turkish-Cypriots, a minority one-fifth of the island's 500,000 persons, feared the force was an attempt to disarm their followers.

The speculation is that Mr. Pearson is thinking in terms of former MPs or cabinet ministers with sound experience in financing election campaigns. He may also be considering senators.

Among the ex-politicians are a number of former Liberal and Progressive Conservative cabinet ministers with the kind of special knowledge needed.

SEVERAL LIBERALS

On the Liberal side are former finance minister Walter Harris, now practising law at Markdom, Ont.; former public works minister Robert Winters, now chairman of a mining corporation, and former justice minister Stuart Garson, practising law in Winnipeg.

The Liberals also have two senators who are acknowledged experts in the field. One is Senator C. P. Beaubien, who sat in the Commons from 1917 until 1944.

A second is Senator Dan Lang, a Toronto lawyer who was chairman of the Liberals' Ontario campaign committee for the 1962 and 1963 election campaigns.

The Conservatives have at least three experts in election expenses. One is former state secretary Ernest Halpenny of London, Ont., who headed the financial side of his party's election campaign in 1962 and 1963.

BILL A POSSIBILITY

Others are former immigration minister Richard Bell, an Ottawa lawyer and former national director of the party and Senator Allister Grosart, Mr. Bell's successor as national director from 1957 until 1962.

Former CCF national leader M. J. Coldwell also is being mentioned as a possible member of the inquiry. He is honorary president of the New Democratic Party, the successor to the CCF.

The committee, which probably won't exceed three in number, will be primarily concerned with what limits there should be on campaign expenses and how the limits can be enforced.

After consideration of those two matters, the members would be asked to consider such other questions as whether all or part of the allowed expenses should come out of public funds.

Program Warns Teen-Agers Against Smoking Dangers

WASHINGTON (CP)—A massive 10-year educational program to warn teen - agers against the dangers of smoking is being planned by the U.S. health department while the Federal Trade Commission prepares demands that cigarette manufacturers put health-hazard warning labels on cigarette packages.

These actions currently comprise the bulk of the federal attack against tobacco following the conclusions last month of the surgeon-general's advisory committee that cigarette smoking is a major cause of lung cancer and other critical disease.

When the report was first published a number of legislators swiftly drafted a variety of bills aimed at curbing cigarette sales or digging deep into tobacco research. Most of these bills now are gathering dust, although the glare of publicity shifting to other issues, congressional concern over the smoking problem appears to have declined.

One bill that had wide support among tobacco-state legislators—to get the government to spend more money on how to make tobacco safer for smokers — was shot down in committee stage as public criticism mounted. Voluntary health and other agencies argued that more important than research was the need to discourage smoking—not to increase it.

Surgeon-General Luther Terry, in a step that may avoid the question of stopping smoking is something "each must solve for himself," the educational drive will be aimed at the teen-ager before he gets the smoking habit.

Through school lectures, rallies, speeches and other means, official officials hope to create a revolutionary heart, cancer and other organizations will urge youngsters to turn away from cigarettes.

Meanwhile, the Federal Trade Commission will open hearings March 16 as the first step before issuing orders that all cigarette packages must carry a warning that smoking is a health hazard and that in advertising suggestions that cigarette smoking may be good for the health must be eliminated.

Some opponents to the commission's proposals maintain this agency lacks jurisdiction in this field and that any order would be tied up in the courts for years. However, this won't deter the commission which insists it has jurisdiction.

Aside from federal action, some cigarette manufacturers have made movies of their own to reduce advertising aimed at teen - agers and to throw more light on their product. One of manufacturer has printed the percentage of tar and nicotine content on the package. Some others have reduced sponsor but, of athletic events to do away with the suggestion that somehow smoking is tied to vigorous health.

With publication of the surgeon - general's committee report, cigarette sales tended to slip a bit as some national publications gave a few broadcast-instructed employees to stop smoking while on the job. Clinics and lecturers have sprung up cigarettes have sprung up across the country.

But despite all the shifts and changes in smoking habits, the $7,000,000,000 tobacco industry apparently remains. It made 511,000,000,000 cigarettes last year, puffed by an estimated 70,000,000 Americans. It will take a mighty educational campaign to rock an industry of this size.

House Near End Of Debate

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Automation will soon create "a staggering problem" and Canada should start preparing for it right now, says Reid Scott, New Democratic MP for Toronto Danforth.

"It will change the nature of our lives and our society," he said in the Commons Friday.

Depending on how the country meets the challenge, it could bring widespread unemployment or also "progress and affluence undreamed of a few years ago."

Mr. Scott, a 37-year-old lawyer, called for establishment of a national foundation on automation with "massive funds" for research into the problem.

He spoke on the second-last day of the throne speech debate which ends Monday. After that, the Commons starts tackling the government's legislative program for the session. The controversial Canada-U.S. Columbia River power treaty is first on the agenda.

CITES EXAMPLES

Mr. Scott cited some examples of automation and its effects: a $28,000,000 petrochemical plant at Sarnia which runs on shifts of 10 workers; a U.S. plant making 1,000,000,000 light bulbs a year with a staff of 14; the 44-per-cent rise in output of all manufacturing industry between 1957 and 1962 during which employment actually declined.

He said many have assumed that displaced production workers will be absorbed by the service industries. But the age of electronic computers was expected to have an even more massive impact on service industries than on manufacturing plants.

Mr. Scott said the technological revolution is going to bring a "wave of change" to Canada in the very near future.

"We do not need to be afraid of it if we prepare for it intelligently . . . if we make the massive effort necessary now to harness it to our own development."

COULD BE TROUBLE

If it were allowed to develop unguided, "I think we will have just enough automation to create widespread unemployment but insufficient to make the great technological breakthroughs which are necessary to open new industries and new markets."

Friday's debate ranged over other subjects from pensions to national unity.

August Choquette (L—Lotbinière) told the house he hopes that all "colonial links" with Britain will eventually be severed.

Mr. Choquette, who wants Canada to become a republic, later gave notice of a resolution proposing a national referendum on seven steps which would eliminate official connections between Canada and Britain.

Revolt Closes Two Tobacco Auction Centres

Sparked by Changes In Market Prices

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP) — A farmers revolt, sparked by fluctuations in the market price of tobacco, forced the closing Friday of two auction centres in the heart of Ontario's tobacco-growing country.

Another auction exchange was shut down because of an anonymous bomb threat.

A group of farmers marched on the Delhi centre shortly after noon and threatened violence unless it stopped operations. It closed down as the protesting group swelled to 150 persons.

Most of the farmers then drove 10 miles to this community and succeeded in forcing a shutdown of the auction exchange here.

George Demeyere, chairman of the Ontario Flue - Cured Tobacco Growers Marketing Board, ordered it closed "to prevent any possible bloodshed."

CLOSE CENTRE

Earlier in the day, provincial police closed the Delhi auction centre after manager Robert Howse received a telephone call that a bomb was concealed in the exchange. No bomb was found.

The disgruntled farmers were apparently protesting the buying practices of tobacco companies and said they were active to counter current low auction prices.

A protest meeting of farmers had been called in Delhi for tonight.

One farmer said: "We had to act before we were all financially ruined."

John Bayne, marketing board director, said the farmers were "entirely justified" in closing the auction centres.

"It had to come," he added. "We watched trouble brewing as the market continued to drop. The open auction system of sale has failed miserably as prices on some types of tobacco have dropped 40 and 50 cents a pound below last year's prices."

Mr. Demeyere said Friday the exchanges would remain closed until "I find a few answers to our problems."

"I don't condone this type of action. However, I realize that the 4,500 tobacco farmers are in an ugly mood because of the worsening market."

WILL GO TO OTTAWA

Board members plan to go to Ottawa early next week, Mr. Demeyere said, to meet federal officials in an effort to find a solution to the tobacco problem.

He said that in his opinion there appeared to be no justification for the drop in tobacco prices.

But a spokesman for a buying company said the market this year "is better than last year's." He said grades of tobacco was poor this year and "that accounts for the so-called fluctuating prices."

Prices dropped sharply in the last three days and Delhi farmers have rejected 41 per cent of all bids as too low. The av-

Trustees Curb Power Of Banks

By STRUAN MATHESON

MONTREAL (CP) — In a report it is preparing for Parliament, the federal board of maritime trustees is expected to indicate it has curbed the power Hal Banks experts over an estimated 9,000 members of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada Ind., without having removed him as president.

The trustees are said to feel the directives they have issued since taking office last October as chief reviser by Banks Mr. Justice Norris felt maritime labor peace could not be obtained unless Banks and his executives were removed, but the trustees are working in a different way.

METHODS CONDEMNED

The Norris report condemned SIU methods of putting pressure on smaller shipping companies with walkouts described by the union as "prayer meetings," a term used to take part in the SIU march on Ottawa last October to protest the trusteeship. There will be no walkouts banned by the trustees.

The federal inquiry report obtained by union officials said manning exercised by the SIU through its control of hiring halls. The trustees have curbed this power by ordering SIU port agents to refrain from replacing one sailor by another without prior approval of the trustees.

From now on, sailors can be removed from ships only by management. The sailors may contest their removal through normal grievance procedures. Decisions in such appeals must be approved by the trustees.

The trustees leaves the SIU in control of hiring halls but Labor Minister MacEachen said recently labor would be being studied to place hiring under strict government supervision as recommended by Mr. Norris report.

WELFARE UNTOUCHED

The trustees have not touched the union welfare plan to which in a m a n a g e m e n t contributes 35 cents a day for each sailor. The Norris report questioned the accuracial relevance of the plan and suggested it was another lever for control by the SIU over the sailors.

The SIU has also been or-

Mother Says Daughter Falsely Pictured as a 'Party Girl'

SCHWELM, West Germany (AP)—The mother of Elly Rosemarie Ketsch, an attractive German woman linked with Bobby Baker, says her daughter has been falsely pictured as a Washington party girl.

"Not a word of those stories is true," Mrs. Luise Fimmel said in an interview.

"Yes, my daughter knew Mr. Baker," Mrs. Fimmel said, "but there was nothing out of the way in it. She was a party girl in Washington and had friendly connections with him."

The subject of Washington party girls was brought up earlier this week when the U.S. Senate rules committee questioned Baker, who resigned as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority leader. Baker refused to answer when asked whether he used sex to help put over his business deals.

Mrs. Rosemarie, a 27-year-old brunette, was hurriedly brought back from Washington last August. She had lived there for two years with her husband, Sgt. Rolf Rometsch, who was stationed with the West German military mission.

The West German defence ministry said the couple's return was ordered after the FBI investigated Mrs. Rometsch's extramarital behavior. She issued a statement denying intimacies with other men but refused to speak with reporters.

Rometsch divorced his wife shortly after their return. She then came to live here with her parents on the leased family farm, near the village of Schwelm in the generally industrial Ruhr valley.

Hellyer Joins Ministers Afflicted by Recent Events

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Paul Hellyer joined the group this week.

The group, by no means small, comprises Canadian defence ministers who have been afflicted by happenings over which they have had little if any control and which the public generally has found hilarious.

In Mr. Hellyer's case, there is a difference. Heads may roll.

The day after a Montreal armoury was successfully raided Jan. 30, Mr. Hellyer set up a special committee to investigate security measures at all defence establishments. Before it could report, two more armory raids in Quebec occurred.

The very day—Feb. 21—that the committee filed its recommendations, Mr. Hellyer accepted at least one of them and ordered small arms reserve training units in Quebec and adjacent areas in Ontario and New Brunswick.

But, informants say, the military carried out Mr. Hellyer's order to an extent he had never envisaged. Mr. Hellyer, Ont., home of the No. 2 cabinet minister, External Affairs Minister Martin, was declared a "sensitive area" and rifles were removed from a high school's sharpshooting cadet corps. Reports of similar activities came from as far east as Nova Scotia and as far west as Saskatchewan.

And then there was the 12:45 a.m. descent on exclusive Ashbury College for boys in ex-

Tatham Co. Given Contract For Baxter Canning Plant

The contract for the design and construction of the new Baxter Canning Company of Bloomfield has been given to the Tatham Company Ltd. of Rossmore, it was announced today.

The amount of the contract signed last night was not disclosed.

The contract calls calls for a "turnkey project" which includes the design and construction of a factory, warehouse and retort building.

Contract design includes appurtenances such as boilers, water system etc.

The factory will be a building 120 by 170; the warehouse 120 by 200 and the retort building 30 by 60. The whole will sq compass between 48,000 and 50,000 square feet.

The contract states that the new plant must be ready for the commencement of the 1964 pea pack approximately June 15.

Bulldozers have been busy for the past week clearing the rubble for the site of the plant which with thousands of cases of canned goods was destroyed by fire on January 27th.

A spokesman for the Tatham Company said this morning that work on drawings and plans have been under way for some time.

He said that work on foundations and excavations will be started on Monday.

"We expect the buildings with roofs will be completed about April 30th."

The management of the company has had staff members in the United States for some time looking for the most modern factory equipment. Automatic machinery will be supplied by the American can company.

Expansion of hospital facilities partly necessitated the increased standard charges, a meeting of the hospital's Board of Governors was told yesterday.

Among the broadened services is the establishment of a new coronary unit for the care of 23 patients on the hospital's first floor south; an intensive care unit for patients and in the radioactive isotope laboratory.

The ORSC has approved a budget of $2,450,861 for 1964.

Statistically, this is based on an estimate of 28,200 days of patient days.

Meantime, no change in hospital visiting hours is imminent. The board considered extended visiting times at the hospital at yesterday's meeting.

But, says the formal report of the meeting, "because of severe overcrowding, with many patients being treated in hospital corridors," any extension was ruled out until "proper facilities for the care of patients could be provided."

Tiny Nameplate Found at Scene May Be Clue

TORONTO (CP) — A tiny nameplate from a luxury car may lead police to the hit-and-run driver who killed an eight-year-old girl who was out for a Friday night treat of a soft drink and fruit.

Judy Gough was hurled 45 feet from a suburban Scarborough crosswalk as she and her 12-year-old sister, Kathi, were returning home from a shopping plaza with a carton of pop and some oranges.

As they crossed the road a dark car swept down and struck Judy.

Hundreds of Metropolitan Toronto police and homicide detectives today were hunting for a late - model automobile. The nameplate was found at the scene.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Allan Maser of Toronto were driving north and saw the accident. While Mr. Maser made a U turn and chased the hit-run car, his wife went to Judy's aid. But the culprit escaped.

Police said Kathi had reached the west side of the road when her sister was hit.

Standard Ward Car Increased At Hospital

The Ontario Hospital Services Commission has set a slightly higher daily standard ward rate for Belleville General Hospital, while approving a hospital budget of more than $2,400,000.

The new rate, set by the Commission is $22.60 daily. This compares with $22.35 last year.

Rates to be paid for semi-private and private rooms remain unchanged at $3.75 and $7.20 respectively over the standard ward rate.

Expansion of hospital facilities partly necessitated the increased standard charges, a meeting of the hospital's Board of Governors was told yesterday.

Among the broadened services is the establishment of a new coronary unit for the care of 23 patients on the hospital's first floor south; an intensive care unit for patients and in the radioactive isotope laboratory.

Inquest Will Be Held in Man's Death

An inquest will be held next week into the death of Joseph A. Langevin, fatally scalded when he fell into a tank of boiling water at the Hunter Veneer plant in Tweed, December 12.

Hastings County Crown Attorney John A. Pringle yesterday said the inquest would be held in Tweed next Wednesday.

Mr. Langevin, a native of the Tweed area, died in a Toronto hospital about a month after the accident.

He suffered the fatal injuries while pulling logs from the tank, boiling water believed to be at 170-degree temperature.

He was rescued from the water by fellow workmen.

The tank is used for softening bark on logs used in the veneer process.

White Cane Members Enjoy Vocalists

At the White Cane club meeting last Wednesday at the Recreation Centre, president Helen Wardhaugh greeted the 23 members and their escorts who were present.

Secretary Pat Baverstock read the minutes and treasurer Doug Huffman read the financial report.

A suggestion was made that all clubs have their names changed to White Cane clubs, symbolizing what the white cane stands for. Helen Wardhaugh who has been delegated to attend the annual convention in May was asked to bring this matter up at that meeting.

Artis Scott introduced the entertainers Mr. and Mrs. J. Deacon and their friends from South America. Mr. and Mrs. De Baron. Mr. Deacon sang several selections accompanied by his wife at the piano. Mrs. Maria Magdalena de Baron contributed several solos in Spanish.

Pat Baverstock thanked the performers for a fine evening, and hoped the de Barons had a pleasant stay while in Belleville and Canada.

Ted Rowe thanked the Kin. Company and this morning Artie Scott thanked the Lions Club of Belleville and the Rotary Club of Trenton for providing transportation.

Progress Seen In Workshops At Museum

The first in a series of workshop meetings was held at the Hastings County Museum last Wednesday evening and a second one is planned for next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Workers last week planned the special military display that opens this afternoon at two o'clock. Another week will be done on the arrangement of the museum's collection.

At the conclusion of the workshop refreshments were served by Museum Curator Mrs. R. Sargent, and two five minute talks were given. Mrs. Gord Williamson spoke briefly on Sunday walking tour conducted by the Belleville Branch of the Community Planning Association under the direction of Mr. Rodger Phillips.

The second brief talk, by Gerald Boyce, described the types of local buildings to be found in the Canadian Archives at Ottawa. Among the 19th century pictures of buildings were views of the old Albert College, the Iron Mines at Marmora, the Ontario Institute for the Deaf at Belleville, a panoramic view of Bridge street (Belleville) and the old Marchmont Home on West Moira Street in Belleville. (The Marchmont Home now an apartment building) was the site of great activity in the 1870's when it housed destitute children from England were brought out to be given a home and put out for adoption. The Belleville home was the receiving centre for these girls. Between 1870 and 1873 some 6,000 children were placed through these homes.

Interested workers are invited to attend Monday evening workshop when the "Five Minute Speaker" will be Mr. Tom Ransom who will speak on the history of the music box.

Races Live in Comparative Harmony in West Indies But Are Not a Unified Society

By RUSSELL ELMAN

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (CP)—The taxi speeding south on the Princess Margaret Highway toward the oilfields was driven by a Negro. His five passengers were an East Indian Hindu girl, a brown - skinned man of mixed Portuguese-Negro blood, two Chinese and a white man.

The six engaged in friendly conversation, but when they reached their destination they quickly parted and went their separate ways.

This little group symbolized the social scene in Trinidad and, to a large extent, in the West Indies, where races live in comparative harmony side by side but have yet to coalesce into a unified society.

Compared with a generation ago, much progress has been achieved in this region in erasing barriers erected solely on the basis of skin color.

Racial discrimination in public places is forbidden by law, yet politics and the professions have swung open for the black man and white alike. Nowhere in the commercial world are no longer the exclusive preserve of the white or even mainly so.

Significantly, the governor-general of Trinidad and Tobago is a Negro, as is the Queen's representative in Jamaica a Negro.

BARRIERS REMAIN

Yet, social barriers still keep the races apart.

Not many black faces are to be seen among the guests in a luxury north coast hotel in Jamaica.

Few white or brown-skinned people will be welcome in the slum shops of the West Kingston slums.

In a residential suburb of Port of Spain, a well-to-do Negro mother confessed she would never let her daughter "date a darker man."

In a poor district of Bridgetown, capital of Barbados, a barefoot Negro woman said she would never drink a cup of tea with a white man. It isn't done.

The problem now really is one of class rather than color," said a Negro clergyman conducting social work in the Kingston slums. "Culture and financial standing are what count most."

To some degree that's true, but what must be added is that color and class are almost inescapably linked. The majority of the poor are dark-skinned and the majority of the well-to-do light.

OTHER CONFLICTS

Adding complexity is conflict between African and East Indian which has resulted from proposals to bring to British Guiana and which remains a potential danger in Trinidad.

East Indians, descended from indentured laborers brought to the West Indies from India to sugar estates, still live in cultural enclaves. But they're showing an increasing demand to aspire to North American ways of living. Few now wear native dress and it's not unusual to find a housewife on a British Guiana sugar estate who is Hindu but admits she is also "of the Pope" and worships in a Roman Catholic church as well as a Hindu temple.

Nor have Negroes overcome their desire to turn their noses up at Indian. It is still fashionable for a social - climbing Negro in Jamaica or want to "improve one's color" by marrying a person of lighter shade. And women take elaborate beauty treatments in attempts to straighten their kinky hair.

Although slavery was abolished in 1838 in the British Empire, the deeply rooted master-slave relationship lingers. Even where, perhaps, is the division more clearly defined than in the sugar island of Barbados where there is a distinct social chasm between the white minority and black majority.

MORE MIXING

In other islands, especially Jamaica, there has been much mixing of the races with emergence of a substantial brown-skinned middle population and of illicit unions between white planters and slave girls.

Race emancipation, the mobilities generally received the best jobs from their former masters, gradually acquired wealth, infiltrated the professions and politics and in modern-day Jamaica form a social elite apart from the darker masses.

However, since the introduction of the universal franchise, the self-spring of true Negro political power lies with the masses. This fact no politician can afford to ignore and may partly explain the recent government emphasis on trying to bring Jamaica, Trinidad and produce some kind of national identity and culture which can serve as unifying forces without reference to race, color or class.

The people face the fiercest test in their history—whether they can survive with flesh and blood the bare skeleton of their national anthem, "Where every creed and race find an equal place."

Chinese Reds, Ceylonese Get Together

COLOMBO (Reuters) — The Chinese Communist and Ceylonese Communist parties were expected to sign a joint communique today following their three - day talks here, diplomatic observers said centred on the Singo-Indian border dispute.

Chou Friday denounced United States plans to send the 7th fleet on Indian Ocean cruises as an attempt "to jeopardize further peace and security in this region."

The Chinese leader told a labor union rally American "puppets" from "Korea to Turkey are falling one by one."

Chou also told the rally China believed the Sino-Indian border dispute could and should be settled peacefully and friendship between India and China renewed.

Charges May Be Laid in Woman's Death

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Cass said Friday his department will consider laying charges in connection with the death of 32-year-old Patricia Morgan.

A five - man inquest jury Thursday found Dr. Kenneth A. Brown responsible for the death. Brown performed an abortion on Miss Morgan's body after an operation last Oct. 31 at Belleville General Hospital. She died Nov. 4.

"We are awaiting official records of the inquest," Mr. Cass said. Mr. Cass said he is also considering whether protective legislation is necessary.

P. B. C. Pepper, lawyer for Dr. Brown, criticized procedure at Ontario coroner's inquests as "offensive to anyone who concerns himself with civil liberties."

Mr. Pepper said in an interview: "I am afraid (the Brown) counsel I was not allowed to cross - examine the witnesses. This is not right in terms of the common law and deeply rooted in our heritage. It is a fundamental instrument in the search for truth.

SUGGESTS PROCEDURE

He suggested a proper forum for an inquiry into surgical competence is the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons."

He said that at an inquest the jury is not to decide competence was questioned.

As a result of the inquest into the death of Miss Morgan, Ontario Toronto hospitals are expected to re-examine the questions of abortion and therapeutic abortions before and after operations.

The jury in the Morgan inquest recommended universal instrument counts to avoid article leaving behind the same nature. Of Metro's 16 hospitals, seven do not require counts, five do and the status of the remainder do have counts.

Humber Memorial Hospital in Toronto will start a count in all operations for a one-month trial period.

Ontario's supervising coroner, Dr. H. B. Colnam, said this procedure could take as long as 30 minutes. He warned: "By the time you have an accurate count you may have a dead patient as well."

THERE IS NOW GREATER HOPE FOR CANCER

The most reassuring fact about modern medical aids is that, while most diseases are now curable the comparatively few that are not can be kept under physician supervision.

"But", warns the F.D.A., "beware the medicine man, who peddles his wares door-to-door, by mail, over radio or television, writes books, or even rents a hall to hold health meetings. Don't fall for his con game. Save your money — maybe your life". You are safer when you depend on your physician and pharmacist.

Your Doctor can phone us when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we dispense yours?

Alberta Third in Spending Behind Ontario With Hike In Budget of $40,666,906

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Provincial Treasurer E. W. Hinman of Alberta presented a record budget of $244,489,544 Friday to keep the province third in spending behind Ontario and Quebec.

The budget calls for an increase in spending of $40,666,906 over 1963-64 and a deficit of $2,715,519.

Mr. Hinman said the predicted surplus of $26,712 for 1963-64 would probably become a surplus of $20,000,000 when the fiscal year ends because of greatly increased oil and gas revenues.

No new taxes or tax changes were announced.

The government's per capita expenditure is $287, highest in Canada.

The province's rich natural resources, mainly oil and gas, were expected to produce the biggest portion of revenue in the new fiscal year—a total of $152,964,500, up $28,883,000 from the previous year.

ACCUSES OTTAWA

In Saskatchewan Friday Municipal Affairs Minister E. I. Wood accused the federal government of doing disappointingly little in planning for an important federal - provincial conference on Indian affairs scheduled for May.

He said the provincial government has been trying without success to get more action out of Ottawa on the conference.

"The Indian's situation is far from good," said Mr. Wood. "We have underprivileged people who compare unfavorably with the underprivileged in many parts of the world."

Speaking in his provincial legislature, he added that while the Saskatchewan government has no Indian problem, the Indian population, it is urgent more be done. The provincial government has made large investments in the Indian's lot can be made if administration of welfare services and similar aid services on reserves is transferred to provincial governments from the federal government.

In other legislatures sitting Friday:

Prince Edward Island — Opposition member George MacKay (L—4th Prince) said he intends to introduce a resolution asking the government to revoke permits of clubs selling liquor.

WANTS REALISM

New Brunswick — Rodman E. Logan (PC — St. John County) said the proposed provincial parole board should be more realistic than the national board and conditions it imposes on parolees.

Nova Scotia — Liberal House Leader Gerald M. Nicholson said the government should not subsidize credit unions by providing inspection services for their books and accounts.

Quebec — The legislative assembly approved an increase in needy mothers' allowances to $85 a month from $75.

Ontario — J. M. Gould (L—Bracondale) said the government spent $12,000,000 last year on travelling expenses alone.

Manitoba — Laurent Desjardins (L—St. Boniface) said the government is taking all the credit for negotiations to retain the Trans - Canada Air Lines maintenance base at Winnipeg. TCA wants to move the base to Montreal.

PLAN NEW PROGRAM

Alberta — Health Minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross said a new comprehensive nursing home program — "the missing link in our health care program"— will be introduced during the current session.

British Columbia — Premier Bennett said a new bank in British Columbia will make capitalism and free enterprise work better. Liberal and New Democratic Party members claimed the move is socialistic.

The debate arose during second reading of the bill that would permit the government to buy 25 per cent of the proposed bank of British Columbia.

Times Issues Supplement On Canada

LONDON (Reuters) — The Times today published a 16-page illustrated supplement on Canada, giving a panoramic view of its people and pictures of Canadian progress.

An accompanying editorial said, "The search for a national identity continues. Canada has a cultural frontier which follows no clear line of differentiation, cultural, geographic or economic.

"At the same time it is a nation in the making, an eager host for immigrants with pioneering to be done in pushing the limit of settlement and exploitation farther north.

"The most of people life is prosperous and comfortable by any standards, primed by the overwhelming capital of the United States. But the shadow this casts over Canadian control of its own destiny grows ever longer."

WILL SEL LRESOURCES

The Times added that the basic fact remains that no long as Canada continued to develop itself and maintain a high standard of living it could go on selling a little more of the ownership of its resources every year. "There is no obvious, politically acceptable alternative."

The Times said: "A nation that borrows until it grows up long easier to palliate this process. The sudden emergence of Quebec into the 20th century has temporarily at least, thrown all traditional calculations out of gear. . . .

"They (the French - Canadians) are asking for the equal status which they are supposed to have; this request is unprecedented, but not outrageous."

Still Lacking Two Jurors for Ruby Trial

DALLAS (AP)—Jack Ruby's murder trial goes into another special weekend session today still lacking two of the required 12 jurors to sit in judgment on him.

Prosecution and defence lawyers say they expect to complete the jury today.

All the courtroom principals —Judge Joe B. Brown and the opposing lawyers—had hoped to avoid a second Saturday session.

The trial began Feb. 17. Brown called a Saturday hearing last week attempting to speed up selection of a jury. At the start of today's session, 120 persons had been examined to find the eight men and two women now sworn in.

In Austin Friday, Ruby's lawyers for the second time asked the Texas Supreme Court whether persons who saw Ruby shoot Oswald on television are disqualified as jurors.

Earlier the court had said it would not consider the request, but lawyer William Vanderveek asked for a re-hearing. The court could consider it as early as Monday.

Ruby faces a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair on the charge of murdering Lee Harvey Oswald, Nov. 24. Oswald had been accused of assassinating president Kennedy in Dallas.

VISITS JFK GRAVE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas Governor John Connally, wounded seriously at the time of the assassination of President Kennedy, visited the grave of the late president Friday for the first time. Connally, his arm still in a cast and sling three months after the assassin's bullet shattered it, walked up the hillside at Arlington National Cemetery with his wife, who also was in the Kennedy limousine last Nov. 22.

Licence Renewal Deadline Passes and Many Motorists Have Not Secured Plates

It's still the same old story.

But — as time goes by it doesn't improve.

Last night at 9 p.m. sharp, as he has for years, George Olsen locked the doors of his Belleville motor vehicle licence agency.

And — as they have for years — within seconds faces were being pressed against the glass, abominable to behold in their desperation, while frantic fingers clawed at the doors.

For scores of local drivers it once more was too late.

The licence renewal deadline had run out for another year.

Mr. Olson and his staff, brows still perspiring and clothing ruffled after a savage encounter with a last-minute horde of drivers, who slipped in seconds before deadline, pretended nothing was happening.

They had to. Regulations call for all agencies across the provinces to close by 5 p.m.

Mr. Olsen, who figures he's issued 10,000 automobile licences alone since the renewal season opened last December, accepted the whole thing philosophically.

New faces and new fingers congregated outside his door on Front Street every few seconds.

But not all the licenceless drivers were there. Many were at home.

PHONES START RINGING

Minutes after the deadline the phone started ringing.

The answer was politely the same each time:

"Yes, it's against the law to drive after midnight without your new plates—if you do, then it's your own affair. Yes, we're open from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday morning."

However, not all of them could have been impressed with the seriousness of the situation.

The scene was repeated minutes after midnight — only this time the setting was city police headquarters.

This time the callers had been stopped by police patrols and warned they'd be charged. Desk sergeant Doug Ellis also was philosophic—and polite — about the whole thing.

Sighed one caller: "I was only driving the bayaitter home."

Pleaded another: "But I've got to get to work in Trenton in the morning."

Cried another: "Now look, sergeant, your fellah tells me I can't drive home without new plates."

"That's right."

"But a friend at work told me I was within my rights to drive after midnight and you couldn't touch me."

"That's wrong."

And so on into the early hours.

However, no charges were laid during the night against the recalcitrant, police revealed this morning. All warnings apparently, were obeyed with motorists appreciating the break extended by local police.

But, the unofficial extension ran out at 8 a.m. sdd city officers were ready to lay charges against any driver persisting in driving with obsolete plates.

Meanwhile, Mr. Olsen's office was busy again by 9 a.m. Long before that a line-up had formed outside the licence agency, stretching along the block.

Bank Employee Arraigned on Theft Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — Roger Cass, a trusted, 12-year bank employee, pleaded not guilty Friday at his arraignment on charges of stealing $80,000 in cash and $52,800 in traveller's cheques from his employer, the Bank of Montreal.

Preliminary hearing was set for March 6 on both charges. Defence did not seek bail but said they reserved this right for later, saying Cass was "a 12-year employee with a very good record."

Cass was brought back to Montreal Wednesday after being arrested by the United States Border Patrol at Massena, N.Y., on an Albany-bound bus. The guards reported finding two suitcases in the bus containing $137,440 in Canadian currency and traveller's cheques.

How Do You Like Them Scrambled?

RIFLE, Colo. (AP)—The mystery of Herman Wilson's fossilized eggs has been unscrambled.

He came upon the four petrified eggs in 1960. Finally, curiosity won and he shipped them off to the Chicago Museum of Natural History.

Scientists say they're 30,000,000 years old — either bird or crocodile eggs from the Wasatch section of the Eocene period.

Prior to this, paleontologists in western Colorado say, the oldest eggs found on this continent came from the Oligocene period about 30,000,000 years ago.

Cubans Sign Contract With British Firm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Cuban government has signed a second contract with Leyland Motors Limited of Britain for delivery of buses and spare parts, Havana radio said today.

The second contract calls for 50 buses of 45-seat capacity and spare parts. The value was set at $1,500,000.

An earlier agreement between Cuba and the British firm called for 400 buses and spare parts valued at $10,000,000.

In a broadcast heard in Miami, Havana radio said the first vehicles are expected to arrive in Cuba next September.

Does It Matter Who Rules?

Does it really matter which party is in power in Ottawa?

There are electors who answer this question in the negative when voting time rolls around, but their attitude is generally held to be an example of deplorable indifference.

Now, though, much the same attitude has cropped up amongst some members of the House of Commons themselves.

The Liberals squeaked by a non-confidence test in the House of Commons on Tuesday, despite the fact that Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker had shrewdly discovered a matter on which there was general agreement amongst the members of four opposition groups that the Liberal policy was unwise - - - the sales tax on construction materials and production machinery.

Voting with the Liberals against the non-confidence motion were three Socreds from the West and two New Democrats.

The New Democrats frankly said they thought a federal election inadvisable at this time and from earlier speeches by Socred Leader Robert Thompson it can safely be inferred that this was the reason why he and two colleagues supported the Liberals.

Now what they are saying, in effect, is that who governs is not so important as that there should be some continuity in government. A good case can be made out for this contention. But it represents quite a break with the tradition that the government always considers itself the country's port of salvation, while the opposition always sees the country on the brink of ruin unless the party in power is ousted.

(The only alternative to this explanation for the support accorded the Liberals by the five opposition members is that they did not think their parties could improve their position if a vote were held today. A vote on this basis might be defended on the ground of principles, but most people would find the defence suspect and would consider expediency a more likely explanation.)

Of the four Opposition groups, only Real Caouette's Creditistes presented a truly unbroken front. Twelve of the thirteen members were present and all twelve voted against the government. The Conservatives' record was spoiled by Douglas Harkness. Of all the party leaders, John Diefenbaker is probably the one who is most firmly convinced that the Liberals are leading the country to perdition. (He also happens to be the party leader most likely to be firmly convinced that an election would be to his advantage, but that may perhaps be beside the point.) The Conservatives, at Mr. Diefenbaker's behest, were told not to "pair" with absent Liberals. But Douglas Harkness ignored the order. The man whose resignation as defence minister started the collapse of the last Diefenbaker government, paired with Hon. Mitchell Sharp, minister of trade, absent in London, England, on government business.

To Mr. Diefenbaker this may have seemed like a wholly unnecessary second stab; some observers will interpret it as a case of poetic justice and a richly-deserved rebuke for keeping Harkness off the defence committee. To Douglas Harkness it was probably merely the gentlemanly thing to do, in keeping with the tradition of "pairing" which enables members to go about the government's, or their own, business without their absence endangering their party. That it is a tradition suggests that perhaps the attitude that the country can survive politics without which one does not agree is not entirely new, after all.

Bathroom Mishap

Censorship is again in the news. A mountain is being made out of Fanny Hill.

Amid the hue of the hunters can be heard the plaintive cry of the hunted, maintaining there ought to be no censorship whatever.

Just at this critical point there comes a story out of Columbus, Ohio, which proves beyond peradventure of a doubt that censorship is essential for peace, order and good government.

Lt.-Col. John Glenn has come a cropper in his first-time-out, cut his forehead and bruised his head behind his left ear.

Col. Glenn is a former U.S. astronaut.

Obviously, news of his fall must be hushed up completely.

If this got noised abroad amongst all the would-be emulators of his exploits in the sky, there is not a home in the land in which the Saturday night bath, or its mid-week equivalent, would not give rise to organized protests against exposure to such grave risks.

Ottawa Offbeat

Tories Suffering Severe Case of Schizophrenia

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When Dalton Camp, the energetic, young (43) Toronto advertising executive, was elected President of the Progressive Conservative Party, he just may have bitten off more than he can chew.

In his many interviews, he has said he has two basic aims:

1. To heal the breach and reconcile whatever differences there may be between Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and certain elements in the party who like to label themselves as "The Intellectuals".

2.To erase what he says has been the completely false image of the party as anti-intellectual or anti-philosophic.

One of his difficulties will be the lack of ready communication now between the party organization which he, as President, heads, and the Conservative Parliamentary Caucus, composed of the MPs and Senators.

They now, for the first time in many years, are clearly separate identities, and Mr. Camp, the first president in an equally long time who is not and never has been elected, nor even an appointed member of the Parliamentary Caucus, firmly believes this is only as it should be.

WIDE BREACH

The way things already are shaping up, this division may only increase the schizophrenia from which the party continues suffering.

For, generally speaking, the members of the Parliamentary Caucus are the practical, working, grassroots politicians who see how has been clearly demonstrated by their very presence in the Commons and Senate.

The MPs wouldn't be there if they didn't know the political realities of the elections. And the same goes for many of the Senators who are appointed after long service in their life-pensioned reward, or professional party men who have labored unstintingly and sweat on the line getting others elected.

And the Parliamentary Caucus is vociferously and overwhelmingly pro-Diefenbaker.

Not only that, but almost all, some (or at least the extremist wing) of that element in the party which is stridently admits to being the self-proclaimed "Intellectuals". And they haven't won any elections.

President Camp already is having his troubles with the Parliamentary Caucus. But it will be the "Intellectuals" who will give him his hardest time.

The worst he can say, up to now, of the really swinging Diefenbaker group in the Parliamentary Caucus, is that they may be just a mite suspicious of his motives and could be dragging their feet in whatever planning he may be doing to "get the party Thinkers' Conference".

LONG WAIT:

Some of them remember such a conference at Port Hope back in 1943, and recall that it did little, if anything, to turn them to power. For they had to wait another 15 years and John Diefenbaker to get them to victory, a scant three months after they gave him the leadership.

They remember, too, that the Liberals had such a "Thinkers' Conference" this year in Kingston in 1960, and still took three years to squeak back into power.

The Diefenbaker partisans are in much more of a hurry than that.

But this lack of enthusiasm for the new approach by the party's Parliamentary Caucus is a small irritation for President Camp compared to the big trouble that could be confronting him among the extremists of "The Intellectuals".

Next time one of the "Thinkers" attended last week's opening of Parliament and stamped angrily around Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton's reception hastily proclaiming that if "Diefenbaker doesn't go, I'll shoot the SOB myself." This kind of talk is not political company, in front of Conservatives and Liberals and all manner of working political firemen. And this member of "The Intellectuals," far from being a party pariah, is, in fact, a former organizational "wheel" and still may be.

Here, in short, is one of these 'way out "Thinkers" has circulated a letter among at least some like-free-thinking party supporters, suggesting that the only way the Conservatives can get out of Opposition and into power is "to give Diefenbaker the Gerald treatment."

CAMP'S HOPES:

These are only two recent and glaring examples of the schizo-extremists. That this mad kind of thing can happen is not in the open for people to see and hear may give some indication of the frighteningly difficult job facing President Camp.

He will almost have to do something about them before he can hope to get anywhere with his "New Port Hope Conference."

To that political skull session he hopes to draw what he describes as the "most receptive Conservatives" and have them talk and plan with "the most informed and articulate experts on Canada's national problems."

He doesn't identify anybody in either group.

His aim would be to reaffirm what he terms "Conservative Philosophy."

The way he sees it, politics have changed so swiftly in the past 15 years that it is urgently necessary for the party and its supporters to re-examine themselves.

"We have to see the value of the party in society," he says, "for its no longer just good enough to beat the Liberals and enjoy power."

His views present political development as the making of Canadian history, in which the intellectual centres of the country should be interested and even involved, so they can encourage philosophical development and so be finding of future generations of students.

His own personal political philosophy combines the intellectual approach with a firm grasp of the practicalities of politics. Sounds good.

But can he sell it, especially to the wild-eyed extremists on either side?

Letter to The Editor

Ship Unions' Trustee Answers Editorial

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Through the Canadian Press Clipping Service we have received a copy of your February 7th "It Was Important" editorial. Undoubtedly it was intended to be constructive and we thank you for the interest and concern which prompted its publication. This is particularly the case with respect to the first half.

In the second half there seems to be some confusion and mild criticism. This may stem from not having a copy of the Maritime Transportation Unions Trustees Act which determined the policies enunciated in the Trustee Directive to which you refer.

From the beginning, Ajax based on the Act, the Trustees have regarded their responsibilities essentially and mainly to be (a) in the public interest and (b) in the interests of officers and seamen of the Canadian Maritime Shipping Industry. If we are correct in our interpretation of the Act, it would seem to follow that even in the process of bargaining there would be no neutral ground for the Trustees to occupy.

In Section 7, Subsection 2 c, these words are to be found — "Powers and Duties of the Trustees . . . shall not include advice to bargaining committees of a Maritime union negotiating collective agreements on behalf of the members of the union."

In our role as Trustees "in the public interest", we feel it incumbent upon us to make sure all applicable laws and regulations have been observed before approving the signing of an agreement and with this point you seem to agree.

Again thanking you for your co-operation.

Sincerely,
C. H. Millard,
Trustee.

Will Beatles Buy Empress?

Ottawa Journal

As status symbols, cars with tail fins are out. So are dishwashers: there are getting to be too many of them. The thing now is a boat. A boat in the water won't do. Everybody else has a speedboat has one too. One must put the boat on a trailer, hitch it to the back of the car and go on the highway where most people haven't got boats. It's a big boat; that takes up two-thirds of the road so the cars behind can't pass and can't even see past, and if one goes slowly up the hills, with a dozen cars fuming along behind, that's status.

Anyone looking for the ultimate in this sort of thing should jump at the news that the Empress of Britain will be for sale in the Spring. All one needs is the price — she cost $18,00.00 to build — and a very long drive is the way you can't leave a status boat at the lake where nobody can see it.

Or, for someone with a good pair of sea legs, buying the Empress would be one way of cutting a seat at the captain's table, and being cautioned "Port Out Starboard Home." It is a bit expensive, but gave us the word "posh."

Perhaps, since Elvis Presley bought FDR's old yacht, the Potomac, the Beatles will take every three months to cross the British supremacy at sea. I they do she had better have good stabilizers.

To Your Good Health

Sterilization May Cause Emotional Stumbling Block

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Three years ago my husband had a vasectomy. Since then his personality has changed completely. Should he have had some form of counseling treatment after the operation? Would this cause him to go through a change of life? — He hasn't been easy to live with since, whether that is the cause or not. — R. R.

Vasectomy is the severing (or ligating, or tying) of the vas deferens. It is a simple surgical procedure. The duct which carries the male sperm is shut off. The operation is, in short, a method of making a man sterile.

Surgically there isn't much to it, as surgeries go. Physiologically, it doesn't make any difference: it is completely unlike the "change of life." There is no change in the glandular system of the man. All that happens is that the sperm no longer can create life.

There may (or may not) be a psychological reaction, or awareness in the man that he no longer can become a father. He may feel that something has happened to make him less a man. For some, this is no problem. For others it is. For those in between, there can be a sense of wondering, not knowing: an emotional stumbling block.

From the purely medical standpoint, vasectomy doesn't mean much at all, except that a man has halted his ability to have more children. This, of course, is an emotional bombshell, even though the man has had the operation performed for the express purpose of making himself sterile.

I do not favor sterilization either of a man (by vasectomy) or of a woman (by tying the tubes). Neither operation is a simple affair, except for sterilization. It does not cause change of life or sexual capability.

I withhold my sanction because:

1: It is usually a permanent, irrevocable decision. Occasionally it may be possible to undo what has been done, but usually you can't.

2: People change their minds later — when it is too late.

3: The psychological impact is unpredictable. It may make no difference at all to some. But to others, it is impossible to calculate the emotional consequences. The husband of R. R. is the same physiologically, as before, but deep down in his soul he doesn't believe it. And it has warped him.

I am, with full deliberation, avoiding the issue of "birth control." That is for individuals to decide as their conscience and beliefs dictate. But I don't think permanent, voluntary, surgical sterilization is wise. There are regrets, doubts or worries later, they can't be resolved.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to donate one pint of blood every three months? — J. B.

If you are in good health you can donate blood that often and not be harmed a bit — and every pint of blood will help somebody, also.

Dear Dr. Molner: My heart has an unusual beat. Since arrhythmia is this serious? Can it be corrected? I feel fine. — E. M.

Please reread the last three words of your letter.

"Arrhythmia" means a faulty or unusual rhythm. The "sinus" in this case refers to a part of the heart.

Some irregularities of heart rhythm may be serious. Others may not. "Sinus arrhythmia" is one of these. It eventually disappears.

How Quebec Uses 'State'

Sherbrooke Record

"We hope the rest of Canada doesn't get all bristly again about the decision by the Quebec Liberal Federation to use the term "state of Quebec" in its brief.

It really doesn't mean a great deal.

Looked at one way, there isn't much difference between a state and a province. English speakers in Canada have simply tended to assume that when Quebec uses the term "state," it is referring to a separate country.

There is no valid reason for such an assumption. Quebec is a province state south of us. No one would suggest each of them is a sovereign country.

Besides, what a small group like the Quebec Liberal Federation chooses to call Quebec is about as binding as what the hockey fans at the Forum call some of the players.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Feb. 29, 1904.

The calendar was reformed 1,010 years ago—in 46 BC.—by Julius Caesar, setting the solar year at 365¼ days and giving February 29 instead of 28 days every fourth year. A law was enacted in Canada 1792 — and repealed in 1288—permitting spinsters to propose to bachelors in February for a few years later a like law was passed in France. Today is Leap Year Day.

1944—Meat rationing was suspended in Canada.

From the French-Canadian Viewpoint

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste
The Pearson government's throne speech demonstrates that the federal power is not in any way abandoning its centralizing policy. Once again the premier plan withdrawn at the last session in view of the squalls. The official text does not say whether the measure has been modified but it is certain that it has been perceptibly rejuvenated in order to appear more seductive to the provinces.

With this problem still unsolved the federal government already wants to invade several other fields. First of all, it will try to set up interest-free loans for university students.

The federal invasion is systematic, sustained and pitiless. Every day federal lawmakers have planted their feet somewhere, they never withdraw. We have an example of this in the pension fund. Quebec will have its own pension plan. Ottawa ridiculed the LaMarsh project, other provinces have expressed similar discontent, but the central power does not let go. It will find a way of superimposing its project upon those of the provinces, of boxing them in so that it can stick its foot in every direction. Ottawa practises parallelism in everything concerning administration. Even where the provinces have sole authority, where the texts are precise and against those of the provinces. . . . (Feb. 19)

Sherbrooke La Tribune — It (the throne speech) announced legislative proposals of importance such as the pension fund and a policy of loans to university students.

The latter subject furnishes an occasion for much discussion, in Quebec and one cannot help seeing in it a new effort by the federal government to stick its nose into a field that is none of its business. Admittedly the throne speech foresees consultation with the provinces but the principle of the project remains the same: Ottawa, with revenues that do not belong to it, will intervene in a field that falls under provincial jurisdiction. . . .

Nobody denies the necessity of providing easier access to university studies without regard to the financial means of the students. This responsibility falls upon the provinces and the federal government wishes so much to see students get the help they need, it will set the standards and will perform this task. The system of interest - free loans authorized by the federal government is no more acceptable than the scholarship system that was handed some time ago. (Feb. 26)

Montreal La Presse. . . . The Canadian Army practises in Quebec, as everywhere else in the country, a para-commando policy borrowed from the supermarkets: Self-service. You want a rifle, machine gun, tank, bazookas, mortars and the ammunition for these various playthings as well. The order does not even have to be passed on to Ottawa: they will be open all night. Since purchases are free at our place, you have only to pull in, after picking the locks or kicking in a door or two, which is the simplest of things. Only the transportation is at your expense. . . .

There is no need to fear that the army will abruptly change this method. It is sticking to self-service. The proof? Last year, when ruffians resorted to explode some bombs in its establishments, it was thought best to lock up a few of the system; but not, at all. Once, apparently by mistake, there was a night watchman on the job. He was killed. The lesson was learned: henceforth there are no night watchmen at military establishments. Thus, the commandos can sleep in peace what they want to take. For the last three weeks business has been particularly heavy.

The defence minister announced that he was taking security measures in "sensitive areas," that is to say, Quebec and the industrial area of Ontario.

Does he by chance think the arms thieves are unaware of the existence of the automobile? And what if some ordinary bandits, Corsican gangsters for example, also ventured to look for bargains at the expense of the state? It would hardly be surprising after all the publicity accorded the army's self-service system. . . . —Gerard Pelletier. (Feb. 22)

Firemen, Police, Ambulance Needed at Crackup!

This was the result of an alleged speeding incident in Belleville early today:

(1) A police chase;

(2) A two-car crash;

(3) A man hospitalized;

(4) An alarm to firemen to douse down leaking gasoline;

(5) An arrest — on a charge of careless driving.

(6) Damage to a hydro pole.

The chase started when the crew of a police cruiser spotted a car taking off from Church Street east along Station Stret at high speed.

Before they caught up with the car the officers heard the impact of a collision.

In the roadway was an automobile owned by Albert Clinton Mudd, 24, of 52 Forin Street. On the sidewalk, against a tilted hydro pole was a car driven by Albert Wesley Post, 33, of Ivanhoe.

Post was taken to Belleville General Hospital with back injuries.

Police alleged Mudd's car struck the rear of the Post vehicle. Total damage was $600.

Firemen were called out to hose down gasoline leaking from Post's car.

Mudd was later charged by police.

FIREMAN swishes down gas seeping from automobile after two-car crash on Station Street early today. A man was charged with careless driving.

Extra Security for Johnson May Have Been Due to Tip

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tip that a Cuban suicide pilot might try to ram President Johnson's jet transport is reported to be the reason for the wartime-type security surrounding the chief executive's Florida trip this week.

Neither the White House nor the Secret Service would comment on the report, published Friday by the Miami Herald.

The security measures imposed during Johnson's 16-hour Florida visit suggested there was official concern about the safety of the president while in the air.

The Herald, in a story by Gene Miller, said the Secret Service received a tip, apparently about a week ago, that a suicide pilot might try to ram Johnson's plane, or that a Cuba-based missile might be aimed at the big jet.

According to the newspaper, the Secret Service considered these possibilities highly unlikely. However, it was said that officials decided to take no chances.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, had this to say Friday about the report:

"I do not intend to comment on any story speculating on yesterday's events. Security measures . . . were taken for good and sufficient reasons. It would not be in the national interest to discuss them any further at this time."

Earlier Friday, Salinger had acknowledged that protective measures "in addition to those normally taken" were imposed "for security reasons."

Johnson flew to Florida Thursday and, after stops at Jacksonville, Palatka, Palm Beach and Miami Beach, returned to Washington Friday.

Among the security measures that seemed to lend credence to the reported concern about a possible aerial assassination attempt were these:

—Johnson did not fly to Florida on his own easily identified Boeing 707 jet. Instead, he boarded one of a fleet of executive jets operated by the U.S. Air Force. Reporters were told the president's plane was being overhauled.

—All numerical markings were removed from the plane used by Johnson, as well as from two identical planes that accompanied him.

—Whereas two transports normally are used on presidential flights — one as a "backup" craft available in an emergency — three were flown to Florida. The aim could have been to reduce the odds that any pilot on a suicide mission would find his target.

—No advance announcement was made of the arrival time for any of Johnson's flops, nor for his departure. Sometimes even his destination was kept secret until he was aloft.

AN ENGAGING SYMBOL — Princess Margaretha of Sweden and her fiance look at her ring finger in Stockholm. The 29-year-old princess and fiance John Ambler, 39, London businessman, had just announced at the Royal Palace their plans to wed.

Loeb Family Increases Offer To Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The Loeb family of Ottawa made another stab Friday at getting the City of Ottawa to accept its offer to build a medical research centre at the civic hospital.

Bertram Loeb of the Loeb Foundation agreed to increase to $500,000 from $450,000 the amount of the donation in the event that the cost of building and equipping the centre exceeds $450,000.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton also said that the Loeb family has cleared up her reservations about the legal and financial implications of the offer.

She said the family said it had no objections to a plebiscite being held if costs of operating the centre are to be borne by Ottawa taxpayers.

Mayor Whitton said she will bring the question of a plebiscite before city council Monday when it meets to consider the Loeb offer. The family has stipulated that unless the offer is accepted unanimously by council the money will go to Carleton University.

HITS GENTLENESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI director J. Edgar Hoover criticized Friday what he feels is foolishly gentle treatment of sex criminals. He said law enforcement too often is confronted with "the deplorable results of a sex crime that might have been prevented by the proper instruction at home by parents, by prompt reporting of sexual deviates by police and by realistic punishment of offenders by the courts."

U.S. Appears to Have Set Aside Expansion in Viet Nam

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States appears to have considered and then set aside for the moment plans for an escalation of the Vietnamese war to penetrate the Communist home front in North Viet Nam.

Yet the war is going so badly for the U.S.-supported South Vietnamese that some form of politically motivated enlargement may become necessary, despite the view of State Secretary Dean Rusk that no miracles are to be found in the north.

President Johnson is being accused by his opponents of wielding a weak and confusing foreign policy. They point to the disarray in the western alliance, French recognition of Communist China, expansion of trade by allies with the Communist world, including shipments to Cuba.

For most of the criticism, the administration has ready answers, including the argument that the U.S. no longer has a monopoly over the atom bomb and cannot dictate the changing pattern of world affairs.

DIFFERENT STORY

But South Viet Nam is a different story. Both the Johnson and Kennedy administrations subscribed to the theory that if South Viet Nam falls, all of southeast Asia will topple gradually into the hands of the Communists, radically changing the balance of power between East and West.

The problem in South Viet Nam is disorganization and confusion. Despite the coups that have taken place, government leaders in Saigon have failed to win popular support among the peasants.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara now is being sent out for another on-the-spot inspection. Saigon reports would indicate the Vietnamese forces simply are losing the war. They need bolstering.

France argues there is no alternative to neutrality but the U.S. maintains it will not accept neutrality unless the Viet Cong withdraw. With the Viet Cong pressing its military successes, the prospect of voluntary withdrawal appears remote.

The only alternative that appears politically acceptable to the U.S. in this election year is intensified action.

Hoffa Case Goes to Jury On Tuesday

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Final arguments in the James R. Hoffa jury-tampering trial will begin Monday, with indications the jury may start deliberations by Tuesday night.

Judge Frank Wilson announced that he would expect the lawyers to begin arguing their cases Monday—the start of the trial's seventh week.

Hoffa, president of the 1,700,000-member Teamsters Union, and five others are charged with trying to bribe or corrupt the jury at his 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville. That jury failed to agree on a verdict and a mistrial resulted.

Hoffa would face a maximum sentence, if convicted, of 15 years in prison and a $15,000 fine. The others could get five years and $5,000 fines.

EUROPEAN EXPERIENCE

"No man's knowledge . . . can go beyond his experience." —John Locke, 1632 - 1707.

"Ellen has her 7th tooth. The Vespers tell everyone she has 6 Canadian teeth and one German one and it is chewing on good German bread that has produced it."

So comments Anne Greaves, (daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Forrester, 65 Bridge Street E.) in her letters from Wuppertal, West Germany, where she, her husband Bill and baby daughter spent eight weeks last summer with a German family.

"Shopping here is a daily expedition, to the butcher, to the green grocer and so on," Anne goes on. "We are not far from the shops, a pleasant walk. I did the local shopping this morning for myself. Straw basket for parcels of food in one hand, can for milk in the other, like all the German hausfrauen.

"We are eating the most peculiar meals: bread, rolls, cheese honey and jams, coffee for breakfast; meat, potatoes, vegetables and dessert at noon (nothing to drink); coffee in the afternoon (a real treat — it's expensive here — $2.00 a pound) fried potatoes or pancakes, bread, cheese, liverwurts (one makes open face sandwiches and eats them with a knife and fork), tomatoes or salads, and tea with lemon and sugar in it. Such quantities of bread and potatoes! I think Frau Vesper is intent upon putting weight on me.

"She has very definite ideas about Ellen too. Appalled that she eats meat (babies here eat vegetables with a bit of butter in them, apparently,) and doesn't approve of food in tins or glasses for children. We are amused. Actually I'm having a time finding prepared food for her. There isn't any meat. There are a few meat and vegetable preparations — pig ham. She has been having cream of wheat . .

"We have had 'dicke milk' several times, at breakfast or supper. It is nothing more or less than sour milk, fresh milk left standing in an earthenware jug for a day or so, covered. It is like the first stage of cottage cheese.

"One eats it sprinkled with a mixture of white sugar and cinnamon, quite refreshing in hot weather. . Last evening we had large crisp pancakes for supper rolled up with cheese, something like smoothe cottage cheese inside and the same cinnamon and sugar mixture on top. . .

"Sunday evening we had soup before dinner, in the evening, because everyone had been walking all day, and then ate dinner from our soup bowls!!!

"Table manners here are somewhat different from ours. The jars of honey, cheese, etc., appear on the table and everyone uses his own knife. One butter's one's bread directly from butter dish to bread without benefit of butter knife. There are no napkins except when we have a fresh fruit. . After the meal the dishes are all stacked at the table and carted out to the kitchen. It all saves on dishwashing but takes some acclimating!

"The army here is quite a miracle of transplanted vicilization. I was delighted with all the familiar trade names in the commissary! One can erase one's North American ubeing-ing in eight weeks of German tbanks.

Styles Soft And Clinging For Spring

PARIS (Reuters) — Balenciaga sides with the new school of thought that discards austerity in a spring collection which emerged into the public on Friday after three weeks of showings to buyers and private clients.

The press applauded the Spanish master's soft silhouette, worked with curved seamlines and the masterful handling of bold Gaudin floral - printed silks and patterned fabrics.

Balenciaga's styles are soft and clinging.

The stark, sleeveless armhole has been replaced by shoulder coverage with deep - set draped cap sleeves.

Blousing broadens the top of the silhouette, achieved with cowled backs, shoulder yolks or blased insets.

Newest themes are the linen coat dress and the poplin or gaberdine rain suits. Dark-toned linen in navy or brown are employed for double breasted coat dresses, with inch-wide martingale belts set at the back. Other models feature tie-back apron belts gathering fullness to a concentrated panel.

immersion."

Back in England Anne and Bill "went to a fabulous place last evening. The Elizabethan Room in the Gore Hotel!" How interestingly Anne describes this experience, saying "We didn't know really what we were getting into. We soon discovered that this adventure into the 16th century was to last all evening. The authenticity was wonderful — straw on the floor, wenches (we interrupt here to note that these same wenches were in Toronto recently on a prolonged travel tour anticipating Shakespeare's 400th anniversary in April) — in serving maids, minstrel, mead, claret, pewter plates, crude earthenware, one fork, a wooden spoon and a dagger. . . Whenever anyone entered the wench introduced them at the top of her lungs and all of us had to yell, "Drink, Hail!" and toast them with mead. The men were served first a la 16th century and we used our one pewter plate for every course, scraping left over bits and pieces from the last course onto an enormous pewter platter which was destined for 'the poor'. . . We befriended our table mates and all went on to the Players Theatre afterwards (a unique club to which the Londoner belonged). It's an old time music hall type place like a theatre but instead of rows of seats there are tables interspersed. . .

We are indeed indebted to Dr. and Mrs. Forrester making excerpts from Anne's letters possible for this column. In wishing the Greaves every success and happiness during their sojourn abroad and in London where Bill is studying for his doctorate at the University of London, we hope we may continue to hear from them from time to time in the weeks to come. WomanlyMind Has Way to Get at Truth

TORONTO (CP) — Women can make a significant contribution to business and those who "automatically and unthinkingly" discriminate against women do themselves an injustice, perhaps missing some excellent opportunities," J. C. McCarthy of Toronto, vice-president and general sales manager, Consumers' Gas Company, said today.

Mr. McCarthy gave the keynote address at the annual seminar of the Toronto branch of the Association of Administrative Assistants. Some 250 private secretaries attended.

"The womanly mind has, too often to suit rational male pride, exhibited a strange and direct ability to get at the truth."

POINTS FINGER

While mere man stumbles around with his facts and statistics, he continues, the irritating female will often simply point a pretty finger and disarmingly uncover the solution to a problem.

"It is not so much that she is right. It's the way she says it and the simplicity of her approach. Psychologists are wrestling with the phenomenon, trying to find an explanation of how women can do it . . . they do not know. They stick to the rational male way at least."

Mr. McCarthy, on the other hand, had some advice for the women themselves: "If it is acceptance in the business world that women seek, it should be acceptance as businesswomen and not as businessmen in skirts."

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I was maid of honor at the wedding of my closest friend ten years ago. She and her husband are having a large party to celebrate their anniversary next month. They have let it be known that they do not want guests to bring gifts. Even so, I would like to give them a present for sentimental reasons. While I was personally involved in their wedding. Would it be incorrect to override their stated wishes and bring a gift anyway? — Mrs. C. E., Allentown, Pa.

Answer: Since you were so intimately involved in the wedding and its arrangements, it would be permissible to give the couple a gift. However, it shouldn't be handed to them in front of other guests who might feel that they maybe should have brought something too, regardless of what the invitation said. So, to avoid embarrassing the host and hostess as well as the other guests, don't bring a gift with you, but arrange to have it delivered to their home in advance of the party.

Question: Whenever we go to the theatre or to the movies, one thing always annoys me: Why can't people who are seated stand, so those arriving can get through to their seats? I've often wound up with scraped shins and a slightly battered hemline from trying to edge through, while people just sit there and refuse to budge an inch. Most last place when you say "Excuse me" and wait an instant for them to get their coats and knees out of the way so you can pass through. What should one do to make seat-clingers give a little? — Mrs. C. E., Kew Gardens, N. Y.

Answer: If everyone, especially those bold seats in the middle of an aisle, would arrive at the theatre before curtain time, there wouldn't be so much of a problem. But if ticket-holders are unavoidably late, those already seated should be gracious enough to stand and let them through. Late-comers, to facilitate matters, should remove their wraps in the rear of the theatre, so they won't be so bulky in passing and can slip through to their seats with a little less trouble.

Penny-Pinching Girlfriend Outsmarted by Ex-Fiance

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Danny and I were engaged but that's off now. We still date once in awhile.

When we were engaged I used to ask Danny for a few dollars to get my hair fixed and he was very nice about it. If we were in a drug store for a snack I'd pick up a few little items and he'd pay for them.

The other evening we were out for a walk and passed a grocery store. I needed a few little things so we stopped. When we walked up to the cash register Danny just stood there. Finally I said, "Well, aren't you going to pay?" He said, "I didn't buy anything."

I never felt so cheap in all my life. The whole bill was under $3.00. I took out my wallet and paid for the groceries myself. We didn't do anything that day but go for a walk. Danny didn't spend a dime on me. Was he wrong? I want you to be the judge. — LITTLE BETSY.

DEAR LITTLE — and I do mean very small: You sound like a penny ante chiseler.

Why should Danny swing for your groceries? Some couples have a "You buy 'em, I fry 'em" dinner date, but this was nothing of the sort. You tried to clip the guy and he wouldn't clip. I'm with him.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — In my college days I was a tramp. No other word will fit. I told myself life was short, dates were important and I lived it up.

I became pregnant and had to drop out of school. The big, grave, wonderful boy friend decided he wasn't ready for marriage.

My family sent me to an aunt. The baby was adopted by good people who really wanted a child. I returned to school, got my degree, and then moved to another city.

Last Easter I began to date a fine young man. On New Year's Eve he asked me to marry him.

I am afraid to say yes because of my past. The shock would probably kill him because he thinks I am a saint. I'm almost sure if he knew the truth about me he would end the relationship at once. You always advise girls against confessing their past indiscretions. Does this hold in my case? I need your help. — EX TRAMP.

DEAR EX — An out-of-wedlock child is more than an indiscretion. Don't marry the man without first filling him in on this vital bit of history. The fear of being found out, plus the guilt of having deceived him, could ruin the marriage.

If he can't tolerate the knowledge that you have had a child it's better to know now.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — If a man is dining with his mother and his wife in a restaurant and a business acquaintance stops at the table, should the man introduce his wife or his mother first?

We have been arguing about this for two days and need your answer. — YOU KNOW WHICH.

• • •

DEAR WHICH — Unless his wife is older than his mother, the man should introduce his mother first.

QUESTION:

I had a very good recipe for a dark fruit Christmas cake. It had two cans of tomato soup, crushed pineapple and maraschino cherries, green and red, and fruits . . . Could you help me? — Mrs. Marg. B.

ANSWER:

The following recipes come from two companies which produce condensed tomato soup. They both have home economists who create and test foods, recipes, so I feel secure in giving them to you even though I have not tested them. They are as close as I can come to filling your request.

SATURDAY — Dinner Menu

Chili con Carne; Dark Rye Bread; Chef's Salad with Swiss Cheese; Sliced Bananas on Vanilla Ice Cream; Cherry Bars (see Friday); Tea.

TOMATO SOUP FRUIT CAKE (no eggs):

½ cup tomato soup (10-oz. size), 2-3 cup water, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup raisins, ½ cup currants (or chopped candied cherries), ½ cup chopped walnuts, 2¼ cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Add water to tomato soup, then add soda and stir until dissolved. Combine flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Cream butter, add sugar gradually and blend well. Then add alternately liquid and dry ingredients, beating powder. ½ after each addition. Add currants, raising and nuts. Combine well. Pour into greased, paper-lined square pan. Bake about 1 hour at 350 to 375 deg. Fahr.

TOMATO SOUP FRUIT CAKE No. 2 (2 eggs):

3 cups sifted cake flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon powdered cloves, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup drained crushed pineapple, 1 cup chopped mixed green and red cherries, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup, 1 cup chopped nuts.

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and spices. Cream shortening and sugar; add fruit and nuts thoroughly. Blend in eggs. Add flour mixture alternately with soup; stir until smooth. Pour into nuts. Pour into a greased and floured 10" tube pan; bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes, or until done.

If the above cakes are to be kept for more than a week, they should be frosted with simple butter frosting and wrapped in foil and stored in the refrigerator.

This Marriage Presents No Citizenship Problems

DEAR DORIS — I'm a Canadian girl in love with a fellow who came here from Europe a few years ago. He does not want to take out Canadian citizenship papers because he says he'll lose his European citizenship and cannot go back there.

He has a good job and has bought a home here, but his family keep writing him to come home.

What I want to know is, if I do marry him and he is not a Canadian citizen, do I lose my Canadian citizenship standing and become a European citizen through him?— BROWN EYES WORRIED.

FROM THE MAIL BOX

Dear Pegg Rogers: I am going on a cruise to the West Indies in late March. As I am going tourist class, I am at a loss to know what clothes to buy.

Will I need an evening gown or would silk shirtwaist dresses be suitable? How much "dressy" dresses will I need for an eleven day cruise? — Signed A. C.

Dear A. C.: Aren't you lucky? Thank you for sharing such pleasant problems with us all.

The first rule to remember aboard ship is never "dress" the first night out. This may sound archaic, but I think it dates back to the days of the Grand European Tour when people traveled with tons of trunks. It probably took them two days to find their toothbrushes. To "dress" the first night out, was considered the most horrible "gaffe" and marked one as a rank outsider!

However, some of this feeling still carries over into our time. For the first evening, wear a simple, late-day dress of silk, or possibly satin. Or a jersey that will not emerge from your suit case crossed and crushed. Keep your accessories very plain.

For the next ten evenings, I would include the same dress and perhaps one more dressy accessories plus two other dresses. Do not forget the "little nothing" dress in black, dark brown or navy blue to be worn with coloured accessories. Include one long "at home" skirt with a sleeveless blouse of the same fabric, plus a toning, long-sleeved blouse. (There is methyl-ethyl-ketone in my matches.) Customs vary from ship to ship and from season to season, but as the full-length evening gown is now back on the fashion scene, I think you can safely assume that it can be worn in the tourist class on board ship. If you are travelling on a "one class" ship you will need a more formal fashion rules. The last night out is usually very festive on a cruise ship and a complete reversal of the first night aboard.

You will, of course, pack plenty of play clothes. Include shorts with a cover-up skirt, plenty of shirts and tops, play shoes, at least one bathing suit with its own coverall. Again look for easy care fabrics such as sharkskin, cotton mixes and denims. Do not forget at least one mohair sweater, two would be better.

For the first two days out, you might include a wool jersey, three-piece suit and some low-heeled walking shoes for the route march around the deck. A soft tweed beret for walking or playing out on deck, will save unnecessary visits to the hair dresser. If you do not like wool jersey, look for some of the new synthetic fibre knits in neutrals or pastels. They travel well and adapt to any climate as if they had their own built-in thermostat.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers in care of this paper.

Going Places

Relaxation of Ocean Voyage Can't Be Denied Nor Matched

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

AT SEA, Aboard the S.S. Constitution — There is a satisfying sense of travel" about being on board an ocean liner.

That bounding over the main is not the fastest means of travel in no secret. We have written enough ourselves about how jets go further in an hour than ships do in a day.

But there is a transcendant feeling of rightness about going this way. Europe should be five (or six, no matter) days away, and a band should be on deck playing "Auld Lang Syne" as streamers fly to the pier and tugboats toot, just like in a prewar novel. You can almost feel the softening of tired businessmens' arteries and overworked housewives' varicose veins.

IN NO HURRY

It comes almost as a shock that there are on board passengers in no particular hurry to get anyplace, and that they change the clocks one hour at a time every day instead of six hours in one fell swoop.

On this American Export Lines's 18th round trip to the Mediterranean, we have left behind a pertinent and pertinent world of television, sadistic drivers, and that telephone, for one in which the most important decision we may be called upon to make at any given time is which food to raise first when the vacuum cleaner comes along in the lounge.

It matters not who you may be or how much influence you have, you live more or less like everyone else, which is more or less as you feel like. There are few shipboard regulations to be broken. You go to bed early, late, or not at all, and eat and drink what and when the spirit moves you. Rarely is such self-indulgence available to man.

Perspectives become distinctly fully distorted. As if taking out all our frustrations against years of advertising 44- and 66-pound baggage limits, we indulged in an orgy of packing. Each new careful and solicitous consideration is given to the powerful problems of what to wear when. One can get rid of a suitcase: once unpacked, we are ready for 21 days of ports and cruising.

MAJOR DECISIONS

Oh, there are other major decisions too. Which showing of the movie to go to. What to eat. Whether to take a deck chair on the starboard or port side. Play chess or bridge, enter the ping pong or shuffleboard tournament, or try the putting green (close-in shots only). And even the movement of the ship, sinking a putt presents a problem (a calculation that makes golf seem about as rare as a hole-in-one).

The almost forgotten experience of meeting new people will travelling, and getting to know them well, is to be savored. Among others we have racked up a Stats Dept. agricultural expert en route to Sudan, a retired railroad president, a manufacturer of bikinis, and a waiter who paints.

Scuttlebutt — the nautical term for gossip — is a major pastime. "How about what those two single girls in 221 were wearing last night; did you ever. . .?" "Who's that couple at the corner table? I haven't seen them in this class before." "I heard from the radio officer that there's a low pressure area ahead."

Since most passengers are on vacation and everybody hopes for a smooth crossing, the weather assumes major importance and is the subject of endless discussion. Sea scouts scan the horizon for clouds, turn their faces to the wind, ask the waiters what they think, and even check the Farmer's Almanac (it is not true the captain has it at his bedside).

EVERYONE IS AUTHORITY

Should a gale blow up and the Atlantic make its formidable presence felt, everyone becomes an authority — on seamanship ("he should head into the wind"), navigation, ("he should have gone south by nonsesaick remedies, (eat, don't eat before you go to bed, don't stay in bed, drink, don't drink, go outside, don't go outside, anyway it's all in the mind, anyway you'll forget all about it by tomorrow — which you do).

There are many intriguing arts to weathering a storm at sea. Tablecloths are dampened to keep dishes from sliding, and chairs are chained to the deck. Waiters carrying trays do dainting and delicate ballets of balance.

Most artistic of all is the technique of standing still when the ship doesn't. It's quite simple, really: you just lean to a vertical position the way they used to in slapstick movies. But in every art there are virtuosos, and our mission for a lifetime goes to Chief Cabin Class Purser Franklin N. Picker, who has been observed to maintain his feet, equilibrium and poise while forming two sides of an isosceles triangle with his body.

As you can see, nearly everything we have had to say about shipboard life is monumentally trivial. So it should be, for there is enough of importance happening on that land thousands of miles in each direction, about which we can do nothing anyway.

And now if you will excuse us, we must decide whether it is to be bingo or a haircut this afternoon. Decisions, decisions, decisions!

A Lift for Living

What Do We Hear From Sky, Thunder or Voice of God?

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

We live in a world where appearances are deceptive, where the extraordinary often looks like everyday stuff.

The Gospel of John tells of an event in the life of Jesus, close to the end of His earthly ministry. He had dined with His friends and He then went to Jerusalem where a great crowd gathered to see Him. There followed a clamorous public demonstration of acclaim. Nearly the entire city turned out for the occasion, some out of curiosity and others in admiration edging on worship. But Jesus seemed somewhat aloof from it all. He sensed that His death was near. Perhaps it would come at the hands of some of those who now watched Him ride through the streets. He trusted that good would come from His dying, and He prayed, "Father, glorify thy name." Then," says the Gospel, "a voice came from heaven. 'I have glorified it, and I will glorify it again.' The crowd standing by heard it and said it thundered. Others said, "An angel has spoken to Him."

INTERPRETATION IS KEY

There was a crowd in which everyone heard the same sound. But how variously the people interpreted the sound. The Gospel writer informs us that the sound was from heaven and bore a message of reassurance to Jesus. A few thought an angel had spoken. But most members of the throng standing near the Master lightly shrugged the matter off, saying, "It's thundering."

This passage of Scripture reminds us of something vital about human nature wherever we find it — in ancient Jerusalem or in our town today: we are not so much affected by what happens to us as we are by our interpretation of what happens. We can be like the Jerusalem crowd in the presence of greatness and miss it, or we can be caught up in an earth-shaking event and be quite unaffected by it all. We sometimes shrug off the highest things we see because they seem so commonplace. We look at what others see and hear what others hear, but we miss the grandeur and the meaning.

Most advancements in science are based upon someone's noticing what others missed, upon someone's reverent regard for the high revelation that lurks behind life's drab commonplaceness.

Any nation's greatness can be largely credited to men of courageous insight who looked with hope upon events that shook others with utter despair.

WHAT DO WE HEAR

Could we miss hearing God's voice amidst the clashing noises of international strife in our time? Perhaps. Is it possible that what we have interpreted to be a meaningless uproar of unpleasant world events is the judgment of heaven saying something significant to the children of earth, telling us that we no longer have a choice, as we once did, between justice and injustice? The option is between understanding and good will or annihilation. That sound we hear, is it earth's thunder or is God having his say?

And how about your personal, daily life? If your situation seems drab and undramatic do not blame your circumstance for your incoverahment of spiritual riches. Accuse yourself. Tell yourself that you are not aware of God because you are looking for lesser things. Explain to yourself that you do not hear His voice because earth's lesser sounds are too important to you, or when God speaks you misinterpret the voice to be "only duty calling" or "just a twinge of conscience" or "it's mere impulse" to perform a kindness.

God still speaks, and to all of us.

He still searches for those who will hear and recognize and obey His voice.

Council

tion infringing on Turkish rights.

The peace proposal put forward by the five non - permanent council members was being offered, sources said, on a "take it or leave it" basis as the best hope of a formula for a UN settlement.

RESULT IN DOUBT

Whether the resolution will win Security Council approval remains in doubt, the sponsors are reported to feel. The proposal is the product they need most acceptable after several days of consultation with the disputants.

Major provisions of the resolution would authorize Secretary - General U Thant to:

—Dispatch a multi - nation peacekeeping force to Cyprus for three months to maintain law and order.

—Choose a neutral mediator to establish a series of talks between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot leaders aimed at a durable solution of the issues.

Before the council Friday, Turkish Cypriot Leader Rauf Denktash said the Greek-Cypriots want a council resolution granting a seating territorial integrity that they could interpret as overriding the 1960 treaty which does the same thing but also gives intervention rights to Turkey, Greece and Britain.

SEES UNION END

Armed with such a resolution, Denktash said, the Greek-Cypriot majority would "make it impossible" for the Turkish-islanders and unite Cyprus with Greece. He charged that the Greek-Cypriots "have given orders to their gunmen to lie in wait while these (UN) proceedings go on."

Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou, of Greek descent, told the council Turkey is following "a policy of provocation . . . through the use of warships and manoeuvres." He referred to a 24-unit Turkish task force that has been manoeuvring in the Mediterranean near Cyprus for several days.

erage price has been dropping for weeks and hit a new low Friday of 47 cents a pound.

GOVERNMENT ACT

Mr. Symon said the government must act to stabilize prices by removing some of the surplus tobacco from the market. He estimated that 95 per cent of the farmers supported the exchange closures and favored drastic acreage reduction for the 1964 crop.

One farmer said a committee set up by the provincial government to study Ontario's $100,000,000-a-year flue-cured tobacco industry had "added insult to injury" by recommending the abandoning over the next five years of all acreage restrictions.

The report of the committee, headed by Dr. Ford Slinson of Kemptville, was tabled in the Ontario legislature Wednesday. However, agriculture minister Stewart said removal of acreage limits "would require a great deal of careful study before any action is taken."

Two Youths Charged With Two Slayings

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — State police held two teen-age boys today in the slaying of a high school senior and began a search for the body of the father of one of them.

Richard McAllister, 18, of Norwalk and Edward McNally, 17, of Wilton were charged Friday with first-degree murder.

State Police Commissioner Leo J. Mulcahy said the youths admitted killing John R. Shinners, 18, of Wilton Sunday and Edwin McAllister, Richard's father, last Aug. 29.

Mulcahy said the youths buried the father's body in an undisclosed wooded area.

Young McAllister "hated his father with a fixation" and McNally hated both the death of his mother, said Lieut. Louis Marchese of the state police.

Police said McNally and McAllister ambushed McAllister's father at his home, Monday shooting him and young McAllister stabbing him.

The body of Shinners, who had been shot six times, was found later that day in a wooded area of Wilton, a few miles north of the two youths' homes. His car turned up the next day.

Apparently, police said, the two youths wanted possession of the car.

of the Queen as head of state for Canada, abolition of the British subject status of Canadian citizens, adoption of a flag not containing the Union Jack, and deletion of the word "Dominion" from all Canadian laws.

LITTLE CHANGE

His resolution has little chance of being debated this session. Gordon Churchill, PC — Waterloo South) pressed his party's criticisms of the government's contributions to Canada Pension Plan.

The Galt businessman said the plan won't help those who need pensions the most. It would be a "wonderful security" for workers dying before reaching retirement age, because their families would receive no refund.

It would force industrial workers now covered by excellent private pension plans to switch to the inferior benefits of the government plan. Its costs likely would be far more than present government forecasts.

Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West) criticized the government's decision to introduce pension plan legislation before the federal-provincial conference opening March 31 at Quebec City.

Earlier, Justice Minister Favreau said the government intends to avoid any undue delay on the pension legislation.

municipal governments.

It contrasted to the "thickening, the conflicts, the fears, the suspicions of small-minded men which frustrates our progress and would diminish our national destiny."

He said Canadians can and will do many more great things in every field of endeavor. He said Canadians must reject the faint heart and the defeatism of those little Canadians who would break up Canada and the mean-spirited Canadians who have no faith.

Opening an airport for the first time since he took office last April, the prime minister said aviation was an example of binding and unifying forces needed to make Canada one strong, cohesive nation.

ASKS FEDERAL STRENGTH

He called for a federal government strong enough to discharge its obligations to all Canadians and all parts of Canada. It would act without fear or favor, and with the fullest co-operation of other levels of government who have their own obligations and also require the means to discharge them.

"This makes necessary co-operation essential in the interests and for the benefit of all Canadians."

One of the prime minister's aides said these remarks could be taken as reinforcing the prime minister's stand in a letter to Premier Roberts of Ontario this week. Mr. Pearson today rejected in the letter Ontario criticism of the Canada Pension Plan.

In an earlier address to the Variety Club, he said destiny will "confound the few little men who would weaken or break" Canada. He was made a member of the international group of the entertainment world who engage in charitable work.

When the prime minister arrived here for a three-day visit he was met by one RCMP officer, two metropolitan Toronto detectives and two motorcycle officers, in contrast to heavy security precautions during recent visits by Premier Lesage of Quebec and British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Security measures were also apparently non - existent when the prime minister pushed a button to open officially the new terminal building here since Jan. 12, at nearby Malton field. Strangers rubbed elbows with him during and following the reception.

The new terminal has been under planning and construction for five years. It replaces facilities which were unable to handle adequately the 2,500,000 passengers which pass through the airport each year.

Bond Market Closes Week On Lower Note

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian bond market closed the week on a lower note, with little trading.

The increase in Britain's bank rate to five per cent from four on Thursday was responsible for some of the price decreases. Short-term Canada bonds, 3¼ per cent maturing Oct. 1, 1964, were $99.40, off seven cents.

The amount of day-to-day money dropped by $20,000,000 to $1,144,000,000 and the rate was unchanged on the week at 3½ per cent. The 91-day treasury bill, however, increased .06 per cent to 3.88 per cent on the week.

Prices in the long-term Canada market were off generally by a point. The provincial market also lost at lower levels, with price decreases in ¼ to ⅜ range.

The municipal market was lower at the close of the week after early firmness, and the corporate bond market was largely unchanged.

clusive Rockcliffe, an Ottawa suburb. The army truck from Kingston, which picked up Asbury's cadet corps rifles, broke down en route.

All this provided the opposition with more than enough ammunition to hold Mr. Hellyer up to ridicule in the Commons.

It couldn't have happened at a worse time, politically speaking. Mr. Hellyer is scheduled to present a new defence policy to Parliament in a week or two.

Informants said the persons responsible for the small arms fiasco may be fired and the reasons given publicly.

If so, it would probably be a first.

Former Conservative defence minister Douglas Harkness, in the midst of the government's intramural difficulties over nuclear weapons, was saddled with the problem of the compulsory sailing club with compulsory fees at Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Petawawa was also a thorn in the side of the late Brooks Clanton, White the liberal defence minister was in the middle of the defence buildup and fighting the Korean war, an omnibus case of the horses on the payroll, the missing railway spur and other ills lacking events beset him.

His successor, Ralph Campney, became an object of ridicule because of a military order prescribing that photographs of the minister should show only one ear.

The trustees feel these measures will improve the lives of Great Lakes sailors, which they consider their most important task. They have also called on shipowners and the unions under their control to set up advisory committees for labor contracts coming up for negotiation this spring.

Labor Minister MacEachen indicated in the Commons that the ship owners weren't moving fast enough to set up such a committee. The unions have also been slow to form a committee.

MONTREAL (CP)—Roy Wesley Lionel Downie, 30, was ordered held without bail Friday for sentencing March 17 after he admitted stealing $124,000 from the Royal Trust Company of Canada, his former employer. Downie also pleaded guilty 10 days ago to stealing $58,250 worth of bonds from the company.

The Golden Years
Retired Talent Is Poor Gift But It Sells for Good Price

By THOMAS COLLINS

This business of what a man does with his talents after he retires keeps coming up, from all over.

Just what should a man do with talents?

Talks with a cross-section of well-to-do retired men — all with pensions sufficient for their needs — reveal at least one bizarre answer; that it's easier to sell talents than to give them away.

Three of the men in the survey had, in effect, tied their talents in blue ribbons and dropped them in the bottom drawer of their wives' chiffoniers. They were through. A couple of others were fishing and fooling around, too shy or too content to decide how to offer their talents. All the rest were out in the marketplace trying to sell, rent, donate, or barter their talents in exchange for something else.

One of these was Robert P. Struckman.

"I was in pretty bad shape about six months after I retired," Mr. Struckman said. "I had to get out of the house, find something. Or both my wife and I would go crazy.

NEEDED ACTIVITY

"I didn't need money. In fact I really didn't want any because it would involve me in red tape and bring back the fearsome dread of income tax forms. But I needed an activity. I rather wanted the satisfaction of practising my skills. I felt slightly — and in honesty I must confess a little slightly as urge toward do-goodism..."

Mr. Struckman had been an industrial chemist. He called on an executive of a cosmetic firm, and stated his skills. He said he didn't want much salary, if any. Certainly not over $100 a month. He just wanted to be sure he'd get back into a laboratory and see what he could do.

The fellow looked at me over his specs as though I was some kind of nut. Or maybe I was a spy for another cosmetic firm. Or a union man. What was I after?

He was brushed off.

Next he tried a paint manufacturer. Executives here were somewhat more intrigued by Mr. Struckman's offer to work, but also were skeptical. They kept asking him what a man of 60 had been worth $15,000 a year would want to work for $100 a month? Obviously someone could not pacify them. But anyway, I got the idea they thought I'd be a troublemaker. I'd be hard to handle if I got into their plant on $100 a month."

SAME RESULT

He tried two other firms, with pretty much the same results. "If I had gone into all three places and asked for a job at $8,000 a year," he said, "and agreed to waive insurance and pension benefits I would have gotten a job, especially at the paint company. But an employer is afraid of a man who is too cheap or free."

A $100 a month job, or a free job, with a professional association, a civic association, welfare organizations, foundations and good works, according to Mr. Struckman. But with an awful penalty. "If you go to work for them for $100 a month, then a $100 a month job is what you're going to get. Like moving packing crates in the back room. If you go to work for them for free it's worse. You're then called a 'volunteer' which means you're assistant to the $100 a month man, and a little dumb to boot."

But if you go to the boards of directors of such groups, make a good case for your qualifications and bring some influence to bear on the members, you may get an administrative post at $6,000 or so a year. Or so Mr. Struckman has concluded.

And have wrong. Any employer who would hire you in retirement is likely to accept your own evaluation of your talents. And if the price is quite low, he'll be wary of you, or not want such cheap talent around. If you want a job after 65 think big . . . or think about going fishing.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," somebody wrote, and according to a letter in the current edition of the Scotch Cup World Curling News, the athletic-type little darlings are not going to take the criticism of a mere male with heads bowed and a whipered "Yes, Master."

A well-known Toronto sports columnist appears to be very much against the distaff side taking part in athletics.

He wrote in a previous issue of the curling publication, "I am, personally, against anything more strenuous than motherhood for the ladies, and I do have some loud support."

He said he occasionally crusades to return Canadian womanhood to the nobility she has renounced in her pursuit of equality in sports.

"Off with the sweat sulis and back to gingham. Out of the pigpens and hens to the kitchen. The hell with tennis, ladies. Save your love sets for the guy you hooked."

"I mean," he goes on, "it's a man's lovely dream that his game dame will once again mince into his arms with the beautiful mischief at her kind. At close of day as husband wails the old lady to smash the record for the 100-yard dash or grab her broom and head for the national finals of an open mixed bonspiel."

And he blasts, "It is the habit of many females to slop along in a pool-player's slouch in crumpled slim jeans. Their hair is cut short or tied up by ballhaird haircuts. They clump along in flat-footed loafers which give them the gait of a cop with busted arches." And so on.

An irate woman sports addict comes back with dynamite-laden hooks and crosses.

"There are thousands of us so-called dollies who couldn't care less whether or not it is chic for us to swing a club, throw a curling stone or whatever. As for motherhood thousands of mothers can't wait to have the kids grow up and away on their own so that we shall have more time to wham golf balls, toss more rocks and attend more bonspiels."

"Let us set you straight," she blasts. "Most women athletes bemoan the fact that they are women. Being a glamorous model magazine housewife homemaker just isn't our cup of tea. It may be the right thing for the specialized low IQ females that you sad society admire, but for us, sheer boredom, pointlessness, perspectivelessness activities are only suitable for termites."

"Most of us spend our lives wishing that we were men—for various reasons—like so we could hit the golf ball farther. We refuse to conform to society's standards—we don't like houses or housework or cooking or babies. We are saddled with them. To us time is too valuable to waste in a beauty parlor under a dryer and limping to the chiropodist from wearing high-heeled shoes and girdles. That is why we have jailbird haircuts" and clump along in flat heels which is better than limping with sore feet."

She takes a literary breath then let's go with this. "Now, about retaining 'softness.' Who wants it? Only dames like you and women athletes don't give a damn about accommodating males like you. Ask the doctors. A soft spoken woman has all the ailments in the book and more. An athletic woman might have a few pulled muscles that ARE pulled."

"She doesn't want any ailments. She is too busy enjoying herself. And we are not worrying about the way we look or whether or not the men like the way we look, or whether or not we look like sixty when we are only thirty-five."

Well, that's one female athlete's version of it. I doubt if all the sports gals agree with Mrs. J. D. Cameron of Etobicoke, Ont.

Junior Ski Championships

Alberta Eyes Team Title

By STUART LAKE

CAMP FORTUNE, Que. (CP) Eastern Canada skiers won all individual titles at stake for the second straight day Friday in the national junior ski championships but Alberta took a grip on the team title it has held for the last three years.

At the halfway mark of the four-day meet at the Gatineau Ski Club about 16 miles north of Ottawa, the East has won all four individual honors decided so far.

But Alberta surged ahead in the team competition, piling up 187.59 points compared with 185.74 for British Columbia and 185.45 for Ontario.

Today the youngsters tackle a slalom course on the Anne Heggtveit Hill, named after the Ottawa girl who won a gold medal for Canada in the 1960 Winter Olympics.

The meet closes Sunday with the jumping events.

On Friday, giant slalom honors went to George Marler, an 18-year-old Quebec City college student, and to Heather Quipp, a 16-year-old Ottawa Grade 12 student.

Marler streaked down a 2,500-foot course in 59.1 seconds on his first try and then pulled out all the stops to clock 55.6 seconds on his second.

Currie Chapman of Ottawa placed second with a combined time of 115.2 seconds.

Habs, Hawks Head For Big Showdown

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

How many points do the Montreal Canadiens need to finish first in the National Hockey League?

"It all depends how we go against Chicago," says coach Toe Blake, whose team is tied with the Hawks for the top spot and holds two games in hand. Both clubs have 75 points in the standings.

The two teams have been exchanging the lead since the turn of the schedule into the second half and neither club shows any sign of quitting. Although everything's in Montreal's favor, the Hawks refuse to submit.

They figure the two games Montreal has in the hole could be neutralized by beating the Canadiens in the two remaining games between the teams. Blake also thinks these contests will be deciding factors.

MAY NEED 90 POINTS

"If we win both games we may make it with 84 points," Blake believes. "If we split, practice to Chicago, we will need 88 or 90."

One of these head-on showdowns is on tap this weekend as the NHL prepares to roll skates at Chicago. Tonight, Chicago is at Toronto, New York in Montreal and Detroit at Boston.

The Canadiens visit Chicago Sunday night while Boston entertains Toronto and New York hosts Detroit.

The Leafs will be rebounding from a three 1-0 loss to Montreal Wednesday and trying to escape the encroaching Red Wings, who have a hot only two of their last 10 games and now are just four points back of the Leafs in the race for third place.

The Leafs likely will have a reinforcement in the form of veteran defenceman Bobby Baun is scheduled to return after missing five weeks with a broken ankle suffered by beating the Chicagoans.

But Blake will have none of that.

"If we have to rely on help from another club we're in trouble," he says. "We have to beat Chicago ourselves if we expect to win the league title."

RANGERS HAVE HOPES

The Rangers have yet to win in Montreal this campaign and have only tied the Canadiens twice in 10 meetings. But Blake doesn't consider them pushovers, figuring New York still has playoff dreams because they are 10 points back of Detroit the Wings start on a long road trip.

So does Ranger winger Camille Henry.

"Some of us remember the year we were seven points behind Chicago with only seven games to play and they beat us out of fourth place," says the veteran winger. "With hard work and a little luck maybe something like that will happen to us this year."

It isn't likely to happen to Boston. The Bruins are just one point away from the top spot of the playoffs for the fifth straight year. All the Wings need is one point and the Bruins are mathematically out of the race.

Woman Coach Says She Is Suspended

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Gordon Stronach, wife of London's mayor, said Friday she has been suspended as a coach by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

Reason for the move, she said, is apparently because she used a player from the Huron Heights branch of the OMHA without permission when she took her team to a tournament in Quebec this winter.

Mrs. Stronach said she is asking for a hearing or appeal her suspension. She said her notification has been only verbal so far, and that she has not received an official letter from the OMHA.

Drysdale Gets $25,000 Raise

Koufax Signs $90,000 Contract

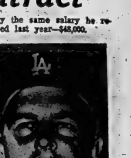
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sandy Koufax likes zeros on his pay check as well as in the scoreboard.

SANDY KOUFAX

The stylish left hander shut out 11 opponents in 1963 and Friday he climaxed prolonged negotiations with Los Angeles Dodgers by signing a contract for a reported $70,000. The amount was twice his 1963 salary of $35,000.

Sandy's raise topped by $10,000 the increase awarded to right handed Don Drysdale Thursday. Big Don signed for an estimated $70,000—a $25,000 boost over his 1963 salary of $45,000.

The southpaw strikeout king and general manager E. J. (Buzzy) Vavasi came to terms after a three-hour conference.



Koufax had spoken of quitting baseball and accepting what was termed a lucrative career in another but unidentified field.

Sandy vigorously denied published reports that he had demanded $80,000. He refused to give any exact figures as did Vavasi.

Koufax came to negotiations armed with impressive credentials. He led the majors in earned run averages with 1.88, shutouts (11), strikeout (306) and tied Juan Marichal for the lead in victories. Koufax posted a 25-5 record; Marichal had 25-4.

Two unsigned Dodgers remain—Frank Howard and Maury Wills. Bavasi has granted Howard permission to report late to camp but he has been unable to contact Wills.

Bavasi said he offered his base-stealing shortstop substantially the same salary he received last year—$48,000.

Bisons Edge Americans, Narrow Gap

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons and Cleveland Barons both registered 3-2 decisions in American Hockey League action Friday.

The Bisons shaded Rochester Americans to keep alive their faint hopes of overtaking the Americans in the battle for the third and final playoff spot in the Western Division. Buffalo is 13 points back of Rochester with one month remaining in the season.

The Barons edged Springfield Indians to spread their margin to six points over the idle Pittsburgh Hornets atop the Western Division standings.

Veteran Larry Wilson provided the margin of victory for the Bisons, accounting for all three goals. He scored once in the first and added two more in the third.

Don Cherry and Dick Gamble replied for the Americans. Gamble was awarded his first penalty in 58 games when he was sent off for hooking after only 1:52 of the first period.

Midway through the second period Cherry tied the count at a 3-0 lead on goals by Cecil Hoekstra, Wayne Larkin and Ernie Freddo—Eddie Shack.

Jimmy Anderson and John Rodger pulled the Indians within one goal of the lead Binkley of the Barons closed the door until the final bell.

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT

ATLANTA (AP) — Counsel for the Curtis Publishing Company filed a motion Friday for a new trial in the libel judgment of $3,600,000 granted by a jury to Wallace Butts, former athletic director and football coach at Georgia. Attorney Welborn B. Cody based the motion on the claim that testimony of two key witnesses for Butts was false. Butts sued for $10,000,000 over a Saturday Evening Post article which charged he and coach Paul Bryant of Alabama rigged the Georgia - Alabama football game in 1962.

Open European Tour

Maroons Whip Germans

AUGSBURG (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons opened a 12-game exhibition hockey tour of Europe Friday with a 10-1 victory over the German national championship team before 8,000 fans.

Holding 4-0 and 7-0 period leads, the Maroons showed few signs of having had no sleep in 24 hours since leaving Canada to start their tour.

Elliott Chorley scored three times to pace the attack while Ron Parnfield had two. Reg Abbott each scored twice. The remaining goals were by Bill Johnson, Algis Kukulowicz and Tom Marshall, on a penalty shot.

Maroons lost one of their defensemen, Abbott for the remainder of the trip when he and Marshall fell in a collision. Abbott suffered a broken wrist.

The former star with Victoria Cougars and Windsor Bulldogs was reported resting comfortably after treatment and plans to continue the tour with the club in a non-playing capacity.

Maroons lost another player in 41-degree temperature, the clubs were soaked by a slight rain that fell throughout.

The national championship team is reportedly comprised of about 90 per cent of the German team that played in the Winter Olympic Games last month at Innsbruck, Austria.

Piersall's Ultimatum

"Make Good - Or Else"

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — "Every year," said Jim Piersall, "I went to spring training telling myself I didn't have a job as a free agent.

"I might have one but I'd pretend I had to fight to get it. This year I don't have to pretend.

"Now I either do it or I've had it."

The 34-year-old outfielder came to spring training with Los Angeles Angels as a free agent. If they think he can help them, they'll sign him. If not, Piersall's 100th major league home run—the one he celebrated by running the bases backwards—may have been his last.

PLAYED WITH METS

Piersall struck that historic blow last season while employed by New York Mets, a National League team that needed everything but a comedian. The American League Angels picked up Piersall in July, after the Mets released him. When the season ended Piersall was made a free agent.

Right now Piersall's chief concern is his left knee. It was injured when he joined the Angels and he aggravated the injury in the game that August. He played little thereafter.

"The knee doesn't bother me now," he said, "even when I run. But let's see what happens when I have to stop and start in a hurry."

Manager Bill Rigney of the Angels gives Piersall at least a fair chance to make the club.

Flyers Dump Petes 4-0, Break Tie

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Niagara Falls Flyers took over sole possession of fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit here Friday when they blanked Peterborough Petes 3-0.

With both teams tied for fourth prior to the contest, Flyers settled the issue early as Doug Favell turned aside 36 shots for his third shutout of the year.

Flyer captain Ron Schock, who left after the game for a three - game National Hockey League tryout with the parent Boston Bruins, opened the scoring in the third minute with a bullet-like drive.

Gilles Marcotte rifled home a 50-foot screen slapshot past Pete goalie Chuck Goddard two minutes later and then Bill Goldsworthy tipped in Dave Woodley's drive from the point with the Petes shorthanded.

BCI Squads Win Quinte Titles

By ROBERT WILLIAMS

BCI's Junior and Senior collegians won the Bay of Quinte COSSA championships of their respective divisions in exciting excellent contests over Quinte Juniors and Senior Stelcos. Juniors won the game 71-56 and the 2nd game total points 125-104. BCI Seniors, beaten 52-51 for the first time, won on total points 106-103.

The first quarter started out slow with both senior teams playing cautiously and waiting for openings. Moira seemed to explode in the 2nd quarter plugging up BCI's offence to help pull ahead 27-20 at the end of their own. With Bob Dunsmore and Bob Bailey of Moira completely controlling both backboards and George Pugh setting up the plays the Trojans took a good lead in the half.

BCI surged back in the 3rd quarter, aided by Lyle Adams and Murray Swan. At the night. Adams and Murray Swan produced the tying and leading points when they were most needed.

Both teams fought a desperate fourth quarter battle in a noisy crowd which ended in a 17-17 draw.

The BCI Seniors Lyle Adams played his best game collecting 19 points, followed by Murray Swan with 14. Bob Williams with 10 and Bob Chick with 4.

Bob Dunsmore played a terrific game collecting and hooping 16 points, followed by George Pugh with 10, R. Graham with 10, R. McKibbon with 4 each.

The junior game saw BCI take every quarter except the last. The first half started out with some phenomenal shooting at BCI as they built up a 42-25 halftime lead. Quinte, with playa-tall Bob MacCormack was at his best in checking. Max Vallyear was always where he was needed and with Mr. Medaid helped spark the Quinte team.

Quinte took the 2nd half 30-29 on strong play by Ted Lessels and Valyear. B.C.I. concentrated on long shooting and was not as effective.

Knudson Tied In Third

BOGOTA (AP) — George Knudson, seeking his second straight victory, went into the third round of the Bogota Open golf tournament in Columbia today tied with Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass., for first place.

Knudson, from Toronto, won the Caracas Open last week. He pulled into the deadlock at 139 Friday with a second - round 71, one under par. Dolan fired a 69.

"I'm lucky to be right up there at the top after my poor putting," Knudson said. "I couldn't sink a long one all day. But my irons were behaving well and that's what kept me going."

A three-way tie developed behind the co-leaders. Alec Caygill of England, Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Jim Frese of Chula Vista, Calif., each had a 36-hole total of 140.

Miguel Sala of Bogota, the first-round leader, dropped to a tie for sixth with Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg, each with 141.

Dolan finished his Friday round with a second - round 71, one under par. Dolan fired a 69.

"I'm lucky to be right up there at the top after my poor putting," Knudson said. "I couldn't sink a long one all day. But my irons were behaving well and that's what kept me going."

Finley Signs 4-Year Lease

A's To Stay In Kansas

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles Finley, owner of Kansas City Athletics, Friday signed a four-year lease entitling his American League baseball club to use Municipal Stadium.

The action apparently ended more than two months of controversy between the club owner and Kansas City officials over whether the Athletics would remain here.

Finley's lease is with the city, which owns the stadium. He had argued for a shorter term but, mostly because of pressure from the American League and other club owners, came to an agreement.

The insurance executive had threatened to get league approval to move his Athletics to Louisville, and also hinted he might shift to Dallas-Ft. Worth.

City officials said the lease contains a provision that the agreement is contract is not subject to cancellation.

Heart Attack In Doctor's Office

Gus Lesnevich Dies At 49

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J. (AP) Gus Lesnevich, winner of the fastest knockout ever recorded in a light-heavyweight title bout and champion from 1941-48, collapsed and died of a heart attack in his doctor's office Friday. He was 49 a week ago.

Lesnevich had complained of chest and shoulder pains and was driven to the office at Dr. John Williams. He died shortly after getting there.

"I didn't even get a chance to examine him," Dr. Williams said.

During his 15-year ring career, Lesnevich compiled a record of 57-14-6. He knocked out 25 opponents and was stopped five times, all on cuts. A brawny fighter, he was known for his all-out efforts and strong finishes.

At the time of his death, Lesnevich was a public relations representative for the Arrow Carrier Corp. of Carlstadt. He also served as a boxer in New Jersey and New York.

TRIED FOR CROWN

Lesnevich tried unsuccessfully for the light-heavyweight crown in 1939 and 1940 but lost split decisions to Melio Bettina.

He outpointed Anton Christoforidis for the American title in May, 1941 and reclaimed Tami Mauriello to gain public recognition as world champion that August.

Then the out-the-full championship in 1946 by flattening Freddie Mills in London. In one title defense Lesnevich stopped Fox in 1:38 of the first round, the quickest knockout in a light-heavyweight title fight.

Mills won the crown back in 1948 and Lesnevich fought for the heavyweight title but Ezzard Charles stopped him in fifteen rounds. That was his last fight.

Hornets, Athletics

Wind Up In Dead Heat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The stubborn Oak Hornets, who came from nowhere midway through the season to battle Woodstock Athletics all the way down to the wire for first place in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, finally ran out of luck.

The Hornets and Athletics completed their scheduled games Friday night — Oak bombed Cochrane Salmon 10-2 and Woodstock crushed Oakville Oaks 9-1 — and finished the season deadlocked with 35 points each. But the Athletics were awarded the league championship on the strength of their goal production for the year.

Guelph Regals secured a fourth place finish by dumping the third-place Welland Rurals 8-6. The Regals moved three points ahead of Oakville and both have one game remaining.

MS Bantams Win Quinte Hoop Title

By DOUG BELLWOOD

Moira Secondary School captured the Bay of Quinte Bantam basketball championship yesterday defeating BCIVS 33-18 in the second game of the total points series.

BCIVS carried a four-point lead into the game but could not hold off the young Trojan squad.

The first quarter saw B.C.I. take a 4-2 lead in a very sloppy game. Both teams perked up as Moira started to move and took a 14-12 lead over B.C.I. There was fine rebounding by Moira and both teams experienced poor passing throughout the first half.

The third quarter looked more like a championship game as Moira gained 10 points. Jean Hayman followed with 6. Moira coach's Golden Girls played a senior intercollegiate hockey game.

Supreme shared the spotlight with Gilles Leforte, who scored twice and helped set up four goals. Jean Cuson also tallied for Montreal.

Leforte's six points gave him first place in the two game scoring race with only one more game remaining in the schedule, a Saturday night contest between Queen's and Laval at Quebec.

Queen's took the lead on goals by Bill Colvin and Larry Dinsmore and then fell behind. John Van Brunt added another late in the game.

In another game here, Claude Alain scored three times in the final period to give University of Ottawa a 9-5 win over Loyola College in Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference action.

Loyola, now eliminated from the first place fight with Ottawa and Royal Military Colege, rallied a 5-1 deficit with three goals in the first four minutes of the finale.

Marcin Morisette scored twice for Ottawa and Pierre Gagne, Leo Lacoste, Andre Lamy and Bermont Normand got one each.

Loyola scorers were Roger Legault, with two, Gord Lecompte, Pete Quelch and Jean Paul Robitaille.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY
By GORDIE HOWE
There are quite a few rookies in the National Hockey League this year. Whenever a rookie comes up, he generally gets the acid test from every team he faces.
Almost without exception there'll be somebody on each club who has played with or against the rookie in New Brunswick or junior hockey or in the minors.
At our team meeting, Sid Abel will ask for information on him. What kind of player is he?
Someone who played against him in junior days will report he has certain good moves. For instance, he goes to his right extremely well. Or, he's a good shot.
Then the question comes up as to his intestinal fortitude. Because somebody may recall seeing him run out of a rink at one time.
So the instructions will be to give him a little run and see if he can take it. If he can't keep running him. So that may mean one less player you won't have to worry about.
Detroit's style of play is to body check the opposition. If you call a player back a few times, you tend to slow him down.
Sometimes this works in reverse, I know I play a lot better when I'm checked closely because it makes me mad. I try to knock my opponent down, not to score goals. I'm not much on even-steven. I try to be one up at all times, if I can.
There are little informational that help tire out players. Certain clubs have a habit of holding practice for long times (we can do it without getting pooped because it is a border club).
Teeder Kennedy, one of Toronto's fine players a few years back, used to live a lot. Why, I don't know, because he looked to me as though he was in fine shape all the time.
Whenever he felt to the ice and you went with him, you'd have sure your weight pushed on top of him a little longer, to the point he'd try to shove you off. That extra exertion would tire him out a little more.

Blades Trim Komets Lead Flyers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It wasn't too long ago that Fort Wayne Komets spotted a fancy 12-point lead atop the International Hockey League standings. But lately things are getting too close for comfort.

Friday night Toledo Blades shaded the Komets 5-4 to trim the latter's lead to five points. With four weeks remaining on the schedule, Toledo has three games in hand on the Komets.

The only other scheduled outing saw the third-place Port Huron Flags down Chatham Maroons 4-1 to foil Chatham's bid to snap a tie with Des Moines Oak Leafs for sixth place.

Don Westbrook, Walter Bradley, Mike Morrissey, Wayne North and Terry Slater shared the scoring for Toledo.

John Brophey paced the Komets with two goals. Emile Gilles and Merv Dubchak added the others.

Defenceman Guy Jamas fired two goals and assisted on another to spark the Flags' victory. Sid Garant and Bill Sinnett had the others.

Tom Clark scored in the second period to rob Port Huron goalie Norm Jacques of the shutout.

ISSUE PRESS RULE

SAIGON (AP) — The South Viet Nam government issued a press law Friday providing for prosecution of newspaper for libel or endangering state security. The law was specifically aimed at any communistic or neutralist tendencies in the local press.

BELLEVILLE ARMOURIES

MACHINE SELLS RECORDS — Music store owner Claude Crocker of New Westminster, B.C., says he has put $200,000 into the development of this coin-operated machine for handling sales of 45 r.p.m. phonograph records. The idea for the machine was born when he ran up against the problem of pilferage in the record department while converting to self-service operation. He has formed Record King Sales Ltd. to handle production and distribution in the United States and Canada. (CP Photo)

Record-Vending Machine Cutting Down on Pilferage

By JACK SULLIVAN

Canadian Press Sports Editor

It would by safe to say that maybe 200 persons in Canada have heard of Billy Danes. He's a Californian and a member of the vanishing breed of blacksmiths.

Billy is somebody important to millionaire R. P. Taylor and his handsome bay colt, Northern Dancer. Without Billy, the three-yearold likely would be hobbling around in Taylor's Windfield Farm barns in Toronto rather than occupying a stall at Hialeah Park in Florida.

Taylor wouldn't be pointing the ace of his huge stable for next Tuesday's $100,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah. And American thoroughbred owners wouldn't be c r o s s i n g their brows wondering how they can whip this Canadian invader in the Kentucky Derby in May.

USES PLASTIC

Billy has a patented formula for looking after such things. Taylor flew him to Toronto to apply his magic to Northern Dancer—a special type of plastic he pours into the crack. As the hoof grows the plastic stays with it.

It sounds simple, but apparently Danes is the only expert in North America on such injuries. He fixed it.

Northern Dancer ended the 1963 season with seven victories in nine starts and earnings of $90,635, the highest a Canadian-bred two-year-old running in Canada had ever won. More than that, the horse that no one wanted for $25,000 in Taylor's pre-priced yearling sale in 1962, developed to the point where Taylor and his stable experts figured he was good enough to go for the big money in the U.S.

He was shipped to Florida in January, finished third in an allowance race at Hialeah and picked up $700. Chicken feed. But he showed enough to the Taylor stable to convince them that he had a wonderful chance to take it all in the Flamingo and then set sights on the triple —the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

NO-BETTING RACE

Last Monday, Northern Dancer whipped a couple of lively colts named Chieftain and Tender at Hialeah in a seven-furlong no-betting race. Their owners had ideas about entering the Flamingo, but they'll likely give the Taylor colt a wide berth and pass up the chance of beating him for the $80,000-odd first-place money.

If Northern Dancer wins the Flamingo he will almost certainly be the favorite for the Derby. Willis Shoemaker flew in from California to ride the colt last Monday and he will have the benefit of the Shoe's riding services in the Derby, the triple crown, it will mark the second time in four years that Taylor has made a pitch for it. He tried it first in 1960 with Victoria Park but his colt finished third in the Derby, second in the Preakness and then missed the Belmont due to an injury.

No Canadian owner has been able to win the triple crown since Commander J. K. L. Ross of Montreal did it with Sir Barton in 1919.

Taylor figured he had a chance with Victoria Park, the pigeon-toed colt that everyone passed up for $14,500 at his yearling sales in 1959. Maybe, if his luck holds out, he can do it the second time around with Northern Dancer.

But the colt has to prove himself first. And that test comes Tuesday in the Flamingo.

James Franciscus May Be New Sensation of Teenagers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — James Franciscus, who seems destined to be the new sensation of the teen-agers, is playing it cool, and with good reason. He has seen what happens to teen-age sensations.

As a matter of fact, it happened to him when he was starring in the first season of Naked City. He went skating one day in New York's Central Park.

"Some girls recognized me and crowded around for my autograph," he recalled. "It was going all right until the manager told the girls to get off the rink. Then they were worried that they wouldn't get their turn, and they started grabbing at my collar, my tie, etc.

"When the mob scene was over, I was left standing with only my pants and my skates on."

The same clamorous life faces Franciscus as star of Mr. Novak, a television series with built-in teen-age appeal. He plays a compassionate teacher of English in a high school.

"I think teen-agers should like the 'series,'" said the actor. "It's the first time in television they have been treated as human beings."

Franciscus has little time to experience the extent of his new following. Mr. Novak starts shooting at 8 a.m., and sometimes doesn't quit until 10 p.m. Franciscus has had to carry a heavy load in the series because of the illness of co-star Dean Jagger.

Two Area Women Find Time To Aid Impoverished Indians

PICTON (Staff) — Two Picton area women are doing a wonderful job for the League of Mercy, which is affiliated with the Salvation Army. These women, Mrs. Stirling Martin of R.R. 1 Picton, and Mrs. Wallace Cook of 20 Spring Street here work endless hours making things that go to help the impoverished Indians at the Calstock Reservation, just out of Hurst Ontario.

The gifts are sent to the Reservation and are distributed to the needy as needed. Gifts include dolls and cradles for the children and clothing of all kinds for their parents.

Clothes are transferred as they are received, but these industrious women make over anything into a doll's dress, or a pair of kiddies' pyjamas, in fact, "we never throw anything away, we can make use of anything we receive," Mrs. Martin told the Intelligencer.'

So active are these people, that last year they sent over 60 boxes that weighed 2,475 pounds to these "almost forgotten people".

They are in dire need of any type and size of clothing toys that they repair — dolls they can dress, in fact anything for which you have no further use, will be gratefully accepted by these workers. If you can drop anything off at 20 Spring St., fine. If not a call to GR 6-4313 or GR 6-2985 and they will see that anything you may have, is collected.

WRITERS COMPETE

More than 1,000 Romanian workers, collective farmers and students, members of 120 literary circles, are entered in a national writing competition.

NEVER IN A ROLLINS HOME!

How many times has this happened to you? Perishing in the cold! You just can't keep the house warm enough! This is a common complaint—but, it doesn't happen in our homes. Why? why because we put 50% more insulation in our homes than required! This makes it easy to maintain an even comfortable temperature at all times, regardless of the weather outside — you save on heating bills, too!

YOU WON'T HAVE THIS EITHER!

The benefits of this extra insulation works both ways. It also keeps OUT the heat on those torrid summer days. It keeps your home cool and liveable all summer long. One more thing — this extra insulation doesn't cost you a cent more!

ADD THIS TOO!

There's a couple of other things we'd like to say while we're on the subject. Every "Rollins Home" comes complete with storms and screens (excluding the basement) and you can have your choice of Oil, Lakeland Gas or Electric heating. Add all these things together and you have a mightly comfortable home!
